Public Holy Hour To Be Held By Catholics In Red Bird Satdium Oct. 26

A public Holy Hour in honor of Christ the King will be held in Red Bird Baseball Stadium, on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 26, Bishop Michael J. Ready made known this week. Sponsored by the Diocesan Union of Holy Name Societies, with a total membership of 12,000, the event is expected to surpass the big Memorial Day rally of May 30, 1946. All Catholic people of the diocese will participate.

Since the last Sunday of October is the Feast of Christ the King, the Holy Hour will honor Our Lord under this title. "The choice of the October date is of great significance," the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Coburn, diocesan director of Holy Name societies and pastor of St. Catharine's Church, Bexley, pointed out. "Since one of the principal objectives of the Holy Name Society is the elimination of profanity and blasphemy from the speech of its members," said Monsignor Coburn, "the feast of Christ the King is an excellent day on which to pay homage to God in a public demonstration which will bring to the minds of those participating the principal purposes of the Holy Name Society."

A speaker of national prominence is being invited to deliver the sermon during the services, Monsignor Coburn said this week. Other plans for the program will be announced just as soon as completed.

The Holy Hour will be the second public diocesan-wide religious program sponsored by the parish Holy Name societies of the diocese of Columbus, since their reorganization was begun two years ago. Nearly 10,000 attended the Memorial Day program held in Red Bird Stadium, May 30, 1946, which paid tribute to the war dead of the diocese. Delegations from all the parishes of the diocese came to Columbus for the event.

Dr. Robert Remsberg To Preach Here Sun.

Dr. Robert Remsberg, professor of philosophy and college chaplain at Wittenberg College, Springfield, O., will preach Sunday, and Aug. 31 in Hilltop Lutheran Church.

Rudy Willer, 2965 Palmetto-st, a student at Hamma Divinity School of Wittenberg College, will preach in the church Sunday, Sept. 7.

Rev. Russell J. Olson, pastor of the church, and his family started a three-week vacation this week. They will return to Columbus about Sept. 10.

4 Local Churches Are Represented In Conferences

Four Evangelical United Brethren ministers in the community will be attending annual conferences during this week and next. Due to the fact that the former United Brethren and Evangelical Churches were united less than a year ago, separate conferences are still being held this year.

Rev. Harold Dutt, 83 S. Powell-av, pastor of the Westgate Church, is in Findlay this week attending conference. The conference opened yesterday and continues through Sunday.

Delegate from the Westgate Church is Dr. Eldred Heisel, 341 Guernsey-av. Milton Armstrong, 1439 Ashland-av, is the alternate. Bishop E. W. Praetorius will preside.

Pastors and delegates of the Burgess Avenue, Hilltonia and Avondale Churches will attend the conference opening at Circleville on Aug. 25 and running through Aug. 29. Bishop W. C. Clippinger will be in charge.

From Burgess Avenue will go Rev. C. F. Lutz, 2832 Sullivant-av, the pastor, and J. E. Newell, 274 N. Hague-av, the delegate. J. R. Anderson, 680 S. Hague-av, is the alternate.

Rev. Glendon Herbert, 584 Clark-av, pastor, and Howard Penell, 10 Binns-blvd, delegate, will represent Hilltonia with Mrs. J. M. Wise, 667 Woodbury-av, as alternate.

Avondale Church will be represented by Rev. D. S. Mills, 1004 W. State-st, pastor, and George Shaw, 436 S. Yale-av, as the delegate. The alternate is Harry Van Auken, 130 W. Lane-av.

An Amazing Discovery . . . In the Care of Upholstery and Carpeting

The Story of a 200-Year-Old $18,000 Rug

Two centuries ago, the rug reproduced above was made by hand in the Gobelin establishment in Paris. It is a genuine French Savonnerie valued at $18,000 and for many decades adorned the floor of a French castle. The present American owners were pledged never to let it be scrubbed, washed or cleaned.

After being Duracleaned, the dried out matted fibres took on new life. The revitalized pile again stood erect. The patterns (not previously visibly raised) again rose above the level of the base pile as originally designed by its maker. Varying pastel shades and other delicate color tones, long lost from age, reappeared. The microscope revealed the fibre scales well preserved, indicating no strong soaps or alkalis had ever depleted the fibre structure. The rug was restored to its original beauty.

Duracleaning Is Recommended by America's Foremost Furniture and Department Stores

- Service rendered IN YOUR HOME
- Fibre life prolonged. Rich colorings revive
- Matted pile regains resilence . . . it rises
- Dirt comes OUT . . . not driven deeper
- Many unsightly stains disappear
- Twist weaves retain the twist
- Moth and carpet-beetle proofed, if desired

came back to it later.

"We were talking about faries," I said then, "Do you really believe in them? Do they really exist?"

"Ah, yes, there are friends of mine who have seen them, though I do think they are dying out. There aren't as many as in the old days . . . Now, I'm a rational man, and my wife is a rational woman, but neither of us would think of cutting a hawthorn tree, unless we knew who planted it. One doesn't take chances . . . And there are, of course, the fairy rings."

"And what are they?"

"Ah, they're rings that appear in the fields—the grass is of a different color from tthe rest They're about 30 feet in diameter. the strip itself being about three feet wide. . . . Now, you saitrtainly wouldn't build a house inside one, and you'd be careful, in fact, not to put a foot inside."

"What would happen if you did?"

"Well, you wouldn't SEE anything. You wouldn't HEAR anything. You wouldn't FEEL anything. But bad luck would follow you for the rest of your life."

On the train trip from Dublin to Belfast you pass across the border from Eire (pronounced AYruh) into Northern Ireland, the latter a part of Great Britain, and the customs are severe. To protect its own supplies, Eire prohibits the export of foods and other necessities, and all baggage is examined by the Eireann authorities before you cross into North Ireland, where you are examined again. Since foodstuffs and clothing are in short supply in Northern Ireland and Scotland, and since "spirits" (whiskey, etc.) are less expensive in Eire than across the border, there is a strong temptation among the travellers to smuggle goods across.

On our train there were many Irish laborers enroute to work on farms in Scotland, where labor is short, and all of these men carried a box. At the border, the South Ireland authorities took from them hundreds of pounds of butter, eggs and other foodstuffs the men were carrying to Scotland, where they anticipated less available food.

The strongest impression one obtains in the Emerald Isle, is the strong feeling which exsits concerning what the Irish in Eire call the "Partition of Ireland." When Lloyd George settled the Irish question with Eamon DeValera, the Irish leader, it was finally decided that Eire should comprise some 27,000 square miles, by far the major portion of the island, while Northern Ireland, which now has a parliament of its own, would be made up of six northern counties, about 5200 square miles, including the large city of Belfast. The reason for this was principally religious, for in Eire, the population is about 93 per cent Catholic, while in the north the predominant religion is Protestant, principally Presbyterian. The political cleavage in the island is primarily on the line of religion.

In Dublin, I had visited the Dail Eireann, the Irish parliament (the floor of the Dail is shielded from the visitors gallery, where I sat, by a heavy wire, much like a baseball backstop, to "prevent people from tossing in bombs," as one chap informed me). It was the question session, and the deputies were questioning Prime Minister DeValera on the possibilities of including Northern Ireland in Eire.

But on the other side of the border, the attitude is quite as strongly opposed to union with Eire, as Eire is for it. The Northern Irishman feels that Eire "let the Empire down" by not joining in the war with Britain, and there seems to be some doubt as to just where Eire stands.

Southern Ireland has abolished allegiance to the King ("The very foundation of all our personal loyalties" as a Northern Irishman described it), but on the other hand, the British King signs the credentials of all the diplomats of Eire. "We feel," he said, "—and DeValera has confirmed it in his own words—that Eire is a part of the Empire only in so far as she can use us. If it profits her to work with us, she does. But she accepts no other loyalty."

Belfast, the greatest industrial city of the north, famed for its shipbuilding yards and its linen, shows signs of the war. She got it in the "blitz", though not as badly as many cities in England. One whole city block went up in one blast—it is now only an empty space, used for a public parking lot and open air market, the buildings adjacent to it chipped and marked by bomb fragments. In another section of the city, the "Jerries" missed their aim on the shipyards and spilled their bombs on workers' homes. The shells of some of these are still standing, though most of the debris has been taken away. It is an occasional but strange sight, on a street car (tram) ride through the city, now and then to see the grim charred shell of a house, the window frames all blown in and only a portion of the walls standing, the grass and flowers growing up in between.

The fuel crisis, felt severely in Britain, is equally severe in this land, for all of Ireland is dependent on Britain for coal. The Irish railroads have had to curtail their operations, and all local residents are urged to curb the use of electricity and coal. A sign in your hotel bathroom reminds you to use as little hot water as possible for "water means fuel."

A campaign for waste paper is constantly underway and all people are urged to preserve the "contents of your dustbin." Waste paper is converted into wallboard, cardboard and wrapping paper. The seriousness of the situation is best described by two huge signs in the main thoroughfare of Belfast: "Waste Paper is in Urgent Demant. One Ton of Waste Paper Will Make Ceiling Board for 12 Houses" and "Waste Paper and Still More Waste Paper is Required for Total Employment in Local Paper Mills."

Food is plentiful and varied in the hotels, but private homes are subject to strict rationing—two to four eggs per person per month, half a pound of meat per person per week.

School Days Mean New Clothes For John And Mary; Stores Have Good Selection

By Elizabeth Downing

Readin', Ritin' and 'Rithmetic time is just around the corner again, and as typifies this time of year, a new dress, shirt or pair of shoes is almost a "must" for that big first day of school.

Color will be the big item in school clothes this year, coupled with the return of more cotton materials which are so very practical, as discovered in a survey of Hilltop stores by the Hilltop Record.

The 'neat' look is gaining momentum on the school scene. Bud Worley, of the Esquire Shop for men, when asked if he thought the boys would follow the girls' example of being tidy, said, "I thought the boys always followed the girls"—then thoughtfully, "or could it be the other way around?"

The Record survey shows that no marked permanent reduction in price on wearing apparel for boys and girls has taken place since last year, although there is a greater selection of materials, and by the time all shipments are received by the stores, there should be a good supply of all school essentials.

Seiller's Department Store, 2404 W. Broad-st, was looking forward to several more shipments of school clothes for both the girls and boys, last week. The tucked in sweater, wide belt with skirts and dresses, straight and circular skirts, will be high fashion for the girls this fall. For both the big and little girl, plaids and stripes are most popular. Smaller girls cotton dresses are quite pert when fashioned with a plain bodice, full guthered skirt, and wide ruffley bow in the back. A tiered skirt always gives the little girl that "old fashioned charm." Cotton slips and panties are the most practical for school children and are on the market again.

In the boys' department at Seiller's, there are all colors of wool, part wool and corduroy trousers for boys of high school age. There are washables for the younger fellows of corduroy, denim and seersucker. Overalls, the bibed style and the dungarees for all ages are always popular. Sport shirts, tee shirts, and dress shirts of pale pastel cottons always dress up a plain pair of trousers. Seiller's also carry a full line of gym clothes for both boys and girls, plus all types of anklets, plain and colored.

The Mechem Shoe Store, 2469 W. Broad-st, is ready for the school rush with a complete line of shoes for boys and girls of all ages and sizes. The prices of shoes have remained about the same since last season, with the saddle oxford still the favorite girls' style. The boys seem to rely on brown oxfords for school days.

"Boys just will not buy black shoes of any kind," states Zale Kemp, manager of the store, "but they go for brown loafers and comp-mocs. Members of the feminine clan prefer black and white saddles to the brown or red, and if I don't happen to have black ones they buy brown saddles and dye them." For dress up its definitely the black suede 'flats' in the lead. Mechem's also carry basketball and gym shoes.

The Esquire Shop, 2502 W. Broad-st, which carries a complete line of clothing for the high school or college man has in stock those ever lovin' corduroy jackets in plain velvety colors which set off an outfit as nothing else does. A new type of hat, the "Flip-It", will no doubt be come a stand-by soon. It comes in gabardine or corduroy, in red, blue, and tan and is really quite jaunty. Plaid shirts of all colors and materials are still quite the rage, and the woolen ones are nice and toasty warm for a late fall wiener roast. West High students should know about the "cowboy" shirts, tie-clasps, belts and billfolds in the store, and when graduation day rolls around the Esquire Shop will be waiting with its line of suits in plaids and plain colors which will make you "Mr. America of 1948."

The Fay Shop, 2392 W. Broad-st, a ladies' store, has received several corduroy jackets and fall skirts, not to mention the new full, igloo inspired hooded coats. There will be more pastels in sweaters this year. One very pretty set consisted of a pullover short sleeved sweater in pink, blue and grey with a matching pink cardigan to top it. Such sets will be very smart this fall An outfit that might well be called "date bait" is the wrap around black skirt with a frosty white blouse to dress it up even more. The Fay Shop carries a complete line of women's clothing, from hankies to coats.

The Brodway Shoe Store, 2390 W. Broad-st, has saddles, oxfords, loafers and mocs to offer the school boy and girl. This store also carries shoes for all the family besides a line of gym shoes. Red Goose, a leading brand of children's shoes, is featured by Broadway Shoe. There is no 'favorite' style for the high schoolers as determined by this shoe company, but the younger children all prefer (or should we say the younger children's parents prefer), the brown oxford for school.

Vance's Clothing Store, 2516 W. Broad-st, carries a complete line of indoor clothing for both girls and boys of school age. For the girls there are wool, cotton and flannel skirts which teamed with different blouses and sweaters become new outfits.

Cotton wash dresses are very popular and practical for the younger girls, as are the cotton slack suits for the young men. And for the older boy they carry wool trousers for "dress up" and wash trousers for school and play. Both types are economical since they too assume a "fresh" look when topped with a cool, sport or polo shirt. Underclothing always an important part of the school wardrobe is also featured at Vance's.

Regardless of age, size or preference, students from kindergarten to college age will find a wide variety of all school needs, right here in their own community.

Allen Family Will Give Concert Here

Columbus residents, both young and old, will have an opportunity to hear a sparkling program of instrumental and vocal music, presented by the Allen family of Brockton, Mass., at the Wheatland Avenue Methodist Church, 326 S. Wheatland-av, Friday, Sept. 5, at 8 p. m.

This talented family has a five-piece orchestra and a six-voice choir, and the older members of the family have advanced beyond amateur status, giving a professional finish to the program. The numbers presented by the children include both voice and instrumental presentations played entirely from memory, and featured on the program is brilliant 16-year-old Ilo, piano-organ virtuoso.

This tour of the Allen family comes as the climax to several years of preparation, and their tour through the middle west last year brought a flood of requests for future appearances. The program is being announced by Rev. Merrill Nelson of the Wheatland Avenue Methodist Church.

Parents Group Has Benefit Concert

The Hilltop Parents Association presented the Bethany Presbyterian Church Choir in concert Thursday, Aug. 14, at the Wheatland Avenue Methodist Church. Delbert Prillerman, Sr., was chairman of the committee in charge.

The program was given for the benefit of the kindergarten, scheduled to open at the church on Sept. 2.

The 7 p. m. Wednesday knitting and sewing group will be changed to Monday night starting Sept. 9. Donation of good books for children and adults are still being received for the lending library by the librarian, Mrs. Amelia Prillerman.

A called meeting of the parents group will be held on Aug. 25. The next regular meeting will be held on Sept. 18 at the church.

83 Attend Hilltop Hymn Sing Sunday

In spite of sweltering heat, 83 persons attended the bi-weekly Hilltop Hymn Sing held at the Sullivant Avenue Friends Church Sunday night.

There were 14 churchos represented with 14 visitors present. The attendance banner went to Glenwood Methodist Church. Rev. Charles W. Schafer, directed the singing.

The next hymn sing will not be held until the night of Sept. 7 due to the Labor Day week-end. Burgess Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church will be host to the service at that time.

RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office inquiring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT. The peace and tranquility of the countryside was momentarily shattered out in the W. Broad-st sector on the night the National Auto Theater opened a couple of weeks ago. This story, while a bit stale as to the time element, is still fresh in the minds of those who experienced it.

It seems that at the premier of the new auto theater there must have been a slipup in the projection booth and sound control system as the show was nearing an end. The theater has two sound systems—one that accompanys the picture that is heard via in-a-car speakers while the other is a public address system from the screen over which music is played before pictures, during intermission or for making announcements.

Apparently the latter sound system must have been energized before the picture had finished its run on the screen because an unearthly laugh or scream (residents of the area are not quite agreed) burst forth over the countryside with gerat volume bringing sleepers out of dreamland with a considerable jolt. Bob Banker, who lives right across the highway from the theater, reports that when he opened his eyes he was sitting upright in bed. He describes the sound as something "out of this world" that one might expect to emenate from "regions below." A neighbor nearby said that when he came to, his wife was standing upright in the middle of the bed.

Ah! For the quiet of the countryside.

ELECTION NIGHT down at the Franklin County Board of Elections is an experience I look forward to from year to year. There's plenty of work to be done in copying the precinct vote from the summary sheets as they are returned from the polling places, but there's also time to study the reactions on the faces of political candidates as they watch their fortunes rise or fall as the tabulated vote piles up.

There you see the great and the small in politics. Hilltopper William Schneider, Republican county chairman, and Walter Heer, ditto for the Democrats, are always on hand to see that the interests of their candidates are upheld. Frank Marsh, clerk of the board, has his hands full answering requests from the working press, small time politicos and dozens of "guests" who come and go all during the evening.

On Primary Election night last week Floyd Green did not put in his appearance(at least after 9:30 p. m. when Ed Schambs and I arrived) although his two opponents were there wearing the victory smile. Mayor James A. Rhodes was in fine fettle, nattily dressed in a light blue suit and wearing a smile from ear to ear. Hilltopper-to-be Herb Dailey, successful candidate for mayor, arrived around 10:30 p. m., about the time it seemed certain that his lead would not be cut down materially by Green.

Hilltop council candidate George Tarbutton, a Democrat, was there from start to finish, highly elated at being able to hold on to the No. 8 position on the ticket, thus assuring him a place on the November ballot. It was a new experience for George and he thoroughly enjoyed it.

Precinct R in the 10th Ward was the last polling place in the city to report. It arrived about 11:30 p. m. So we got home in time to get at least part of a night's sleep. But wait until November—there will be more votes and more names on the ballot.

Mr. Broyle's mother spent the week-end here with her son and then went on to Detroit to visit another son. She will stop off on her way to visit again, before starting on home to Tennessee.

Thirty-eight representatives, who handle the Fairbanks-Morse products were entertained at their plant at Three Rivers, Mich., last week. After the business session of the day, the men's time was their own and their relaxation was thoroughly enjoyed. W. G. Lamb was one of the party representing Myers Sales and Service of this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott, Amity-rd, entertained their card club with regular members present Friday evening. The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roe Moore, W. Broad-st, when an effort will be made to give this club a name.

Although the ladies of the Columbia Heights Church who had a lunch stand out at the Hilliards Fair, were rather washed out, they were not washed up, as they will be on hand with their stand and good food at the Ohio State Fair.

Fun For All And Many Prizes In Playground Festival

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendance of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 2 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Satur-

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, thrid grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 3. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian C[illegible] Mrs. Evelyn Hall is dramatics teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilla, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, has been attempting to in-

[illegible] Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commisaion last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Homecoming To Be Held Monday At Galloway

The Galloway Boosters Club has planned an all-day Homecoming celebration for Galloway on Sept. 1 which will be highlighted by a fast-moving program for both children and adults.

The program will begin at 1:30 p. m. with a parade which is open to entries of pets, floats, or comic costumed. At 2 p. m. there will be a horse shoe pitching contest, at 2:30 a chicken chasing contest (ladies only), 3 p. m. a ball game, 4 p. m. awarding of a prize to oldest lady and gentleman present, and 5 p. m. a series of contests for boys and girls up to 14 years of age.

The evening activities will begin at 7 p. m. with an amateur hour, followed by round and square dancing at 8 p. m. which concludes the planned program. The concessions will be open at all times.

Prizes will be given for: the doll, pet, bicycle and comic divisions in the childrens parade; the flower show; canning display; handwork; horseshoe contest; chicken chasing; boys and girls contests; and winners of the amateur hour.

The fourth and last of a series of four free movies put on by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club for the boys and girls of the Hilltop will be held at the Rivoli Theater Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

Columbus, Ohio — Franklinton Sesquicentennial Supplement — August 21, 1947

Two-day Celebration Starts Tomorrow

They Planned Franklinton Celebration

Members of the executive committee responsible for the planning of the Franklinton Sesquicentennial are shown above talking over details of the big celebration. They are (left to right) Hon. James A. Rhodes, mayor of Columbus, Edwin Tharp, vice chairman (standing), Erwin C. Zepp, general chairman, and Miss Madge Sullivant, honorary chairman. There were 31 persons who served on various committees working under the direction of this executive group.

31 Gave Services To Make Possible Sesquicentennial

The official committee, serving in diverse capacities, coordinated their efforts to make this Franklinton celebration both interesting and educational. Meetings were frequent in Mayor Jim Rhodes' office, and hours of labor and planning were given unstintingly by the group.

Much credit must be given especially to the officers who helped to direct the work of this committee.

The 31 members serving included:

Miss Madge Sullivant, honorary chairman; Erwin C. Zepp, general chairman; Edwin M. Tharp, vice chairman; P. B. Barthalow, treasurer; Mrs. Charles E. Aspinall, Wilbur R. Bull, Harold D. Cramer, William R. Ewald, Raymond J. Eyerman, D. Knight Finley, Dan Flavin, L. Kenneth Friscoe, C. Carlton Hartley, Ben Hayes, Vaughn E. Hill, Joseph R. Jones.

C. P. Lauderbaugh, Chet Long, George W. Matson, Robert Minshall, William G. Moler, Clyde D. Moore, John B. Moses, John Mulholland, Col. Claude W. Rhoads, Hon. James A. Rhodes, Myron T. Seifert, Mrs. Thomas W. Spalding, Frank J. Tate, Livingston L. Taylor, Harry T. Yates.

Masonic Lodge Pioneer Group

First fraternal group to warrant recognition in the new frontier town of Franklinton was the Masonic Lodge, then known under the name of Ohio Lodge, No. 30 (the progenitor of present Columbus Lodge, No. 30.)

It was originally instituted June 11, 1815, on Broad-st, between Green and Foos.

First officers included the names of Abner Lord, Worshipful Master; John Kerr, Sr. Warden; Alexander Morrison, Jr., Warden; Lincoln Goodale, treasurer, and Joe Buttles, secretary.

The original Masonic Temple was demolished past the turn of the century. Treasures from this interesting landmark are preserved in Columbus Lodge, No. 30, at the main Temple on Fourth-st.

Sullivant Helped Locate Capital Here; Built Toll Bridge

Lucas Sullivant not only helped to secure the location of the capital by his personal influence, but greatly contributed to this result by the assistance he rendered his brother-in-law, Starling, and his friend Johnson, especially by his liberal donation of money and the guarantee of other subscriptions which he had afterward to pay. In 1816 he built a large and expensive toll bridge, connecting the two towns, and in the same year the first bank in Columbus, of which he was president and principal stockholder. It continued for many years in a brick building near the present site of the Neil House.

THE OHIO STATE JOURNAL of May 31, 1877, reported that "A stone bearing Masonic emblems, and dated 1807, has been taken from one of the corners of the old Court House in Franklinton . . . The corner-stone proper has not been reached."

Our Appreciation

There was one person, in particular, who so ably assisted in the procurement of our editorial copy, directed us immeasurably in preparing this edition — it was none other than Miss Madge Sullivant, whose thumbnail sketch appears elsewhere.

Her vast reservoir of historical knowledge was, and is, ever at our disposal; her library, scrapbooks, relics, pictures, etc., proved to be priceless in planning this Franklinton Supplement.

We take cognizance of her fine cooperation and contributions which are evident throughout this publication. In our feeble way, we say THANKS.

"Miss Franklinton" To Head Festivities

The crowning of "Miss Franklinton of 1947," a pioneer picnic and fireworks will highlight the Franklinton sesquicentennial, Aug. 22-23, Mayor James Rhodes and his committee (including representation from the West Side Board of Trade) announced last week.

The queen and her court will be selected this morning, Thursday, Aug. 21, and the names will be announced at a special "queen's" banquet at 6 p. m. today. They will preside throughout the celebration.

"Miss Franklinton" will be dressed in modern style while the three attendants will be dressed in the styles of 1797, 1847 and 1897.

The contest is open to any unmarried girl in Franklin County. Entries, giving the age, height, and a photograph, may still be submitted to the "Miss Franklinton Contest," at the Junior Chamber of Commerce, 30 E. Broad-st, early this morning yet.

Girls will be judged in conventional street clothing. Announcement of the selection will be heralded by ringing bells and blowing whistles, marking the official opening of the celebration.

You Had To Pay To Cross West Broad St. Bridge In Lucas Sullivant's Day

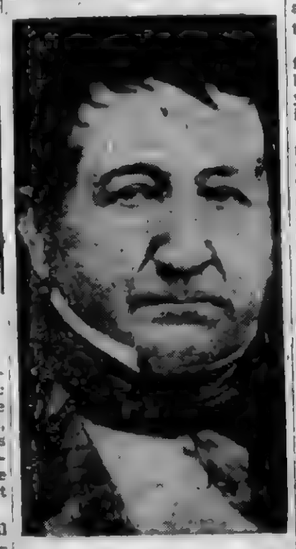
Imagine, if you can, the traffic jam that would result if every vehicle going or coming on W. Broad-st were required to stop at the bridge long enough to pay toll for the right to cross it.

Imagine, if you can, your own feelings as you would jam on the brakes, disentangle yourself from your companion, and grope about in your pockets for a coin.

Yet, with the exception of jamming on the brakes, that was what went on when Columbus was just beginning to grow from a cross-roads hamlet on the "high east bank of the Scioto" into a city worthy of being the capital of Ohio.

In 1816, the year in which Columbus was incorporated, the legislature granted a charter to Lucas Sullivant, allowing him to build a bridge to connect Franklinton and Columbus, and to derive a reasonable revenue from it. Mr. Sullivant was one of the most prominent of our pioneer citizens, one whose manifold civic activities in the early days were later commemorated by naming a West Side street for him.

An article appearing in the "Columbus Monitor" in November, 1816, under the heading "New Era," gives a detailed description of the structure which carried westward-bound pioneers over the Scioto on the famous National Road.



An Elegant Bridge

"An elegant bridge," wrote the enthusiastic reporter, "is now thrown across the Scioto, establishing connection between the towns of Franklinton and Columbus; the bridge being of wood, of a firm and durable structure, commencing at the termination on Broad Street and extending 315 feet to the opposite side of the river and continuing 230 feet further over the adjoining bottom. It is built on the principle of king posts and braces and the part over the river is supported by three trestles of sufficient strength and solidity of foundation."

Mr. Sullivant was a business-

Successful termination of the Revolutionary War and Dr. Lincoln Goodale came virtually together. The one shortly after the other was born in Redding, Worcester County, Mass. Feb. 25, 1783. Having played a considerable part in the birth of both, Dr. Goodale and the young nation, Major Nathan Goodale moved into the West and settled at Marietta in 1788.

An ancient crime which has returned to vogue in this modern day claimed Major Goodale as its victim, shortly after he moved to Belpre on the Ohio River in 1794. The war veteran was kidnaped by the Indians and died while being transported to Sandusky, where he was to have been held for ransom.

Gala Program Will Honor Pioneers

Comes tomorrow, and the following day, will find Chris. Columbus all in a dither over young "Franklinton," whose 150th anniversary will be observed in a salutary manner.

All dolled up for the occasion, profuse decorations, furnished by the J. W. Thomson Co., 51½ E. Spring-st, already attract the attention of thousands of passers-by along W. Broad-st from Broad and High to Sandusky, thence south on Sandusky to Sunshine Park where much of the celebration centers.

Officially, the celebration opens tonight at 6 o'clock with the blowing of whistles, ringing of bells, screeching of sirens, radio fanfare, and finally the release of aerial bombs from the State House yard, for 15 minutes in a noisy prelude to the selection of Miss Franklinton and her court of three at 9 p. m. on the same evening in the RKO Palace Theatre.

Incidentally, Miss Franklinton, in formal dress of 1947, and her court in period dress of 1797, 1847, and 1897 will preside at the many activities during the two-day city-wide celebration.

The program — every moment filled with glamor — appropriately begins at 1 p. m. Friday, Aug. 22, when for four hours the towered brick home of the founder of Franklinton, Lucas Sullivant, will be open to the public at Broad and Sandusky-sts. It still stands as part of the Convent of the Good Shepherd through whose courtesy this visit is made possible.

Unveiling of the temporary Franklinton marker by Miss Dolly Wilcox, great-great-great granddaughter of Lucas Sullivant, in the boulevard at Broad and Sandusky, where the hub of business activity 150 years ago emanated, will impressively recall the contributions of this busy hamlet, now absorbed into greater Columbus.

The marker, with a white background, will be embellished with large black letters, reading "FRANKLINTON — Founded by Lucas Sullivant 1797 — Incorporated into Columbus 1870—This Tablet Erected by the Franklinton Sesquicentennial Committee —August 22, 1947."

Marker To Be Replaced

An appropriate metal marker will later replace the wooden one.

A huge, colorful parade, full of floats, civic and military groups is scheduled at 7 p. m. on the same day. Forming at Gay and Front-sts the scenic panorama will move east in Gay to High-st, south in High to Broad-st, and west in Broad to Sandusky-st, disbanding at Sandusky and State-sts. Pioneer life of Franklintonians down to our time will be depicted.

At 8 p. m. Friday the Franklinton Sesquicentennial banquet will be held in the Southern Hotel Ball Room where Prof. Harold J. Grimm of the history department at Ohio State University will be the principal speaker.

Among the distinguished guests will be Franklinton pioneer descendants, Miss Madge Sullivant, Mrs. Bernice Strader, Mrs. Agnes Cain, Mrs. Seldon Trumbull, Miss Alice Fay Potter, Edmund B. Neil, Starling Sullivant Wilcox, Jr., Archibald Rogers.

RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office injuiring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

Dems Oppose Lincoln

The Democratic County Central Committee March 7, 1863, advertised a "Law and Order Meeting" in front of the Court House, "to consider and adopt such measures as may be judged necessary to protect the rights of the citizens in his person and property from mob violence." This party had opposed the election of Lincoln and the freeing of the slaves.

Migration Of Squirrels Was Occasio For Mammoth Slaughter

The account of a famous squirrel hunt in pioneer days related by the late Joseph Sullivant shows that squirrels were once a definite nuisance to the early settlers.

The story as told by Mr. Sullivant is as follows:

"In 1822 there was a very remarkable exodus of the gray and black squirrels, their number legion, migrating southward, impelled by some unknown instinct; but why south, who can tell? But out of the many thousands that were killed, there was scarcely one that had not one or more large grubs, or "worbles" as they were then called, burrowing under the skin, which must have been both troublesome and painful, and which were probably the moving cause of their migration.

"These grubs were undoubtedly the larva of some gadfly which had attacked them in their fore... homes. Mr. Sullivant resumes his narrative thus:

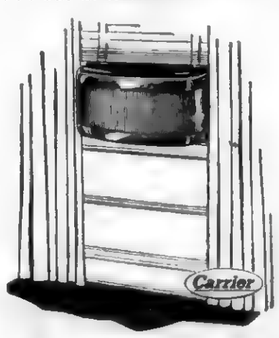
"This meeting was well attended, and instructions issued for a two and a half days' hunt, the result to be determined at 3 p. m. of the third day. The place of the meeting was to be at the mouth of the Whetstone (Olentangy), eastern side. The hunters on the west side of the Scioto River and Whetstone were pitted against those on the east side, and the stake was a barrel of whisky, to be paid for by the losing side.

"At the time appointed the squirrel scalps were brought, the judges or umpires, appointed, and the count commenced, when it was found that, although many of the hunters failed to come... time, 19,660 scalps were produced.



"The contest was decided in favor of the Franklinton side by some 5,000 or 6,000 scalps, and amid the cheers of the victors in this novel contest, the head of the barrel was knocked in, and 40 gallons of whisky found its way down the throats of the thirsty crowd in a marvelously short time."

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day week-end for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, thrid grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 3. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley will replace Mrs. Evelyn Hall as dramatics teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilla, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line [illegible] is in contest.

Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Magician Will Entertain At Kiwanis Movie

The fourth and last of a series of four free movies put on by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club for the boys and girls of the Hilltop will be held at the Rivoli Theater Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

Dr. J. T. Angus Moves Office

Dr. J. T. Angus, optometrist with offices formerly located at 2417 W. Broad-st, has moved his office to 2386½ W. Broad-st, over Moore's Store.

Dr. Angus lives at 20 N. Wayne-av.

Local Doctor Named Secretary Of Staff

Dr. Paul Reckley, 2637 Sullivant-av, has been elected secretary of the staff of Doctors' Hospital. He recently opened offices on the Hilltop at the Sullivant-av address.

At 2 p. m. there will be a horse shoe pitching contest, at 2:30 a chicken chasing contest (ladies only), 3 p. m. a ball game, 4 p. m. awarding of a prize to oldest lady and gentleman present, and 5 p. m. a series of contests for boys and girls up to 14 years of age.

Lost City Of Americus Was Near Here

The Lost Town of Americus—do you live in it?

If you do not know where it was, you are no worse off than most persons, indeed all persons, so far as it is possible to ascertain. Yet there was to have been a town by the name of Americus, a neighbor of Franklinton, and that town has been lost, and all trace of it, just as certainly as the Ten Tribes of Israel, or the art of tempering copper.

The Ohio State Journal and papers in Circleville, Chillicothe, and Zanesville, published at the time, contained advertisements in the spring of 1812, telling of a town by the name of Americus, which was to be laid out adjacent to Columbus, and which, so its promoters thought, would rival that recently selected as the seat of government.

The advertisement is sufficiently interesting to speak for itself:

Makes Easy Terms

The undersigned, proprietor of the lands adjoining Columbus, informs the public, that he will offer for sale, by way of public auction, on Thursday, the 18th of June next, and to continue for one week from the commencement thereof, a number of inlots; the terms of sale will be one-twentieth part cash, in hand or to be secured in a short time, the remainder at the end of three years, without interest, and after that payable one-fourth cash, and the remainder in produce, at a fair price, delivered in a reasonable time, or mechanic's labor, at the highest price.

"The advantages of the purchase of property at the permanent seat of government, has so justly been represented to the public by the proprietors of Columbus that any additional comments by the undersigned would be deemed useless.

"The title to my claim to the town of Americus has been examined by two eminent lawyers, to-wit, Messrs. Creighton and Brush; their opinions are favorable and will be shown at the day of the sale. The payments on credit, will not be asked until a general warrantee deed is ready to be offered. The subscriber, anticipating falsehoods, has made these remarks in advance.

"Attendance will be given by the proprietor, who will contact for 500,000 bricks of good quality.

Has Utterly Disappeared

What has become of this town no one knows, because no one knows where it was located. Inferentially it was in Franklin County. The oldest and best abstractors in the city, however, have neither record nor recollection of any transfer of property in such an addition, town or survey. A solitary record remains on the county books, to the effect that a plat is recorded in Deed Book F, page 333, but Deed Book F, along with many others, was destroyed by fire many years ago, and so what record there was is no longer available.

Furthermore there is a notation of a transfer of property from Thomas Nelson to John McDougal, but the actual transfer is also burned and there is no other record that either of these men ever sold or bought any real estate in Franklin County. If they did, they never paid any taxes on it, as neither name appears on the tax duplicate of this county for a number of years following 1812. There are two Nelsons of early record, but no Thomas.

Thus as completely as the lost city of Atlantis has the vaunted rival of the capital city disappeared from the world. Not as much as a name is left to tell of an ambition lost. It is extremely probable that somewhere, some part of Columbus now covers the site of what was intended to be Americus, its rival. No record exists, however; no name has persisted to tell its whereabouts. Within the corporate confines of Columbus there is the unsolved mystery of the lost city

Sullivant Kin Heads Group Of Planners

Vivacious Miss Madge Sullivant, great granddaughter of Lucas Sullivant, founder of Franklinton, was named honorary chairman of the Franklinton Sesquicentennial committee, at the initial meeting of the city-wide committee named by Mayor James A. Rhodes early in July.

This honor was bestowed upon her, not only by virtue of being a lineal descendant of the founder, but, in addition, her education and experience entitled her to this exalted office.

Reluctant to tell much about her achievements, your reporter painstakingly elicted several facts concerning her.

Daughter of Lucas Sullivant II

Miss Sullivant was the daughter of a second Lucas Sullivant, who was the son of the celebrated scientist, Joseph Sullivant. Joseph was the son of Lucas Sullivant, pioneer, patriot and founder of Franklinton.

The three sons of Joseph Sullivant, Lucas, Major Lyne Starling and Joseph Arthur, when young men, went out to Kansas City, from Columbus, and engaged in business. Lyne Starling and Joseph Arthur later returned to Columbus, but Lucas remained in the West.

Miss Sullivant, born in Kansas City, Mo., lived in the West, until about 21 years ago, when after the death of her parents, she came to Columbus to live with her aunt, Miss Elizabeth Sullivant, at 26 Hoffman-av.

After the death of her aunt, in 1938, she dismantled the old Sullivant home on Hoffman Ave., where the family had lived for 60 years and moved to Townley

HILL TOPICS
—by P.W.—

RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office inquiring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT. The peace and tranquility of the countryside was momentarily shattered out in the W. Broad-st sector on the night the National Auto Theater opened a couple of weeks ago. This story, while a bit stale as to the time element, is still fresh in the minds of those who experienced it.

It seems that at the premier of the new auto theater there must have been a slipup in the projection booth and sound control system as the show was nearing an end. The theater has two sound systems—one that accompanys th

Historic Sites Visibly Marked

A number of historic landmarks and sites will be visibly marked for visitors at the celebration Aug. 22, 23.

Sites, already designated by bronze plaques, were decorated by the J. W. Thompson Co., 53½ E. Spring-st, for the occasion.

Sites, with appropriate decorations, include:

1) The Lucas Sullivant home at the southwest corner of Sandusky and Broad, now occupied (and an additional annex attached to the original home) by the Convent of the Good Shepherd. A tablet is on the north brick fence, circling the institution, and identifies the Sullivant home.

2) The First Courthouse, located at the northeast corner of Sandusky and Broad, is marked with a bronze tablet placed on the southeast corner of the Franklinton School building.

3) The Franklinton Pioneer Cemetery, where only pioneers of the Franklinton frontier are interred. The land was given to the Franklinton community by Lucas Sullivant. It is located west of Sandusky, at River-st and near Davis-av. A monument was erected in this cemetery to the memory of the pioneers and Lucas Sullivant by the West Side Board of Trade in 1901.

4) The First Church of Franklinton was built and stood in this cemetery; an inscription on one side of the huge monument, erected by the Board of Trade, marks the site of the church.

Marking of sites, with temporary markers, during the sesquicentennial observance was likewise done by the J. W. Thompson Co., and include:

1) The First Post Office, part of which is still standing, at 72 S. Gift-st. It was built in 1807 by the Dearduff pioneer family, and was a log cabin. The front room of the present domicile was the post office proper. The logs and later annexed rooms are now weatherboarded.

2) General Will Henry Harrison's War of 1812 headquarters at 770 W. Broad-st.

3) The First School House, made of logs, and built in 1806 by Lucas Sullivant. It was located about a square and a half north of W. Broad-st and west of Sandusky-st.

4) Pioneer home of the Overdier Family, 570 W. Broad-st, and occupied by the present owner, Mrs. F. C. Kuhn. The trim on the interior is black woodwork, with log rafters and beams. The original front door, which had been stored in the basement for 67 years, has been rehung.

5) First newspaper office of the Freeman Chronicle during the War of 1812 was published in Franklinton near the hub of activity, Sandusky and Broad.

6) Other Pioneer Homes are located at 21 N. Davis, 714 W. Gayst, 54 N. Sandusky, Joseph Foos Tavern, near the convent, and Masonic rooms, between Green and Foos-st (not now standing).

Telephone War

A telephone war was started by the Co-operative Co., and the Citizens Co., in 1899 with each company making a frantic bid for subscribers. The contract of the Citizens Co., was to be binding only when it had 2500 subscribers and the Co-operative only when it had 2000.

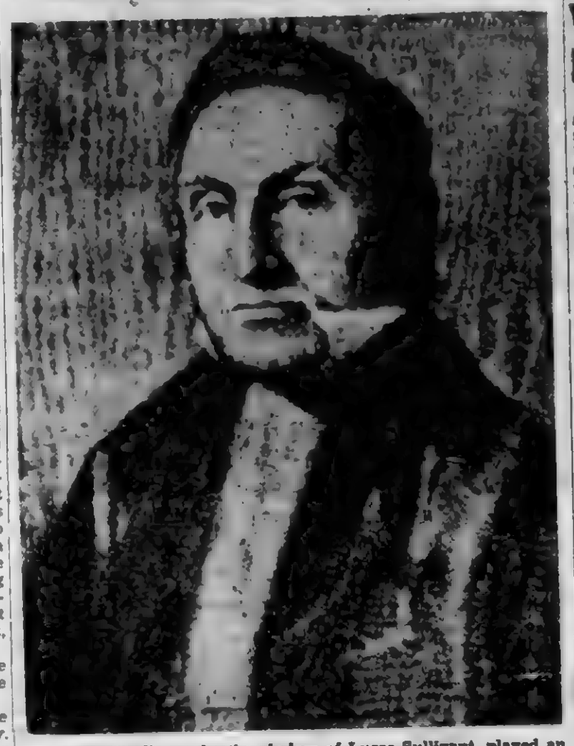
Lincoln Goodale read medicine under the preceptorship of Dr. Leonard Jewett in Belpre. Coming with his widowed mother to Franklinton in 1805, he entered at once into the practice of his profession. As was the custom then, Dr. Goodale secured a supply of drugs and medicines, but the village was small and his practice was limited, so he naturally turned to the mercantile business as a further means of livelihood. From this, the poor people of the district derived great benefit, for he turned his store profits into real estate investments, became wealthy and administered medical treatment to the needy free of charge.

Following an inherited tendency, Dr. Goodale volunteered his services in the War of 1812, and was appointed assistant surgeon in McArthur's regiment, by Governor Meigs. General Hull's unnecessary surrender at Detroit placed Dr. Goodale in the hands of the British, who sent him to Malden, Ontario. Upon his return in October of the same year, he returned to Franklinton. Moving across the river to the new community, he entered upon a most succesful career as a merchant, which he followed for 30 years.



Statue of Dr. Lincoln Goodale is located in Goodale Park, the land he donated to the city.

His mother was buried in the Franklinton Pioneer Cemetery. The stone erected to her memory reads:

Erected in memory of Mrs. Elizabeth Goodale consort of Major Nathan Goodale who was born in Rutland, Mass.
April 15, 1743
Died Jan. 24th, 1809
Having lived 65 years
9 months and 24 days.

This information and photograph of Dr. Lincoln Goodale were contributed by Miss Alice Fay Potter, 380 E. Town-st. Townley Court. Miss Potter is the great-great-granddaughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Goodale, and great-great-niece of her son, Dr. Lincoln Goodale.

He Played Important Role

Lyne Starling, a brother-in-law of Lucas Sullivant, played an important role in the development of Franklinton and later the City of Columbus. He was a large man, standing six feet six inches. (Citizen Photo).

Franklin Bank First Here

Shortly after Columbus was incorporated, the first bank was launched in the city under the name of Franklin Bank of Columbus. Lucas Sullivant was the first president.

Gold Shipped To Toledo

So frightened were Columbus bankers by General Morgan's raid through southern Ohio that they shipped most of their available capital, amounting to six tons of gold, to Toledo for safe keeping.

Early Gov't. Without A Fixed Home

From 1803, when the first organization of the state government of Ohio took place, until 1816, there was no permanent seat of government. The sessions of the legislature were held at Chillicothe and Zanesville during the period. In 1810 the legislature held by joint resolution took steps to establish a permanent capital for the state. Various proposals were received offering inducements for its establishment at different points, among the number being one from Lyne Starling, James Johnston, Alexander McLaughlin and John Kerr, four substantial citizens of Franklin. Franklinton, Worthington and Delaware were also among the sites proposed.

The following is the language of the original proposals of the proprietors of Columbus.

To the Honorable the Legislature of The State of Ohio:

We, the subscribers, do offer the following as our proposals, provided the legislature at their present session, shall fix and establish the permanent seat of government on the bank of the Scioto river, nearly opposite Franklinton, on half-sections number twenty-five and twenty-six, and part of half-sections ten and eleven, all in township five, range twenty-two, of the sessions there on the first Monday of December, 1817.

"1st. To lay out a town on the lands, aforesaid, on or before the first of July next, agreeably to the plan presented by us to the Legislature.

"2nd. To convey to the State by general warranty deed, in fee simple, such square of said town of the contents of ten acres or near it, for the public buildings, and such lot of ten acres for the Penitentiary and dependencies, as a Director or such person or persons as the Legislature shall appoint, may direct.

"3rd. To erect and complete a State House, offices and Penitentiary, and such other buildings as shall be directed by the Legislature to be built, of stone and brick, or of either—the work to be done in a workmanlike manner, and of such size and dimensions as the Legislature shall think fit; the Penitentiary and dependencies to be completed on or before first of January, 1815, and the State House and offices on or before the first Monday of December, 1817.

"When the buildings shall be completed the Legislature and us, reciprocally, shall appoint workmen to examine and value the whole buildings, which valuation shall be binding; and if it does not amount to fifty thousand dollars, we shall make up such deficiency in such further buildings as shall be directed by law; but if it exceed the sum of fifty thousand dollars, the Legislature will by law renumerate us in such a way as they may think just and equitable.

"The Legislature may, by themselves or agent, alter the width of the streets and alleys of said town, previous to its being laid out by us, if they may think proper to do so.

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendance of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 1 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Saturday.

Fun For All And Many Prizes In Playground Festival

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, third grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 3. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley will replace Mrs. Evelyn Hall as dramatics teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilla, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, has been petitioning to become Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Magician Will Entertain At Kiwanis Movie

The fourth and last of a series of four free movies put on by the Hillton Kiwanis Club for the boys and girls of the Hilltop will be held at the Rivoli Theater Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

Dr. J. T. Angus Moves Office

Dr. J. T. Angus, optometrist with offices formerly located at 2417 W. Broad-st, has moved his office to 2388½ W. Broad-st, over Moore's Store.

Dr. Angus lives at 20 N. Wayne-av.

Local Doctor Named Secretary Of Staff

Dr. Paul Keckley, 2637 Sullivant-av, has been elected secretatary of the staff of Doctors' Hospital. He recently opened offices on the Hilltop at the Sullivant-av address.

Homecoming To Be Held Monday At Galloway

The Galloway Boosters Club has planned an all-day homecoming celebration for Galloway on Sept. 1 which will be highlighted by a fast-moving program for both children and adults.

The program will begin at 1:30 p. m. with a parade which is open to entries of pets, floats, or comic costumes. At 2 p. m. there will be a horse shoe pitching contest, at 2:30 a chicken chasing contest (ladies only), 3 p. m. a ball game, 4 p. m. awarding of a prize to oldest lady and gentleman present, and 5 p. m. a series of contests for boys and girls up to 14 years of age.

The evening activities will begin at 7 p. m. with an amateur hour, followed by round and square dancing at 8 p. m. which concludes the planned program. The concessions will be open at all times.

Prizes will be given for: the doll, pet, bicycle and comic divisions in the childrens parade; the flower show; canning display; handwork; horseshoe contest; chicken chasing; boys and girls contests; and winners of the amateur hour.

The flower show offers the following divisions:

Best potted plant, first, $3.00; second, $1.00.

Best arranged single variety, first, $2.00; second, $1.00.

Best arranged mixed bouquet, first, $2.00; second, $1.00.

Miniature variety, 5 in. or under, first, $2.00; second, $1.00.

Mrs. Strader Is School Historian

Franklinton School historian for a number of years was the official title of Mrs. Bernice Strader, 248 Columbian-av, who recorded the annals of student life in this historic institution of learning. Her recollections of classmates and teachers who made "old Franklinton" famous are a fascinating chapter in Franklinton's 150 years of growth.

Having lived in this vicinity more than a quarter of a century, and by virtue of her descendancy of the pioneer family, the Dearduffs, she has taken more than passive interest in preserving for posterity numerous happenings of the Franklintonians.

During the 1913 flood she managed to salvage a valuable genealogical volume dealing with the story of the early settler who blazed the trail west of the Scioto.

Her mother, Dr. Alice Allen, was an M. D., of no mean repute. Mrs. Strader attributes the phenomenal success of her mother in her chosen field to the encouragement given by her school teacher, Miss Lucilla Crain (aunt of former West High teacher, Marcella Crain). A crayon portrait of Dr. Allen by herself by use of a mirror, graces the mantel of Mrs. Strader's home. Dr. Allen began her practice of medicine here in 1893.

Family heirlooms of the pioneer family, the Dearduffs were much in evidence when we visited the home of this splendid lady. A large porcelain pitcher, with the "Adams" imprint, was brought to Franklinton in 1798 from Germany, Mrs. Strader attested when she showed us this beautiful object of art and antiquity.

Likewise a coverlet with more than 200 years' service is still in use, as well as home spun linen. Both came from Germany when the Dearduffs arrived in Franklinton in 1798. Daguerreotypes, furniture, including walnut chairs with the original cane, banquet table, etc., from her ancestors are the proud possessions of Mrs. Strader. Two copies of the Centennial edition (1897) of the Columbus Press-Post and the Ohio State Journal are in her library.

Weeds Overrun Old Pioneer Cemetery Most of The Time

This is the way the Pioneer Cemetery appears before the weeds are mowed. Located on the north side of River-st, just west of Sandusky-st, it is for the most part neglected. Weeds have been mowed, however, for this occasion. Only members of pioneer families lie buried here.

Joseph Foos Was Tavern Keeper Here

Interesting facts concerning John Foos, who, with his son, Joseph, came to Franklinton in 1798, were furnished by Mrs. Selden Trumbull, 190 S. Drexel-av, Bexley.

Joseph Foos was among the first to secure a lot on Gift-st from Lucas Sullivant, donor of unimproved real estate made to settlers, gratis, who were deserving.

Noted as an inn-keeper, he established a tavern — known as "Foos Tavern"—in Franklinton.

The celebrated Henry Clay spent a winter at this tavern, and, in return for his board he taught son Joseph to read and write, Mrs. Trumbull avers.

As a military genius, he was commissioned Brigadier General of the Ohio Militia during the War of 1812.

As a member of the Ohio Legislature, he helped materially in the preparation of the state laws.

Signally honored, he was the first to have his will probated in the first courthouse in Franklin County at Sandusky and Broad-st; this was the first business transaction to be inscribed in the Probate Court.

Joseph Foos operated a ferry across the Scioto River, prior to the construction of the first Sullivant Bridge across this stream.

John Foos was buried in the Franklinton Cemetery.

There were dark days for the Democratic party in 1868 and leaders in Ohio gathered in Columbus to dissolve the party and form a new one. Judge A. G. Thurman protested. "This is a very small room in which to decree the death of the Democratic party," and immediately withdrew—the meeting broke up.

Old Court House In Pioneer Days

According to old records, the first session of the Court of Common Pleas of Franklin County was held in the town of Franklinton, "on the first Tuesday in May, and on the third day thereof." This was in the year 1803, although the record does not so state, but information furnished various authors on the subject is to that effect. Associate judges held the court, and the records formed read as follows:

"John Dill, David Jamison and Joseph Foos, esquires, having been duly commissioned by His Excellency, Edward Tiffin, esquire, governor of the state of Ohio, as associate judges of the Court of Common Pleas for the county of Franklin, and having first taken the oaths of allegience, as also the oath of office, assumed their seats. The court then proceeded to appoint their clerk, whereupon Lucas Sullivant was appointed clerk pro tempore, who also took the oath of office."

Benjamin White was the sheriff of the county, and a noticeable feature of this court was the absence of lawyers. The first and only judicial act of this term of court was an order granting the application of Jane and Joseph Foos for letters of administration on the estate of John Foos, deceased. The court adjourned to meet on the first Tuesday of the following September. The record for this latter term of court shows the following:

"At a court of common pleas begun and held in the town of Franklinton, on the first Tuesday, in September, in the year of our Lord, 1803, and of the state the first, before the Honorable Willys Silliman, esquire, president, and David Jamison and John Foos, esquires, two of the associate judges, of said court, John Willis, Michael Balewin, Phileman Beecher, William W. Irwin and Jonathan Reddick, intending to appear as attorneys in this court, took the oath of fidelity to this state, the oath to support the constitution of this state, and the oath of an attorney-at-law (and) they are severally admitted to practice as attorneys therein."

The duty of charging the grand jury was the first of the September term, and after being out some time, this important body returned an indictment, or "presentment" as it was recorded. According to Lee's History of Columbus, it seems that in the preceding June, Usual Osborn had committed an assault and battery upon Joseph Story, "contrary to the laws of this state in such case made and provided." The indictment was signed by John S. Willis, prosecuting attorney, who refused to prosecute further on the indictment, probably on account of defects in it, and a new one was presented to the grand jury. The new indictment was "nol pros'd" in accordance with the terms of a settlement of a pending civil action for the same assault, shown by the following entry on the record, the orthography being the same as in the original:

"John Story, plaintiff, against Usual Osborn, defendant. In trespass vi et armis. This suit being agreed by the parties—It is ordered that their agreement be made the judgement of the court, which said agreement is in the words and figures following, to-wit: This is to surtify that John Story and Usual Osborn has settled their sute themselves on these conditions—Osborn agrees to pay the cost of the sute and thre supened and half the court and clerks fees, and John Story pays the balance of the cose. Gven under our hands this 4th of January, 1804—we agree to here set our hands and seals.

JOHN STORY, (L. S.)
USUAL OSBORN, (L. S.)

At the January, 1804, term, Adam Hosack, sheriff, was ordered paid one dollar and fifty cents for summoning the grand jury for the January term.

Lot Speculation

Speculation in town lots began even before Columbus was laid out. Lots in Columbus were advertised for sale in the spring of 1812, shortly after the contract between the propreitors and the state was signed. Public sale began June 18, 1812. Lots around Broad and High-sts sold for $200 to $1000.

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendance of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 2 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Satur-

Wheeler Was Associate Of Lucas Sullivant

The following letter from Allie Cloud Ward of Blacklick, Ohio, brings to light some interesting history concerning early Franklinton. Her letter reads as follows:

"As to the coming inauguration of Franklinton, we feel our acknowledgement should be recognized; however thru no fault of anybody's but ours.

"Mr. Lucas Sullivant and our grandfather, Ignatius Wheeler, were very closely associated. Our grandmother was a Nadenbusche before she married Ignatius Wheeler and from this union nine children were born. Eight were born on the site where the insane institution stands. Our mother, the ninth child, was born at the corner of Greene and Broderick-sts, now W. Gay-st. The Nadenbusches' families were buried in the old Franklinton Cemetery.

"Our mother, Isabelle, married John Cloud and had five children. They were Allie, Grace, Nellie, Raymond and Della. Grace and Raymond are deceased. Grace was born in 1874 and died 10 months later and was buried in the old Franklinton Cemetery. We living sisters are Allie Cloud Ward, Nellie Cloud Sanders and Della Cloud Hartley."

Mrs. Della Cloud Hartley, granddaughter of Ignatius Wheeler, one of the first Franklinton settlers, tells the following story about her grandfather as told to her by her mother.

"Our grandfather who was an overseer on a Virginia plantation before moving to Franklinton, had to return to Virginia to sell his slaves. When he returned to his home at Greene and Broderick-sts (now W. Gay-st) he showed his family the contents of several bags he carried. The bags were filled with gold which he emptied onto the bed." He also brought with him two cameo pins, one of which was given to Mrs. Hartley's mother, Isabelle Wheeler Cloud. This pin now belongs to Mrs. Hartley. She makes her home at the West Side Day Nursery, 40 N. Grubb-st.

General Harrison's Headquarters

Headquarters of General William Henry Harrison during the War of 1812 — established in Franklinton on Oct. 13, 1812, for his campaign against the British and Indians of the Northwest—was this old house. It was formerly located at 770 W. Broad-st.

WHEN THESE WERE TIMELY

Two high pressure salesmen blew into Columbus in 1817 and perpetrated the first swindle on record in the city. Here are the "horrible" details:

Two men were dressed as backwoodsmen and had apparently come up from Chillicothe. They had pack horses carrying three barrels of "gunpowder." Gunpowder was then an important element of trade.

They offered the gunpowder at "reasonable prices" to the merchants who eagerly bought. The backwoodsmen then attempted a quiet exit from the town but before they went one storekeeper opened the barrel of gunpowder and found it to be corn meal.

The culprits were seized by the town constable and rushed into the town bastile. Later they escaped "and have not been found since."

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, third grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 8. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley will replace Mrs. Evelynn Hall as dramatics teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilia, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 2 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Fernstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, has been attempting to annex Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome, Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Magician Will Entertain At Kiwanis Movie

The fourth and last of a series of four free movies put on by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club for the boys and girls of the Hilltop will be held at the Rivoli Theater Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

Dr. J. T. Angus Moves Office

Dr. J. T. Angus, optometrist with offices formerly located at 2417 W. Broad-st, has moved his office to 2386½ W. Broad-st, over Moore's Store."

Dr. Angus lives at 20 N. Wayne-av.

Local Doctor Named Secretary Of Staff

Dr. Paul Keckley, 2637 Sullivant-av, has been elected secretatary of the staff of Doctors' Hospital. He recently opened offices on the Hilltop at the Sullivant-av address.

RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am weering one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office injuiring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

Thirty events will fill the sport calendar.

It is planned during the afternoon to judge the "Beards for Franklinton" contest, inaugurated by the Ohio State Journal, which is offering prizes to winners. The historical parade will depict changes from the Franklinton period to the present day. Miss Franklinton and her Court will ride in one float in the parade.

Band Concert

Band concerts from local union talent will entertain the merrymakers; Bert Wendell's dance band will permit lovers of the light fantastic to enjoy the celebration "jog" fashion on Sullivant-av between Grubb and Skidmore-sts, from 9 to 11 p. m.

An historical exhibit, showing relics of pioneer days, will be on display in Sunshine Park Shelter House. Exhibits will include a group of basket weavers working at their craft, a gun maker making guns, and probably articles from the old village of Franklinton or articles made during that period.

The gala two-day celebration will be climaxed at 10 p. m. Saturday with a gigantic fireworks display, produced by the Tri-State Chemical Co., and will include an illuminated picture of Lucas Sullivant, the Ohio State Flag, and American Flag.

A reviewing stand was constructed in front of the Franklinton School at Broad and Sandusky-sts. Prizes will be awarded in the following divisions: school bands, $50 first prize, $10 second prize; drum corps, $15 first prize, $10 second prize; bicycles, $5 first prize, and three honorable mentions of $1 each.

A first prize of $100 will be given for the best float, judged on the basis of originality, design and decoration, Erwin C. Zepp, general chairman, said.

County Jail Cost $80

Cost of government was no problem back in 1803—and they balanced their budget. The court journal of Franklin County records such expenditures as these: To Lucas Sullivant, $80, for building the county jail; to Adam Hosack, sheriff, $1.50 for summoning grand jury; to John Dill, $8, for a lock for the county jail.

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, third grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 8. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley will replace Mrs. Evelyn Hall as mathematics teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilia, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, has been attempting to incorporate as Camp Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Odd Items From the Past

Some of the happenings of other days are contained in the following excerpts gathered from various sources.

William R. Rankin was the first probate judge of this county. He was elected in 1852.

Nathan B. Kellye, J. B. Thomas, William Flintham, David Bryden and Charles A. Howie were the charter members of Columbus Lodge, No. 9, I. G. O. F.

Franklin is the oldest township in the county, and the only one of the original four that has retained its name.

Franklinton (now Columbus) had a postoffice from 1805 to 1831.

Sharon Township was established in 1806. The territory, before that time, was called Liberty Township.

William Robe was the first postmaster at Worthington. He weighed only 55 pounds.

Worthington was incorporated in 1835, and James Kilbourne was elected mayor in 1830.

Montgomery Township was organized in 1807, and William Shaw was then elected justice of the peace.

The water cure on Alum Creek was established in 1852 and 1853 by Dr. William Shepherd, M. D.

The village of Georgesville, in Pleasant Township, was laid out in 1816.

A. G. Hibbs laid out the village of Shadesville in 1853, and was appointed the first postmaster at the place.

Blendon Township, prior to 1825, was called Harrison Township. It was organized in 1815 out of a part of the territory comprising Sharon.

The county seat was removed from Franklinton to Columbus in 1824.

When Columbus was organized as a city in 1834 it had seven United States officers, nine state officers, 10 lawyers, 11 physicians, eight clergymen, 36 merchants and nine taverns.

The Exchange Bank was organized on May 24, 1845, with a capital of $125,000, and the Franklin Bank on July 1 of the same year, with a capital of $175,000.

Captain Walcutt opened a museum in this city in 1851. It consisted of several wax figures and a few paintings.

The old State House was burned to the ground Feb. 1, 1852, while the legislature was in session. During the remainder of the session the House met in Odeon Hall and the Senate met in Ambos Hall.

The German Methodist Church, corner of Third and Fulton-sts, was organized in 1844, and Wesley Chapel in 1846.

The First Presbyterian Church was organized in Franklinton in 1806, with Rev. James Hoge as pastor.

The Welsh Presbyterian Church was organized in 1837 in a small frame building on E. Town-st.

The first session of the Franklin Common Pleas Court was held May 10, 1803, with John Dill as C. J. and David Jamison and Joseph Foos Associates.

In June, 1810, Leatherlips, a Wyandot chief, was executed for witchcraft at a point 14 miles north of the city.

On Sept. 23, 1831, the first canal boat, "Governor Brown," arrived in this city by way of the canal. Its approach was announced by the firing of cannon.

Jacob Grubb, Ralph Osborn and P. W. Wilcox constituted the first board of infirmary directors in this county. They were appointed in 1832, and Captain Robert Cloud was elected superintendent.

During the War of 1812 Franklinton was a place of much life and business.

The first newspaper published in the county was printed at Worthington in 1811, and was called the Western Intelligencer.

The second paper published in the county was started by James B. Gardner and was called the Freeman's Chronicle.

Treating Common

Quaffing hard drink was a leading pastime in young Columbus. Treating was common. At the Russell Tavern it was a rule with the youngsters that the first to arise should treat the rest. Tavern guests had one on the house in the morning and evening.

Columbus and Lancaster were running neck-and-neck for population supremacy in 1827. The Columbus census gave a population of 1542 while the "Ohio Eagle," an early publication, gave Lancaster a population of 1346. There were 259 homes in the city.

RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office injuiring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT. The peace and tranquility of the countryside was momentarily shattered out in the W. Broad-st sector on the night the National Auto Theater opened a couple of weeks ago. This story, while a bit stale as to the time element, is still fresh in the minds of those who experienced it.

It seems that at the premier of the new auto theater there must have been a slipup in the projection booth and sound control system as the show was nearing an end. The theater has tw

This Building Housed Post Office

This building housed the first post office in Franklinton. It stood at 72 Giff-st. The house was built in 1807 by the Deardurff family.

First Trade In Franklinton Was By Barter

The first trade of the Franklinton colony, says Lee's History, consisted chiefly of barter with the Indians, and the distribution of supplies to the settlements. Goods were brought from the Ohio River on the back of pack animals, or were carried up the Scioto in skiffs. Many of the settlers went personally to Chillicothe for their salt and flour. The clothing used was mostly homespun and made, few being able to indulge in the luxury of "store goods."

Implements of husbandry were bought, by those able to buy them, of the traders in Franklinton. Tea and other luxuries of light weight, were obtained through the mail, or by special arrangement with the post-carriers, after those resources became available. As rapidly as new trails and roads were opened, new supplies were brought in. mercantile stocks were enlarged. and trade increased proportionately. The members of the present generation would hardly believe what vicissitudes and trials were suffered by their ancestors when they settled in the primitive forests which surrounded this territory. The risks of transportation were considerable, but prices were high and profits large. The exchange of trinkets and cheap, showy stuffs for the peltries and wild fruits brought in by the Indians formed an important and lucrative traffic.

Money was plentiful while the War of 1812 lasted; the limited supply of produce found ready sale at good prices, to the purveyors of the Northwestern Army. The erection of public buildings later created a great demand for labor. After the war came reaction. Wages were paid exclusively in trade and all business degenerated into mere barter. Whiskey was the standard of values, and it was but offered and received in purchases and the payment of debts. All the stores sold it, along with dry goods, groceries and hardware and its use was almost universal. The Weekly Gazette, of August 23, 1821, made the following announcement:

"Good merchantable whiskey will be received at this office in payment of debts, at 25 cents per gallon, if delivered by the first of November next."

Much of trade of Franklinton was attracted by the borough of Columbus as soon as the latter began to take form by the erection of cabins and the opening of taverns.

David W. Deshler and his wife, Betsy Green, came to Columbus from Pennsylvania in 1817 and purchased the site of the Deshler Hotel for $1000, where they built a house and carpenter shop. Part of Mr. Deshler's work was building shelves in the library of the first State House. Later he founded a bank.

In January, 1818, Mrs. Deshler wrote to relatives in Pennsylvania, "We have but one meeting house here and that a Methodist. We (Presbyterians) have meetings very often this winter in the State House." . . . In the fall she wrote, "We have at length got a meeting house up, and the seats have been sold out to defray the cost of the building. We have bought one, the price of which was 37½ cents.

First officers of the West Side Board of Trade were three men shown above. The board was organized in 1904 with O. E. Davis as president; W. B. Potts, first vice president; and A. D. Anderson, second vice president.

The pictures were taken from a large photo album made up by Baker Art Gallery. Although some of the pictures are missing from the album it would indicate that there were 52 charter members of the board.

In addition to the above three men the following names and pictures appear in the album: H. L. Baker, J. O'Shaughnessy, Jr., E. X. Allen, J. F. Andrix, A. A. Beery, George L. This old house, still standing at 54 N. Sandusky-st, served Franklinton as a court room and church until separate buildings could be constructed. It is now a residence. (Citizen Photo).

Trees a Problem

After Joel Buttles built a home on the present site of the Y. M. C. A. in 1813, he had difficulty in felling the large trees without damaging his house.

Mails Curtailed News

Newspaper publishers had their troubles in the early days. Sometimes news was curtailed by the delay in the mails. Other times floods washed out roads and delayed the arrival of print paper.

PROGRESS

Is measured in a community by the mental growth of its citizens. It is not difficult to note the business organization that contributes to the unfolding of civic life.

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, third grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 8. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley will replace Mrs. Eva Hoffman as domestic teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilia, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, [illegible] to be incorporated as the village of Camp Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Magician Will Entertain At Kiwanis Movie

The fourth and last of a series of four free movies put on by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club for the boys and girls of the Hilltop will be held at the Rivoli Theater Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

Dr. J. T. Angus Moves Office

Dr. J. T. Angus, optometrist with offices formerly located at 2417 W. Broad-st, has moved his office to 2386½ W. Broad-st, over Moore's Store.

Dr. Angus lives at 20 N. Wayne-av.

Local Doctor Named Secretary Of Staff

Dr. Paul Keckley, 3637 Sullivant-av, has been elected secretary of the staff of Doctors' Hospital. He recently opened offices on the Hilltop at the Sullivant-av address.

RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office injuiring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT. The peace and tranquility of the countryside was momentarily shattered out in the W. Broad-st sector on the night the National Auto Theater opened a couple of weeks ago. This story, while a bit stale as to the time element, is still fresh in the minds of those who experienced it.

It seems that at the premier of the new auto theater there must have been a slipup in the projection booth and sound control system as the show was nearing an end. The theater has tw

Two Former Franklinton Residents Recall Happenings Dating Back to '83

Two Hilltoppers, Mrs. Lillian Landers, 147 N. Harris-av, and Harry Fleming, erstwhile city paymaster, 104 N. Warren-av, formerly lived in the environs of old Franklinton long before the turn of the century, and both have vivid recollections of events that happened in that historic community.

Classmates of old Franklinton School, at Sandusky and Broad, in 1883, they both recall, as if yesterday, the "3 R's" as taught in that day, the full school-pail with its home-made, appetizing food, the jokes and pranks played by the youngsters, and finally, the school pedagogues who exercised due diligence and care over the flock.

"Genial Harry," as he is familiarly known, likes to remember one teacher in particular, Miss Margaret Getz, who resides in Columbus. He even remembers her birthday with a salutation and greeting, "and it is not far distant," he added.

"She was a grand teacher and friend of all" was the compliment paid his early teacher.

"Yes, and there is Margaret Koerner, on W. Broad, the school principal we can never forget," added Mrs. Landers.

Mrs. Landers recalls well another school she attended, which was held over the present Cramer Drug Store at Sandusky and Broad.

"I can visualize so plainly the blackboard with its terrifying problems and grammatical diagrams which puzzled me," she said.

Philosophically, Mr. Fleming characterized the fine people in that community as "poor, but happy."

"We had little of this world's goods," he further interpolated, "but we were all honest and knew how to live together."

Both Mrs. Landers and Mr. Fleming treasure pictures of the home where Gen. William Henry Harrison had headquarters in the War of 1812. The picture used in this edition of the Harrison home was furnished by Mr. Fleming, who stated that the building was razed in 1874.

The picture was formerly prized and owned by Tom Nolan, celebrated saloon-keeper on the northwest corner of Broad and Sandusky in the building now occupied by the Fullen Auto Parts.

Mrs. Landers, nee Sinclair, was reared at 21 N. Davis, where Hilltopper Jack Sinclair, 166 S. Huron, was the last of the Sinclairs born in that domicile.

Peanuts were raised on a large scale by the Sinclairs, and a crop was harvested annually on the plot where Dr. Beery's brick home now stands far back north of Broad-st.

Black diphtheria, probably in 1859, Mr. Fleming thought, jeopardized the natives in "Sullivant's Prairie" (now Hilltop) and Franklinton. A huge lime-kiln in the rear of the Insane Asylum was built to combat this treacherous and fatal epidemic, according to Fleming.

The first Masonic Lodge was instituted in a building erected between Green and Foos Streets.

"The door of this early lodge," he added, "is now used by a current Masonic blue lodge, vis Columbus Lodge, No. 30, at the Main Temple." Mr. Fleming's home in Franklinton was at 32 McDowell-st, not far distant from the site of the First Masonic Lodge.

South of Broad-st at Davis-av was the site of the State Fair," commented Mrs. Landers.

Cincinnati was honored with the first state fair; however, Columbus — then Franklinton — made a successful bid for the second Ohio State Fair. It was located "one mile west of Columbus, south of the National Road and west of the turnpike from Franklinton to Washington" on a 35 acre tract "well enclosed with a strong fence 10 feet high . . . containing forest trees."

Two spacious tents and four large buildings housed the second great exhibition. It was touted to be the "largest exhibition ever held in the west."

The remarkable stride made in the premium list is almost unbelievable, almost a 450 per cent increase over the first fair. The list advertised premiums in excess of $4000. Single admission to the exposition was advanced to 25 cents, and the fair crowd proved to be more than the town could comfortably entertain; consequently, after boarding houses and hotels were filled multitudes camped out, as far as Sullivant's Hill, now Hilltop).

Newspapers of the day praised Franklintonians for "their congeniality."

Senator Stephen A. Douglas, one of the speakers of the day, had just returned from the New York State Fair. Douglas did not spare words in acclaiming the Franklinton Fair far superior to the one he just visited. M. L. Sullivant and Michael Sullivant were among those selected to engineer the fair at Franklinton in 1851.

Entertainment features were lacking at this fair; however, street fakirs and museums of every sort lined W. Broad-st near the fair grounds. Fortune tellers even plied their trade here at that early date and several buildings of the town were leased for minstrel shows, musicales, etc.

Among the agricultural implements that attracted most attention were the reaper and mower and sewing machines or grain drills. Farmers cliqued about the new-fangled inventions and ridiculed, in many instances, the claims made for such machinery. Lightning rods, pewter products, plaster of Paris statuary, sketches and paintings provided novelties for transients.

Flies Interrupt Counting

Clintonville was beset by a plague of flies in the summer of 1877. The "Sunday Morning News" reported that Clintonville girls had great difficulty entertaining their company, "often being compelled to excuse themselves and retire to another part of the house to skirmish half an hour with the little pests."

100 Loads of Wood

The "Wood Procession" arrived in Columbus Dec. 22, 1863. This consisted of 600 wagons of firewood donated by farmers for the relief of soldiers' families. After unloading their wood, the farmers went to the Athenaeum where Governor Tod publicly thanked them. The firewood thus donated was sawed and split by the Sawbuck Battalion, composed of volunteers of all ages. They called themselves the Bucks.

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendance of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 2 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Satur-

Why The National Road Enters City On Main Street And Leaves On Broad

No one living today remembers the building of the National Road through Columbus, but among the older residents there are doubtless quite a number who have heard from their parents the spectacular developments surrounding the building of this colossal thoroughfare. That was in the days when Ohio was the West, and before the steam couriers began to roll over the mountains on ribbons of steel and transportation by airlines was an unknown development.

There are perhaps a great multitude of Columbus citizens who are unfamiliar with the history of the Nation[illegible]ad, which is naturally full of incidents and intricacies. At that time, both before it was built and after it was completed, it was rightfully regarded as one of the great wonders of the world—as much as the Appian Highway in Rome. It was very natural, therefore, that the route of this famous highway should be the subject of much controversy. It is altogether probable, too, that had every individual's wishes been followed, the road would actually have spread over the entire State of Ohio. There was scarcely a citizen in the state who didn't want the thoroughfare to run close to or through his domain.

Thus it was that a number of routes were suggested and laid out for the road between Zanesville and Columbus, and it was with much difficulty that the finally accepted one was decided upon. The controversy in this respect was a subject of not a little trouble in the legislature and numerous efforts were made to have that body settle it by vote. Plans were discussed, prints made, costs budgeted, and engineers were consulted. The procedure followed was similar to that of the progenitors of the canals. Right of way, public domain, graft, etc., as today, made topics of conversation everywhere in the community. It was also remembered that, more than a hundred years ago, the builders of the National Road could not avail themselves of the services of the Ohio Department of Highways.

The line of the road from Muskingum's capital to this city was finally settled upon by the engineers, but how the road passed through the metropolis of Columbus was not so easily determined.

It is often a matter of remark that the road does not pursue a straight course through the city, and it is frequently asked why this jog or curvature appears. Only those who have heard from their parents or grandparents or have made a special study of the history of the National Road can account for this occurrence.

More than a hundred years ago the dividing line between the north and south sides of the city was State-st. Broad-st was only an ordinary street, and though even then one of the nicest thoroughfares in the city did not possess the distinguishing feature of dividing the town into its north and south parts.

The rivalry between the two portions of the city was as strong and demonstrative as it perhaps is now—friendly always, however—and though the south side was perhaps the stronger and larger a century ago, its northern rival was at times aggressive and saucy. There were many things over which they contested, and the part of the city through which the National Road should pass was not the least among these.

Indeed, this matter became such an important one, and was so hotly contested, that "bad blood" was in a measure engendered, and it became a serious question as to how it should be decided.

At length, by the consent of the engineers, it was decided to settle the dispute by suggesting a compromise, since neither the northerners nor the southerners would "give an inch of ground." It was therefore agreed that the National Road should enter the city on the south side and leave it from the north side. The survey accordingly brought it into the city on the south and left it on the north side. The survey brought it into the city on Main-st—then known as Friend-st—thence it passed up High-st to Broad-st, on which thoroughfare it turned to leave the city. Broad-st at that time, as did all the other streets, stopped at the river. The river was a small obstacle to the National Road, and so Broad-st was honored by being the first street to be extended across the river, over a wooden bridge. Thus it was that both the north and south sides of the city were satisfied, and a jog was made in the great commercial thoroughfare. The compromise was of advantage in another way, too, in that it brought all the travel over the road, which grew to great proportions, up High-st, the main business street of the city, and so the business men received the full benefit of the travelers' trade. It worked a great disappointment, however, to some of the property holders of Franklinton, on the west side of the Scioto adjoining Columbus, who had built up hopes that the road would cross the river and go westward on State-st instead of Broad-st.

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, [illegible] Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office injuring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT. The peace and tranquility of the countryside was momentarily shattered out in the W. Broad-st sector on the night the National Auto Theater opened a couple of weeks ago. This story, while a bit stale as to the time element, is still fresh in the minds of those who experienced it.

It seems that at the premier of the new auto theater there must have been a slipup in the projection booth and sound control system as the show was nearing an end. The theater has tw

Brought Religion To Franklinton

First to bring religion to Franklinton was Rev. James Hoge. His church was built in what later became Franklinton Cemetery. Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church was named in honor of this pioneer preacher.

Early Church Had Troubles

When Dr. James Hoge was called to become the pastor of the Presbyterian Church in the frontier village of Franklinton he was installed in the new courthouse.

It was not until 1812, after more than five years of work, that the congregation found itself in a position to erect a suitable church building. But even then it was destined to bitter disappointment and disaster. Hardly had the project gotten under way when the War of 1812 broke out and Franklinton was on the war-road to Canada. When General Harrison arrived at the village in October of that year he found accommodations none too numerous and the unfinished church building was taken over by the army for its needs. But it was destined to be of slight service to the soldiers for a severe storm laid the building low.

The little flock that Dr. Hoge had collected was not to be scattered by such disaster as wars and tornadoes. Three years later, in 1815, a new building, more commodious than the first, was dedicated for the purpose of worship. This building was used until November 19, 1821, when the church at Franklinton was united with the one at Columbus, the latter place now becoming the center of Dr. Hoge's labors.

like individual, as his various interests (most of which he turned to profit) show. That was his bridge by legislative grant, and he was going to say how it might be used. A few days later he inserted an advertisement in the "Columbus Monitor" in which he made his intentions clear.

He stated that "the gates of my bridge will be closed on the first of December next," that date marking the official opening of the thoroughfare.

Open To Church Goers

Those gates, he went on to assure the citizens, "would be open at suitable hours, on Sundays and days of Thanksgiving." Free passage on the bridge was piously proffered to "all persons going to or coming from divine worship" and also (perhaps in return for permission to operate the bridge) "to members of the legislature when going to or from the General Assembly."

Mr. Sullivant was generous, even if a little dictatorial, about his bridge. "It shall be open," his notice concludes, "at all times free to funeral processions and on such other occasions as I may deem expedient." He further added, "Permits for passage on the bridge may be had on reasonable terms."

Inflation Faced First Council

In 1947 discussions continue to rage about fiat money and inflation. One of the first acts of the Columbus Council was to authorize the issue of money in the shape of small bills in the amount of $555.75. Denominations were seven cent, 25 cents, 12½ cents and 6¼ cents.

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendance of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 2 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Saturday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, third grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 3. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley will replace Mrs. Evelyn Pratt as mathematics teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilla, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Founding Fraught With Many Dangers

Graveyard Is Little-known Landmark

With trains thundering by to the north and shutting out the sound of the soft lapping of the waves of the Scioto, unknown to all save a few, still stands the oldest tie that links the early life of Franklin County to the present—the Franklinton Graveyard or burying ground.

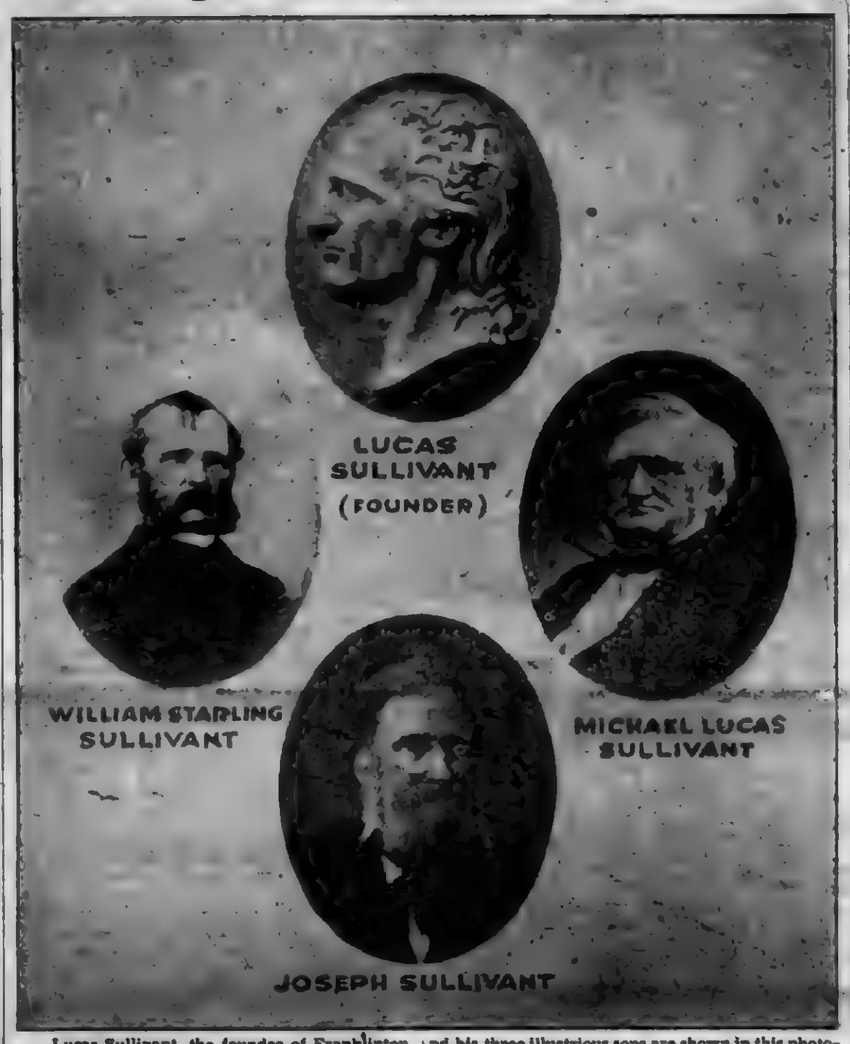
No records are extant to show exactly when it was laid out, but it was early used as a last resting place for the dead and one of the few remaining stones with a decipherable inscription tells that the widow of Nathan Goodale had been buried there in 1809. It is known that a number were buried there several years previous. With a city of 200,000 grown up around it, it is almost as much alone, and quite as deserted, as it could have been when set off from the Sullivant purchases in 1798 or 1799.

Place Is Lonesome

A little triangular space, it is hemmed in by the T. & O. C. railroad tracks along the north, which here skirt the river front; by N. Davis-av on the west and River-st on the south.

It was considered old as long ago as 1858, when Martin wrote the first history of this county. He speaks of it thus:

"On the bank of the river in the north vicinity of the town is the old Franklinton burying ground. It embraces a beautiful little focus grove, enclosed with a board fence. This, it was supposed, was to be the final resting place of the pioneers who led the way in the settlement of this once wilderness. But of late years a number of removals have been made from thence to Green Lawn, including the remains of Lucas Sullivant and wife, Lyne Starling and General Foos and wife. But still the Franklinton graveyard is rather a neat and handsome cemetery and is well calculated to call up a train of solemn and interesting reflections as any other spot of ground in the county."



Few Visit It

This may well have been in 1858, but a distanct sense of desolation and woe overcomes all who visit it at the present time. These are few indeed. The place was, however, still used for burial until after the Civil War, as one or two headstones of more recent date testify. It is interesting to note, in passing, that both of the earlier graveyards instituted for Columbus have passed utterly out of existence, while this one, now within the corporate limits of the city and at least 15 years older than either of the other graveyards, still retains a visible evidence of what and why it was.

Lee, when he came to write his history, could find no account of the opening of this graveyard and contents himself with quoting from a publication, now nonexistent, of date May 2, 1846, which speaks of the field as being of some three acres in extent and in a distressing state of neglect. At that time there were a number of stones extant that have now been removed or destroyed. The graveyard bears every evidence of being the haunt of hobos and such floating population as subsist by the aid of railroads without contributing anything to the support of the railroad.

A Distinguished Pioneer And His Sons

Lucas Sullivant, the founder of Franklinton, and his three illustrious sons are shown in this photograph. The likeness of the elder Sullivant is the photo of a sculpter's version of the hardy pioneer.

Much has been written about the life and works of Lucas Sullivant, founder of Franklinton, but what of his three noted sons and his devoted wife, Sarah Starling Sullivant?

The following sketch tells something about each of the sons who also made their own places in the world.

William Starling Sullivant, the eldest son, who was born in Franklinton in 1803, became a great scientist, and at the time of his death, in 1873, enjoyed a world-wide reputation.

He spent his boyhood, when not away at school, in his native town, and after graduating from Yale, in 1823, became identified with his father in the latters extensive business interests.

He built a beautiful country home on the site now occupied by the Columbus State Hospital. Influenced by his surroundings and by the tastes of his younger brother, Joseph, he took up the study of botany and later devoted himself to the muscological branch of this science, a field of investigation in which he soon rose to distinction. Agassiz, Gray, Dana and Leo Lesquereux were his friends and collaborators.

He published a number of volumes on plant life, which were accepted as authority by the scientific world both in America and in Europe. His works were elaborately illustrated with microscopic drawings, executed by a skilled draughtsman brought from abroad, the expense amounting, in some instances, to thousands of dollars, being borne by Mr. Sullivant, without hope of pecuniary return.

His botanical associates bestowed the name of Sullivantia Ohionis upon a rare plant which he discovered on the banks of the river near his birthplace.

Mr. Sullivant pursued his studies both at home and abroad, and was elected to membership in the scientific societies to various countries. At his death tributes were paid his memory by the most eminent botanists of his time.

His collections now enrich the museums of several American colleges. He had several children: Mrs. Robert E. Neil, Mrs. A. D. Rodgers, Mrs. F. C. Gerish, Roderick and Jacob Sullivant, and Thomas Sullivant, a then well-known artist and caricaturist of Philadelphia, whose creations appeared in Life, Puck and other publications. Colonel Lynn Rodgers, private secretary to Governor Bushnell, was a representative of the fourth generation.

Michael Sullivant, second son of the founder of Franklinton, was born at the family homestead in 1807. After leaving college he chose agriculture as an occupation.

He exercised a beneficent influence upon farming in central Ohio by importing and improving stock, by interesting the state authorities in agriculture of intelligent methods.

In 1854 he moved to Illinois, where he became a noted figure as the proprietor of the largest farm in the world, known as Bur Oaks, and consisting of 40,000 acres.

In 1872 he cultivated 18,000 acres of corn, with oats and hay in proportionate quantities. He took a visitor for a ride of 20 miles through his cornfields.

The farm was stocked with a great herd of the fine blooded horses and cattle, and furnished employment for 300 hands.

He died aboard an Ohio River steamboat between Evansville and Owensboro in 1877. His descendants were Joseph M. Sullivant, an extensive farmer of Skiddy, Kan.; Michael Sullivant, a manufacturer of Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. E. L. Davidson of Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. W. S. Hopkins of Columbus; Mrs. John Beard and Miss Fanny Sullivant of Pensacola, Fla.

Joseph, the third son of Lucas Sullivant, like his elder brother, was a man of scholarly temperament and a lover of nature. He achieved success in the study of botany before William took up this line of investigation as his life work. Joseph had received a

Well Known Names Listed In Pioneers

On Aug. 22, 23, that portion of Columbus which was originally known as Franklinton will be entitled by virtue of historical record and absolute fact to celebrate the 150th anniversary of its beginning, and preparations to that end are now in progress. This century and a half of history belonging to the Franklinton of old does not include any tradition. Its chronology is laid down on well known lines, which found their starting point in the year 1797 and which have continued unbroken to this time.

However, the history of Franklinton might well be said to date back further than 1797. To show how this can be it will be necessary to make a brief reference to historical facts which relate to the wilderness district and which antedate the foundation of Franklinton a decade or more.

After the close of the Revolutionary War the continental troops naturally desired some reward and consequently turned their eyes to that section which soon became the great Northwest Territory. It is not necessary to trace the various disputes and agreements in relation to this land, but it will suffice to say that the state of Virginia, after ceding to the government her general right to the land she claimed north of the Ohio River, reserved a tract she proposed to devote to her soldiers. This tract, now known to all who hold deeds of land on the west side of the Scioto as "Virginia Military Land," extended from the Ohio north and was bounded on the east and west by the Scioto and the Miami Rivers respectively. "The officers and soldiers of the Virginia line on continental establishment" (so the legal verbiage runs) were entitled to locate their bounty lands within the district so described wheresoever they pleased providing some comrade had not anticipated their choice. To open up this new region, however, it was necessary that Virginia should have some general idea of its area and nature. Accordingly Colonel Richard C. Anderson was designated as the surveyor-general of the Virginia military land, and he was authorized to appoint deputy surveyors whose duty it was to acquire the requisite knowledge and to file it with the authorities in order that the veterans of the Revolutionary War might get their reward. Nathaniel Massie, Duncan McArthur, Lucas Sullivant, John Beasley, John Bannon, Arthur Fox and others were named as these deputies.

It may be said in passing that in the Scioto Valley many of these names have become well-known through the posterity of the original pioneers. The names of Massie, McArthur, Sullivant and the others have been perpetrated by many branches. Although Virginia established her absolute right to this military land in 1785 it was not until several years afterward that active steps were taken to bring it into the market, so to speak. Preliminary surveys were made in the region lying immediately north of the Ohio, but it was not until the early years of the last decade of the century that a concerted effort was made to acquire a knowledge of the whole.

This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Two Pioneers Predict Future Of Their Settlement Efforts

The following interesting account of an interview between the two pioneers, Colonel Kilbourne of Worthington and Lucas Sullivant, was taken from a family record by his son, Joseph Sullivant:

"In the spring of 1823 I was an interested listener to a conversation which took place between my father and Colonel Kilbourne. Both were good and fluent talkers and firm believers in the future progress and material greatness of the state. The New York canal, under the management of DeWitt Clinton, had attracted much attention and was awakening great interest in this region. They discussed the great advantages which were to ensue in developing the country and furnishing a market for our then almost useless surplus products, and the absolute necessity for some such improvement in the state of Ohio.

"My father had known Ramsey, one of the reputed inventors of the steamboat, and the original model of Fitch's steamboat was then actually lying in Kilbourne's garret, and they spoke of steam navigation and the important part it was to play in the future, alluded to Oliver Evans and the experiments with his "steam wagon" at Philadelphia, and had great faith in its future perfection and application to useful purposes. Both deemed such a thing possible. This talk went on late into the night, each depicting the undeveloped capacity and future glory of the country and progress of man in discoveries and in the arts and sciences until, young as I was, I thought the two gentlemen were indulging in figments of the imagination similar to the tales of the 'Arabian Night,' which I then happened to be reading.

"All this was a time when the keelboat had not ceased to contest with the steamboat for the commerce of the Ohio River and before there was a locomotive or a mile of railroad in the United States. Colonel Kilbourne lived to a good old age and enjoyed the realization of these seemingly improbable anticipations, but my father died soon afterward.

"Just previous to this event I walked with him on his way to inspect the mill, and he took me to the brow of the ridge in the west end of Franklinton, where he halted.

"On the west all of the broad bottom for two miles out, and with a few insignificant clearings, the country even to Darby Creek was covered with a heavy forest. So also was all across the river in the fork of Whetstone (now Olentangy) and on the eastern side of the Whetstone.

"Across the bottoms where are now the waterworks, and iron furnace Goodale, the penitentiary, the railroad depot, and so on out to Alum creek. From the point where we stood the top of the statehouse and the scattered houses of the new town of Columbus were visible. As he turned himself around looking westward he said, "I would like to come back in 50 years and stand upon this spot and see, I think the 'steam wagon' will be running across these bottoms.

"What, indeed, would be the sensations of these pioneers could they return now to the scene of their prophecies and witness the wonderful changes and the marvelous discoveries and inventions of this great century?"

The same writer also gives an amusing account of the military and patriotic spirit of the sons of the pioneers.

"The Franklin Dragoons and the Franklinton Riflemen were military companies having their origin in the War of 1812 and continued their organization for many years thereafter. These companies were the wonder, the pride and glory of my early boyhood. I had the most unbounded faith in their prowess which I had frequently seen tested in sham battles, and I knew that on parade day they consumed prodigious quantities of tobacco and whisky, exploits only then possible to hardy men.

"When the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar visited this country he passed through Columbus, staying all night. John Overdier, Clinton Work, Israel Crosby, myself and other boys were very anxious that this representative of the crowned heads of Europe should be duly impressed with the power and greatness of our country, and especially with the martial bearing of our people. In fact, the design was to intimidate him and prove that it would be exceedingly dangerous for any European nation to meddle with us.

"With this purpose in view we concluded that the very best thing was to give him a sight of the Franklinton Riflemen, whose uniform was most impressive—white breeches, a yellow cotton cloth, hunting shirt with fringe, a leather belt, carrying a hunting knife in a black scabbard in front, and in many instances a tomahawk behind. The plume in the hat was tall and rather stiff, being composed of white chicken feathers tied on around a stick. Each man carried an old rifle, with shot pouch, and powder horn.

"We tried very hard to get a parade, even offering to pay for extra drum and fife and to furnish free whisky, but the time was too short and, greatly to our chagrin, the grand duke left without witnessing the imposing display. This fact will be better appreciated when it is remembered that the duke was almost fresh from the battlefields of Europe, where he had been a great commander in the vast armies which the allied sovereigns had combined to crush the First Napoleon.

"However, I still have no doubt that had the duke been fortunate enough to behold the Franklinton Riflemen he would have been astonished."

Knownothings Started Riot Here in 1855

On the Fourth of July, 1855—the year when the Knownothing movement reached its height—a parade of local German societies was attacked by a mob at Town and High-sts. Shooting started. A young man named Foster was killed. One German was charged with murder and a number of others were arrested but charges were dropped because of lack of evidence. The Knownothings were opposed to immigrants.

1st School Bell Was Discovered In City Yards

The mystery surrounding the first school bell of Franklinton, discovered in the city material yard in 1936 by then Councilman W. Herbert Dailey and Service Director Llewelyn Lewis, while were on an inspection tour of m municipal departments, has be partially solved.

Theodore Riddell, age 83, at that time of 313 Chittenden-av, revealed that the bell was presented to the Franklin County Courthouse by his father, Jackson Riddell, a West Side pioneer packer.

"But that wasn't the courthouse now located at Mound and High-sts. It was the old courthouse located at the northeast corner of Sandusky and Broad-st," said Mr. Riddell.

He cannot recall exactly how his father came into possession of the bell, which was atop the first school house in Franklinton almost 100 years ago.

They had a squabble about the bell when the new courthouse was put up at High and Mound-sts. Because of this fight, the bell disappeared one night and was never found, at least not to my knowledge, until last week.

"I believe the bell was cast in Cincinnati in 1843," he said.

Before retiring Mr. Riddell was in the ice business on the West Side for 52 years. His father operated a packing house at Gift and Broad-sts.

The fact remains that Sunshine Park shelter house eventually was made the depository.

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendance of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 2 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Saturday morning.

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day week-end for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, thrid grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 3. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley, a [illegible] Mrs. Evelyyn Hoh [illegible] teacher, Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilia, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township [illegible] Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Magician Will Entertain At Kiwanis Movie

The fourth and last of a series of four free movies put on by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club for the boys and girls of the Hilltop will be held at the Rivoli Theater Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

Dr. J. T. Angus Moves Office

Dr. J. T. Angus, optometrist with offices formerly located at 2417 W. Broad-st, has moved his office to 2386½ W. Broad-st, over Moore's Store.

Dr. Angus lives at 20 N. Wayne-av.

Local Doctor Named Secretary Of Staff

Dr. Paul Keckley, 2637 Sullivant-av, has been elected secretary of the staff of Doctors' Hospital. He recently opened offices on the Hilltop at the Sullivant-av address.

Homecoming To Be Held Monday At Galloway

The Galloway Boosters Club has planned an all-day homecoming celebration for Galloway on Sept. 1 which will be highlighted by a fast-moving program for both children and adults.

The program will begin at 1:30 p. m. with a parade which is open to entries of pets, floats, or comic costumes. At 2 p. m. there will be a horse shoe pitching contest, at 2:30 a chicken chasing contest (ladies only), 3 p. m. a ball game, 4 p. m. awarding of a prize to oldest lady and gentleman present, and 5 p. m. a series of contests for boys and girls up to 14 years of age.

The evening activities will begin at 7 p. m. with an amateur hour, followed by round and square dancing at 8 p. m. which concludes the planned program. The concessions will be open at all times.

Prizes will be given for: the doll, pet, bicycle and comic divisions in the childrens parade; the flower show; canning display; handwork; horseshoe contest; chicken chasing; boys and girls contests; and winners of the amateur hour.

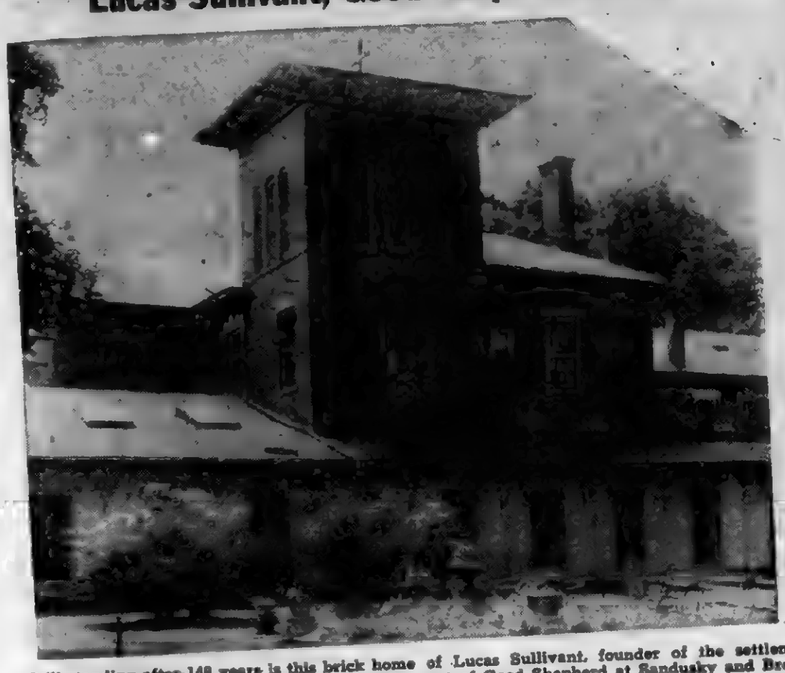
Columbus' Oldest Dwelling Still In Use Today



It may not be generally known here that the first brick house erected within the boundaries of the present city of Columbus is still standing. It is no doubt also the first building built in Franklin County.

The builder and owner was Lucas Sullivant. It was located on his property at the southwest corner of Broad and Sandusky. There he made his home for many years.

It is probable that the bricks used in his building were made at Chillicothe and hauled here by wagon, for it is not known that there were facilities for making brick here then, and the Miner house, on Greenlawn, was certainly built with Chillicothe brick.

A century and a half has passed since the pioneer house was erected, yet it is in use as the Good Shepherd Convent and additions have been made to it on front and rear, but the building itself is in good tenantable condition.

Lucas Sullivant, Good Shepherd Home

Still standing after 148 years is this brick home of Lucas Sullivant, founder of the settlement which became Columbus. It now is part of the Convent of Good Shepherd at Sandusky and Broadsts. (Photos Courtesy Citizen)

THIS FIREPLACE was installed by Sullivant in his 20-room brick home built in 1801. Sullivant built well. His work still stands.

Spy Had Poison

A confederate spy arrested at Camp Jackson here April, 1861, had two pounds of arsenic in his pockets, presumably for the purpose of poisoning wells.

General LaFayette, De Witt Clinton, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and John Q. Adams were among the guests of the National Hotel, progenitor of the Nell House.

(Clay's Body At Hotel)

The body of Henry Clay, who died in Washington in 1852, lay in state at the Nell House July 7. A large procession accompanied the remains to the hotel. Many of the stores displayed mourning. Bells were tolled. Guns were fired.

Graveyard--

The writer in 1886 mentions the Goodale grave. She was the wife of Major Nathan Goodale, a Revolutionary soldier who was captured by the Indians and whose ultimate fate never was learned. His wife died Jan. 24, 1809, aged 66 years.

Joseph Vance was buried here in 1824 and his tombstone bore this legend:

What is this world at best?
A passage to the tomb
And every hour comes around,
By sorrow or by woe,
Some tie to unbind,
By love entwined,
To lay our comforts low.

This is a fair sample of the epitaphs of that day. Some of the the still existing stones are of good marble, but many are of a free stone, or other softer substance, that has yielded to the storms and winds of more than a century.

People travel hundreds of miles to inspect graveyards no older, and other municipalities tax themselves to keep as decent repose nursing places far less significant in the history of their communities. But in Columbus the most ancient and traditional sepulcher of the honored dead cannot be located by one person in 100 on the principal thoroughfares, and the part it plays in local history is unknown, even to those who live in its immediate vicinity.

First Chloroform

It was news in Columbus in March, 1853, when chloroform was administered to a boy whose leg was amputated. A Professor Howard performed the operation at Groveport.

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, third grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 3. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Cooley will replace Mrs. Evelyn Hall [illegible] Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilla, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, [illegible] Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided, although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Magician Will Entertain At Kiwanis Movie

The fourth and last of a series of four free movies put on by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club for the boys and girls of the Hilltop will be held at the Rivoli Theater Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

Dr. J. T. Angus Moves Office

Dr. J. T. Angus, optometrist with offices formerly located at 2417 W. Broad-st, has moved his office to 2386½ W. Broad-st, over Moore's Store.

Dr. Angus lives at 20 N. Wayne-av.

Local Doctor Named Secretary Of Staff

Dr. Paul Keckley, 2637 Sullivant-av, has been elected secretary of the staff of Doctors' Hospital. He recently opened offices on the Hilltop at the Sullivant-av address.

RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office injuiring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT. The peace and tranquility of the countryside was momentarily shattered out in the W. Broad-st sector on the night the National Auto Theater opened a couple of weeks ago. This story, while a bit stale as to the time element, is still fresh in the minds of those who experienced it.

It seems that at the premier of the new auto theater there must have been a slipup in the projection booth and sound control system as the show was nearing an end. The theater has tw

Founding Of Franklinton Was Fraught With Hazards Now Unheard Of

no absolutely accurate date remains) Lucas Sullivant attempted to make preliminary surveys in the district which now surrounds West Columbus. Each attempt, however, proved a failure on account of the hostility of the Indians. The aborigines evidently did not relish the encroachment of the white man even for the peaceful purposes. They had already a rather intimate acquaintance with him in a military way, and during the 10 years which preceded the date of the founding of Franklinton nearly every tribe had acquired new traditions of prowess or defeat in war with the whites. Mad Anthony Wayne had raged through the territory carrying dismay wherever he went. Still further back there had been expenditions under Dumore and others; Logan was almost a tradition, but all the Indians feared the advent of the white man. Chillicothe town, with its Indian inhabitants, had long been accustomed to traders and straggling whites, many of whom were renegades who gave little good account of their brethren of the south, southeast and east. Consequently the Wyandots and Delawares of this region were ever ready to dispute any proposition for the acquirement of territory or the establishment of homes by the invaders.

To show the feeling of the pioneer explorers of the northern Virginia Military Land District it may be interesting to quote from a letter which was written nearly three years before the establishment of Franklinton. At that time Lucas Sullivant was in Kentucky making ready for a northern trip. His preliminary experiences had told him what he had to expect, but the prize to be gained was evidently too great to render a consideration of the dangers to be encountered. To Colonel William Starling, a resident of Mecklenburgh County, Virginia, who afterwards became his father-in-law, he wrote from Washington, Mason County, Kentucky, on Oct. 10, 1894, as follows:

"Dear Sir: I have again returned to the fertile land of Kentucky. I have nothing very material to report. Our army lately had an engagement with the Indians, the fact which are contained in a letter from General Wayne, a copy of which is herewith enclosed. Since my arrival here I have prepared for another tour of surveying up the Scioto. My company, consisting of 20 men, including two assistant surveyors, are to meet by 12 o'clock today in this town in order to proceed on our journey. I am prepared for a six-weeks tour provided I am not interrupted by the Indians, which I apprehend very much at so critical a juncture as the present. As yet I have not profited myself any in that country more than I have acquired a knowledge of the situation of the business elsewhere as well as in my own district so that I flatter myself whenever I shall be fortunate as to have a tour of a few weeks without being interrupted by the Indians, I shall not regret the time spent nor count it lost in acquiring the same, for I am well persuaded that there is yet an object in that country that is well worth attention though it must be ascertained through much risk and many difficulties. I am pestered this morning at sincere hope that you and your family are enjoying your health and that all your undertakings may be crowned with success is the sincere wish of one who remains, with sentiments of warm esteem, your friend, etc.

"LUCAS SULLIVANT"

To this attached is a postscript written, as the date line shows, from the post office, Thursday, Oct. 9, at 4 a. m. It simply says:

"My company has met and I am now on my travel. My compliments to your lady and all your children; likewise all inquiring friends.

Farewell."

Whether this expedition succeeded in getting far north or not, or whether time after a fruitless effort, is not clear. It is possible that the company may have wintered at one of the settlements north of the Ohio. However, in the spring of 1795 the surveying party made its appearance on Deer Creek in what is now Madison County. The work was pushed with great activity until again interrupted by Indians, after which the surveyors retired to the south. But the brief sojourn of the party had given its members a glimpse of the fertile country about the forks of the Scioto, and that cursory view seems to have borne fruit, for Lucas Sullivant determined to make a permanent establishment in that locality, and in August, 1797, the place Franklinton officially and actually came into the world.

It has often been asked by many who now compose the population of Columbus, and who are acquainted with the early history of the foundation of the settlement why the pioneers should

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, has been attempting to in- [illegible] Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided, although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office injuiring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT. The peace and tranquility of the countryside was momentarily shattered out in the W. Broad-st sector on the night the National Auto Theater opened a couple of weeks ago. This story, while a bit stale as to the time element, is still fresh in the minds of those who experienced it.

It seems that at the premier of the new auto theater there must have been a slipup in the projection booth and sound control system as the show was nearing an end. The theater has tw

Capture Of 2 Boys By Indians Reveals Early Ohio History

Of all the narrow escapes from death and the exciting experiences of the early settlers of Columbus, there was probably none that equaled the experiences of John Brickell and Jeremiah Armstrong.

Both of these early pioneer boys were captured by Indians and their stories are a true portrayal of early Ohio history.

Brickell, born May 24, 1789, near Uniontown, Pa., went to live with an elder brother near the site of Pittsburgh, when he was quite young.

In February, 1791, a band of 150 Indians made a raid on all the white settlements along the Alleghany River. Brickell, then 10 years old, was approached by one of the Indians while working in a field. Suspecting nothing as he had been on friendly terms with the Red Skins, the lad followed the Indian.

Later, suspecting that something was wrong, he attempted to run away. His hands were tied behind him, and he was marched off with the warning that if he made trouble he would be killed. He was later turned over to George Girty, a renegade white man, and taken to an Indian rendezvous at Tuscarawas, where he met two other white prisoners, Thomas and Jane Dick, who had been neighbors on the Alleghany.

From there Brickell was taken toward Sandusky, was beaten by the Indians on the way and on entering a Seneca town with his companions, was made to run the gauntlet until he was rescued, half dead, by a kind Indian.

Proceeding onward with his Indian captors, they met at the Auglaize River another Indian whom Brickell's companion addressed as brother and to whom he was turned over and by whom he was subsequently adopted. The Indian's name was Whingwy Pooshies, or Big Cat of the Delawares.

Brickell lived in this family from about the first week in May, 1791, until his release in June, 1795. Following the conclusion of a treaty, after the Battle of Fallen Timbers, by the terms of which all captives were to be released by the Indians, he returned to the south with Wayne's army, found his relatives in Kentucky, and went to his old home in Pennsylvania.

Armstrong, pioneer held captive by the Indians, was born in Washington County, Maryland, in March, 1785. The family later moved to Virginia, opposite the upper end of Blennerhassett's Island.

In April, 1794, in the absence of William and Robert Armstrong, two older brothers, who had gone to a floating mill the family owned on the river, the house was attacked by 20 Wyandots.

The father, finding his firearms defective and being unable to make a defense, escaped through the roof of his cabin and ran for assistance.

Meanwhile, the Indians broke into the house, killed three of the children and the mother, who had fallen while trying to escape through the chimney and had broken her hip. She was useless to the Indians in that plight and so they slew and scalped her, together with her children.

They carried off Jeremiah and his sister, after plundering the cabin.

When they had gone several miles, the Indians halted to determine whether or not they should kill the boy, who was a burden. A young Indian offered to carry him, if necessary, and the party moved to a point near where Lancaster now stands.

Jeremiah was eventually brought by the Indians to their camp site, where the present penitentiary is now located. He was known as Hooscoatahjah, meaning "Little Head."

He was finally rescued by William Armstrong when the Indians fled to Sandusky Bay, after hearing of Wayne's victory, and taken to Chillicothe.

He later came to Franklinton and in the spring of 1813 purchased a High-st lot and built a tavern which he conducted for many years.

Sullivant Was Long-distance Equestrian

Lucas Sullivant, the founder of Franklinton, and indirectly of Columbus, was probably the greatest long distance horseback rider who ever lived in central Ohio. That might be extended to include the entire state. Through all the earlier and more active years of his life he was engaged as a surveyor and a locator of lands. This work itself required him to cover long distances which in many cases could not be done expeditiously on foot.

But his work as a surveyor made it necessary for him to make frequent visits to Philadelphia. That city was then the federal capital. In fact it was frequently called "Federal City." There the general land office was located. There Sullivant had to make reports of his work and secure information and instructions necessary for him to carry on his work as a surveyor.

These long trips were negotiated by him on horseback, and the journey took many weeks of traveling in the open, that was both rough and dangerous. One can easily understand that uneasiness was felt by his family left at home here. Except for the weekly mail that was brought up from Chillicothe by a mail-boy, there was then no communication with the East. West of the Alleghenies there were then no roads, nothing but trails, and east of the mountains, nothing that would pass for a road today. Those of us who leave Columbus early in the morning in our big automobiles and cover the distance now before dark can hardly understand what a trip to Philadelphia and return meant to Lucas Sullivant.

Yet at frequent intervals, and it is said never less frequently than once a year, he made this long horseback journey. Accurate data are, of course, not to be had, but it is probable that the aggregate mileage covered by Mr. Sullivant in his lifetime on horseback would make at least a semi-circumference of the earth.

Dr. Goodale Was First Physician

Columbus' first physician was Dr. Lincoln Goodale, who donated the ground for Goodale Park. He came here in 1805. He also kept a drug store. He was a surgeon in the army during the War of 1812. Through wise investments he amassed a large fortune. Six years after Dr. Goodale, came Dr. Samuel Parsons from Connecticut. Another early surgeon was Dr. William M. Awl who was largely instrumental in establishing the State School for the Blind. The first doctor to specialize in surgery here was Dr. Richard D. Harvard, an instructor at Starling Medical College during its infant years.

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendance of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 2 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Saturday morning.

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, third grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 3. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley will replace Mrs. Evelyn Hall as dramatics teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilia, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Founding Fraught With Danger

have chosen a location in the bottom lands which lie between the terraces of the Scioto River rather than on the heights which flank the valley. The reason must appear simple enough if one can but indulge in a flight of imagination and attend to picture the conditions that existed at the time of the advent of the settlers. The Scioto Valley practically terminates near the city. That is, the broad trough scooped out by the Scioto during the ages past becomes marked and distinct within the present corporate limits of this city. To the southward it spreads and broad stretches of alluvial land mark the course of the river. A century ago the heights along the river at this point were covered with heavy timber. Moreover, the shade of the forest nurtured springs which made some sections of that which is now Columbus swampy and apparently irreclaimable land. Various runs took their rise in what is now the central-eastern portion of the city and poured their miniature floods into the Scioto. along our present river front. Bog land existed and it must have seemed a work of magnitude to reduce the primeval conditions to those suitable for agriculture.

On the western heights there was evidently a better state of affairs from the standpoint of the pioneer, but no condition could have equalled that presented by the bottom lands which had been the site of the Indian maize fields and which offered comparatively few obstacles to the energy and the industry of the early farmer. There were groves of stately walnut trees and on the west side in those days and between these groves were broad lands which had a soil especially fitted for the cultivation of maize and such early garden products as the pioneers attempted to raise. The Indians had used this land and that was reason enough for the pioneers, who generally found that the Indian farmer chose the best places for quick and bounteous crops. This consideration of providing as soon as possible for the immediate wants of the colonists was probably that which induced the location in the river bend near the forks.

Started In Mid-Summer

It was mid-summer when the beginning was made and even more prudent men than these pioneers might have forgotten that a river of the magnitude of the Scioto in those days might overflow the country. However, the river might have appeared to offer a suitable outlet to any freshet that could occur and consequently that fear was not considered of sufficient importance to induce a change of location. The experience of the very next year, however, demonstrated that it might have been well to have forsaken the more promising site and have chosen one where the difficulties in the way of the husbandman were greater. The program was seriously interfered with in 1798 by a great flood which rendered the lowlands or what is now west Columbus, a vertible lake, and therefore, seemed to forbid the use of that section as a place for habitation. This caused a partial removal of the town plat to higher ground in the bottom and from that time there was less trouble with the water.

A century and a half ago the dangers and trials of pioneering apparently did not seem as great as they are now to those who read of them in history. A good many people took advantage of the inducements to become settlers at Franklinton, and many of the lots on what is now called Gift Street, were disposed of. The first family settlement was that of Joseph Dixon, who made the infant town the abiding place of himself and his kith in the autumn of 1797. After this initial venture there came many others. Many of them probably came directly from Kentueky which was then the outpost of Virginian civilization. It was but a few years until some of the families of what is now the Western Reserve made their advent, and as time went on, during the closing years of the century, a population comprising representatives of many sections of the east was acquired.

Trials And Tribulations

Those who will relate the history in more accurate detail during the celebration probably speak of the individuals and events of this period. In such space as there is here it is not possible to attempt anything like an accurate chronological record; but in a general way, the trials and tribulations of that early day can be referred to. The settlers of Franklinton found themselves confronted with almost every difficulty known to the pioneer. There were the sicknesses common to unacclimated people and to those who had not sufficient experience with primeval conditions. Communication with the outside was maintained in a desultory fashion. A traveler on his way to the south or to the east would be burdened with the letters or the messages of the people. Provisions were hard to obtain. Salt was a necessity which caused much anxiety and much labor to procure. The Scioto was then a stream navigable for the boats if they could be obtained by the water route, but this service was uncertain and probably vexatious. However, a store was finally started in Franklinton by James Scott and thus relieved the difficulties of the people to a great degree. Within a few years after the establishment there were a number of mills in operation to grind the corn in the way of that period. But every surrounding of these colonists was of the most trying description. The Indians had become friendly but the settlers, in the light of the past experiences, did not feel as though they could lay aside their caution and distrust of the aborgines and consequently there could have been little of the pleasures of an entirely peaceful and quiet life without apprehension. Combining all the circumstances—the unhealthy conditions, the trials of one kind and other, the remotenss from centers of information and the struggle against the natural ills common to a new country — there must have been a hard existence for these people. No picture of life that could be drawn by an imaginative person could have had a golden frame as that of hundreds of other colonists in the northwest territory, and that they finally emerged from their difficulties into a state of comparative comfort, speaks well for their determination, for their honesty of purpose and for their citizenship.

Courthouse Needed

It was in 1803 that the people of Franklinton considered themselves worthy of new dignity. The county of Franklin was then cut off from that of Ross, and the district took on greater importance. It may be thought that in such a formative period there could have been little need for such a thing as a court house with its various departments, and yet an investigation of the early records show that it was needed. There were the early disputes between the colonists, the tempests in teapots which agitate a small community, the little affairs which to us would seem trivial, but which to pioneers were all important; and therefore, it was fitting and proper that all should have a place where there should be a record of rights and center of government. By the time Franklin County was instituted, the population of the district had become of some magnitude for those days. Worthington was born in the year of the county's birth. North Liberty had been begun, as had also a hamlet to the south of Columbus along the Chillicothe trail. Franklinton, however, was the place to which emigrants came prior to their establishing a location in the wilderness around. The dignity of such a town thus became enhanced and it could have been but natural for the people of the first settlement to feel a pride in their pioneership. Eventually incorporation was suggested.

It seems that such a proposition must actually have been submitted to the session in Columbus, for under date of only 18 months subsequent to the incorporation of Columbus, there is found a memorial prepared by the people of Franklinton ward of Columbus. The memorial is somewhat unique in character and it is herewith submitted. It is as follows:

"Franklinton, O., December, 1817. "To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives now sitting in General Assembly, of the State of Ohio:

"We, the undersigned memorialists, citizens of the town of Franklinton, having observed a notice in the newspapers printed at Columbus, that a petition would be presented to the legislature of Ohio at their present session praying for the incorporation of Columbus and Franklinton including the intermediate ground, we, therefore, by this memorial, do remonstrate and solemnly declare our most cordial disapprobation against being incorporated or any part of our property being included in any incorporation whatever, because we deem it material to our interests to remain as we now are unincorporated. The most of us, whose names are hereunto subscribed as your memorialists, are dependent on agricultural pursuits for the support of ourselves and families, others are pursuing mechanical or such other occupation in Franklinton as we deem our interest.

"In Franklinton we have extensive and pleasant commons, which we now enjoy with all the privileges and advantages that result from a town or country residence. We have now the advantage of raising stock for the support of our families. We do harmoniously and mutually enjoy the many advantages resulting from our situation much better and more to our wishes than we should do if we were involved in the discord, feuds and party factions which would ensue under incorporation. For we are well aware of the many contentions and differences of opinion which would naturally arise from the different views and clashing interests of two towns. Many of us were the first and early adventurers to Franklinton whilst the surrounding country was an unbroken forest. We have cast our lots in Franklinton and we wish to remain unincorporated until we deem it to our interests to apply for an act of incorporation entirely separate and distinct from Columbus.

"We, therefore, pray that no act of incorporation to include us or any part of our property west of the Scioto may be passed by your honorable body, and we, your memorialists, as in duty bound, do pray, etc."

That was signed by Lucas Sullivant, Edward Pinnix, Joseph Gorton, Hezekiah Gorton, John Sitrwalt, Ephraim Fisher, John J. RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office injuiring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT. The peace and tranquility of the countryside was momentarily shattered out in the W. Broad-st sector on the night the National Auto Theater opened a couple of weeks ago. This story, while a bit stale as to the time element, is still fresh in the minds of those who experienced it.

It seems that at the premier of the new auto theater there must have been a slipup in the projection booth and sound control system as the show was nearing an end. T

150 Years Since First Sermon Preached Here

Almost 150 years ago, in the wilderness that is now Columbus, a young missionary from the East began to preach the Gospel.

James Hoge was the missionary and he was sent by the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

The introduction of the Christian religion, as well as Presbyterianism, is marked by this date and the early importance of the Presbyterian Church links it closely to the history of Columbus itself.

Pastor For Fifty Years

Dr. James Hoge, the founder of the church, was a native of Virginia. He was born July 4, 1784. His father was a man of much eminence in the Presbyterian Church, and in 1805 the son was licensed to preach. Two years before he had made a journey to Ohio, and had become so much interested in the region that he resolved to make it his future home. His dislike of slavery as he had observed it in Virginia was one of the considerations which led him to choose the western wilderness. But, when James Hoge was set aside by the general assembly to proceed to the State of Ohio to preach the gospel, he was in delicate health, a threatened victim of consumption, and his friends hardly expected him to live more than a few months. Nevertheless, for more than 50 years he labored in Columbus, his death occurring in 1863.

He was sent to preach the gospel, and he commenced at once in the same month that he arrived, November, holding the first service in a two-story frame house in Franklinton (there was no Columbus then).

The church was organized Feb. 8, 1808 — the first Presbyterian church—the first church of any denomination established within the present city limits, or probably in Central Ohio. The original members, like the states, numbered 13. Prominent among the names in this early congregation was that of Lucas Sullivant, who had been sent by the government to make surveys. He had penetrated the unbroken wilderness and with 20 men explored the Virginia Military Land District lying between the Scioto and Miami Rivers.

Sometimes they were driven back by Indians, but they were ultimately successful in laying out the town of Franklinton. Naturally Lucas Sullivant was a conspicuous member of the first church, as was Sarah Starling, the sister of Lyne, who was afterward to become Mrs. Lucas Sullivant. Indeed it was Lucas Sullivant who in 1811 erected the first church edifice for the congregation. It was a brick building and was not used by the church long, for in 1812 the war broke out and the government appropriated the church for a granary and storehouse for the division of the army under General Harrison. Some of the grain stored within was wet and as a result, its swelling burst the walls asunder and the building was destroyed. It was during this war, too, that Mrs. Sarah Sullivant, while nursing sick soldiers, contracted the fever which cost her life.

One of her sons, Joseph Sullivant, himself a prominent Presbyterian all his life, wrote a history of the Presbyterian Church, which, unfortunately, has been lost, and also a memorial of his family, in which he entertainingly describes those early church days as he heard them from his father and he himself recalls—the long journeys to church through the woodland paths traversing the site of Columbus; the big Indians peering in at the church windows and finally the long sermons preached by James Hoge, who went through with his secondly and thirdly, and sometimes even reached his nineteenthly.

Mrs. Pamela Sullivant Neil was probably better informed concerning the beginnings of the church than anyone else now living and she was able to narrate most entertaining reminiscences of the early days as they have been handed down in her family.

Her marriage with Robert Neil united two famous old Presbyterian families. The Neils came from Kentucky and the father of Robert Neil, also named Robert, married Mary Hoge, the daughter of the venerable pastor.

But to return to the church. A second building was erected in 1815, on the western bank of the Scioto. In the meantime Columbus proper, on the east side of the river, was rapidly growing into a prosperous village. The congregation was moving east. Finally Dr. Hoge began to hold services in a log cabin on the corner of Spring and Third-sts, and it became evident that the church must be moved. In 1821 ten men subscribed $100 each and agreed to build a new church in Columbus. It was located at the corner of Front and Town-sts. In construction it was peculiar, consisting of three parts, and for that reason it was called "Old Trinity in Unity."

High St. Had Railroad

Excursions proved highly interesting to Columbusites of the '70's via the High Street Railroad. This company, in 1872, employed nine drivers and three conductors. The drivers and conductors were paid $1.50 per day, and required to be on duty 15 hours each day—no code or government regulations intervened. The fare on the road was seven cents—the largest sum paid in any city in the United States for the distance.

First Church In Community

This is the first church to appear in the Franklinton community. Built in 1811, it was a gift of Lucas Sullivant.

Hoge Started First Church

By Libby Downing

The first church of any denomination to be founded in what is now known as Columbus was the First Presbyterian Church, which was organized in the village of Franklinton on Feb. 8, 1806. It and its adjoining cemetery were located on Sandusky-st near the Scioto River. The cemetery still stands on the original site.

The following year, the elders and trustees of the church issued a call to a young man of Scotch descent by the name of James Hoge, to be the minister of their church. Rev. Hoge, although he was not too well, had come to Franklinton in 1805, where he started immediately to preach the gospel with great zeal. His services were held in a two-story frame home of John Overdier. This was also rented by the courts for their sessions before the construction of the first courthouse.

Hoge's wife, Jane, although the mother of 11 children, worked industriously with her husband to promote the church. They held the first Sunday School classes in their own home. Mrs. Hoge was elected the first president of the Female Benevolent Society. This group cared for those left destitute by the plague, which killed more than one-third of the residents of Franklinton.

Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church derived its name from that of this pioneer preacher.

The original call to Rev. Hoge, which is in the present church building, located at Bryden-rd and Ohio-av, where Rev. A. W. Wright is the pastor, read in part as follows:

"The congregation of Franklinton being on sufficient grounds well satisfied of the ministerial qualifications of you, James Hoge, and having good hopes from our past experience of your labours, that your ministrations in the gospel will be profitable to our spiritual interests, do earnestly call and desire you to undertake the pastoral office in said congregation, promising you, in the discharge of your duty, all proper support, encouragement and obedience in the Lord, and that you may be free from worldly cares and advocations we hereby promise and oblige ourselves to pay to you the sum of three hundred dollars in half yearly payments annually for three-fourths of your time until we find ourselves able to give a compensation for the whole of your time in like proportion during the time of your being and continuing the regular pastor of this church."

This call was signed by the elders, Robert Culbertson and William Read, and the trustees, Joseph Dickson, John Dill, David Nelson, William Domigan, Joseph Hunter and Lucas Sullivant.

The original congregation numbered 13. They were Robert Culbertson and wife, William Read and wife, David Nelson and wife, Robert Young and wife, Mrs. Margaret Thompson, Mrs. Susannah McCoy, Michael Fisher and wife, and Miss Katherine Kessler.

Rev. Hoge preached the closing sermon of his ministry as pastor of this church on June 28, 1857. His resignation had been accepted shortly before, thus bringing to a close his association with the First Presbyterian Church, after a connection of more than half a century.

Offered $100 Bounty

By July 14, 1863, Ohio was offering a bounty of $100 and the first month's wages in advance to recruits for the 85th O. V. I. to do duty within the state for the duration of the war. Some of the wealthy citizens took steps to relieve their wards from the draft by paying an extra bounty for volunteers when the draft was put into effect in October.

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendance of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 2 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Saturday morning.

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, third grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 3. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley will replace Mrs. Evelyn Hall as dramatics teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilla, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Fernstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, has been attempting to incorporate as Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Magician Will Entertain At Kiwanis Movie

The fourth and last of a series of four free movies put on by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club for the boys and girls of the Hilltop will be held at the Rivoli Theater Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

Dr. J. T. Angus Moves Office

Dr. J. T. Angus, optometrist with offices formerly located at 2417 W. Broad-st, has moved his office to 2386½ W. Broad-st, over Moore's Store.

Dr. Angus lives at 20 N. Wayne-av.

Local Doctor Named Secretary Of Staff

Dr Paul Keckley, 2437 Sullivant-av, has been elected secretary of the staff of Doctors' Hospital. He recently opened offices on the Hilltop at the Sullivant-av address.

Homecoming To Be Held Monday At Galloway

The Galloway Boosters Club has planned an all-day Homecoming celebration for Galloway on Sept. 1 which will be highlighted by a fast-moving program for both children and adults.

At 2 p. m. there will be a horse shoe pitching contest, at 2:30 a chicken chasing contest (ladies only), 3 p. m. a ball game, 4 p. m. awarding of a prize to oldest lady and gentleman present, and 5 p. m. a series of contests for boys and girls up to 14 years of age.

The evening activities will begin at 7 p. m. with an amateur hour, followed by round and square dancing at 8 p. m. which concludes the planned program. The concessions will be open at all times.

liberal education and in the city of Columbus, where he passed his life, was known as a man of scientific attainments and a patron of education. He was a member of various societies for the promotion of science and was a lecturer upon special lines of investigation. For a number of years he was a member of the board of education, serving a portion of the time as its president.

The large Sullivant school building on E. State-st was named in his honor. As a further recognition of his services a bust was made of him upon his retirement from the board, and placed in the then Central High School building.

In the later years of his life he performed a valuable service for his family and for posterity in general by writing a genealogical work which embodied the circumstances of his father's coming into the wilderness of central Ohio and much interesting and valuable history connected with the founding of Franklinton and Columbus.

Mr. Sullivant died in 1882, leaving a large family, consisting of Mrs. James A. Wilcox, Mrs. Robert S. Neil, Mrs. R. C. Hoffman, Miss Jane D. Sullivant, Miss Rebecca Sullivant, Miss Lily Sullivant, Major L. S. Sullivant and Joseph A. Sullivant, all of Columbus, and Lucas Sullivant of Fort Scott, Kan. Major Sullivant, who was the traveling auditor of the Hocking Valley railway, bears the name of Lyne Starling, one of the four original proprietors of Columbus.

Mention should be made of THE BRAVE PIONEER WOMAN who shared with her husband the dangers and privations incident to founding and developing the settlement at the forks of the Scioto.

Sarah Starling, the wife of Lucas Sullivant, belonged to a prominent Kentucky family. She was married to Mr. Sullivant before he made his first surveying trip to this region and ably seconded his colonization enterprise.

She was one of the original members of Dr. Hoge's church at Franklinton and was active in all worthy movements. It is hard to understand at this day what frontier life meant to a woman. They were often exposed to the most terrifying experiences. Mrs. Sullivant was once attacked in her own house by a drunken half-breed, who attempted to kill her with a knife. Her life was saved by the bravery and devotion of a Negro servant. The remains of this faithful man now repose in the Sullivant lot at Green Lawn Cemetery and are surmounted by a monument.

During the war of 1812 Mrs. Sullivant is described as being a ministering spirit to the sick soldiers of General Harrison's army, supplying their wants from her own table and stores. In her devotion to this noble work she contracted in 1814 the typhus fever which had broken out in camp and died of this disease.

The two oldest boys went to work with a will, the oldest, William, in a distillery, and the second, George, as a blacksmith, the trade of his father. After nine years, hearing of the famous Ohio country, and the town of Franklinton, and wanting to get away from a slave state, put packsaddles on their horses, loaded their goods, the man leading the horses, the women having one horse between them, they started for Ohio. There was the mother, daughter-in-law and three daughters. One would ride a few miles, then another would ride. It was in November, beautiful Indian summer weather, when they arrived at Chillicothe and went into winter quarters.

In the spring, as soon as the weather and the river were right, they started for Franklinton, pushing their way upstream with poles. They were the seventh family to land. They had to camp out until the men could build houses. The land was already cleared and timber not far off. The prairie was to break, corn and vegetables to plant and some of the men had to go to Chillicothe for supplies, consisting mostly of cornmeal and a few other necessaries.

Lucas Sullivant surveyed all that part of the country. He surveyed in what is now Union County and located a town on Big Darby Creek, between Pleasant Valley and Unionville, which he called East Liberty.

Coming back to Franklinton, he gave deeds to several young men for lots in his new town. Among the number were two brothers from Kentucky by the names of William and James Marshall. They were to improve the land within a certain length of time, which they failed to do. Mr. Sullivant then made them pay him $60 a lot for the failure.

Franklinton soon had a courthouse, and not so long afterward the seat of government was located across the river. This created great excitement. It was said that Mr. Sullivant's Negro servant was chopping wood for the fire at twilight, when he looked up, and seeing a light in the courthouse, dropped his ax and went to his mistress, saying that the seat of government had come, for there was a light in the courthouse, and he wanted to go and see it. There was a woman in the town who asked her neighbor if they were to bring the seat of government by water or land.

McDowell Street Named For Gen.

McDowell-st on the west side of Columbus was named in honor of the family of General Irwein McDowell, who was born in Franklinton, that village in the early days. McDowell was referred to by Whitelaw Reid, in his work "Ohio in the War," as "one of the best military scholars in the army, and one of the most unsuccessful officers," and Reid saw most of the generals of the Civil War in action and was in a position to judge them.

It was General McDowell's misfortune to then have charge of the unfortunate movement of Union forces, at the opening of the Civil War, which culminated in the disastrous (for the Union side) first battle of Bull Run. Washington officialdom was clamoring for action. It was the cry of those who imagined that with a skirmish or two the rebellion would be put down, and McDowell was practically forced to bring on an engagement in which his green forces were not prepared to acquit themselves well.

The McDowells were Scotch but, persecuted for religious reasons, had taken refuge in North Ireland, whence after the siege of Londonderry, they emigrated to America and settled in Virginia. Abram McDowell, the father of Irvin, came to Franklinton in the early years of its existence. He was an aristocrat in manner, loved display and was convivial to an unfortunate degree, the result being that he never accumulated much property and was often close to poverty.

His son was educated in the schools of the time and place, but a French teacher who came to Columbus and lived at Abram McDowell's hotel took a fancy to the boy and obtained his father's consent to take him to France, where he had the advantage of French schools for a few years. On his return to America his father secured an appointment to West Point for him and he graduated in 1838. He served in the Mexican War and his service and standing naturally marked him for high command when the Civil War came on. He died in San Francisco in 1885.

First Utility

The first public utility in town was a hand mill in which the inhabitants ground their corn. All the settlers help build it — all helped manage it. It was built in 1797.

Van Buren Visited Columbus

Streets, sidewalks, windows, and roofs were thronged with citizens when ex-President Martin Van Buren was escorted into Columbus by an elaborate procession June 6, 1843. At a reception at the City House he shook hands with his admirers who boomed him for the Democratic nomination of 1844—but James Polk won the nomination.

Express Carried Oysters

Another milestone in transportation in Columbus was reached Oct. 24, 1866, when the B. & O. Lightning Express arrived here with oysters, 24 hours after leaving Baltimore. This train, commonly called the Oyster Express, continued to run for nearly 50 years until modern refrigeration was introduced.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT. The peace and tranquility of the countryside was momentarily shattered out in the W. Broad-st sector on the night the National Auto Theater opened a couple of weeks ago. Many of these memorialists were of the original pioneers and there are now many families in Columbus who will recognize in the list given above names of their ancestors. Whether the legislature took any action in this matter is not known, but it is certain that the attempt to add Franklinton to Columbus failed signally. Franklinton remained the seat of justice until 1824 when the importance of Columbus had grown to so high a degree that the river could no longer compete with its powerful neighbor, and so gave way and surrendered its chief claim to prominence.

From that time Franklinton continued to rise slowly but steadily from the condition of a modest town to that of a city. After its incorporation in the city of Columbus in 1871 the spirit of improvement became prevalent. Its area was increased, new buildings were started, transportation facilities were afforded and in all ways it assumed the features of a modern city. Columbus for many years sapped the strength of Franklinton. The Franklinton of old has become the sturdy, progressive, active and wide-awake West Columbus of today. Treating it as a municipality it can be said that others have grown faster and have become greater than Franklinton—West Columbus—but it cannot be said of any that a better population has been secured or that the original beginning of what is now West Columbus lacks the elements which can well be deemed causes for pride in a sesquicentennial celebration. The old days of Franklinton seem at this time to be so far removed in the misty past as to present no proper idea of their nature to one who endeavors to fancy what the pioneer times must have been. In this era of broad, well-paved streets and of facilities for quick communication, not only with all parts of the city but with all parts of the state, it is hard to realize that the days of canoes, of packhorses and saddle animals on forest trails, of mud roads, of pikes over which queer stage coaches passed, of the National Road with its quaint vehicles, of the canal and even of the old-fashioned city streets, have existed.

The sesquicentennial celebration of Franklinton in August of this year will be an event in which all the people of Columbus should take great interest. No structure of man upon land which is now within the corporate limits of Columbus can approach in antiquity some of the dwellings which now are landmarks of the Franklinton of old. Theirs is a history which includes existence in times now so remote that no one living here today can speak of a past beyond them.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDED LINCOLN'S SPEECH HERE

A huge crowd gathered on the east side of the State House to listen to the Hon. Abraham Lincoln of Illinois, Sept. 16, 1859. His rival, Stephen Douglas, had spoken here a short time before. Enthusiastic applause followed Lincoln's two-hour address. So elated were Columbus Lincoln men over his nomination, May 18, 1860, that they arranged to have Captain Jones' Artillery Company fire a salute of 100 guns at the southeast corner of the State House yard. The "Lincoln Wide-Awakes" raised a Lincoln pole, 150 feet high, topped by a fine

Old Lock and Key Are Preserved

A key and lock like these were used by Sullivant when he came from a siege of Indian fighting, or a day's work in Common Pleas Court, of which he was clerk. These ancient fittings have been carefully maintained at the Convent of the Good Shepherd, where Sullivant's home has become a part of the main building.

Sandusky Street One Of Oldest

When Lucas Sullivant laid out the village of Franklinton in August, 1797, there was not a single other settlement in the Scioto Valley above Chillicothe. Sullivant's new town was indeed a pioneer settlement in central Ohio. Six years were to pass, and a state to be established here before there was to be another. The second town in the valley was Worthington, laid out by Colonel Kilbourne in 1803, the first notable settlement movement after the admission of the state and one directly resulting from it.

Naturally there was at once some trade and traffic between Franklinton and Worthington that led to the establishment of a trail which became a road. From Worthington south it followed closely the line of our present High-st, on the east bank of the Olentangy, but departed from it near the point where Brevoort-rd now intersects High-st, veering west at that point toward the Olentangy, which it crossed just above the point where the Dodridge Street Bridge spans the river. Thence it followed the west bank of the Olentangy, crossing the Scioto at the present site of the Sandusky Street Bridge.

That is said to be the origin of the name of Sandusky Street. It was originally the road leading out of Franklinton toward the city of that name on the lake, 108 miles to the north, and it was out over this old trail that the troops, organized and drilled at Franklinton in 1812, marched on their way to the scene of the fighting in northern and northwestern Ohio.

The new boulevard along the Olentangy follows, the first mile or two, very closely the road that the pioneer residents of Franklinton and Worthington traveled, and which became historical because of its use by troops and wagon trains with war supplies in the war of 1812.

First Telephone.

It was May, 1880. Telephones were just coming. Manager Garrett of the American Union Telegraph Co., 46 N. High-st, decided to speed up his business by installing one of the new-fangled instruments in his office. But the manager of the Columbus Telephone Co. refused to install the phone claiming that a contract he had with the Bell Co. required that all telephone messages to be relayed over telegraph wires must be sent over Western Union Lines.

Salt Scarce Pioneer Item

In the early period of Franklin County, salt, an article of prime necessity was scarce, high priced and brought on pack horses from Pittsburgh, Wheeling, and even Detroit. Under these circumstances and to supply the need of his neighbors, Lucas Sullivant undertook to make salt. He knew that the deer resorted in great numbers to the lick on the river below Franklinton.

The work was vigorously pushed and the lick cleaned out, when it appeared that a feeble spring of weak salt water came to the surface at the edge of the water. A wooden curb was inserted, which kept out a large portion of the fresh and surface water. The salt water was run into long wooden troughs, hollowed out from huge trees, and by the aid of a battery of common iron kettles and long continued boiling a limited quantity of rather poor salt was obtained, but when a road was opened along Zane's trace from Wheeling to Lancaster and thence to Franklinton, it furnished greater facilities for procuring salt and this well was abandoned.

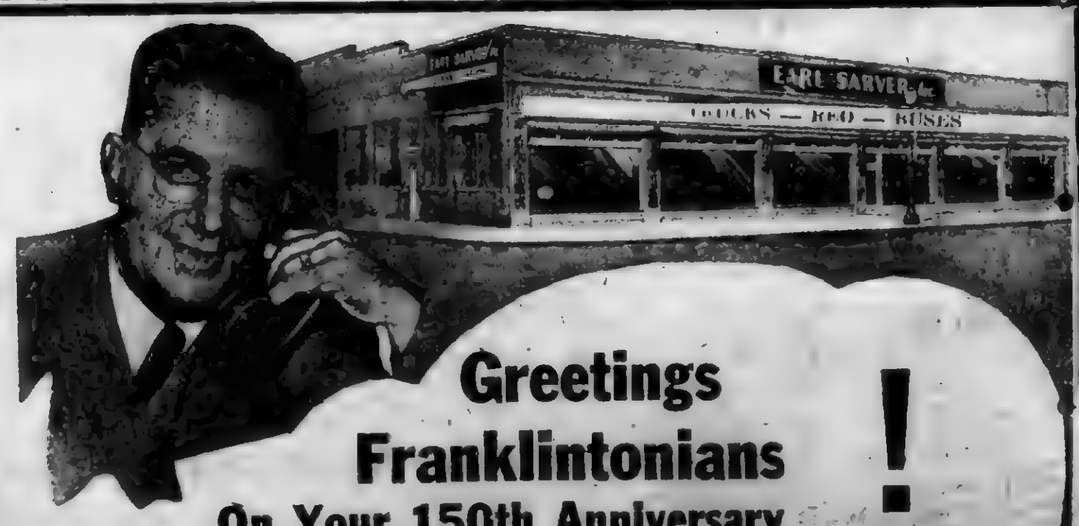
City Illuminated



The act calling for a new State House had been passed 14 years before, 1838. So tickled were Columbus citizens that there was "a grand illumination of the city," gleeful Colonel Noble, proprietor of the National Hotel, arranged candles in his windows to spell "NEW STATE HOUSE." The commissioners offered a prize of $500 for the best plan for the new State House—awarded the prize to Henry Walters of Cincinnati, but never used the plan.

Fun For All And Many Prizes In Playground Festival

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendance of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 2 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Saturday morning.

The Record takes this opportunity to thank the local

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, third grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 3. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley will replace Mrs. Evelyn Hutt as dramatics teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilia, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Turnstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line has been petitioning to be annexed to Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Magician Will Entertain At Kiwanis Movie

The fourth and last of a series of four free movies put on by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club for the boys and girls of the Hilltop will be held at the Rivoli Theater Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

Dr. J. T. Angus Moves Office

Dr. J. T. Angus, optometrist with offices formerly located at 2417 W. Broad-st, has moved his office to 2386½ W. Broad-st, over Moore's Store.

Dr. Angus lives at 20 N. Wayne-av.

Local Doctor Named Secretary Of Staff

Dr. Paul Reckley, 2637 Sullivant-av, has been elected secretary of the staff of Doctors' Hospital. He recently opened offices on the Hilltop at the Sullivant-av address.

Pioneer Had Hard Going In Franklinton

Probably there were other "original inhabitants" of Columbus than the American Indians, unless we refer to them rather dubiously as mound-builders they will have to go unnamed and unsung.

Beginning at the period in the eighteenth century before Lucas Sullivant and his party decided on the site of Franklinton as a suitable place to live, it is apparent that the only inhabitants of any particular social status were the Indians, notably the Wyandots and Mingoes.

It is recorded of the Wyandots who made their camp on the west side of the Scioto River, and were thus the first citizens of Columbus, that they were a friendly but warlike race. In other words they were willing to listen to reason but unless convinced were likely to make bitter enemies. Aside from these facts little else is known of Columbus' first citizens.

On the other hand, the Mingoes have left a reputation for fighting. Logan and Cornstalk, both Mingo chiefs, have left their imprint on American history, and undoubtedly both camped many times in and around the present site of Columbus.

As a matter of recorded fact, the only injury done to the Indians during the period of English occupancy took place on the west and east banks of the Scioto River, near the site of the Ohio penitentiary. This affray occurred shortly after the battle of Point Pleasant and the peace parley of Pickaway Plains. Logan remained away from this parley, contenting himself with sending "Logan's Speech," which every school boy knows, or used to know.

Lord Dunmore, the English leader, unsatisfied that the Indians were properly quelled, sent Capt. William Crawford with a body of 250 men to the Mingo camp at the junction of the Olentangy and Scioto Rivers. The Indians, who had broken camp, were met near the site of the penitentiary and, unable to defend themselves because of their impediments, swiftly capitulated, however not until six of their number were slain. The remainder escaped or were paroled.

This phase of history took place in 1774.

Following this period came that of the revolutionary war, and following that the apportionment of the old domain of Virginia into states, counties and surveys.

This brings us a little closer to home and to civilization, for it brings us to the pioneer Lucas Sullivant and his survey, which became in turn Franklinton, and then Columbus.

Danger From Indians

Mr. Sullivant first appeared in this locality as leader of a group of government surveyors under the command of Col. Richard C. Anderson, a Revolutionary War hero. His first work lay in Madison County on Deer Creek. In his party were 20 picked men on whom he knew he could rely. That these picked men were necessary is easily understood when one considers the dangers presented by the Indians.

Most whites of the East who had claims in Ohio paid large sums of money to other men to come out here and settle on them. The hostility of the Indians at this period was probably greater than at any previous time. As a matter of fact Lucas Sullivant had been on deer creek but a few days before he ran into an encounter with a French trader and two Indians. As a result the trader was killed, a fact deeply regretted by the Sullivant party.

Soon after this venture the Sullivant party entered the present confines of Franklin County and later located a tract of land in the fertile lowlands opposite the fork made by the Olentangy and Scioto Rivers. Not only did Indians disturb these hardy men, but wild animals and several dens of rattlesnakes made life unpleasant for them over a considerable period. However, they were not to be deterred. And their labors were justly rewarded, for, in August, 1797, 150 years ago, Lucas Sullivant laid out the town of Franklinton, in a field already used for years, in the growth of maize, or Indian corn.

Floods, which entered so largely into the history of Columbus, soon made themselves felt. Although Sullivant located his first plot near the forks of the river, a rise in the waters chased him back onto the higher ground to the west. Gift-st was the first street to bear a name in Franklinton. Sandusky, Food, Green and others, all names of early settlers, were other streets set aside.

Dixons First Permanent Family

Joseph Dixon and his family were the first actual residents of the little town, he having settled within the site before it was laid out. John Brickell, the Armstrongs, Robert, John and Jeremiah, Samuel and Andrew McElvain, Abraham Dearduff and others were among the Sullivant party. Other names identified with this period of early settlement are Robert Balentine, Jacob Grubb, Benjamin White, Jacob Overdier, Michael Fisher, James Marshall and Adam Hosack.

Lucas Sullivant soon after the settlement retired to Kentucky to marry. However, in 1801 he returned with his bride to the shores of the Scioto and settled here permanently. Then came Lyne Starling, Robert Russell and Colonel Robert Culbertson, the last named from Shippenburg, Pa.

A glance at the West Side's substantial, and in some cases, monumental, residences would never lead one to believe that the houses occupied by the then "first families of Franklinton" were nothing more than rude huts and log cabins. Some families used two adjoining cabins, but this was rare. It is interesting to note that as late as 1845 many of these cabins were still inhabited.

Columbus boys, filled with the martial spirit, formed the Columbus Cadets in July, 1861. Their uniforms included red trousers and scarlet caps and their organization made a big hit in parades—a scarlet and gray combine.

Jackson Club In Action

The political pot bubbled furiously in the fall of 1840. Jackson Reform Clubs of Newark, Lancaster and Columbus met in Columbus "in one last great preparatory effort." They pleaded, "Old Jacksonians! Let us come together and inquire for our old principles. Let us find the landmarks of our fathers. The glorious survivors of '76 are invited to meet with us on this occasion." That was before the New Deal was heard of.

Whiskers Shaved

General John Morgan, the Confederate raider, was incensed when his whiskers were shaved off at the Ohio Penitentiary. To obtain revenge, according to the "Ohio Express" of Feb. 22, 1864, General Morgan, after his escape, ordered his men to clip the whiskers of all Union officers they captured.

The Romance Of Lucas Sullivant, Hardy Pioneer

Much has been said of Lucas Sullivant, the hardy pioneer, the man of force and courage, but the tenderer side of his nature seems to have passed unnoticed.

For whom was he so anxious to wrest a home from the wilderness? For whom did he brave the dangers of Indian torture and face hardships and exposure? For whom did he build the first brick house of the country—at what effort in those early times may perhaps be imagined? For whom, indeed, but the fair delicately-nurtured young girl in Kentucky who eagerly waited for his infrequent letters forwarded by some chance traveler, and who afterward gladly exchanged the luxuries and abundance of a home where she was shielded and protected from every adverse wind, for the hardships and inconveniences of a life on the frontier with her brave husband.

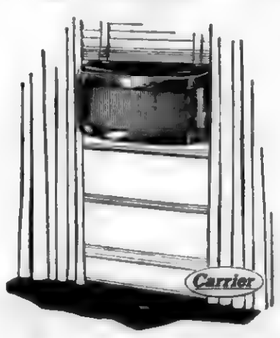
For her he built the first brick church of the settlement, and presented it to the little struggling congregation of pioneers, of which she was a member, that she might have the solace of the religious services she loved.

For her the best physician procurable in Chillicothe was induced to ride fifty miles on horseback and tarry weeks at her house that he might be present at the advent of her first-born, at what expense to her husband we have no record, but it was doubtless considerable for those times. Can we not fancy how, to her, accustomed to the security of civilization, the hooting of owls, the baying of the wolf and the scream of the panther, through the darkness of the night, must have sent a thrill of loneliness and terror, even with the strong arm of her husband nearby? And how did this delicate women endure the absence of that protecting arm when its owner was called to other fields of action? One of her sons, though but a child of four at the time, remembered throughout his life the anxiety of her tone and the tremor of her form when she drew him tenderly to her one night during her husband's temporary absence, and that she feared from the excited barking of the brindled mastiff (their trusty, scout and protector, who had taken his post under her window, as though she were the most important object of defense) that the Indians were prowling about, her first thought evidently being for her baby.

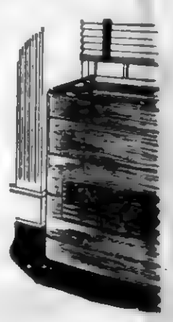
Necessarily her own delicate hands performed many of the laborious duties assigned to slaves in her father's house.

Her brother, Lyne Starling, while on a visit to her, once wrote home that he thought her health was much impaired by exposure and work owing to the "difficulty of procuring hirelings in this country." All difficulties and trials she cheerfully bore for her dear love's sake, while her devoted husband spared neither pains nor expense within his means to procure her possible comforts and indulgence in acknowledgement of her sacrifices.

Her end was characteristic of her courageous and unselfish life, for her death was caused by exertion and exposure while nursing and aiding others.



MAJOR McDOWELL RESIDENT OF FRANKLINTON



A native of Franklinton, Major General Irvin McDowell, was commander of the Army of the Potomac on May 27, 1861, when it lost the battle of Bull Run. McDowell was often criticized for this defeat but his defenders claim that his strategy was correct and he did not have a free hand in executing it. He was also in command at the second Battle of Bull Run where he was credited with covering the retreat in a masterly fashion. McDowell was later relieved of his command, however.

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendence of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 2 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Saturday morning.

Broad-Lechner Building One Of Oldest In City

Among the oldest buildings on the West Side and one of the first to be built on Broad-st is the half brick and frame structure now located at the southeast corner of W. Broad-st and Lechner-av.

Back in the late seventies this building was a landmark of no small distinction, being the first saloon operated in that section of Columbus.

A German by the name of Schmidt built the saloon and opened it in 1879. After operating for about four years he sold the business to John Richman, who reconstructed the building by adding a brick addition.

According to the late William M. Tucker of 1999 W. Broad-st, an old West Side resident, the saloon was a rendezvous for inmates of the Columbus State Hospital, located across the street.

Complaints became so vigorous against such a practice that a law was passed whereby a saloon could not be located within a mile of a public institution.

The architecture of E. Broad-st mansions in the Elegant Eighties irked the editor of the "Sunday Morning News." "A stranger," he complained, "sees a noble avenue, majestic elms and brick houses whose squareness repels and disheartens, for they seem built to stay. Their owners or architects put up a dry goods bix with perhaps a concession to irregularity in the shape of a bay window of a 'jut' at the side."

First Courthouse At Sandusky St.

The first courthouse for Franklin County stood at the corner of W. Broad-st and Sandusky-st where the Franklinton School now stands. At various times it served as a school house and a church meeting house.

Large Flat Rock Was Stepping Stone At Sullivant Home

A bit of history of the founding of Franklinton actually lies within several feet of the door of the residence of the late William M. Tucker, 1999 W. Broad-st.

It is rather a large bit, however, being a flat rock weighing probably 300 pounds or more, which, according to Tucker, was used as the stepping stone in front of Lucas Sullivant's residence, the founder of Franklinton.

Another bit of history that goes back to the early eighties, when the Columbus State Hospital was constructed, was also right in Tucker's front yard.

It was on the property then owned by Tucker and surrounding property that the clay was dug from which brick was manufactured for the construction of the hospital buildings. The kilns in which the brick were baked were built near the same spot.

Tucker's home, built in 1882, was one of the first residences constructed on Broad-st west of Central-av.

Born in Samantha, near Hillsboro, in 1858, Tucker came to Columbus in 1885. He was the first telegraph operator at the State Hospital between 1882 and 1884.

He recalled that the first paved street on the West Side was Broad-st. This thoroughfare was surfaced with brick in 1889 and ran from Sandusky-st to Whitethorne-av.

An incident of Tucker's early life in Columbus, and which he was proud to relate, concerns the railroad strike in 1877.

The strike situation became so acute that it was necessary to call for volunteer policemen.

Although he was then only 19 years old, Tucker went to the office of Mayor H. J. Heltman and expressed his desire to join the forces to protect railroad property.

At first Mayor Heltman was raticent in swearing him in as a volunteer, but finally upon much persuasion on Tucker's part, he was given a badge and club, and proudly marched down High-st with some 300 other volunteers.

Forty Heard Beecher

The celebrated Henry Ward Beecher found only 40 persons to hear him when he came here to lecture October 22, 1855. Said the "Capital City Fact," "He had advertised his lecture on patriotism but after discovering the want of patriotism in our citizens, in the gross receipts of $14.50, he concluded to treat them to a dissertation on the love of the beautiful."

Compass Was Atop Steeple At Court House

In casting about for some authentic facts in regard to the Franklinton courthouse torn down years ago, there were many conjectures as to what surmounted the steeple—whether a fish, an arrow or a ball—as well as other characteristics of the building. These doubts were finally settled to the satisfaction of all through the kindness of Mrs. R. C. Hoffman, a daughter of the late Joseph Sullivant, who years ago had pasted into a family scrap book a cut and faithful likeness of the old house in question.

In order to run no risk of loss or injury to a book naturally much valued an artist was invtied to copy the picture, which was done, and it appeared upon the cover of the souvenir of the centennial. There was also in the possession of the same family, probably the most interesting relic to be offered—the veritable compass by which Lucas Sullivant surveyed the site of Franklinton and which, during an attack by Indians, was thrown into a tree for safety, and years afterward, when the land was sold and cleared, was found in the tree. The compass was placed in the hands of Professor Morrehead and exibited at the centennial.

Schools To Open For 6,000 Here

Public Schools To Start Tuesday; Three Parochials Open Wednesday

Vacation will come to an end with the Labor Day weekend for approximately 6,000 boys and girls in the community as doors of public schools swing open on Tuesday morning.

Three parochial schools on the Hilltop will open on Wednesday morning.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mr. Young pointed out that it is important that every student report for classes on the very first day. Books will be issued in the class rooms this year instead of the week preceding the start of school as in other years.

St. Aloysius Opens Wednesday

St. Aloysius School will open Wednesday morning with Sister Ann Lucille in charge. Other teachers include Sister Henry Louise, first grade; Sister Rita Margaret, second grade; Sister Dorothy, third grade; Sister Frances Paula, fourth grade; Sister Agnes Gertrude, fifth grade; Sister St. Barbara, sixth grade; and Sister Mary Austin, seventh grade.

Classes will assemble the same morning at St. Mary Magdalene with Sister Thelma in charge. Other members of her staff include Sister Dorita, first grade; Sister Friedoline, second grade; Sister Eugene, third grade; Sister Canisia, fourth grade; Sister Anna Rita, fifth grade; Sister Agnesita, sixth grade; and Sister Elmer, seventh grade.

Arthur L. Witt will again be in charge of all eight grades in the Concordia Parish School that opens for its second year on Sept. 8. It is conducted by the Concordia Lutheran Church, 45 S. Brinker-av.

At West High School Lucian Copley will replace Mrs. Evelyn Hall as Grammar teacher. Mr. Copley, a veteran of World II, has been teaching at Linden McKinley since returning from the service. Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilla, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, [illegible] to in[illegible] Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garder Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Homecoming To Be Held Monday At Galloway

The Galloway Boosters Club has planned an all-day Homecoming celebration for Galloway on Sept. 1 which will be highlighted by a fast-moving program for both children and adults.

The program will begin at 1:30 p. m. with a parade which is open to entries of pets, floats, or comic costumes. At 2 p. m. there will be a horse shoe pitching contest, at 2:30 a chicken chasing contest (ladies only), 3 p. m. a ball game, 4 p. m. awarding of a prize to oldest lady and gentleman present, and 5 p. m. a series of contests for boys and girls up to 14 years of age.

The evening activities will begin at 7 p. m. with an amateur hour, followed by round and square dancing at 8 p. m. which concludes the planned program. The concessions will be open at all times.

Prizes will be given for: the doll, pet, bicycle and comic divisions in the childrens parade; the flower show; canning display; handwork; horseshoe contest; chicken chasing; boys and girls contests; and winners of the amateur hour.

The flower show offers the following divisions:

Best potted plant, first, $3.00; second, $1.00.

Best arranged single variety, first, $2.00; second, $1.00.

Best arranged mixed bouquet, first, $2.00; second, $1.00.

Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

HILL TOPICS
—By P.W.—

RUNNING BOARDS may be a thing of the past with these late model cars, but on my old jalopy they are still an essential part of its tin anatomy. This week I am wearing one running board with a rumpled outer edge somewhat resembling a seersucker suit after a full week's wear in this muggy August weather.

The reason—a slight brush with a gasoline transport truck that decided to travel sideways when the driver applied the brakes on a slippery pavement in front of the office where my '39 vintage flivver was parked.

The same running board and fender were badly mangled seven years ago this same month while it was parked in front of our office, then located at 14 S. Oakley-av. Guess I'll have to quit being polite and park on Shank and Saunders' lot, rear of 2459 W. Broad-st, like everyone else does. (Everyone that is except Shank and Saunders who can never find room by the time they come down to work. Not long ago Jack Shank came through the plant and office injuiring of everyone whether it was all right if he used one of the parking spaces on his lot that he had found unoccupied. We of course all gave our approval.

We're generous people.

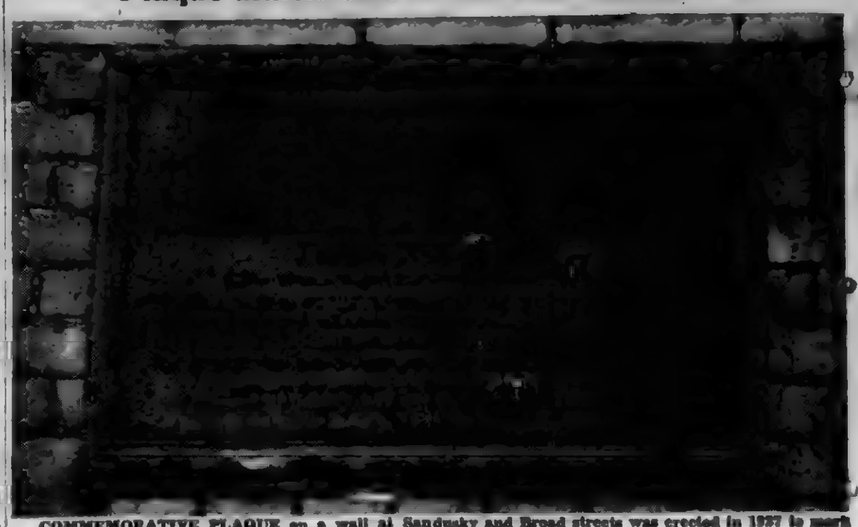
Franklinton Gave Birth To The First Cussins & Fearn Store 54 Years Ago

Fifty-four years ago Cussins & Fearn Co. opened its first store at 655 W. Broad-st, directly across the street from the old Franklinton School. From this small store, first occupying only one store room, the firm expanded to the second store room, then to a large Spring-st warehouse, and finally today 30 stores covering the state of Ohio.

Recently Cussins & Fearn moved from its former location at 649 W. Broad-st to a large, new building at 8:30 W. Broad-st, giving its customers in Franklinton and surrounding districts a larger and more complete C & F merchandising service.



Only a few years ago a large Hilltop store was opened in a newly constructed building at 2884 W. Broad-st, bringing drive-in facilities to shoppers of that community and service for the farm friends in Hilliards, Rome and other surrounding towns.

Harry Blankner, a Hilltop resident, who has been with Cussins & Fearn for 24 years, is now manager of the Franklinton store.

C. J. Penfield is chairman of the board of the organization.

B. A. Durrant is president and general manager, and B. L. West, well known in this community, is vice-president and treasurer. Cussins & Fearn is almost entirely owned by Columbus residents. Neil Petree, Paul Sewell and Lee Hubbard are a few of the C & F executives living on the Hilltop. Many other C & F associates reside here, too.

Plaque Marks Site of Old Sullivant Home

COMMEMORATIVE PLAQUE on a wall at Sandusky and Broad streets was erected in 1937 to mark the site of Lucas Sullivant's brick house, built in 1801. The plaque faces Broad-st.

Foos' Folly, Later Panama Canal

In the early settlement of Franklinton, Joseph Foos played an important part. He was one of the first settlers, having arrived in 1798 with his wife and infant son, and soon became proprietor of the first tavern in the village and also the first owner of a ferry across the Scioto River.

Mr. Foos served with distinction in the War of 1812, being promoted for meritorous conduct from the rank of captain to that of brigadier-general.

His ferry and hotel in those stirring times, were extremely well patronized and he became a man of considerable wealth.

After the surrender of Hull at Detroit, General Foos, in command of a corps of soldiers, marched for Upper Sandusky. While at Camp Barr, on the Plains of Sandusky, he addressed the soldiers.

He was a member of the first Ohio legislature, serving, in all, during 25 sessions in the house and senate. He became the friend and companion of such men as Clay, Harrison, Ewing, Corwin and McArthur. It is said the state capital was brought to Columbus largely through his efforts.

General Foos was interested in internal improvements. From the interest which he felt, for the canal system in Ohio, his attention was directed to the feasibility of a ship canal across the isthmus of Danien (Panama). His views upon this subject, embodied in a phamphlet, achieved the distinction of being called "Foos Folly."

Lucas Sullivant Was First Bank President

When the Franklin Bank of Columbus was incorporated February 23, 1816, Lucas Sullivant, the founder of Franklinton, became the first president, but after two years he resigned his position. The directors, after considering many prospects, eventually decided on Benjamin Gardiner, a man of grave and dignified appearance.

Gardiner had arrived in Franklinton a stranger during the War of 1812, and served here as quartermaster of the army until the close of the conflict. During his stay he had made friends with most of the influential men of the village. He proved himself to be an efficient officer in the discharge of his highly important duties.

At the close of the war he remained in Franklinton, where he obtained a high reputation in the church and society generally. He later married a Franklin County woman.

As president of the bank he was dignified and capable and made many new friends for the institution. Within a few months, however, reports became current that the name of the new bank president was not Gardiner, but Brazilla Gannett, who had left his home and family in an eastern state under very unfavorable circumstances. However that may be, Gardiner or Gannett disappeared to avoid a prosecution for bigamy and was never heard of again, except perhaps by a few confidential friends.

Wife whippin' was a common practice in Columbus in 1858. Cases of wife whipping coming before the mayor averaged one a day.

Playground Festival Is Well Attended

First of what we hope will be the Hilltop Record's annual playground festivals was held last Friday with a very fine attendance of nearly 1000 youngsters.

The parade, scheduled to start at 2 p. m., moved out about 10 minutes early due to the extreme heat that afternoon.

All in all, a good time was had by those attending at the park and a goodly turnout was present to enjoy the show at the Westmont Theater Saturday morning.

The Record takes this opportunity to thank the local playground supervisors for their fine escort and the safety car; the judges, local merchants who assisted, the Westmont Theatre and all who assisted to make the event a success.

Changing Times

An oyster house in Hartford, Conn., recently marked its 100th anniversary, and by way of celebrating the centennial, it published a menu comparing conditions a hundred years ago with those of today, as follows:

"We opened 100 years ago, when women wore hoop skirts, frilled cotton drawers, did cleaning, washing and ironing, raised big families, went to church Sundays and were too busy to be sick. Men wore whiskers, chopped wood, bathed once a week, drank 10-cent whickey and five-cent beer, worked 12 hours a day and lived to a ripe old age. Stores burned coal oil lamps, carried everything from a needle to a plow, trusted everybody, never took inventory, placed orders for goods a year in advance, and always made money.

"That, of course, was the era which orators have in mind now when they talk about progress. We have progressed since then. What have we progressed to? The centenary menu makes it perfectly plain:

"Now women wear an ounce of underwear, smoke, paint, drink cocktails, have pet dogs and go in for politics. Men have high blood pressure, little hair, bathe twice a day, are misunderstood at home, play the stock market, drink poison, work five hours a day and die young. Stores have electric lights, cash registers, elevators, never have what the customer wants, trust nobody, take inventory daily, never buy in advance, have overhead, markdown, stock control, Dollar Day, Founders Day, Economy Day — and never make any money."

All we can say about the above is that the publicity writer for the oyster house must have been viewing the world through an oyster's eye when he composed the above . . . we doubt that any patrons of the restaurant who read the menu shed any tears for that version of the "good old days".

Here's How Hilltop Branch 'Y' Could Become A Reality

Growing interest in the establishment on the Hilltop of a branch YMCA was evidenced last week in the fact that 40 persons representing various organizations and groups in the community attended a meeting to discuss the matter.

These representatives have been asked to report back in writing before Sept. 20, the sentiments of the group each person represents. Should sufficient endorsement of the plan be forthcoming, the Hilltop Recreation Center Committee will petition the Metropolitan YMCA to establish a branch here.

A talk with Harry A. Spyker, general executive of the YMCA, last week reveals the following steps would necessarily be taken before a Hilltop Branch "Y" would become a reality.

Since the YMCA is an agency of the Community Fund, approval of that group would first of all be sought. It is believed that this would be looked upon as an expansion program rather than the creation of a new project.

Would Conduct Survey

Assuming that the Community Fund would go along with the idea (It already contributes to the support of the Teen Club on the Hilltop), the next step would be to conduct a survey of the immediate needs and existing facilities that might be used in the "Y" program.

As soon as it was definitely established that there is to be a branch "Y" here, an election of a 12 or 15-member board of Hilltoppers would be held. This election could be conducted in any way agreed up by the representative group present at last week's meeting, and other interested persons. This board would serve as an interim executive group until such time as the permanent organization could be established.

A minimum of three months would be required to make the community survey, Mr. Spyker estimated.

Following the completion of the survey a budget for the first year's operation would be drawn and ways and means of financing the work would be submitted to the Metropolitan executive board for approval.

Incidentally, the chairman of the Hilltop board would automatically become a member of the Metropolitan board.

Membership To Be Determined

Constituency of membership would be determined by the local board when the organization was set up. Both contributing and non-contributing memberships are maintained in other branch activities and would likely be set up here. Election of members to the local governing body in the future would be by vote of members of the branch.

While Mr. Spyker hesitated to suggest the minimum time that might be required to get a branch in operation here, he indicated that at least six months or more would be needed to work out all the details if no serious obstacles are encountered.

Camp Chase Post To Meet Sept. 5

The next reguler meeting of Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion, will be held Friday, Sept. 5, at 8:15 p. m. at Post headquarters, southeast corner of W. Broad-st and S. Burgess-av. The nominating committee will make its report at this meeting.

Past Commander Clark Finneran is a delegate to the national convention of the American Legion at New York City. Commander Fiscus is an alternate to this convention. Both are attending.

Past Commander Mike Austin was elected chaplain of the newly formed 12th District of the American Legion of Ohio, at the convention held Wednesday at Memorial Hall. This district is made up entirely of Franklin County.

2 Local Officers Are Reassigned

Police Sergeants Leo Phillips, formerly head of the Bureau of Identification, and Robert Cooke, formerly head of the Crime Prevention Bureau and public relations man for the department, were assigned to new duties last week in what was described as an effort to improve the deployment of policemen.

Phillips was transferred to night street duty on the North Side while Cooke will be relief sergeant in headquarters. Both men have long service records with the department.

Questioned by The Hilltop Record as to why these particular assignments were given to veteran police officers, Chief Lester Merica said, "The chief of police may assign any man to any position he sees fit."

Parade And Festival Well Attended

Despite sweltering temperatures that hovered near the 90-degree mark, nearly 1000 boys and girls took part in the Hilltop Record Parade and Playground Festival that ended up at Westgate Park Friday afternoon. In view of the fine cooperation of children and adults alike, C. C. Hartley, publisher of the Record, stated that the event would become an annual affair.

Prizes exceeding $100 in value were given out to the winners of the various contests and other parade competition. The Westmont Theater entertained the entire group with a special free show on Saturday morning.

The parade formed near Engine House No. 17, Wheatland and W. Broad-st, at 1:30 p. m. At 1:50 p. m. it moved west on W Broad-st with a police safety car in the lead followed by a horse-drawn wagon loaded to capacity with small children, too small to keep up in the parade. The wagon and horses together with 15 saddle horses were furnished by John Davis, owner of the Hilltop Riding Academy.

This was followed by scores of boys and girls on gaily-decorated bicycles, tricycles and scooters with one decorated pony and buggy driven by Harry Halliday. In the van guard were more boys and girls on foot.

The parade went west on W. Broad-st to Westgate-av and hence south to Westgate Park where the judging of the parade was completed and the games and contests gotten under way.

Judges of the parade and doll show competition were Mrs. Joseph Briggs, Sam Alford and Charles P. Maus.

Playground supervisors who handled the games and contests were (Westgate Park) Mack Pemberton, Dick Slages and Mrs. Edwards; Holton Park, Paul McClain; and Glenwood, Betty Rush and Paul Midlam.

The following business firms cooperated:

Hilltop Hardware, 2804 Sullivant-av; Hilltop Sporting Goods, 2461 W. Broad-st; Broadway Shoes, 2390 W. Broad-st; Eisenbach Hardware, 2409 W. Broad-st; Seiling's, 2404 W. Broad-st; Mead Jewelers, 2814 W. Broad-st; Hilltop Jewelers, 2431 W. Broad-st; Key's 5c-10c Store, 2368 W. Broad-st; Ray Cycle Shop, 2515 W. Broad-st; Recob's Bakery, 2840 W. Broad-st; Gearhart's Hardware, 2367 Sullivant-av; and the Westmont Theater, where the free show was given on Saturday morning. Noble Allen had an ambulance standing by all afternoon just in case of emergency.

A bicycle lock, apparently belonging to some boy or girl in the parade, was found at the park. It may be had by calling at the Record office any time.

18-Family Apartment To Get Under Way Here Soon

One of the city's oldest buildings will soon give way to a modern 18-family apartment building estimated to cost $200,000.

Tonti Brothers and Associates, 2364 W. Broad-st, builders of scores of single and multiple housing units on the Hilltop during the last two years, announced plans for erection of the 18-family building at the corner of W. Broad-st and Lechner-av. Work is to start on the project within 30 days. It is expected that the apartment center will be completed by April 1, 1948.

The new building will have a frontage of 120 feet on Broad-st, running back on Lechner-av to a depth of 201 feet. It will be a three-story structure.

Old Building To Go

It will be necessary to demolish the old brick and frame building, now on the site. The building is said to have been built in 1879 by a German by the name of Schmidt. It was operated as a saloon for four years and then sold to John Richman who remodeled it by adding a brick addition. Many businesses have occupied the building since that time.

The apartment building will be made up of 18 two-bedroom and one-bedroom apartments with individual heating units. The building will have a slate roof with all aluminum windows and tile baths and be of fireproof construction throughout. Harry Roderick is the architect.

The Tonti firm started 70 duplexes last spring with 20 of them already finished and new families moving in at the rate of 12 per month. The two-family duplexes are sold with $1000 to $1500 down and the balance on a GI loan. Applications for sales are now being taken.

VFW Post Picnic To Be Held Sun.

Members of Westway Post No. 3441, VFW, will hold a family picnic and outing near Reese Station Sunday afternoon starting at 1 o'clock.

The committee in charge is planning a big affair including dancing, refreshments, prizes for the kiddies, horseshoe pitching, croquet, swings and teeter boards. Music will be furnished by the post nine-piece orchestra.

Members are asked to bring well-filled baskets, their families and their friends.

The next post meeting will be held on Sept. 5 at 8:30 p. m. A membership drive will be planned at the meeting.

Driver's Licenses Go On Sale Tues.

New drivers' licenses will go on sale at three Hilltop and West Side locations next Tuesday. The new permits must be purchased by the end of the month.

Listed as official deputies to issue the permits were Mrs. Betty J. Coontz, 984 W. Broad-st, Mrs. Wayne Paullin, 4516 W. Broad-st, and George A. Sinclair, 2403 W. Broad-st.

The latter location will be in the hands of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, all proceeds going to the club. Kiwanis has been handling the sale of both drivers' licenses and auto tags for the past two years.

The nominating committee from the Camp Chase American Legion Auxiliary has selected the following ladies for officers for the coming year: president, Esther Scales; first vice-president, Mary Fiscus; second vice-president, Dorothy Thompson; corresponding secretary, Cleo Balo; recording secretary, Virginia Minnemeyer; treasurer, Magdelena Martindale; executive committee, Lillian McVay; alternate to county council, Martha Finneran.

Irvin F. Young, principal at West High School, said that both the junior and senior high offices would be open Thursday and Friday morning for registration of new pupils. A teacher's meeting is scheduled for 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mrs. Colleen Welde, a graduate of St. Olaf College, Minn., will replace Mrs. Lucille Gant in vocal work. She has been teaching at Castilia, O., during the past two years.

Labor Day Won't Affect Publication

The Labor Day holiday will not affect the publication day of The Hilltop Record but all persons desiring to get news in next week's paper are urged to do so at the earliest possible time.

Wherever possible, church announcements should be sent in on Saturday of this week. Every effort will be made to handle all announcements up until the usual deadline, 10 a. m., Tuesday. Social and regular news copy will be accepted until 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Council To Pass On City Annexation

City council will more than likely pass favorably on the proposal to annex into the city several industrial areas surrounding Columbus when it meets Sept. 8 to consider the matter.

Of direct interest to Hilltoppers would be the annexation of an area west of the city limits including the new Fisher-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd. According to present plans the area would include the land between Sullivant-av and W. Broad-st, west to Georgesville-rd. All of this area, plus a section on west to the Prairie-Franklin Township line, has been attempting to incorporate as Camp Chase.

Feelings of the people of that area over city annexation seemed to be divided although there were some who were strongly opposed to such a move. Others favored annexation only if a separate village could not be had. Court action is still pending over whether or not the Franklin Township Trustees are within their jurisdiction in calling for a special election to decide the Camp Chase incorporation issue as asked by a citizens' petition. The matter went all the way to the supreme court last summer with the petitioners losing out in the legal battle. It is now in the court of common pleas of Franklin County.

Annexation of the industrial areas was proposed by the City Planning Commission last week as a solution of the city's growing financial burden.

A public hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project. As outlined by the county planning engineers, five trunk lines would extend beyond the present county sewer that now runs out Sullivant-av to Georgesville-rd. Residents of Rome, New Rome Woodlawn, Rome Heights, West Columbus Park and Garden Heights Additions would benefit from the improvement.

Magician Will Entertain At Kiwanis Movie

The fourth and last of a series of four free movies put on by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club for the boys and girls of the Hilltop will be held at the Rivoli Theater Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the show can be obtained at any of the local playgrounds. Mack Pemberton is in charge of ticket distribution.

As an added feature for the final show, Elwood the Magician and Vera will present a special magic show. A former Hilltopper, Elmer has a complete repertoire of magic tricks that will amuse the boys and girls.

A candy bar will be given free as each child leaves the theater.

Dr. J. T. Angus Moves Office

Dr. J. T. Angus, optometrist with offices formerly located at 2417 W. Broad-st, has moved his office to 2386½ W. Broad-st, over Moore's Store.

Dr. Angus lives at 20 N. Wayne-av.

Local Doctor Named Secretary Of Staff

Dr. Paul Keckley, 3637 Sullivant-av, has been elected secretary of the staff of Doctors' Hospital. He recently opened offices on the Hilltop at the Sullivant-av address.

Homecoming To Be Held Monday At Galloway

The Galloway Boosters Club has planned an all-day Homecoming celebration for Galloway on Sept. 1 which will be highlighted by a fast-moving program for both children and adults.

The program will begin at 1:30 p. m. with a parade which is open to entries of pets, floats, or comic costumes. At 2 p. m. there will be a horse shoe pitching contest, at 2:30 a chicken chasing contest (ladies only), 3 p. m. a ball game, 4 p. m. awarding of a prize to oldest lady and gentleman present, and 5 p. m. a series of contests for boys and girls up to 14 years of age.

Mr. James Dinsmore served as best man and the ushers were Mr. William Schatz and Mr. Robert Graves.

The bride's mother wore navy blue with pink accessories and a corsage of pink shattered carnations. The groom's mother wore powder blue with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. Misses Marjorie Beard, Marilyn Beard, Doris Sayer, Lena Stalker and Mr. Leo Glanzman assisted in the serving.

City Dunmp To Be Closed Down

Definite action seemed assured in the elimination of a rat-infested city dump just south of Columbian and Rea-avs this week, John Marsh, 1899 W. Mound-st, told The Hilltop Record Monday.

"The owner of the land now being used as a dump by the city has assured us that he will shut it down at once," Mr. Marsh said.

An official from the county board of health office visited the area last week and promised to see that the dump was closed down.

Residents of the Mound-st area have complained that the trash had become a breeding place for rats and that they have feared to let small children play out in their yards because of the frequent daylight visits of the rats.

Four West Side Boys Are Arrested

Four West Side boys, 15 and 16 years of age, were being held by juvenile authorities for breaking and entering several business houses.

Sgt. John Redmond and Det. Delbert C. Wilkins said the boys, all students of Starling Junior High School, ransacked a Cussins & Fearn store at 830 W. Broad-st, last week, and escaped with four guns, five watches and other merchandise valued at $141.

They are said to have been involved in the burglary of the Victory Grill, 1180 W. Broad-st, and the Doddington Lumber Co., 452 W. Broad-st. About $55 in money was taken in these two burglaries.

The Rea-Bow Rangers, their parents and friends held a picnic at Maple Shades Park Sunday. Lots of fried chicken was consumed and a good time was had by all.

'Miss Franklinton' and Court

Interest in the Franklinton Sesquicentennial Parade Friday evening was heightened by the presence of these four beauties photographed by the Ohio State Journal. Two of them are from the Hilltop.

Hilltop Beauties In Moose Parade

News of Rome

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

Friendship continuing through the third generation was the occasion for a dinner party last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Earl Nichols, 5041 W. Broad-st. Mr. and Mrs. Darley Woodgeart and family of Lancaster and her mother Mrs. Baus, one of the old families of that city were honored guests. Mrs. Nichols' mother and Mrs. Baus were young folks together, being teachers in the same Lancaster public school. Mrs. Nichols' sister, Mrs. Bradshaw of Columbus was on hand to assist in looking after the 18 guests.

Mrs. Patterson of Maple-dr had a very pleasant surprise one afternoon last week, when Rev. Rose of Columbia Heights Church visited her with his picture machine and views he thought she would enjoy. The scenes were pictures taken recently when Rev. Rose and Mrs. Rose were in Colorado. It brought to the memory of Mrs. Patterson the many trips she had made in the same location, while traveling in the West.

Dr. and Mrs. William McEwan (formerly Marjorie Postle) of Hempstead, Long Island, paid a short visit to the Coulters of Pasadena-av last week. The Postles formerly lived at 236 Rome Hillcrds-rd. Since Mr. Postle's death Mrs. Postle has made her home in the East. She came to Columbus accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. McEwan, who is connected with the Hofstra College, a division of New York University, to be on hand for the graduation of Dow Postle, Jr., who is now located on Hunter-av. He graduated in business administration and commerce at Ohio State University.

Mrs. Kane (Lauretha Reibel), South Bend, Ind., has returned to her home after a very restful vacation with her mother, Mrs. O. G. Reibel.

Saturday evening Nona Ann Kimes played her accordian at the Moose Club at Mt. Vernon.

Kathleen Evans of Fisher-rd was the week-end guest of Dianna Kasler. As they both have bicycles, most of their time was spent in riding.

The program committee of the Rome Study Club had a meeting with every member present. They were Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Clements, Mrs. Stormont, Mrs. Calland, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Snyder, who was chairman. The meeting date will be the same as last year, the second Monday night of the month. The first meeting will be with Mrs. Harry Ebehard, Maple-dr. Mrs. Reibel will be in charge of this meeting.

Bob French, 5467 W. Broad-st, had an accident while riding his bicycle. The handle bar broke and Bob fell on his head, got pretty well bruised on his arms. There was quite a large lump on his head the next day and he still had a headache.

Rev. T. M. Patterson of Maple-dr, officiated at the funeral services of Mrs. Tom Roller, Greencastle, with burial at Lithopolis Saturday afternoon. He preached in Bond Hill Presbyterian Church in Cincinnatti Sunday morning. He was guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Leeds, Mrs. Leeds having been a member of his Ripley charge several years ago.

Commissioners Buy Children's Home Site

The Franklin County Commissioners have purchased tht 87.58-acre farm belonging to Alexis K. White at Gantz and Frank-rds. It will become the site for the new Children's Home.

In the 1945 election the voters approved the erection of a $1,225,000 home to replace the present inadequate buildings now being used.

Steckyards Co. To Open Monday

The Teegardin Stockyards Company will open its new market, which was just recently completed on Fisher-rd near McKinley av, on Labor Day.

The daily market for all kind of livestock and feeder stock will not be an auction market, according to officials of the firm.

Dwight E. Teegardin, 2782 Cleb-rd, and Frank B. Teegardin, Ashville, operate the company. They have had 20 years of experience in this line of work. The firm will continue to have offices at 669 W. Broad-st.

Avondale Chorus Will Sing At State Fair

Members of the Avondale Chorus, in addition to appearing Wednesday, will also sing Friday afternoon from 1:30 to 2:30 in the Music Hall on the Ohio State Fair Grounds.

The program will be broadcast over WHKC on the Housewives I. Q. program.

Can you imagine what a mess modern traffic would be without signs to regulate speed, to warn of hazards ahead and to give motorists all sorts of valuable information? There would be far more accidents than we have now—and that's a lot! The Ohio State Safety Council reminds you that traffic signs help protect YOU if you respect THEM. Read and heed these signs of life.

Swimming Pool To Stay Open After Labor Day This Year

Weather permitting the Hilltop Swimming Pool will remain open for at least a week following Labor Day.

The extended heat wave brought near capacity crowds to the local pool during the last couple of weeks and granted an extension of continued high temperatures, it is felt that many people will still enjoy an afternoon or evening of swimming.

He attended West High School, and was employed by the Big Bear Market at 2596 W. Broad-st.

Your heart is a marvelous machine. Its work is more important to you than the work of any other machine you can name. But to do its job well and long, the heart must be kept in good condition. It must not be mishandled or abused. The Ohio State Safety Council warns that in summertime people can easily make the mistake of over-exertion in recreation. Take it easy and don't throw a monkey wrench into that valuable machine — your heart!

West Gridders To Meet Newark Friday; Prepare For September 5th Showing

Mack Pemberton and members of his coaching staff will have their first opportunity to see the 1947 West High School football team in action when they go to Newark Friday afternoon for a practice game. Three full teams are expected to make the trip and it is expected that all 33 boys will get to see some action before the game is over.

Grid practice got down to serious business this week as the first job of cutting down the squad got under way. About 50 boys were to be dropped from the squad Wednesday with another 15 or 20 to be pared by Wednesday of next week. A working squad of 55 boys is Pemberton's ultimate goal.

Judging from the way the No. 1 team has been lining up the few times there has been scrimmage, it would look like the following boys were good bets to start the game against Newark:

Thrush and Buckingham at ends; Hostetter and Weeks at tackles; Westerman and Thumberg at guards; Andrews at center; Slager at quarter; Hicks and China at the halves and Ehlers at fullback.

Starting Tuesday the full coaching staff will be at work with Fred Heischman handling the backs, Dave Randall the line, Floyd Reis and Jody Gram the reserves with Coach Pemberton handling the overall supervision of the workout. All but Gram have been at work this week.

A practive session under the newly installed lights .. set for Wednesday evening in preparation for the inter-squad game on Friday night. Everything will be in readiness for the first public showing of the newly lighted Magly Field, its accessories and its 1947 gridiron edition. The evening will be complete with both the junior and senior bands on hand to furnish music and do a few formations. It will be the seniors (whites) playing against the sophomores and juniors (Buff and Browns) and the gates will be open to the public for just 25c.

The game is set for 8 p. m. sharp with gates opening at 6:30 o'clock. Tickets may be purchased at four separate entrances this year for greater convenience of the crowd. There will be ticket booths at the rear of the stadium at the baseball gate (southeast corner); at the gate adjoining the building on the north side of the field; and at the main entrance (northeast corner).

Tickets for all regular games can be had in advance from any junior or senior high pupil before each game. Proceeds of the Sept 5 inter-squad game will go toward helping pay for the lights.

On exhibition for the first time that night in addition to the playing lights will be the new electric scoreboard purchased by the West High Boosters Club and the new band stand supplied by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club. An improved public address system is being made possible through the cooperation of the Hilltop Business Association.

Immediately following the game (about 9:30) the senior class will have its first dance of the school year. It will be held in the gymnasium and dancing will be to the music of Tom Beckett and his orchestra.

Keep cool — No long, strnigy tousled hair this hot summer weather . . . only clean-cut upswept loveliness. Call today for appointment!

Loyal Record Reader Recalls Early Buildings Of Hilltop

Last week's Franklinton edition of The Hilltop Record resulted in making the acquaintance of one of the Record's most loyal subscribers, Mrs. Charlotte Schukraft, 91 S. Roys-av, who has read every issue since it first began over 30 years ago.

Mrs. Schukraft's memories of the Hilltop during its deveopment from pasture to business and residential district came to the fore when she began scanning the Franklinton supplement to the Record. The history of the West Side and Hilltop printed there recalled for her memories of earlier times.

Near the corner of Roys and Broad stood the well-known four-mile house, supposed to be situated four miles from Broad and High and built for the purpose of collecting toll from pike travelers.

Hague and Broad was the scene of much excitement when the school standing there burned down during classes one day. A "bucket brigade" formed to combat the blaze was not limited to buckets, Mrs. Schukraft recalls. "They used everything that held water."

Even the bedlam over the burned school house appeared insignificant when compared to the exhiliaration of Hilltoppers when the first trolley car began running beyond the foot of "the Hill." Prior to that time, it was necessary for those who desired to "visit town" to walk the long stretch to the foot of the climb where the horse-drawn vehicles turned around.

The advent of the electric trolley "west" solved many a transportation problem. On its first trip all of the Hilltop lined up to see it pass, while the boys boldly shouted "No pushing, no pulling, but it goes like h——!"

Fifty head of Holstein cattle were pastured in the land surrounding the present-day Spears funeral home, on ground supposedly deeded a certain Mr. Smith after the Civil War. William Harris lived in a home standing where Spears is located and a roomer in his household, one John Chambers, was a leading Hilltop figure. Chambers operated Harris general store slightly west of Harris-av on Broad and his romance and marriage with a young school teacher made one of the love stories of yesteryear. The store, first one on the Hilltop, sold everything from spectacles to licorice sticks and was a prominent location in community activities.

Those were the days when mud stood on W. Broad-st in a chocolate-pudding fashion after every rain. After one particularly energetic downpour it was necessary to use four horses for pulling a load of corn from Rome to the foot of "the Hill."

Mrs. Schukraft's father, a carpenter, taught her many tricks of the trade and today, though 86 years old, she is as spry and alert as a much younger person as well as extremley handy with a paint brush or hammer.

Looking Ahead with Jean Worrel

There are many hundreds of far-sighted citizens in this district who are proud owners of homes which are being purchased out of current savings. These citizens are wise planners. They set aside so much of their income regularly for savings, for mortgage obligations, for life assurance. Many have completed their program of protection through the Sun Life of Canada by a simple adjustment of their normal budgeting plans which takes care of the mortgage in the event of untimely death of the wage earner. Thus if this tragic circumstance came about, the mortgage could be paid off in full and the family would not lose the home provided for them.

If you are a home owner, just write or call, and I will gladly tell you how the Sun Life of Canada can protect your home investment.

1500 Are Idle At GM This Week

Approximately 1500 hourly workers at the Fisher Body-Ternstedt plant on Georgesville-rd are idle this week. The shutdown was ordered last week in line with nationwide General Motors layoffs attributed to shortages of steel.

Salaried employes of the plant were not affected by the shutdown. All workers have been told to return to their jobs Tuesday morning.

The layoff was the second in recent months. The plant was idle one week in July because of material shortages.

To your good health

If good health is, as it is so often called, our most priceless possession, then we are all fortunate to live where we do.

For here we not only have a favorable climate, but also enjoy every facility for safeguarding and promoting good health that modern science and an enlightened civic attitude can provide.

Very few if any cities of its size are better supplied than this one with competent physicians and dentists, up-to-date hospitals and clinics, fine facilities for outdoor recreation, and thoroughgoing sanitary services.

In addition, local industrial organizations have gone far in providing certain medical services for employes, safety measures to reduce accidents, safeguards against occupational ailments, and also the necessary space, equipment and conducted programs for healthful sports and recreation.

We of General Motors have long given this matter special attention. We think that one way in which we can pay our debt to this community is by doing what we can to promote good health among the sizable portion of its men and women that our people represent.

COLUMBUS GUARDS ITS HEALTH

The health of the people of Columbus is guarded by 675 physicians. This number represents one physician for each 607 people, which is a great deal better than the national average. There are 315 dentists in Columbus.

Columbus people are served by 11 hospitals, five public clinics and 125 Public Health Service employes.

Thirty children's playgrounds and 1800 acres of parks provide healthful recreation facilities for the people of Columbus.

WE GUARD OUR PEOPLE'S HEALTH

Fisher Body-Ternstedt provides a complete medical department for the service of employes while at the plant.

The department is staffed by a full-time doctor and three registered nurses.

Special equipment of the medical department includes X-ray facilities, fully equipped operating room, and bed wards for men and women. Provisions for eye protection, industrial hygiene, dust and fume control are maintained to safeguard the employes' health at all times.

LUCAS SULLIVANT would have been a very proud man had he been able to have witnessed the celebration held in his honor in Columbus last week but he probably would not have felt at home through all of it. For instance there was the sesquicentennial banquet held at the Southern Hotel Friday night. It was scheduled for 8 p. m.—actually got under way about 8:50 p. m. Lucas wouldn't have liked that. .

A man of exceptional business acumen, the founder of Franklinton was known to be prompt in all of his appointments. He probably ate his dinner at 5:30 or 6 p. m. and surely would not have tolerated a delay of almost three hours even on such an auspicious occasion.

HILLTOPPERS and residents of the West Side were much in evidence in the crowd of less than 200 persons that attended. Early arrivals (8 o'clock that is) included the Edgar Plancks, Bob Drapers, Ed Garretts, George Matsons, Herb Dailey (a Hilltopper-to-be) and his friend Tommy Graham, and Rev. Wm. M. George, pastor of West Park Methodist Church. He gave the benediction.

While waiting around for the affair to get under way a string ensemble began providing dinner music (without the dinner). Two or three selections brought no recognition from the audience but when they finished playing "The Blue Danube" three or four persons (probably thinking it was "The Blue Sicoto" or something) applauded patriotically.

GREAT-GREAT GRAND-DAUGHTER MADGE SULLIVANT was the first person to appear at the long speaker's table. She was accompanied by Edwin M. Tharp, vice chairman of the Franklinton Sesquicentennial Committee. And Madge really did her ancestor proud later in the evening when she presented the descendants of Franklinton pioneer families.

Wearing a dress of China silk that was more than 100 years old, she carried a 105-year-old fan, and immediately won her audience with a ready smile and quick wit. Over her shoulders she wore a cape of matching green silk (not entirely needed on such a warm night) topped off with a yellow straw bonnet. The rosettes on her slippers were approximately 140 years old. After describing her apparel to the audience she scored the wittiest remark of the evening when she said: "Next week the dress and I will retire from public life."

HONORED DESCENDENTS of Franklinton pioneer families present included at least three Hilltoppers. They were Mrs. Bernice Strader, a teacher in Franklin County schools for several years, and a great-great granddaughter of Abraham Deardurff; Mrs. Agnes Cain, the city clerk, a great-great granddaughter of William Fleming; and Archibald Rodgers, mayor of Valleyview, a great grandson of Lucas Sullivant.

MAYOR JAMES A RHODES arrived 45 minutes late but in plenty of time to get in on the meal and program. Other local people arriving "politely" late included the Myron Seiferts, the D. K. Finleys, Ray Eyerman and Bill Ewald.

Erwin C. Zepp, the toastmaster, was among the last to arrive just before the banquet got under way. Invocation was given by Msgr. George F. Gressel, pastor of Holy Family Church. Also at the speaker's table were C. P. Lauderbaugh, representing the Franklin County Commissioners, and R. P. Barthalow, city treasurer. (He paid the city's part of the bill for the entire celebration.

FRANKLINTON QUEEN. Hilltopper Miss Shirley Kietzman, and two of the three members of her court, Miss Gwen Kingston and Dorotha Blair, arrived without escort and were seated at a special table with a beautiful basket of American Beauty roses in the center.

Hilltopper Rosemary McDowell, the third member of the court, arrived much later, having been in the final judging for Miss Columbus competition at the Palace Theater.

THE DINNER itself ($2.50 per plate) would have delighted the venerable Mr. Sullivant, being a Virginian by birth and later a resident of Kentucky before coming into the Ohio wilderness to carve out the Village of Franklinton, the forerunner of Columbus.

It was made up of assorted iced relishes, fresh fruit cocktail, southern fried chicken (really delicious), gravy, oven browned potatoes, buttered baby lima beans, tossed garden salad with French dressing, rolls, butter, cake, specially molded sesquicentennial ice cream and coffee. The desert was not served until 10 p. m.

Between courses, Mayor Rhodes smoked his pipe and cast "vote-for-me" smiles all over the place. By 10:30 o'clock we finally got around to the principal speaker for the evening. He was Dr. Harold J. Grimm, professor of history at Ohio State University. Dr. Grimm paid fine tribute to the founders of Franklinton. He pointed out that the founding of Franklinton was not "an isolated incident in the history of Ohio" but a determined effort to better life in his day and help in the great struggle of carving a state out of the wilderness.

ODDS AND ENDS on the banquet: Hilltopper Harold Koebel, reporter for the Ohio State Journal, was the only press representative at the table marked for press and radio . . . . WBNS Newsman Chet Long arrived near the end of the festivities, having had charge of the selection of Miss Columbus at the Palace Theater . . . Trent Sickles, manager of the Southern Hotel, did the occasion proud by trotting out (for the first time) his brand new table cloths with napkins to match. The table covers are printed with civic and historical buildings of interest in Columbus—very fitting for the affair . . . Waitresses lost no time in grabbing up the napkins before souvenir hunters got any ideas . . . Seeing that I was making notes on a pad throughout the evening, a kindly lady came up to me at the close of the banquet and said: "Are you Ben Hayes?" I thanked her for the compliment and assured her I was not the author of Joe Spook's sayings . . . It was then past 11 p. m.—later than Lucas would have stayed out even on his 150th anniversary . . . We all went home.

CRISIS

By Mason Rossiter Smith

This is the third in a series of copyrighted articles written by an American weekly newspaper editor especially for the weekly press on conditions as he finds them in Europe today.

Edinburgh, July 6.

"Ye'll find it a bit different, when ye get t' Glasgoo an' Edinburrrgh," the young Scot was telling me on the promenade deck of the S. S. Royal Scotsman of Burns & Laird Lines, running from Belfast to Glasgow.

"Aye, the fud's a bit seairce over there—my wife and I, in fact, haven't had real fud for months, until we tuk this holiday in Dublin."

It was Saturday night at about 9 o'clock as the little steamer shoved off from the dock and set out for Glasgow, Britain's "double-daylight time" (two hours advance instead of one) gave us plenty of light—it seemed like late afternoon. But when I walked up the gangplank, I had suddenly realized that I was already in another land. Down there on the dock was Northern Ireland—Irish for all its Engishmen and Scots with their individual accents—here on the steamer, the accent was entirely Scotch—with a burr as long and sharp as a pipe threader.

The picture is very beautiful as you pass by the great shipyards, the green hills of Ireland rolling off into the distance; the land finally falling away—with Scotland in a purple haze across the water ahead. At this point it is only 20 miles from shore to shore, but since Glasgow is further north, the trip is much longer, about nine hours (overnight) all told.

Under low hanging clouds and a misty rain Glasgow was gloomy and almost empty Sunday morning. But in the huge high-ceilinged dining room of the Hotel Central breakfast was waiting—as early as 7:30 a. m. It was, in fact, the first time I have ever experienced breakfast served by a waiter in a full dress suit. This is evidently the customary attire at all meals.

The hotel menus here and in Northern Ireland do not reflect the current food shortage—for at all meals, meat and eggs are available, although bread appears only at breakfast. But the Fuel Crisis is evident. Over the tub in your bath is a sign urging care in using hot water, and every other light in the hotel hallways is extinguished to save power.

There being little else to do in Glasgow, I took the "Five Loch Tour," departing at 11:00 a. m. for Loch Lomond and other Scottish Lakes. In this fortune smiled, for mine was the last available seat on the bus. I got aboard early, taking the window seat and hoping I would'nt have to move.

An elderly and a middle-aged woman neatly dressed took the two seats in front of me, and the man who was with them immediately started talking with the driver, obviously about my seat. "Aha," I thought, 'the 'canny Scot. He knows I'm supposed to be in the aisle seat, and he's going to bet his money's worth. He won't give up the window seat."

He didn't.

But there was no fuss. I apologized for getting in the wrong seat — and he was friendly at once. "American?" he smiled, "Your accent gives you away immediately," and we were off into a conversation which lasted all day long.

We got to talking of government, and the Labor party immediately came in for a drubbing. He didn't like the Labor movement or anything about it, and anything he neglected to say was interpolated by his mother, the elderly lady who sat beside his wife in front of us.

In spite of the rain which kept coming down in occasional light showers, the land was beautiful. The hills are tall, but gently rolling and rounded at the top, the heather just beginning to turn to pink against the green. Loch Lomond is well worthy of the song in which it is remembered.

After supper in Glasgow, on returning from the tour, I took an evening's stroll before retiring.

Windowshopping along the main thoroughfares, suddenly I heard the sound of a belligerent voice, on a loudspeaker. Following the sound I came to a dead end street, in which a crowd of 200 people had gathered, listening to a husky, violent chap in working clothes speaking over a "mike." Nobody seemed to be very excited except the speaker.

On the pavement at the entrance to the street were these words: "Anarchism Meeting, Every Sunday Night at 7:30." I listened to the harangue for awhile and walked on.

About a block later I came upon another crowd of similar size. This was addressed by a clergyman—bareheaded, in frock and clerical collar — who with equal emphasis was urging his hearers to "have Faith in the Lord." Two blocks further on, another crowd of about the same numbers gathered about a man in plain clothes, with a hymnbook in his hand. They were all singing lustily and rather beautifully, I thought, "Abide With

A LASTING TRIBUTE

As a final tribute to the departed, nothing less than the very finest service can justly express the love and respect of the bereaved. Through the years we have striven to develop such a service . . . at a cost which makes it available to all. Judging by the many letters of appreciation from grateful families, we believe we have succeeded.

Me."

The following morning I set out for Edinburgh in an English train. It is only an hour's run, through magnificent countryside, most of it quite flat, but green and dotted with sheep.

Edinburgh is a smaller city, but by far the more beautiful of the two. A modern community, which would remind you of any other of comparable size in the States, it has a number of historic shrines and ancient buildings.

In the Old Carlton Burying Ground, just off Princess street, lie the remains of many Scottish great, their graves marked by antique headstones, grimed by years of city soot, or walked in the stonework of ancient mausoleums, many of which now are Soldiers" of our Civil War. At the top is a statue of Lincoln, and the figure of a Negro looks upward from the base. The inscription reads: "To Preserve the Jewel of Liberty in the Framework of Freedom—Abraham Lincoln."

The Fuel Crisis reveals itself here again and again. The elevators in St. Andrews House—the Scottish government building—run for only a part of the day to save power. And government planning—the Labor Party's program — is evident, too. Most of Scotland's population is centered in the area in, around and between Glasgow and Edinburgh.

"There has been" as one government official told me, "a tremendous movement from the farms to the cities. The result is that unless we can diversify our industry, huge unemployment will result when any depression occurs. Most of our present industry is 'heavy engineering' — shipbuilding and the like.

"Now, by offering available plant facilities to new industries at reasonable rental—'industrial estates,' they are called—we hope to develop new sources for permanent employment."

The old coal mines near Edinburgh, he said, are very nearly worked out, but new veins have been uncovered, and in addition a new hydro-electric development is planned which is expected to meet all power needs. "This," he explained, "will be a kind of Scottish TVA."

All the British Isles love races, and Edinburgh turned out by the thousands to see Monday's races. Aside from the thrill of the sport, however, a racing event at Edinburgh is an amazing spectacle in the American view. For inside the track all kinds of gambling devices run by itinerant operators, are constantly in play—roulet, dice, pinwheels, and numbers games. As one old Scot remarked while we waited for the bus later outside, "Thur's a lawt of rouges inside."

One of Edinburgh's most attractive sights is the series of entertainments morning, afternoon and evening in the park. During the war the series was set up to provide amusement for local people, who could not travel on account of "petrol" rationing and transportation restrictions. It has been continued by popular request. Here in a covered bandstand, children dance the Highland Fling to a children's orchestra, there are band and bagpipe concerts in the afternoon; and in the evening open air dancing to an army orchestra for the young people.

As this is written, I am aboard a sleeper bound for London, and lucky indeed to have a berth—it is mine as a result of a cancellation.

The Fuel Crisis again. For lack of coal, many of the trains have been reduced in length. "Our railroads were pulling over 200 per cent of normal capacity during the war," a bystander told me. 'Now our rolling stock is in a very bad state. But the Fuel Crisis is a vicious circle: You can't build new cars without coal for production. You can't haul coal if you don't have cars. And you can't do much business if the people who operate business cannot travel from city to city for business purposes . . . This train, long as it is, is only half as long as in wartime. That's why you were lucky to get a berth."

The names of all the passengers in this car, which is distinctly a sleeper and cannot be made up into seats, are posted on a window near the entrance. The conductor has taken all the tickets and checked all the compartments before the train pulls out. He has noted all who want tea in the morning before arrival in London at 6:30.

The compartments are of two kinds—single and double, the difference being that a double is made simply by building in an upper berth. The compartment contains a small lavatory, tables which fold down out of the walls, built-in ashtrays, racks for clothing and luggage, a water carafe and glass, but no towels. The berths run crosswise of the train, instead of lengthwise as in American Pullmans. There are mechanical controls for heat and ventilation.

I had just come back from the "book stall" with a magazine, for a businessman on the platform had informed me that I had "bags of time" before the train left.

"Aye, we're in a bit of a jam here in Britain," he was saying, "we're very near rock bottom. We've a great deal to learn and our government has a great deal to learn. But we'll come out of it all right in the end.

"When you injuire about our socialist government, I would say to you that this is the evidence of a worldwide trend. We're all going to have it some day, in some form.

"Maybe it's the sins of the fathers being visited upon the children, but in any event, I am sympathetic — very sympathetic — with the Labor Party's program.

"In the old days in both England and America you had a few men at the top who made a lot of money. But they didn't do the work. Now we are coming to see that the workingman deserves a better break. You saw that before we did—with higher wages, you attempted to answer it.

"I'm not here to say that our plan—or your way of doing it—is the best. But I'm a bit inclined to think that before we're through, we'll still have free enterprise in both Britain and America, but under more thorough regulation, so that the man who works with his hands gets a better deal.

"And I think—despite the mistakes that have been and will be made by our Labor Government—that's what the fair outcome will and should be."

Taylor Will Address Local Kiwanis Club

William Taylor, executive secretary of the Columbus Industrial Association, will be the speaker at today's meeting of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club at Schmelzer's Restaurant, 3178 W. Broad-st.

His subject will be: "Present Day Labor Relations." The program is in the hands of John Apel and will be in observance of Labor Day. The speaker is expected to discuss some phases of the Taft-Hartley Bill and the recently vetoed Van Acken Bill that was passed by the Ohio Legislature and then blocked by Gov. Thomas Herbert.

Last week Coaches Dale Rose. Mac Pemberton and George Williams presented a sports quiz that caught most Kiwanians short on knowledge of most local sports happenings.

W. Haydn Jones and Robert Nash are in charge of an all-music program to be put on at the Sept. 4 meeting of the local club.

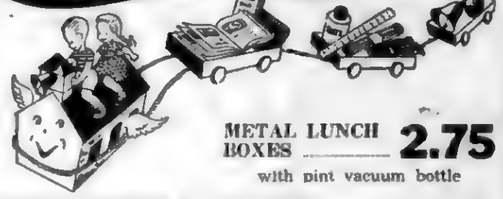
Fair Time

The time for county and state fairs is here again and as usual the State of Ohio will have more county fairs than any other state in the Union. Ohioans love fairs and other county-wide gatherings. Few are the counties that do not have their own county seat fair and unlike some other institutions, their popularity continues to grow year after year although there have been comparatively few changes in the pattern of their programs.

Time was when the fair was thought of as being of interest primarily to farmers. Today it is attended by thousands of city folks. While we know of no figures to bear out our contention, we personally have the feeling that the turnstiles are patronized by more urbanites than rural folk.

Here in Columbus the Ohio State Fair has long since outgrown its site and steps have been taken to re-locate on a larger tract of land. It is one of the outstanding events in the state from year to year. Its cancellation during the war period seemed only to add to its popularity. Fair officials are expecting one of the largest attendances in history when the gates open this year.



Yes. The fair seems to be here to stay.

Modern Poetry

ANNE BOLEYN
O'SHAUGENNESSY

Anne Boleyn O'Shaugnessey
Bent over her laundry tub.
Her red, rheumatic hands gave Decisive, final rub.

But O, the fierce blue blood of kings
Pounded hard within,
And there looked out from tired eyes
The soul of Anne Boleyn.

Ruth Crary Clough, in THE AMERICAN ALBUM OF POETRY

A NINE-YEAR-OLD BOY'S DEFINITION OF KNEES

Knees are pretty important.
They're the things
that push through your pants when you play marbles.
They're the things
that get the hard bumps and skinned when you fall.
that help your legs bend
when you walk.
They're the things
that shake
when you're scared.
They're the things that you open doors with when you're carrying bundles.
They're the things
that your daddy puts you when you're bad.
They're the things you sit on when you say your prayers.
And they're the things that you lean against when you tell your mother stuff.
Most people never stop to think that knees are pretty important.

Two Years After and Still a Mess

Service Acquired

By Kel Fuller

A Defeated Nation

Rubbled buildings, people without homes, hungry men, women and children, a demobilized knapsacked soldier trodding toward where his home had been, prison camps filled with men of all descriptions. This, in a nutshell, was Germany immediately after her surrender. This was what came of the dream of a few fanatic and depraved men to rule the world, establish German superiority, and subjugate, forever, free people.

The German people were sorry then that they fought. They denied responsibility, claimed they had been duped and misled by the Nazis, the reprehensible scum who flourished in the chaos which prevailed in Germany after the first war. When the inept Weimar Republic, Germany's attempt at democracy failed, the ambitious and heartless men gathering followers at every turn, came into power and systematically eliminated all who opposed them. The German people fell in line, possibly because they were coerced, but more probably because of political indifference. They liked the symbol of power that was represented to them by the fiery Adolph Hitler. Adolph Hitler who was to lead them to world conquest, instead, left them shouldering the responsibility for the greatest catastrophe history has ever seen.

Fuller

On the record against every German is the blood of every man who died in this war which they instigated. On the record against them also is the unspeakable horrors of Buchenwald, Dachau, and the rest of the torture camps where thousands of political prisoners, and men whose only crime was their race, were put to death by ghastly means. In these camps, at the hands of human beings, civilization reached its stage of greatest degredation. Never in history had so many crimes been perpetrated by men against men. These camps and what they stood for violated the entire being of every decent person who saw them. The stench of rotting flesh, so acrid that it paralized for a time the olfactory system, rose in great clouds over the chambers. It is a stench that even soothing application of time will never erase from the nostrils of civilized man. It is recorded and should stand as lasting evidence of the magnitude of the guilt of the German people.

If no other reason for this last war can be given, it might be said that it was fought in the name of common decency. It is only proper that people guilty of such inhumanities as the Germans, be subjected to a thorough defeat. The hardships they are enduring now are mild, compared to the hardships they created for others.

Before Germany can take her place among the nations of the world, she will have to be completely re-indoctrinated. The Nazi ideology is so firmly implanted in the youth of the country that it will take several generations to stamp it out.

It seems that under the present plan of reconstruction, with four countries occupying four different zones, Germany will emerge as a divided unit. Possibly never again will she be a militant power. But her people are industrious. If not checked closely, she will rise to fight again. If occupying forces ever leave, which doesn't seem likely as long as the world is lining up into two camps, Germany could equip herself to fight probably within 25 years.

Her ability to make war isn't regarded lightly and there is a good possibility, if she were to go unoccupied, that she would be wooed by her former enemies. Conceivably, if Russia and the Western Allies do go to war, Germany would be the battle ground. If Germany had a choice in the matter, she would fight on the side of the Western Democracies, since her hatred for Russia knows no bounds. It would be an ironical twist of fate if that came about. For this reason, if none other, Russia will keep troops in Germany, and will do little to aid in reconstruction. Her aim will be to keep Germany weak for the purpose of aiding her own defense. Our object is to keep Germany unable to fight, but for the purpose of preventing wars. We hope to help reconstruct Germany so she can again become a thriving nation. We hope to help the Germans get on their feet and encourage them to use their marveolus energy and industriousness to benefit mankind. If Germany devoted her ability to bettering humanity, she could help wipe out some of the guilt that is now on the record against her.

That is what we hope to accomplish in our zone in Germany. We have sent a lot of money and contemplate sending materials there for this purpose. It is doubtful if Russia is doing the same in her section. Most of her activity is behind an iron curtain, but it is reasonable to expect she is getting her fair share of revenge for what was done to her country.

What will come of Germany is anybody's guess. She may become a battle ground or emerge from this occupation as a healthful nation, contributing to a better world. Her condition at the moment is bad, but there are few people who sympathize with her. She made her bed.

How To Market An Invention?

Projects, Inc. Has The Answer To Amateur Inventors' Dilemma

Have you invented a better mousetrap, some new fangled kitchen gadget or a safety devise for the old jalopy?

If you have and development and production of the invention is your particular headache, George Barok, 79 Algonquin-av, is the man you ought to see. For his firm, known as Projects, Inc., 207 E. Long-st, is devoted to the perfection, production and marketing of items that the average inventor is not in a position to handle for himself.

Being possessed of an inventive nature himself, Mr. Barok has invented and patented a half dozen items, some of them already on the market, others yet in the development stage. They bring him a tidy sum each month but his main interest is in helping "amateur" inventors get the product of their brain before the buying public.

Admitting that he had been in "30 or more businesses" during his life, Barok sold out the Standard Machinery Corporation more than a year ago to devote his entire time to Projects, Inc.

Numerous Items Handled

Typical of the numerous items that he has already taken on for inventors is the patented wire twister used in erecting woven wire fence. A farmer down near Laurelville, Ohio, invented the gadget 18 years ago. He even went so far as to have it patented but didn't know what to do from there on—having no capital to go into the manufacturing business himself.

Barok picked up the idea—investigated the need for such an item, figured out production costs and potential market price and prepared to sell the idea to a manufacturer. The Urbana Manufacturing Company was interested in the item and today is working on the first order for 200,000 units. The tool should net the inventor a nice sum in royalties. At the same time Projects, Inc. will receive a fixed percentaged on every manufactured item for the duration of the patent's life.

"Many times people come in with ideas in the rough or with patents pending," Barok said.

"In such cases we must figure out whether or not there is a patent infringement on some existing item already on the market—whether the item is practical and can be sold to the public."

"It's like buying a 'cat in a bag' to buy an idea that is not already covered by a patent," he explained.

Projects, Inc. works strictly on a percentage basis of the manufactured article. There is no service fee charged for looking into the possibilities of any new invention. If it is not marketable, it doesn't cost the inventor a dime to find it out. On the other hand, if it will sell to the public, both the inventor and Projects profit.

Barok displayed a dozen or more gadgets that are or will be on the market shortly that his concern has promoted. He offers a service that includes engineering, cost analysis, production and even marketing facilities.

Included in the list of items was an educational furniture set that can be taken down and put back together by the child; a one-piece plastics tie and belt holder; a labor saving tool consisting of an electric motor with a flexible shaft suitable for drill, buffing, etc. (The whole outfit is mounted on a harness that the workman can carry on his back.); an air compressor; a lawn mower sharpener; a kit of dies for stamping out washers; and many others.

Other officers of the concern of which Barok is the president, are W. T. Parker, owner of Hennick's Restaurant, vice president, and B. L. Kerferke, secretary-treasurer.

Barok came to this country from Verseg, Hungary, on a visit when a boy of 18. The skyscrapers of Manhatian intrigued him and he never went back home. In two days time he had a job as a machinist's helper.

His father was a railroader and he had graduated from high school before coming to this country. He never continued his formal education further but he soon became a competent machinist and tool maker.

He has lived on the Hilltop for more than 22 years and has been a resident of Columbus since 1913. A son, Robert Barok, lives at 233 N. Ogden-av. He and Mrs. Barok provided a home for Mrs. J. L. Ault, now married to a prosperous Dayton man. Mrs. Barok operates a flower shop at the Long-st address.

Barok has always been a Republican. He carries letters of endorsement from high Republican officials including William Schneider, Franklin County Executive Committee Chairman, Senator John W. Bricker and others.

During the war he turned out more than $500,000 worth of tools, dies, jigs and fixtures for Curtiss-Wright and other war contractors.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout Troop No. 103 with Mrs. Deitchle as leader, won three first prizes at the Ohio State Junior Fair. They were for camp craft, fields of interest and miscellaneous arts and crafts.

These events were entered as troop projects. The troop entered three and won all three. Individual entries by Shirley Deitchle won second prizes. They were for cookies and sewing.

Troop 103 attended the Girl Scout Fashion Show at the Palace Theater Thursday morning. The show was put on by the Union and the American Girl magazine.

Mrs. C. F. Deitchle, leader of Troop 103, was presented with one dozen roses on the "Listen Ladies" broadcast Thursday over WCOL for sending in the best household hint of the week.

Mrs. Deitchle wrote: "With the state fair in progress, many families will be picnicing on the grounds. Did you ever have the tablecloth keep blowing up when you are trying to set the table?

"Well, if you have here's what to do. Sew a little pocket in the corners on the under side and place a stone about the size of an egg in each pocket and your problem is solved."

Troop 103 won first prize at the fair on a friendship tablecloth which has this feature.

Three Hilltoppers On Grid Squad At Ohio State This Fall

When the Scarlet and Gray football candidates report for the start of practice at Ohio Stadium on Sept. 3 there will be three Hilltoppers trying to win berths on the starting eleven.

Two of the men are graduates of West High School, making enviable records for themselves in three or more sports while the fourth is a Springfield graduate who now makes his home in the community.

Dick Slager, class of '46, will be bidding for the No. 1 quarterback spot on Coach Wes Fesler's first Buckeye eleven while Dick Layne, '45, competes for the left end position. Jim Palmer, whose home is on Ogden-av, a native of Springfield, will be the other local candidate.

Slager, who starred in football, basketball, baseball, track and tennis at West in '44, '45 and '46, saw plenty of action in spring training and was the No. 1 man in the signal-calling spot with George Spencer absent while playing baseball.

He started every junior varsity game last year except the Miami game when he was with the varsity at Wisconsin. This fall in addition to him and Spencer, there will be such other stalwarts as Pete Perini, who was shifted from fullback to quarter by Fesler, Billy Doolittle, Pandel Savic and Hal Daugherty who will report back from the service in October.

A pre-medical student, Dick selected OSU over offers from other schools including Notre Dame. He explains that he wants to practice medicine in Columbus and that a medical education here plus whatever publicity might come his way as a result of his gridiron ability would be to his credit later on. Of course no one can argue with the soundness of that logic but those who are close to him say that his one ambition in life is to play football in the big horseshoe. The fact that his father, Forman Slager, 3122 Wicklow-rd, is a strong rooter for OSU didn't detract from his own interest in trying to make good for the Scarlet and Gray. It looks like a safe bet that he will be calling the signals at least part of the time this fall

He will report for practice at 195 pounds, about 10 pounds heavier than his playing days at West High.

Layne Played JV

Layne, who played two years with Slager at West, also played a full year on the junior varsity at OSU in the fall of '45. Last fall he assisted his former coach, Dale Rose, now football mentor at Capital University. He worked out with Fesler's team again in spring training.

Under Rose's coaching at West he became an outstanding tackle, receiving all high mention. He also starred in baseball, basketball and track, accumulating 10 varsity letters in the four sports.

Layne, who lives at 639 S. Eureka-av, will report to Coach Fesler at 210 pounds, 15 pounds over his scholastic playing weight of 195. He looks forward to a career in commercial art although he has had considerable encouragement that Warner Brothers Studio might wave a contract in his direction ere many months pass by. He recently returned from a visit to the flicker capital where he successfully passed a "reading" and was promised a part in a picture scheduled to start production in January.

So all-in-all Hilltop fans should have no lack of interest in the fortunes of OSU this fall what with two native sons and one adopted son likely to see action at various times.

Red Birds Are Home Today In Final Series

Westgate Downs West Park 3-2, Claim West Church Title

Jimmy McElwee, the smallest shortstop in the West Church League, was the sparkplug of Westgate Evangelical Monday night as that team defeated West Park Methodist 3 to 2 and thus cinched both the first and second rounds of play in the West Church League.

Jimmy came through with a ringing triple in his first trip to the plate in the first inning and then went on to do some spectacular fielding that robbed the Methodists of some "sure" hits.

Westgate got all its runs in the first inning off Pitcher Ed Everhart when Johnson doubled. McElwee's triple scored Johnson and then Wendell Glass homered to account for runs two and three Ralph Watts homered in the third inning but was called out when he failed to touch first base. Doc Cross got credit for the win, giving up only three hits.

The game was a playoff for the first round championship after a tie resulted. The Evangelicals won the second round unchallanged. The only defeat suffered in the league this year was at the hands of West Park Methodist in the first round.

Coon Dog Trials To Be Held Here Friday, Saturday

The annual Planck-Poston Coon Dog Field Trials will be held on Koebel-rd, three miles east of West Jefferson, on Friday and Saturday of this week with a total of $1000 in prize money posted for the event.

Approximately 250 of the country's best coon hounds are expected to compete for the prize money. The field trials are put on by H. F. (Bud) Poston and Helen and Stuart Planck. It will be the sixth such event held by the two families in recent years.

Prize money includes first tree, $400; second tree, $150; first line, $300 second line, $150.

Russell Hurls No-hitter For Navy Outfit

Johnny Russell, Pharm. Mate 3/c, stationed in Dublin Ga., was the featured player of the U. S. Naval Hospital softball squad according to an article published by a Dublin, Ga. newspaper recently. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Russell, 299 Wrexham-av.

The article read in part:

"Johnny Russell, of the U. S. Naval Hospital softball squad, hurled a no-hitter here last night against the Rentz nine while his mates touched three Rentz hurlers for a total of 24 hits, scoring 36 tallies to make the final score read 36 to 0. Players of the losing squad got on base only four times, each time on an error."

Russell expects to be discharged early next year after having served two years in the Navy. He attended St. Charles and Ohio State University.

Theisen Is Selected As Outstanding In All-Star Classic

Paul Theisen, who held the hard-hitting Cy Youngs' to three hits in four innings of the Sunday all-star game at Red Bird Stadium Sunday along with Jackie Wilson were named the outstanding players from both sides and received autographed baseballs.

Wilson got three hits, including a triple, to spark the Youngs' 9 to 0 victory over the Tris Speakers.

The Knothole classic attracted better than 1000 persons.

JOINS MUSKIES

Dick Gilmore, former West High School grid star, will be seeking a berth on the Muskingum College eleven. He was a mainstay on the 1944 team.

On our way down to Greenfield recently we picked up a young man near Mt. Sterling, just out of the navy after five years of service. State authorities are contemplating the elimination of the state fair admission in future years. We sincerely doubt if the small price charged has kept anyone from seeing the big show and we don't go along with the politicians' plan to give it away, thus adding to the tax burden.

Boy Is Killed On W. Broad

After a Labor Day week-end that was unmarred by a traffic fatality on the Hilltop, a 14-year-old boy was killed by a W. Broad-st trolley coach Tuesday afternoon as he apparently darted into the path of the vehicle.

Herbert Leslie Meekins, son of Mrs. Lilley D. Meekins, an attendant at the Columbus State Hospital, died of a fractured skull a few minutes after being struck by an east-bound trolley near the entrance to the state institution on W. Broad-st. Stanley Notestone, 1275 Hart-rd, driver of the bus, said he was unable to avoid hitting the boy when he ran into the path of his bus.

The boy was pronounced dead upon arrival at Mt. Carmel Hospital. In addition to his mother, he is survived by two brothers, Homer Lee and Clyde, and a sister, Inez, all of Columbus.

The body may be seen after noon today at St. Vincent's Chapel where funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Friday. Interment will be in Mt. Calvary Cemetery by Noble L. Allen.

Piano Is Needed At Wilson School

Wilson School is badly in need of a piano for its auditorium and for use of school children in the music program. The present instrument is considered beyond repair and is hardly in a playable condition.

Parents of the children of the school are interested in knowing if some family might have a piano in fairly good condition that they would be willing to give to the school.

Anyone interested is asked to call Elzie Radcliffe, principal of Wilson School, at RA. 1016 or RA. 7107.

Intra-squad Grid Contest Will Furnish Preview Of Stadium Lights Friday Night

Record Turnout To Be On Hand

Gridiron followers of the West High School will get their first look at the 1947 Cowboy eleven Friday night in a preliminary intra-squad game to be played at Magly Field. The occasion will also give the public its first look at the lights and other recently installed equipment.

All four admission gates will open at 6:30 p. m. with the game scheduled to start promptly at 8 o'clock. Tickets will sell for 25c to all comers and a capacity crowd is expected

Although the game is not a part of the regular schedule, it will lack nothing for color and spirit. Sophomores and juniors in buff and brown uniforms will play a team composed entirely of seniors in white attire. The game is expected to be played in dead earnest since several boys will be making bids for a berth on the starting eleven that will open the season at Springfield the following Friday night.

Coach Pemberton said that he would coach the all-senior White team and that his assistant, Fred Heischman, would be in charge of the sophomore-junior Buff and Brown eleven. Jim Slager was elected by his mates to captain the seniors while Danny Miles will be field general for the underclassmen.

The starting lineups will probably be as follows:

Whites	Pos.	Buff and Br'n
Thrush	LE	Speakman
Wolfe	LT	Weeks
Thumberg	LG	Celli
Andrews	C	Ankrom
Westerman	RG	Moury
Horch	RT	Hostetter
Buckingham	RE	Jaynes
Yeager (C)	QB	Theisen
Chinn	LH	Culbertson
Hicks	RH	Miles (C)
Ehlers or Hutt	FB	Schroder

All the color of a league contest will go to make up a gala evening for local fans. Charles Bennett has promised that he will have both the junior and senior bands on the field to furnish music and do what formations he may be able to work out in the part of a week available for rehearsals. The entire staff of drum majors, majorettes, twirlers and cheer leaders will add color to the event.

Dedication Sept. 26

This will not be the formal dedication of the lights and other field equipment. That will come on the evening of Sept. 26 when the Cowboys meet Central here in the first league game

Immediately following the game, the seniors will sponsor the first dance of the school year, in the gymnasium. Tom Beckett and his orchestra will provide music for dancing. Among those planing the dance are Nonnie Booth, Harriet Worthington, John Glass, Donna Hame and Jim Slager, president of the class.

In an effort to speed up the matter of ticket selling at home games this fall, school officials will operate four different ticket windows. Entrance may be gained at the rear of the stadium (west side); at the baseball gate (southeast corner); at the gate adjoining the building (north side); and at the main entrance on Powell-av (northeast corner).

On exhibition for the first time that night in addition to the playing lights will be the new electric scoreboard purchased by the West High Boosters Club; the new band stand, made possible by a contribution from the Hilltop Kiwanis Club; and an improved public address system, improvements having been made by the Hilltop Business Association.

Meet "Miss Columbus 1947"

Miss Kietzman

Winning beauty contests is becoming a habit with Miss Shirley Kietzman, 2941 Crescent-dr, and keeping the "Miss Columbus" title on the Hilltop seems to be a new first for the community. (Citizen Photo)

The brown-haired, green-eyed local beauty might now be referred to as "Miss Ohio Republican Club," alias "Miss Franklinton 1947," alias "Miss Columbus 1947" as a result of her annexing the latter title on the stage of the Palace Theater Friday night

Miss Kietzman kept the "Miss Columbus" title on the Hilltop when she accepted the crown from Miss Gladys Sahr 99 S. Terrace-av, winner of last year's honor plus an equally impressive list of beauty prizes.

Second place in last week's judging went to another Hilltopper, Miss Laura Furman, 16, of 78 N. Terrace-av.

Residents Favor City Annexation West of Hilltop Survey Reveals

As a result of a recent Hilltop Record survey by telephone, it was noted that five out of eight persons consulted concerning the proposed city annexation of the area west of the city limits to Georgesville-rd (south of W. Broad-st), favored the movement, while the remaining three were for the corporation of the area into the village of Camp Chase.

Residents listed as having telephones on Derrer-rd, Josephine, Florence, Coolidge, Broadlawn and Volney-avs, as well as those living on the south side of W. Broad-st from the city limits to the Georgesville-rd, were contacted and asked their attitude on the recently proposed city annexation of that section, which has the Fisher Body-Ternstedt plant within its boundaries.

Though most of those answering the phone were housewives, thus not representing the taxpaying element in many households, five of them were definitely in favor of becoming part of the city of Columbus, rather than becoming the individual Camp Chase Village. Their reasons were varied and included such comments as, "more expensive other way," "more advantages as part of Columbus."

The three opponents to becoming part of the metropolis were more definite in their reasons. One gentleman stated "it will double our taxes to be annexed to the city. The best thing is to become the Village of Camp Chase."

Another said, "I want the Village so we can restrict beer houses, and besides, I do not care for city politics."

Just exactly what will result in the future has yet to be decided. Proposed city annexation of the section in question will be brought before City Council next Monday evening for its approval. The question of incorporating the portion into the Village of Camp Chase has been in courts for the past year and at present, nothing definite has been decided upon the matter.

The annual sale of auto drivers' licenses got under way at Robinson's Electric Store, W. Broad-st at Wayne-av, this week. Members of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club are in charge of the sale All proceeds are used by the club for underprivileged and other social work.

During the last year more than $400 was spent by the club in helping underprivileged children. The newly organized Hilltop Juvenile Council is a phase of that work. Kiwanians also provided a band stand for West High School this year.

Russell Henry is chairman of the license sale committee. Other members are Darrel Jacques, Charles Reichelderfer and Morgan Murphy.

Voters May Decide On Charter Amendment To Provide City With Finance Director And Raise Salary of Mayor, Council

A charter amendment to modernize the finance functions of Columbus city government has been proposed for submission to the voters at the November election, it was learned by The Hilltop Record today.

The proposal is the result of a study of city finances by the Metropolitan Committee, which sponsored the $24,700,000 bond issues voted two years ago, and by Citizens Research, Inc., which has conducted a continuing analysis of local governmental affairs for many years.

City Council will meet at 3 p. m. today to consider the request from the two organizations that the proposal be placed on the November ballot. Call for the special meeting of Council was made by President Joseph R. Jones in response to requests from Preston Davis, president of Citizens Research, and Paul R. Gingher, chairman of the Metropolitan Committee.

The proposed charter amendment would simplify and modernize city finance offices which were originally set up in the charter in 1914 and have been modified piece-meal during the last 33 years, according to sponsors of the plan.

It would create the office of finance director in city government. The director would be appointed by the mayor, subject to confirmation by Council

The offices of city auditor, treasurer and board of purchase would be abolished and the duties assigned to the finance department.

Since the term of office of the present city auditor, R. P. Barthalow, the only elective official affected, does not expire until Dec 31, 1950, amendment provisions affecting that office would be effective at that time.

The proposal also would change salaries of elective city officials as part of a plan to raise pay standards throughout the city government from levels which are generally recognized to be too low, the sponsors of the amendment asserted. Salary of the mayor would be raised from $6000 to $10,500, of city attorney from $5400 to $7500 and of councilmen from $1000 to $3000.

Committees of the two civic organizations which studied the plan pointed out that it has been impossible to pay salaries in keeping with the 20 million dollar a year city business when elected officials at the top were frozen at 1914 pay levels. They cited salaries of Toledo councilmen, who receive $3600, as a typical example

Herbert N. Lape, Sr., president of the Chamber of Commerce, Walter F. Reiter, vice-president of the City National Bank, and Byron E. Ford, attorney, conducted the study for the Metropolitan Committee, and John W. King, attorney, drafted the proposed amendment for Citizens Research.

If the plan is approved at today's meeting of City Council it will be submitted to the voters Nov. 4. A majority vote is required for passage.

No Decision Reached On Rome Sewer

Approximately 150 people sat through a lengthy hearing held by the Franklin County Commissioners Tuesday on the proposed Rome sewer project.

George Matson of Westgate Way, one of the [illegible] said that no decision should be made on the matter and that five days or more would be required for the board to pass on the controversial issue.

Legal counsel for Judge Edward Turner, owner of considerable farm acreage through which the proposed sewer trunks would have to pass, strenuously objected to allowing the project to go ahead, maintaining that the decision would be confiscatory.

Property owners in the Rome sector contended that possession of valuable property should not be allowed to stand in the way of an improvement that will benefit many families in the area west of the city.

"We don't know what decision we will reach as far as the county is concerned," Matson said, speaking for the commissioners.

Alvin Richards, owner of several lots in that area, said that while he would not be benefited directly, he was willing to carry his share of the assessments so that the sewer could go through

Miss Julia Billingsley Is National Winner In George Washington Essay Writing Contest

Miss Julia Billingsley, 328 N. Warren-av, marshal of Bethel No. 3, Order of Job's Daughters, recently returned from Washington, D. Her essay was the only one entered from the State of Ohio.

Miss Billingsley will receive first prize which will probably total about $25. The Job's Daughters consists of girls from 12 to 18 years of age. Penn-Dickendesher Wedding Solemnized Here In Beautiful Church Ceremony Escorted up the aisle of the candle lighted St. John Lutheran Church, Miss Betty Jane Dickendesher became the bride of Mr. Robert Penn on Sunday, Aug. 31, at 4:30 in the afternoon. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. C. T. Langholz before an altar decorated with gladioli, chrysanthemums and daisies. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dickendesher of 607 Townsend-av and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Penn of 519 N. Harris-av.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown of dotted sheer white rayon, off-shoulder design with illusion yoke and long sleeves which came to a point over the hands, and a circular skirt finishing off in a three-foot train. She carried a bouquet of white roses with a removable corsage of gamelias. Her long veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms.

Preceding the bride to the altar was junior bridesmaid Shirley Dickendesher, sister of the bride, attired in pink dotted sheer rayon, followed by Mrs. Robert D. Nash as bridesmaid, whose gown was of blue dotted sheer rayon, and the matron of honor, Mrs. E. P. Amerine, sister of the groom, chose the sheer dotted rayon in yellow. Little Elaine Amerine as flower girl scattered rose petals before the bride and was attired in white sheer dotted rayon over green, her gown being designed like that of the bride. All carried bouquets of shattered carnations in contrasting colors.

Miss Kitty Lou Cline accompanied at the organ by Miss Janice Judy gave a recital of nuptial music preceding the ceremony. Her songs included "I Love Thee," "Through The Years," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Best man for Mr. Penn was Mr. E. P. Amerine and those who seated the guests were Mr. Thomas Cline, Mr. Floyd Kelley, Mr. James McElwee and Mr. Donald Cheever.

Mrs. Dickendesher, mother of the bride, wore a gown of sheer black with white accessories and her shoulder corsage was of red carnations. The mother of the groom was attired in a black and white print with black patent accessories and also wore a corsage of red carnations.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a brown gaberdine dress maker suit with brown leather accessories and wore the gamelia corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The new Mrs. Penn is a graduate of West High School and has been employed at the Ohio Farm Bureau. Mr. Penn also attended West High School and is now associated in business with his father.

Didn't Break Law

A driver who was not breaking any law, and two passengers with him, burned to death in this inferno when a reckless overtaking motorist tried to pass their car where the way was too narrow. His engine rammed into the gasoline tank, setting it afire, and the car was knocked off the road, end over end into a field, where it quickly turned into a molten furnace. The lawbreaker himself was not injured—such is the irony of highway accidents. National Conservation Bureau safety specialists report that improper passing ranked fifth as a cause of motor vehicle deaths last year; most often it was combined with excessive speed which accounted for at least 8,000 fatalities.

Economics should be taught in college on the "your guess is as good as mine" basis.

Fur Trims Return As Luxury Tax Ends

Luxurious fur trimmed coats are fashion news again this fall and with the removal of the twenty per cent luxury tax on fur trimmed garments, they'll be on the must list for every woman. The luxurious, wide silver fox collar on this beautiful, full-backed coat designed by Molly, puts it at top place on the fashion list.

Local Senior Scouting Units Have Part In "Buckskin Adventure"

A group of local Sea and Air Scouts from the Hilltop played an important role in the "Buckskin Adventure" for senior scouts held at Carrollton, Ky., Aug. 28, 29 and 30. The affair was attended by almost 1000 boys from all over this section of the country.

The following account of their experiences is given by V. A. Sanford, 277 N. Ogden-av, skipper of Sea Scout Ship No. 3:

"Sea Scout Ship No. 3, under the leadership of V. A. Sanford, and Second Mate Don Doran, 57 N. Terrace-av, arrived at Butler State Park Sunday, Aug. 24, with the following crews:

"Crew No. 2, R. Gaskill, crew leader, and members Jerry Smith, Herbert Leach and John Ross; Crew No. 1, Bob Burnett, crew leader, and members Dick Burnett, Fred Webb and Norman Ealy.

"Camp was established at once and then followed three days of swimming, boating and sightseeing in and around Carrollton and Butler Park.

"Thursday the adventure began and the camp became part of a large encampment of sea, air and explorer scouts. Jerry Smith was assigned to registration work and served many hours under B. Whitehead in this capacity. When Governor Willis of Kentucky arrived Thursday afternoon, Sea Scout Ship No. 3 provided the color guard and escort of six men and officers and led the scout oath and law at the presentation of the governor. Thursday night the entire ship served on special duty assignments. Friday morning several of the ships participated in various boat demonstrations as well as life saving and swimming exhibitions, including descents to the lake bottom by the use of diving equipment. Exhibition of trap-shooting, bait casting, water skiing, archery, axemanship, glider flying, Indian war dances and many other specials were enjoyed throughout the morning and afternoon.

"When Major General Devine and several ranking officers from Fort Knox arrived, Sea Scout Ship No. 3 again furnished the color guard and led the parade of about 600 sea, air and explorer scouts to the assembly and led the scouts' part of the program. Music was furnished by the DuPont Manual High School Band of Louisville.

"The Sea Scouts and officers participated in the radio broadcasts from WLW and WHAS, heard Saturday afternoon at 3:15 to 3:30 from WLW and 4:30 to 5 from WHAS.

"Friday night a country frolic with free lunch and dates for all the fellows. Music was by the Renfro Valley Barn Dance group and was followed by motion pictures and a rededication program in which H. Leach of Sea Scout Ship No. 3 represented the sea scouts encampment. Saturday morning was spent in airplane rides over the Ohio River, Kentucky and Indiana by all members of the sea scout ships with Dal Shady, squadron leader of Air Squadron No. 3, at the controls.

"Saturday afternoon and evening were spent in swimming, boating and eating, with the group returning to Columbus Sunday afternoon about 3 p. m.

Ted Webb, outdoors committeeman for the ships, and Gil Bolin, field executive of the Southwest District, spent the better part of the week at the encampment, flying down with Shadv.

"Transportation was furnished by Dave Patton of Patton Warehouse, Inc., and glider rides by Paul Stouter and Gomer Jones of the Sullivant Avenue Airport."

Sea Scout Ship No. 3 and Air Squadron No. 3 are sponsored by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club. Charles Reichelderfer is chairman of the committee. Other members are Ted Webb, Dr. Fred Marsch and Herman Eisle.

Modern Poetry

By Esther Weakley

YESTERDAY
Once there was starlight to discover,
Bright hours where the roses are;
Each day a constant, tender lover;
Each fading, star.
Once there was time, and never-ending

Beauty, still with silent themes
Bright lanes into tomorrow wending;
Once there were dreams.

Julia Savarese, in her book DREAMING SPIRES.

BOOK ENDS
The little shoes he wore so long ago,
Now bronzed and styled to hold her books in place,
Are frequently admired, and queries put:
"Your baby's shoes?" She smiles and nods,
Loath to reveal to idle questioning
The thoughts they conjure up.
For he was three, and stepped from these
Into the Great Beyond.

Florence M. Lever, in CAVALCADE.

OF ALL UNLOVED CREATURES
Eyes in a city speak volumes
a tongue can never say,
In these there's a burning, burning all night, all day.

There is no peace in a city when eyes melt into eyes in a great lonely language of no replies.

Eyes of all unloved creatures haunt the city street.
Where is the heart's green meadow where they can meet?
Joseph Joel Keith, in his book, THE PROUD PEOPLE

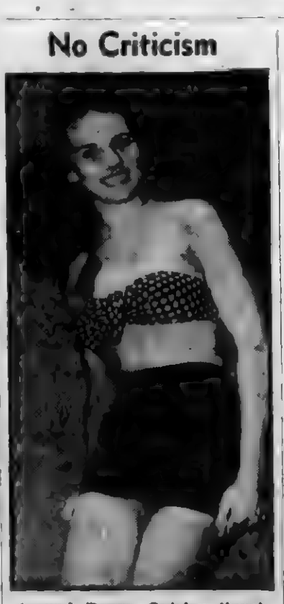
FIRST FLOOR PLAN · THE DAWSON
SECOND FLOOR PLAN · THE DAWSON



THE DAWSON—White clapboard in combination with red brick has for long been a favorite device of architects to achieve style; the two story, six room house has for long been the favorite of home builders. In The Dawson, these two old time favorites have been combined in a design that leaves little room for improvement. The perfectly square house has the least amount of walls and roof per square foot of floor area and therefore costs less than do rambling plans. The Dawson, 26 feet by 30 feet, manages to approximate the perfect square and yet retains its pleasing lines. It has nothing of the top heavy, boxy appearance that characterizes so many small, two story houses. Cubes approximately 18,000 feet. The Dawson has been so designed that on almost any lot some living room windows may face the southern winter sun. It has the added advantage of fitting on a narrow lot. The room arrangement is ideal. Either "front" entrance leads into a hallway with a splendid coat closet. The large living room features an open fireplace. There is both a real dining room and eating space in the kitchen. A luxury is the downstairs lavatory. Large bedrooms, plenty of closets and room space for an extra lavatory are highspots of the second floor. Complete working drawings and specifications are available to readers of this newspaper for $7.50 per set from Housing Plan Service—140 Nassau Street—New York 7, N. Y.

Hughes Inspects His World's Biggest Plane

CONSOLATION—THAT'S ALL

The head of an outstanding law firm had heard that one of his young assistants was protesting to the staff that he had received no credit for his contribution in solving a particularly difficult case. The young man claimed that the executive head of the firm had claimed all the glory for himself. Later a secretary from the inner office brought a note to the young man signed by the boss which read: "When we are young we find that we often fail to receive full credit for what we do. But when we grow older we find that we are frequently given more credit than we deserve."

To worry about tomorrow is to fail of devotion to the tasks of today, and so to spoil both days. —William DeWitt Hyde.

Periodic Motor Vehicle Inspection Is Important

By Thomas N. Beale
Director, Special Service Division, National Conservation Bureau

Have you ever faced a single onrushing headlight and uneasily wondered whether the approaching vehicle was a motorcycle or an automobile with one headlight not working? Have you ever frantically stabbed at the horn button in an emergency and received only silence—or jammed on brakes that would not hold, or that spun the car around like a top? Have you ever felt a blowout drag at the wheel and swerve your car like a clutching hand? If you have, you realize these things cause accidents, and that keeping a motor vehicle in good repair is highly important as a preventative measure.

Defective equipment is reported to be currently the cause of 18% of the nation's traffic fatalities. That represents a steady increase in accidents resulting from this cause, beginning with 8% for the last pre-war year.

Faulty brakes, improper lights, and overworn tires constituted nearly half of the mechanical deficiencies. Recent evidence developed by the National Brake Emphasis Program reveals that 14.3% of vehicles checked had faulty brakes. More thorough brake tests which include equalization, made in connection with periodic inspection programs, usually develop that 40% to 60% of the vehicles have poor brakes. Greater traffic safety results from frequent inspections. This has been the experience of states and cities having a periodic inspection program. The purpose of periodic motor vehicle inspection is to discover any maladjustments in vehicles that might lead to accidents and, by correcting those maladjustments, to prevent accidents.

There are 10 major benefits resulting from motor vehicle inspection:

(1) It improves the general standard of vehicle condition.

(2) It maintains an automobile at a higher value level by lessening depreciation.

(3) It affords opportunity to check motor and serial numbers actually on the vehicle against registration certificates, and in other ways to assist in the enforcement of motor vehicle laws.

(4) It improves the quality of garage workmanship in making adjustments and repairs.

(5) It provides an excellent opportunity to inform drivers about the condition of their cars and their responsibility for driving safely 365 days in the year.

(6) The psychological effect on the driver is considerable, for the motorist who has been shown that his brakes meet only the minimum requirements will tend to drive more carefully.

(7) Inspections also help to educate and keep car owners aware that certain parts need periodic attention and that it is less expensive to have the vehicle checked regularly and kept in repair than to wait until a breakdown occurs.

(8) Rejection of a vehicle usually informs the motorist in a specific way that he is driving an unsafe car, and that as a consequence he is liable to be held as the negligent party in the event of a collision with a car that has been properly maintained.

(9) The driver who subjects his car to periodic inspection tends to cooperate with enforcement officers and the general public in the observance of traffic rules and regulations.

(10) Periodic inspection provides for the motorist an inexpensive maintenance service not available elsewhere.

In 1946, police officers of the United States, Canada and Honolulu, examined nearly three million vehicles during a six-week accident prevention program. They found that 32.3% of all vehicles examined — nearly one third—had obvious and hazardous mechanical defects.

A total of 2,860,346 vehicle checks were made. Of this number 922,775 had one or more defects. The total number of defects reported by types was 1,231,161 —almost one dangerous defect for every two cars examined.

In the United States, 2,716,076 vehicles were checked: 872,290 or 32.1% had defects. In Canada, police checked 128,814 vehicles. 44,107, or 34.2% of which were defective.

In the State of New Jersey, during the first motor vehicle inspection year, there were 413 fewer fatalities, or a reduction of 30%, as compared with the preceding year. Total reportable accidents and non-fatal injuries also decreased 13%. This substantial reduction has been consistently sustained through the years.

Motor vehicle inspections in the United States have been recognized as an accident prevention medium since 1927, when several eastern states developed "Save A Life" campaigns.

There has been steady development to a pre-war total of 8,500,000 motor vehicles being regularly inspected from one to four times each year in 17 states and 15 cities.

Now, two years after V-J Day, this nationwide program has been 100% resumed with at least two states added to the list and 10 additional ones giving serious consideration to legislation requiring periodic motor vehicle inspection in the interest of accident prevention.

Cottons Ring Classroom Bell

When schools fling open their doors this fall fashionable cotton will enter the portals bearing far-reaching style details that will be seen on everyone from kindergarteners to college coeds. Cottons will sweep to the campus outskirts that a new day has dawned bringing a modern, feminine, and more flattering silhouette even to the classrooms. The fashion by-words — longer length, rounded shoulder line, snug waist, slim or full skirts — all will be interpreted in an eye-catching parade of corduroys, velveteens, ginghams, broadcloths, chambrays, poplins and cotton gabardines.

Bobby-soxers and college girls especially will devote a great part of their wardrobes to the beautiful piled cottons — velveteens and corduroy — which are making an unprecedented hit with their graceful new lines. Cotton plaid or striped blouses teamed with swing skirts in corduroy or velveteen will rate tops as classroom outfits which double beautifully for coke dates, make smart "on-campus" costumes when topped with a matching jacket. Jumpers either in velveteen or corduroy, are back in a flurry of popularity—for they art two-timing costumes for they are two-timing costumes the school girl who needs so many changes. For smart but casual moments she wears a gay checked or plaid cotton blouse; for that heavy date she whisks it off, wears the jumper with straps up, or ties them at the back, leaving the charming decolletage.

Again corduroy and velveteen, top school cottons, are back in the beloved separates, a delight to the schoolgirl because of their wonderful practicability and smooth styling. Pedal pushers, slacks, skirts, boleros, and jackets are perfect mix and match pieces. The classic sports jacket in its new 1947 length teams easily with slacks and skirts. In fine velveteen it makes a sophisticated lounging topper for slacks, combines with a flaring black skirt that will make the co-ed the belle of the evening.

After dark fashions are a glamorous part of any back-to-school wardrobe—this fall they'll go into the trunk spelling new anticipation for the college girl, reports the Cotton-Textile Institute and National Cotton Council. New lengths — that swish against the calves, touch the ankle bone, or sweep gracefully to the floor—are the season. Velveteen, especially in black, makes long-skirted sophisticated afternoon or tea frocks, topped by long-sleeved jackets. For dinner and dancing the jacket moves out of the spotlight, revealing strapless gowns in the ballet length. No matter what the length the gowns reveal bare shoulders, snug bodice, and hip accents (be they gathers, tucks, pastures, or drapes.

School days are gay days, but they'll always be rainy ones, too, and this fall's cotton raincoats are brightly colored to keep spirits up, and beautifully styled to keep the school girl smartly attired. Great swing backs, hoods attached or buttoned on, long sweeping skirts are the big fashion news. Their full styling makes them a special boon to book and notebook carriers who need plenty of room. Spritely plaids vie for honors with the corduroys, which are treated for water repellency. Some cotton coats are treated with a suede finish to make them soft and flattering as well as rain resistant.

Pigtailers, pre-teens and the younger bobby-soxers come in for just as much smart styling as their older sisters. Yards and yards of gingham, poplin, or chambray will be swirling in skirts that will soon grace the school grounds. During recess periods it's a certainty little girls will be swirling like ballet dancers, a delightful pastime they haven't had a chance to indulge in since the war began. Plaids, plaids, plaids, in an army of new dark colors are brightened with pastel tones that are flattering even for the tiny tots. Collars take on a new importance as they reach wider and deeper proportions. Young necklines will wear cupping Peter Pan collars, big "shawl" collars, and collars with wider points. Capes will grace the shoulders and sleeves of the younger set—copycats of an adult highlight. Long torsos have been adapted in many variations, topping full skirts. Hoods have found their merry way to gingham, corduroy, and chambray dresses, not to speak of sturdy corduroy suits and jackets.

Fashions For Autumn

Corduroy—the campus hit this fall—is equally at home for day or night. At left, a Gibson girl in grey corduroy from Ciro Sportswear. Front fullness is achieved with open pleats highlighted by a rnug bodice . . . a perfect dress for casual wear. Hat by Madcaps. The yellow corduroy at right was designed by Joset Walker for dates or dancing. It features an important off-the-shoulder neckline accented by a wide collar.

Smart to slip into after class—cotton velveteen slacks ensembled with a basque jacket. These tailored separates designed by Frances Sider were created to mix and match with the skirt, knee pants, shorts, and cotton blouses. The skirt shrimp, green, and grey striped—is a gay combination with the nutmeg brown cutfit.

The charming kindergartner climbs on the corduroy handwagon in a royal blue jumper dress. Teamed with a dressy broadcloth blouse it's sure to make a hit with the preschool set. From Sunny Let.

Two brothers, John and Sylvester, who had not spoken to each other for 10 years worried a neighbor. He persuaded Sylvester to greet his brother, who was coming along the street.

"I'll do it to oblige you," said Sylvester, "but he won't answer me."

As the second brother approached, Sylvester spoke:

"John," he said, "when are you going to bring home that iron bar you stole from me, you thief?"

John walked on without a word. Sylvester turned to the peacemaker and said, triumphantly: "I told you he wouldn't speak to me!"

Looking Ahead with Jean Worrel

Life is an exacting business While we are healthy and vigorous, we are sorely tempted to live from day to day and wait for tomorrow's trouble to turn up. On the other hand, if we can plan for tomorrow, if we can safeguard old age, if we can mitigate the disaster of death, how much easier become the problems of today. That's exactly what Life Assurance does for its policyholders. You can solve many of tomorrow's problems by becoming a policyholder of the Sun Life of Canada, thus giving yourself contentment today.

4-in. Praying Mantis Is Captured Here

Newcomer to the Paul Stilwell backyard at 644 Wiltshire-av this past week was a praying mantis four inches long and as fierce looking as a bulldog, on smaller proportions.

Found by the Stilwell's son, the insect was immediately bottled up and fed live flies, which he devoured greedily.

The "praying mantis is remarkable for his grotesque form and for holding his stout anterior legs in a manner suggesting hands folded in prayer. He is also a "preying" mantis, since he preys upon and eats other insects but otherwise is completely harmless, even with all his ugliness.

The Hilltop has had several of the creatures as guests this summer.

West Downs Newark 12-0 In Practice Tilt

The West High 1947 eleven got its first "under fire" experience of the season last Friday when Coach Mack Pemberton took 33 boys to Newark for a practice game. The outcome was a 12 to 0 victory for the Cowboys but it showed up a number of weaknesses on the part of the Hilltoppers.

Additional experiences will be gained by the gridders when sophomore and juniors play an all-senior eleven under the new lights at Magly Field Friday night. Game time has been set at 8 o'clock. An admission of 25c will be charged all comers to help pay for the lights just installed.

The Cowboys were to get their first workout under the lights on Wednesday night of this week. The 1947 schedule will be opened officially when West meets Springfield under the arc lights at Springfield Sept. 12.

Coach Pemberton used all 33 of his boys in the Newark game in an effort to discover what he has for the season just ahead. Fullback Ehlers carried the pigskin nine times for an average of 4.66 yards. Hicks, Chinn, Slager, Smith, Miles, Theisen, Naumoff, Thrush and Speakman each had tries at the Newark forward wall. Miles picked up 19 yards on two tries for the best yardage average.

Penalties were numerous and cost West 30 yards.

A pass, Thrush to Buckingham, resulted in one of the touchdowns. Chinn hit pay dirt for the second marker.

Statistics on the game were as follows:

	West	New'k
First downs	12	2
Gained by rushing	101	53
Lost by rushing	28	43
Gained by pass.	106	7
Lost by pass.	7	0
Net gain	883	17
Penalties	60	15

Westgate Still In Playoffs Of City Church Teams

Westgate Evangelical, 1947 champions of the West Church League, advanced another round in the city playoffs last Thursday night by coming from behind to gain a 4 to 1 victory over Holy Name.

Doc Cross chalked up his 16th win of the seasons as he allowed but two hits in the seven-inning contest. He suffered only one defeat during the entire season, that to West Park Methodist in the first round of play.

It was not until the top half of the fifth frame that the Hilltoppers plated a run to tie up the ball game. Two extra runs in the final inning put the game on ice.

Westgate got six singles for the evening, Ausie Johnson getting credit for two of them, one a double. Bill Williams also slammed out a two-bagger.

That same evening Rome Lutheran was the victim of an 8 to 0 shutout at the hands of St. Patrick.

Four Bowling Teams Open Season Here

Four bowling leagues inaugurated the 1947-48 season at Hilltop Recreation alleys last week and chalked up good scores. The early start was occasioned by holidays that fall on their regular bowling night.

Best tallies of the week were turned in by the fast Business Men's League on Thursday night when Carl Breckenridge, lead off man for Shank and Saunders, dropped 255 pins for high single and 624 for three-game honors. Bill Hayes was close behind with a 621 as Esquire Men's Shop took team honors with a hefty 2685. McCullough's Insurance had the best single game, a 944, rolled in the third game.

In the Suburban League it was Breckenridge again, teaming up with Evan Morgan to help Wilson Floors pile up a 2515 pin total. Breckenridge's 582 was tops for the three game honors while Morgan scored a 223 for the single game honors. High team single game total went to Hilltop Van and Storage with 871 in the second game rolled.

Shroyer Funeral Home copped all honors in the Commercial League that rolled on Monday night. Chuck Worthington was high point man with a 213 in the second game that gave him a three-game count of 548. The second game total was 862 with the three-game total standing at 2489.

The Hilltop Ladies opened their league on Thursday night with honors being divided between Stewart Black Top Drives and Hilltop Jewelers. Frances Patridge had a three-game 492 while her team rolled a 788 in the second game and ended with 2128. Billie Warden, with Hilltop Jewelers, toppled the pins for a 190 single.

In the Monday Lutheran League Howard Davis, bowling with St. John No. 3, turned in a 223 single and 532 for his three games. Doris Davis, same team, took honors for the ladies with 162 and 424.

SCHOOL CHILDREN treking back to their class rooms Tuesday morning brings an ever-returning desire to go back to school again. I never enter a school building without secretly wishing I could sit in a class once more. Sixteen years of exposure to formal educational training never dulled that desire.

Here and now I must confess that I am one of the products of the little old one-room grade school. (This one wasn't red). Now you can understand why they abolished most of them throughout the state. You can still find a few down in the hills of southeastern Ohio and at various other scattered points throughout the state.

Old Liberty School on Sunfish Creek over in Monroe County is gone but the memory of eight years (yes, I got out in eight) spent there left some impressions that time will not erase. Most of the things I remember of course were the humorous happenings (they didn't seem so funny then). There was the little half pint-sized boy who started to school one fall who had a mania for jumping out of windows right in the middle of class periods. He was about the size of the midgets that are continually invading the privacy of Dagwood's bath. The teacher had to lock the door and in spite of hot weather, every window had to be lowered and locked to keep him in the building.

Then there was the big rough eighth grader who insisted on bringing his Hillside Navy chawing tobaccer to school with him. The teacher gave him to understand that it could not be brought on the school grounds. He finally compromised by keeping it in a mail box just off the edge of the playground. Every noon and recess he would go out and have himself a good chaw.

I'll never forget the year that the rural mail carrier fell in love with our new "school marm." He had some excuse to stop at the school building about every day and of course all thoughts of higher learning stopped too. That came to an abrupt halt however, when some other handsome swain in the neighborhood "beat his time." We never got any more mail.

Then there was the girl (about 12 years of age) who cut welts on the legs of most of the fellows with a big raspberry cane for mocking an impediment in her speech.

Those were the "good old days." May they never return.

CITY FOLKS seem to have missed out on what to me was an important part of the social life of the rural community. It was what you might call in highbrow terms "the musicale." We called it a "fiddler's session."

Now for those of you who are not properly informed, there is little relationship between the "fiddler" and the "violinist." It's true they both use the same instrument but there the similarity ends. A violinist usually has music before him at all times; he moves the bow across the strings with the greatest precision, being careful to "up bow" and "down bow" at the proper times and plays for the public only after considerable insistence.

Now the "fiddler" never uses a note of music; couldn't read it if he had the score; his bowing is a style all his own and he plays by the hour just for the love of playing. (I used to belong in the "second fiddle" class).

Ever so often Old Dave Haines used to visit our community. Now Old Dave, as everyone referred to him, was strictly a "fiddler" of the old school. He never knew how many different pieces he had "in his head." He could play all night without repeating a tune. In fact I have heard him play until 4 a. m. and he never repeats a number unless it was by request. He played for the love of playing and he was recognized as the best in that part of Ohio and West Virginia in his day.

Old Dave never connected monetary value with his music. All he needed was an audience of half dozen or more to listen; two or three guitar or piano players for accompaniment (he would wear out at least a couple at a single session) and a light lunch about 12 o'clock. I don't recall that he ever drank anything more than an occasional glass of cider. I never saw him under the influence in the several sessions that I heard him play while I was still a boy.

Lester Boltz, over on S. Ogden-av, will appreciate what I'm writing about. He comes from the same part of the country in which I was raised and is a member of a musical family. Fact is we once had a six-piece string band together. (Dub), we always called him, could get plenty of music out of a banjo or guitar.

This Sunday marks the opening again of the evening services at the Hillcrest Baptist Church, W. Broad-st at Eldon-av. During the months of July and August the church had discontinued this service.

The Rev. J. Herbert Goewey, pastor of Hillcrest, will use as his sermon subject for this re-opening service, "What Is Life?" The service begins at 7:30 p. m.

At the Communion service Sept. 7, 10:30 a. m., Mr. Goewey will use as his communion meditation: "WINDOWS THROUGH WHICH WE SEE MT. CALVARY." There will also be a reception of new members. Both these services are open to the public.

Rev. Herbert Accepts New Pastorate

Rev. Glendon Herbert, pastor of Hilltonia Evangelical United Brethren Church for the past five years, has been named pastor of the First Church at Portsmouth. He occupied his new pulpit Sunday morning and he and Mrs. Herbert will move to Portsmouth today.

Rev. Herbert

Rev. R. S. Parr, minister at the Portsmouth Church, is the new pastor at Hilltonia. He preached his first sermon here Sunday and was to move to Columbus today.

The exchange of pastorates came as the result of action of the Southeast Ohio Conference in session at Circleville last week. Two local ministers were returned to their churches here.

They are Rev. D. S. Mills, pastor of Avondale for the past 20 years, and Rev. C. F. Lutz, who will be starting his sixth year at the Burgess Avenue Church. Dr. C. M. Bowman was re-elected superintendent of the conference for a four-year term.

Rev. Mills was named chairman of the conference mission board while Rev. Lutz was re-elected part-time director of the christian education work in the conference.

Bible Institute Schedules Speaker

The Columbus Bible Institute, 743 Dennison-av, has arranged for special speakers at its opening chapel services next Monday and Tuesday evenings, Sept. 8 and 9, at 7:30.

Rev. Ernest A. Finkenbiner, a former member of the C. B. I. faculty, now deputation secretary for Christian Missions, Inc., will speak during the Monday chapel period and Dr. Clem. E. Hershey, pastor, evangelist and musician of Marion, Ohio, will speak at the Tuesday evening service.

Visitors are encouraged to enjoy these brief services, which are held at the same time every Monday and Tuesday. Throughout the entire school year, chapel leaders will be made public along with the regular weekly church announcements.

Fellowship Work To Be Resumed At Local Church

The Youth Fellowship of the Hilltop Church of God will begin its fall activities on Saturday, Sept. 6, at 7:30 p. m. A service of worship, discussion and recreation will be arranged by Harold Butcher and Dale Wilkins. Young people 12 through 24 are invited to these Saturday night meetings to be held each week. Rev. Charles Ludwig, the evangelist for the revival which begins Sept. 21, will be interviewed on Saturday night, Sept. 27.

Paul H. Plank is the youth counselor and will be working with the new youth officers to be elected in the fall. Under his leadership nine youths from the congregation have answered a call from God to the ministry or religious work and were enrolled in Anderson College, Anderson, Ind., this year. They are Charles and Geraldine Williams, Glen and Carol Scott, Eddie and Dorothy Guyer, Martin and Jo Ann Williams, and Dale Wilkins. Martin Williams and Dale Williams graduated from Anderson College in June. Mr. Williams will continue his study in the field of medical missions at Ohio State this fall. Dale Wilkins will leave within the year for Latin America where he will work as an engineer-missionary. Mr. Wilkins is the assistant to the pastor, Rev. Denver H. Smoot.

Allen, pastor of the Pearl Street Methodist Church of Brockton; his wife, Elizabeth, music teacher and organizer; Ilo Elizabeth, 16-year-old daughter, an accomplished organist; Marie, 15-year-old violinist; Frank, 13-year-old flute and trombone player; John Richard, 10-year-old trumpeter; Herbert Brockton, three-year-old singer and drummer boy.

There will be a mass meeting at the Wheatland Avenue Methodist Church Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Dr. A. L. Fuller is to be the speaker and good music is assured. Greater participation in the exercise of the ballot will be the theme of the meeting.

Prominent laymen in the Ohio and Northern Baptist Convention will lead the conference.

Back To School

Doors opened this week for the start of a new school year. It ought to be a good year both from the standpoint of student and teacher.

Teachers have gotten a long-deserved raise in salary. In most cases it is adequate for them to maintain a reasonable standard of living but goes little further than that. The fact that the public endorsed this salary increase by a very substantial majority should lend encouragement to them in their work. Such has not been the case in all cities and school districts throughout the state.

Some parents may feel that having voted a pay raise for the public school teachers, their part has been done and that the rest is up to the teachers. This, however, is not enough.

One of the biggest problems facing school teachers and administrators today is discipline and it is here that parents of boys and girls in public schools could make a lasting contribution that would be more far-reaching in its effect than the increase in the teacher's pay envelope. Children who are not in the habit of taking orders at home find it difficult to understand why they should be subject to discipline in the school. This creates a problem for the teacher, regardless of the age of the pupil. Discipline should begin in the home and unless it does start there, it is hard for a school system to change the child's way of life.

Too many parents today have made a failure disciplining their children in the home if they have even made an attempt to do it at all. They hope that the public school can do what they have failed to do or that by some method or other their child can go through life without ever having to learn that lesson. The juvenile court is filled with such cases—some of them from the Hilltop.

There used to be an unwritten law in many homes that definitely upheld the edict of the teacher without question. For instance in our home the rule was to the effect that anyone getting a "whipping" in school (whipping was not considered out of date then) automatically got another when he or she returned home, regardless of the circumstances. That seemed very undemocratic to us kids at the time but it sure was effective.

Something of that moral support for the work of the schools is needed in the homes of the Hilltop today if the schools are to succeed in their task mentally and morally preparing the youth for the world of tomorrow. Parents must be concerned over the conduct of their own children both in and out of school. Anything less than that is a detriment to both the child and the teacher who is trying to make something out of that child.

Our Readers Say

Editor, Hilltop Record:

One of the most important and hotest issues to come before the next session of Congress, January, 1948, will be Universal Military Training for all youth 18-21 years of age.

In order for America to build up and maintain an adequate Reserve Force for National Defense and Preparedness against any future aggressors from without or within, which indeed is most vital, as past history reveals.

In accordance therewith, we submit the following plan for said training program known formerly and fathered by the late Major General Leonard Wood, following World War I and put in effect from 1920-1940.

More than 500,000 youth were trained at least basically, all voluntarily enrolled each summer for 30-60 days at a camp nearest the cadet's home.

Here is the most economical and efficient plan or program ever evolved in the USA for youth voluntary training and without compulsion.

(a) The Secretary of War appointed county chairmen in each state of the union who served gratis as recruiting agencies to enroll all 17-21 year old youths desiring the 30-60 day basic military training each summer during July and August. There was no difficulty in securing more than twice the quota assigned each count, as only a limited number could be trained, due to the inadequate appropriations by Congress, lack of camp and officer training personnel.

(b) Officers of the Regular Army and Reserve Corps were assigned as instructors, and did an excellent job, many foregoing their own vacation period to help train the youths for National Defense.

(c) Training Courses comprised: Basic military school of the soldier, citizenship and civil government discipline, respect for law and order, gunnery and rifle marksmanship. Afternoons were given over to athletics for mental and physical development and comradeship, fine gold, silver and bronze medals were awarded the winners.

Chaplains of all faiths held church services every Sunday for moral and spiritual development. Medical, dental, clothing and free transportation with three excellent meals per day were furnished all cadets by the government while in training.

The president, war department and Congress of the United States adopted and approved this remarkable training program as instigated by Major General Wood as an entirely voluntary military training and it shows its value in World War II, as all those former CMTC cadets won citation promotions for their previous training of 1920-1940.

Consensus of opinion; proclaims the voluntary rather than the undemocratic compulsory military training for our youths. Records show that adequate volunteers can be obtained if the soldier or trainee is given the proper incentive.

In conclusion we desire to state that the abovesaid plan of two or three months summertime (vacation period) will not interfere or disrupt the youth' high school or college cirricula in the least degree, whereas a full year's course even after graduation will throw the youth off his balance and be hard to regain his civilian activities or secure employment.

Food for thought: Hitler and his cohorts it appears respected Sweden's and Switzerland's neutrality because they were fully prepared with a well trained Reserve Corps or Reserve Army ready to fight to a finish. Hitler knew that much.

Russia may respect our neutrality if we keep a well trained reserve force of Army, Navy and Air forces. Let your president and Congress know your opinion before January, 1948. It's important. Write or wire them.

To the Editor:

Last Friday West High School began its 1947 football season with an out-of-town game in Newark, and I saw three disappointed future members of the team try to find transportation to the neighboring city for the initial contest of the year.

These sophomore lads, all of whom are fairly well assured of places on the team during the next two seasons, wanted to see "their" team play that opener, but conditions were such that none of their parents could drive that particular evening.

They called the Greyhound bus station and found that the cost to Newark and home again was nearly $3.00. Teen-age boys nowadays can't pull $3.00 from their pockets at a moment's notice. In desperation they decided to hitch-hike, but one concerned father forbade his own son to do that in the interest of his own safety. His pals gave up the idea as well.

The situation brought to mind a suggestion. Couldn't West High School arrange to have a county bus take any West High students with no other way to an out-of-town game? The students could each pay 40c or 50c to defray expenses of the gasoline and driver's services.

If some arrangement could be made similar to the above suggestion, half the evening's fun could be derived from singing on the bus and having a good time in general.

In addition to more students being able to attend out-of-town games, parents could feel sure their offspring were not stranded in some far-off town trying to hitch-hike home.

Coming Home

Fuller

The long two year tour of overseas service for our outfit terminated in Ulm, Germany. When we received the order to return to the States, it was like the end of a bad dream. Still hanging over us as we proceeded to Le Havre was the threat of redeployment to the Pacific but this unpleasant spectre was greatly assuaged by the immediate prospect of a visit home. It was hard to realize that we actually were going back to the land of our dreams, but we glowed warmly inside at the very thought of it.

We boarded the "40 and 8" at a remote railhead in Bavaria. Only a service company was there to see us off. They almost bawled with envy as they watched us happily depart. Those boys had been overseas more than 30 months. Although they knew none of us personally, many of them came to the train and shook hands with the fellows there. As we chugged away shouts such as "Say hello to Philly" and "Eat a big steak for me," followed us until we were out of earshot.

We passed through Stuttgart and proceeded to the Rhine, crossing at Karlsruhe near the Swiss border. The rubbled cities of Bavaria and the Saar gave way to smaller hamlets of Alsace. The train moved past the Maginot Line forts, the scene of much hard fighting, and into Hagenau. Every man remembered well the week we spent there during the tough preceding winter. We talked of nothing else as the train rumbled on into the gathering darkness. Morning found us in France near Nancy. We proceeded without incident to Paris, passing close enough to the city so that the Eifel Tower was in plain sight. It wasn't long until we arrived at the port of Le Havre and were hustled off to the newly constructed "den of iniquity," Camp Lucky Strike. Here, in a vast dusty field, the army had erected hundreds of tents, latrines and mess halls. In the staging area we went through the last stages of processing before getting on the boat for home. The week we spent there was like a year.

The first week in June, 1945, the SS John Jay, a converted merchantman, headed out into the English channel carrying our company and one other, a total of about 300 men, all that could be jammed into the one hold converted for troop use.

The trip home, through the choppy waters and close fogs of the North Atlantic, was a lot rougher than the smooth ride across the South Atlantic to Africa which we had made two years earlier. Nobody minded much, however, because every turn of the motors left Europe and a thousand bitter memories farther behind. The last day at sea, the radio picked up a broadcast, originating in New York, of a baseball game between the Giants and the Cubs who won the pennant that year. Although it was war time baseball and only a few familiar names were in the lineups, a most avid group of listeners grouped around the set. This ball game typified the America to which we were coming home.

We crowded around the rail trying to get a glimpse of the "Lady." We missed her going out, because we sailed at night and we were destined to again not see her as we came in. She was enshrouded in fog and not even the torch was visible at the distance we passed.

We landed at Pier 16, the same one we had left two years earlier. Trucks rushed us to Camp Kilmer, New Jersey, and a steak dinner. Phone booths did a land office business and tears of joy flowed at the sound of voices unheard for so long. Four days later found most of us in the arms of joyous relatives and then began a 30 day riot of living, living as only a man can in these United States, enjoying such things as home cooked meals, hot baths, beds with sheets and soft pillows, the option to come and go at will. Here we had oceans of milk to drink, hamburgers to eat, and countless other blessings that were appreciated so keenly because we had been without them for so long.

The story ended happily for us because shortly after the completion of the 30-day furloughs, the atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima and subsequently the Niponese surrendered. Instead of sailing for the Pacific as was scheduled, most of use were handed that precious piece of paper, which returned us to civilian life. I became a civilian at Camp Beale, California, on the 11th day of October, 1945, and hope to remain one for the rest of my days.

Britain Will Come Through

By Mason Rossiter Smith

London, July 10

A British newspaperman writing in the Evening News of this date described it as "grey, rain-swept, battered, unconquered London." He was writing of the King's unveiling of the Battle of Britain Memorial chapel in Westminster Abbey this morning, but the phrase would be apt on any occasion in this great city, in these times.

The rain comes down lightly and intermittently all day long—the reason, indeed why the conventional caricature of a British businessman shows him with a furled umbrella in one hand and a raincoat in the other. Years of coal soot from literally millions of chimney pots—the outstanding characteristic of all British towns—have darkened the massive monuments and public buildings, old and new, and the scars of the war are visible on every hand. The "Jerries," so the British said, made no attempt at precision bombing but scattered their sticks of bombs indiscriminately. The result is that while occasionaly whole city blocks were blasted out — the vacant spaces now used as parking lots —the principal damage is spread here and there in small sections all over the city.

You get a bit of a shock as you go down almost any street, to note a sudden, great gash in the face of the buildings—a hole in the facade of the thoroughfare. There it stands, empty and desolate, the interiors of rooms gaping out into the street, weeds and wild flowers growing in the debris that fills what was the basement. It may be a church, with its roof caved in, the steel girders twisted and broken sticking up into the sky, or it may be an apartment or office building, now partly occupied, the usable section still standing chipped and pockmarked from the blast. Other structures are framed in outside steelwork to hold them together, and some are padlocked as unsafe.

The cleanup has been amazing, considering the extent of the damage, but reconstruction and restoration are held up for scarcity of building materials.

The Briton "takes it" without apparently noticing it—not lightly and not grimly, though he recalls the terror of those days. And although Nazi bombs have destroyed much of what he has loved and cherished, strangely enough the Londoner seems to bear no hatred toward the Germans.

"Perhaps it's because," a London importer told me at tea this afternoon, "we have so much to do."

It has been said for years — both here and abroad—that the British are most splendid and glorious when they are "in the pinches." They are in such a position now. They are grim about it—as they look toward another Fuel Crisis this winter, and a Food Crisis before that.

The newspapers, magazines and the comedians in the musical shows are inclined to blame it all on the Labor government, but a careful study of notes taken in hundreds of conversations with the people in all walks of life suggests that in general the people favor the Labor party, though they think Mr. Attlee's government has made some serious mistakes. Mistakes which, one Conservative admitted, might well have been made by Churchill's Coalition if it had been kept in power. "The times have a lot to do with it," he said.

Britain Will

There is a terrific shortage of dollars in Britain, and the money loaned by the United States is very nearly all used up. To buy the things she needs in American markets—food (especially), building materials, machinery—Britain needs dollars. Money she has loaned to countries in the so-called sterling bloc has in many cases been converted to dollars, which puts a further strain on Britain.

So she is exporting all that she can, to obtain more American dollars to fight her way up again. This means that the people must stand by to watch all kinds of goods which they themselves seriously need — automobiles, machinery, textiles, even whiskey—shipped abroad.

It hurts, but they take it stolidly "because we HAVE to do it to survive." They don't like the food rations—"the ration for one person for one month would not cover your tencup saucer — one egg a month, half a pound of meat a week."

And they don't like the clothing ration. A businessman, who feels that he "must be decent to meet the trade," finds it hard to obtain the clothing he needs for lack of coupons. If he buys clothes for himself, the rest of his family must go without.

There is, accordingly, a black market in coupons — sold by "shiftless people who always wear old clothes anyway"—and a pound ($4.03 in our money) will buy one person's clothing ration.

Britain's situation becomes all the more grim with the falling off of production in the coal mines. These are now nationalized; there are about the same number of men "in the pits" as before the war; their wages are better and working conditions are slightly improved (just slightly—for in general they do not have machinery such as that used in American coal mines); and they have a five day week. But there are frequent "wildcat strikes and work stoppages — condemned by the unions, and the government alike. The latter is threatening to prosecute.

One reason for the low production seems to be in the food situation. As one Briton put it:

"I used to have a lot of drive; up early in the morning, work hard all day. I know that my rations are not enough—for before the morning is over I'm all tired out. Although the miners get a larger ration, they, too, don't get enough. Coal mining is hard work—it takes food."

A sign outside the entrance to the Hotel Russell dining room reads: "Don't ask for bread unless you need it." But the hotels —and their dining rooms are occupied largely by travellers, British and foreign—serve meat with every meal.

Housing is equally bad. Some dwellings have been erected but are unoccupied for months for lack of plaster and wall board—"fitments" as the British call them. "Prefabs" have sprung up all over England but these are merely temporary until better homes are available.

"I'm a bit worried," one Britisher told me, "the prefabs put up in 1917-18, after the First World War, have been occupied ever since. I rather think these new ones will be, for a long time to come."

The big complaint against the Labor government is principally that they have tried to impose their socialistic program too soon. "It would have been better," you hear people say, "not to have attempted that now. We need to get back on our feet first. The program is a good one, in the long run, but now is not the time."

A number also express the fear that the change from the Churchill government to the Labor Party may have injured British relations with America. They are frankly worried that it has. There is an earnest desire for friendship cooperation — genuine friendship as well as political and economic — and a deep fear that something may happen to mar it.

That something might be what many people to whom I have talked consider the extravagance of the Labor government. For example, estates have been purchased for "regional offices," at several hundred thousand dollars each, when existing facilities used during the war might have been occupied until the present crisis is past.

The future for Britain — as seen by the average Britisher—is gloomy indeed. They—like we—are tired of slogans, tired of shortages, tired "of queuing up" in breadlines and meatlines and for trams and cinemas and whatnot. For escape they are jamming the theatres and movies houses night after night, travelling to Scotland and Ireland when they can.

They are a very old people. The scoted buildings which surround them have looked down upon hundreds of generations who have gone before. The symbols of Britain's mighty days are all about them—the political leaders, the great generals and admirals, writers and clergymen look down from heroic statues and in many an ancient painting. But these people look forward and upward, stolidly but with a kind of gallantry, too.

The tall Nelson monument with the grim lions at its base on Trafalgar Square is a powerful piece of sculpture. It is very simple, but strong in its design.

It tells you—this monument of strength—that somehow, no matter what the worst may be, Britain will come through.

I have yet to meet a Briton who isn't absolutely confident that she will—regardless of what the future holds.

Weeds on a vacant lot must be cut by the owner of the lot.

Anyone having a complaint of this type should notify the City Service Director in writing, giving the approximate location of the lot, the lot number and owner and his address. This information can be had by calling the county auditor's office. The city then notifies the lot owner that the weeds must

Hilltop Kiwanis Club Will Hold Horse Show Sept. 28

The Hilltop Kiwanis Club in cooperation with the Ohio Western Horse Exhibitors' Association will hold a western horse show at the Hilliards Fairgrounds, it was learned this week following a meeting of the executive board of the Kiwanis Club Tuesday noon.

Date of the show was set for the afternoon of Sept. 28 with Oct. 5 held open in the event of rain. Horse exhibitors from all over the state are expected to enter horses as soon as the word gets around since it is scheduled as a 10-point event in which exhibitors may accumulate points to qualify for the fall "roundup."

The agricultural committee was instructed to proceed to work out details of the event the first of its kind to be put on by local Kiwanians.

Discussed Plans

Earl Landrum, executive secretary of the Ohio Western Horse Exhibitors' Association, met with the executive committee of Kiwanis here Tuesday to go over preliminary plans for the affair. Also present at the luncheon meeting at Schmelzer's Restaurant were Edgar Planck, president of Kiwanis, Dr. R. J. Miller, Leo Phillips, Frank Sparks, Harold Cunningham, Jack Sensenbrenner, Dr. C. O. Cramer, Karl Krukeberg, Fred W. Deubner, Charles Kent, Charles Reichelderfer and Clarence Story.

Committees for the various phases of the show will be announced as soon as the agricultural committee meets.

Annexation Vote May Be Held In Nov.

There seemed a good possibility that residents of the area immediately west of the Hilltop may have an opportunity to vote on the matter of city annexation at the November election.

Columbus City Council in its first regular meeting since the summer recess, held Monday night, voted to place the matter in the hands of the Franklin County Board of Elections. The action covered seven industrial areas surrounding the city that have been proposed for annexation by the Metropolitan Planning Committee as a solution to some of the city's financial dilemmas.

Residents living in the area between Broad-st and Sullivant-av and west as far as Georgesville-rd would be affected by the special vote if it goes on the November ballot. The new Fisher Body-Ternstedt plant is included.

Mixed reaction to the plan is to be found among residents of the area. There are those who favor creation of the Village of Camp Chase, proposed more than a year and a half ago. This proposal has been tied up in the courts since that time pending a decision as to whether or not Franklin Township trustees are required to bring the matter to a vote.

Some persons contacted favor city annexation first; others as a second best to incorporation of the village; still others want to see no change at all in the status quo.

Former Race Driver Taken By Death Here

A familiar figure to boys and girls of the Harris-av sector for several years is gone.

He is Samuel S. (better known as Daddy) Fast 91-year-old former harness race driver. He died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Ada Siebert, 287 S. Harris-av, last Wednesday. He had lived in the neighborhood for 25 years.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon with interment in Union Cemetery.

He was formerly a race horse owner and horse trainer. He drove his last race, and won it, on his 75th birthday at Hilliards.

Born in South Perry, O., he had lived in Ohio his entire life. He was formerly a school teacher. He leaves three other daughters, Mrs. B. F. Seeds, Urbana; Mrs. Etta Rausch and Mrs. Alice Leonard, both of Columbus; two sons, Harold Fast, Columbus, and Edgar Fast, Los Angeles; nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Drivers' Licenses On Sale At Robinsons

The sale of auto drivers' licenses continues daily at Robinson Electric Store, W. Broad-st and Wayne-av, where members of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club are issuing the permits.

Every motorist must have a new driver's license before Oct. 1. Proceeds from the sale of the permits are used to finance welfare work carried on by the club.

Russell Henry, chairman of the license sale committee, said that sales for the first five days this year had totaled 1257. This is 300 more than for the same period last year.

Henry pointed out that several volunteer helpers are badly needed to handle the steady stream of license purchasers.

Shotgun Blast Routs Thieves

Several blasts from the shotgun of a Hilltonia-av resident Sunday night routed burglars who were busy stealing lumber from a new house nearby.

Clarence Thompson, 602 Hilltonia-av, told officers he fired three shots at thieves stealing lumber from a new dwelling at 1861 Vaughn-st, but did not know whether any of the shots struck the men.

West Alumni To Open Drive For Members

New membership tickets for the West High Alumni will go on sale Friday, Sept. 12, according to George K. Hardy, 608 Racine-av, president of the organization. A special effort is being made this year to have the largest membership in the organization's history to keep in step with the progress being made at West High School and to keep abreast of other local organizations, Hardy said.

The alumni is paying for the new "knock down" ticket booths along with the regular projects carried in the past and since the only income is from the sale of membership tickets, a large membership is needed in order to finance these projects.

Any graduate desirous of working with the Alumni Council can do so by calling Mr. Hardy at RA. 7528 or contacting him at his home. Members of the council will be soliciting memberships at all the football games this fall. Membership will admit the holder to both the homecoming game and the dance that follows, free of charge. It is pointed out that the cost of either the game or the dance is less than the cost of membership alone.

Hardy said that some graduates are confusing the Alumni Association with the West Booster Club. He explained that the Alumni group is open only to those who have graduated from West High School or who have attended at least two years. It is an entirely different organization with a different significance from that of the Boosters, he said.

Any of last years' graduates who are interested in helping the group and who would like to keep an active interest in West High School can do so by signing up for the Alumni Council, Hardy pointed out.

Boosters Club Pushes Drive For 1000 Members

The West High Boosters Club is well on its way toward signing up 1000 members for the 1948 season, it was announced this week by M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner, chairman of the membership drive.

As of Tuesday of this week membership was over the 400 mark.

There will be a meeting of the Booster Club Thursday, Sept. 18, starting at 7:30 p. m. It will be held at the school in Room 101.

Anyone who has not been contacted as yet can arrange to become a member by contacting any of the following: Sensenbrenner, RA. 2080; Lee Weigand, RA. 3160; John Kuhn, RA. 2038; Dick Francis, RA. 4725; or Phillip Stout, RA. 4890.

For the first time this year women as well as men may become members of the club.

Plans are shaping up for the opening game and dedication of lights and other equipment at Magly Field on Sept. 26 when the West High Cowboys meet the Central High Pirates on the local gridiron. Gov. Thomas Herbert has given his assurance that he will "make every effort possible" to be on hand for the dedication.

The West High Band is anxiously awaiting delivery of lights for their hats and lighted batons to be used for the first time on opening night. Some clever formations are being worked out to feature the lights on a dark field at the start of the game.

Lee Weigand is in charge of arrangements for the opening schedule.

Pigtail Burglar Rides Away On Bicycle

The Hilltop turned up with something new in juvenile burglars this week.

Mrs. Carl C. Vogel, 715 S. Wayne-av, told police Tuesday that she found a girl, believed to be about eight years of age, ransacking her kitchen. The girl grabbed a $1 bill and some change from the kitchen table, ran out the door, jumped on a bicycle and pedaled away.

Mrs. Vogel said the girl was barefooted, had on a red checked dress and wore her hair in pigtails.

Women Also West Boosters

The goal of the Booster Club is for 1000 members for 1947. This is the first year women have been accepted as members.

Cowboy Followers Will Trek To Springfield Friday Night

Horace Greely's admonition, "Go west, young man," is expected to be heeded by hundreds of Hilltoppers and other followers of West High School tomorrow night—at least as far as Springfield—that is.

On that night the 1947 Cowboy eleven will open the season under the lights at Springfield's beautiful football stadium with several hundred local fans looking on. Last year an estimated 1000 persons followed the team to the opener and fully as many or more are expected to do the same thing again this year.

Tickets for the Springfield game may be purchased at West High during the lunch periods today and tomorrow.

Following last Friday night's intra-squad game under the new Magly Field lights, Coach Mack Pemberton indicated that close to an all-senior team would take the field. The only exceptions likely are Chuck Weeks at left tackle and possibly Hostetter at the other tackle. The starting lineup will be as follows:

The team will leave the stadium by special bus a little before 6 o'clock, arriving in Springfield a few minutes before dressing time.

Members of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club are providing 15 cars to transport the West High School Band. The 70-piece band, under the direction of Charles Bennett will present their first formations of the year.

Members of the West High Boosters Club, West Alumni and other grid followers will transport hundreds of students and parents of students at the school.

Schrock's Sinclair Station Undergoes Major Improvements

Extensive improvements have been made on Schrock's Sinclair Service Station, W. Broad-st and Eldon-av, during the past 10 days. It was expected that work would be sufficiently near completion to permit resumption of business by this week-end.

New gasoline storage tanks with a capacity of 8,000 gallons are being installed, replacing the old tanks that had been in use more than 20 years. Four modern pumps are being installed and a complete new surface put on the servicing area. New fluorescent lights have been installed in the station itself, making it one of the lightest stations on the Hilltop.

Total cost of the improvements is estimated at $8,000.

Ted and Larry Schrock operate the service station.

DeVictor Brothers Buy Del Monte Cafe

Purchase of the Del Monte Cafe at 2514 Sullivant-av, corner of Terrace-av, was announced today by Albert and Norman DeVictor, 1173 Northwest-blvd.

The air-conditioned restaurant will feature noon lunches and evening dinners, including genuine Italian spaghetti.

Both men are well-known in local food and sport circles, and both are World War II veterans. Albert DeVictor was a lieutenant in the 20th Infantry Division, which saw action in the ETO, and Norman was in the Navy, seeing service in the Pacific Theater. They are graduates of Grandview High School.

Two Local Men Help Save Life Of Small Child

Two members of the West High School June graduating class were credited this week with an important part in the saving of the life of a two-year-old boy near Alpena, Mich.

According to the Sept. 4 issue of the Alpena News, Kenneth Dickerson, Jr., and Bradley Richardson administered first aid to John Charles Stutzman, 2, son of Rev. and Mrs. Stutzman of Roseville, until firemen arrived to take over. It was impossible to determine how long the child had been in the water. He was found lying face down in about 12 inches of water.

Artificial respiration was administered for more than two and one-half hours before he was revived after being removed to an Alpena hospital.

The two local men were vacationing at the Richardson summer home at Hubbard Lake. Dickerson will enroll in Wittenberg College this fall while Richardson attends Harvard University.

Three-car Crash Damages Autos

The need for a traffic light at Burgess-av and W. Broad-st was emphasized by persons who witnessed a three-car collision at that intersection Thursday morning.

While no one was hurt as a result of the crash, extensive damage resulted to two automobiles and could very easily have ended in serious personal injury to any one of those involved.

Involved in the accident were Grant Dunn, 630 Livingston-av, who was driving east on Broad-st when his car crashed into the side of an auto driven south on Burgess-av by Harry Woolson, 211 N. Terrace-av. Woolson's car was thrown out of control, causing it to crash into the car belonging to Chester Herbert, owner of Herbert's Food Market, located on the southeast corner of the intersection. Herbert's car was parked on the east side of S. Burgess-av.

The Woolson and Herbert cars were damaged extensively while Dunn's automobile was less seriously damaged.

6,061 Enroll In Schools Of Hilltop

Late registrations in the public schools and the opening of two Catholic schools on Wednesday of last week brought the total enrollment in Hilltop schools to 6,061, a check of the schools made Tuesday of this week revealed.

This represents an increase of 121 over the 5,940 registered last year at this time. The above figure does not include 113 kindergarten pupils now attending two public schools. This work is supported by the parents themselves and is not a part of the public school work.

The following registration figures were given this week:

West High School	1110
West Junior	828
Starling Junior	375
West Broad	679
John Burroughs	941
John Burroughs 7B	67
Highland	486
St. Aloysius	274
St. Mary Magdalene	401

John Burroughs reported 55 kindergarten pupils with room for about 10 more in the afternoon class. West Broad Street School has 58 in pre-school work.

Another teacher has been added to the West Broad School. She is Mrs. Agatha Graham, who will handle part of the beginners' group. Mrs. Emma Clime, a member of the staff on leave of absence, will teach third grade this year.

At Highland School Mrs. Jean Tait is taking the place of Mrs Olive Miller while Mrs. Zimmer is replacing Mrs. Ann Ziskind. The garden club is exhibiting the result of the summer garden project on Thursday and Friday of this week.

John Hardy Plans Store Expansion

John Hardy, who has been operating a grocery store at 2457 Sullivant-av, has leased the two rooms west of his place of business and is planning to open a super market and drug store in the near future. No date has been set for the opening of the enlarged store, which is to be known as Hardy's Shop-all.

The enlarged store will take in the rooms that formerly housed a gift shop and Koontz Drug Store. Rampel Russell, 720 S. Ogden-av, will have charge of the drug department, Hardy said.

Name Two Policemen To Pension Board

Sgts. Leo L. Phillips and George E. Webb were elected Monday as members of the Police Pension Board, according to Sgt. Edward H. Hinckley, secretary of the board.

Raised Marker May Be Installed On W. Broad-st

City Traffic Group Studies Plan As Solution To Accident Problem

A raised marker in the middle of W. Broad-st from one end to the other is under discussion by the City Traffic Commission, Ed Melvin, member of the commission, outlined the proposal at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Hilltop Business Association at Westgate Methodist Church.

Width of this permanent concrete island, he stated, had not been decided on but might be as wide as three feet. He said the proposal is now in the discussion stage.

Under the heading of comment, George Matson, county commissioner, pointed out that changing traffic conditions would make it advisable that the matter be considered very carefully and with competent engineering experience being called in. Others claimed that the narrow street did not justify such an installation and that it would be a further traffic hazard in fire and ambulance runs and might cause additional accidents during the icy season.

No action was taken by the association in the matter since it was felt that further details of the proposal should be presented.

Decorations Planned

The association plans to erect large white stars on Christmas decorations across Broad-st and Sullivant-av, reported C. C. Hartley, chairman of the civic committee.

The association voted endorsement of the proposal to petition the Central YMCA for the establishment of a branch Hilltop Y here. Similar endorsements have been given the project this week by Hilltop Kiwanis Club and West Gate Masonic Lodge.

Membership in the West High Boosters Association were solicited by Phil Stout and Paul Leighninger. Stout reported the association will cooperate in the program for the dedication of the athletic field lights on Sept. 26.

The following were named on a committee to arrange for the annual banquet for the West High football team: Phil Stout, chairman; Bill Southworth, Ralston Westlake, O. H. Craft and Ed Witherspoon.

W. Mound-st. Residents Ask For Bus Line

Residents of the W. Mound-st area are willing to pay a 10-cent fare in order to get bus service, it was learned this week when petitions bearing almost 500 signatures were submitted to city council Monday night.

Due to the press of other business matters, the petitions were not acted upon but Councilman Henry Koontz, 485 Hilltonia-av who presented the matter, said he hoped to have the utility committee in session at next Monday's meeting.

Since the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. has repeatedly refused to consider extension of the W. Mound-st line west of Central-av, it is thought possible that the Columbus-Celina Co. might be interested in the route at the 10-cent fare.

John Thompson, 2490 Eakin-rd, was instrumental in getting the petitions in circulation.

HCC Will Plan Program Tonite

Plans for the annual community-wide Hallowe'en observance on the Hilltop will be discussed at tonight's meeting of the Hilltop Community Council. This will be the first meeting of the fall season and plans for a program during the fall and winter will be formulated.

Several changes in operation of the Teen Canteen will be suggested to the council.

Phillip Stout, 2532 W. Broad-st, is president of the organization. Representatives of all Hilltop organizations are invited to attend.

Ministerial Group To Meet Monday

The first meeting of the Hilltop Ministerial Association will be held next Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the Hope Memorial Presbyterian Church.

All pastors of the Hilltop are urged to be present at this opening meeting. The officers for this year are Rev. Chester G. Stanley, president; Rev. J. Herbert Goewey, vice-president; and Rev. Denver Smoot, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Miller Will Speak On Kiwanis At Meeting Today

Dr. R. J. Miller, 2493 W. Broad-st, vice-president of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, will address that group at today's luncheon meeting. The subject of his talk will be: "We Build—What?"

Dr. Miller's talk will review some of the highlights of this year's international convention held in Chicago.

Last week W. Haydn Jones and Robert Nash put on an all-musical program for the group. Singing was the order of the day and some reports were heard. Kiwanians are planning to provide cars to transport the West High School Band to Springfield for the opening game of the 1947 season tomorrow night.

Next week George Tarbutton, chairman of Kiwanis education, will be in charge of the program that will feature induction of recently elected members. The meeting will stress Kiwanis education.

HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Can Pickled Crab Apples for Your Winter Meals

Just the thing to serve with a rich roast of meat or fowl are Crab Apple Pickles. Several jars should be canned for use with winter meals, when heavy foods are needed. This recipe comes from the universally used Ball Blue Book on home canning:

- 1 gallon crab apples
- 6 to 8 cups sugar
- 3 cups water
- 4 cups vinegar
- 1 stick cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon crushed ginger
- 1 tablespoon whole allspice
- ½ tablespoon whole cloves

Wash apples and pierce each with a needle. Heat sugar, liquids and spices (tied in bag) until sugar dissolves. Cool. Add apples and simmer until tender. Let stand several hours or overnight. Pack cold apples into hot jars. Boil the sirup to the desired thickness and pour over apples. Process five minutes in hot water bath. The amount of sugar may vary depending upon whether a fairly sweet or moderately sour pickle is desired, and from one-half to one-third of it may be corn sirup.

Campbell-Andreotte Wedding Was Solemnized In Glenwood Church Aug. 2

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell

Glenwood Methodist Church was the scene when Miss Lucille Andreotte became the bride of Mr. Fletcher H. Campbell on Saturday, Aug. 2, at 7:30 p. m., with Rev. J. B. Shellhaas officiating.

The parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Andreotte, 424 S. Harris-av, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Campbell, 91 S. Westmoor-av.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported white organdy with pointed basque featuring eyelet yoke and sleeves, the yoke being set off by a deep ruffled organdy bertha giving an off-shoulder effect. The full gathered hoop skirt had an eyelet panel in front and fell into a sweeping cathedral train which was bordered with a self ruffle. The finger-tip veil of French imported silk illusion fell from a bonnet fashioned of illustion and was bordered with a small eyelet ruffle framing the face. She carried a colonial bouquet of white gladioli and stephonotis.

Miss Dolores Andreotte in a gown of yellow was maid of honor for her sister while Miss Ruth Keister and Miss Diana Bennsett in gowns of peacock blue served as bridesmaids. The attendants' gowns of taffeta were fashioned with a wide scalloped off-shoulder bertha and a pointed bodice trimmed with miniature self covered buttons. Their long full skirts fell over hoops and featured a bustle effect. All carried matching colonial bouquets of peach and yellow gladioli with matching clusters in their hair. The little flower girl, Susan Ann Kahn, wore a dress of yellow fashioned after that of the maid of honor. Her bouquet consisted of peach sweetheart roses.

Mr. Campbell chose as his best man, Mr. Thomas J. Hughes, and seating the guests were Mr. Charles Campbell and Mr. William Dougherty.

A reception was held at the church immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Andreotte greeted guests in an aqua crepe dinner gown with aqua and black accessories and wore a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. Mrs. Campbell was attired in a powder blue crepe dinner gown with blue and black accessories and also wore a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

For her going away suit the bride chose an aqua twill with black accesories and wore an orchid shoulder corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are both graduates of West High School. Mr. Campbell is employed by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

After a wedding trip which took them into Canada the young couple is now at home at 91 S. Westmoor-av.

Pickles Are Favorite Dish Throughout Year

Pickles and relishes made from late summer gardens are always a favorite with the entire family throughout the year. Below are some tried and proven receipts.

Tomato Pickles

One gallon green tomatoes, sliced. Let stand over night in water containing ½ cup salt; drain well in morning; add 1 quart water and 1 pint vinegar; let boil 15 minutes, drain; add 1 quart vinegar; 1 pound sugar; 1 teaspoon each cloves, ginger and mustard. Boil 15 minutes and can.

Onion Pickles

Peel small white pickling onions. Cover with brine, allowing 1½ cups of salt to 2 quarts of water boiling. Let stand two days; drain and cover with fresh boiling brine; let stand for two days and drain again. Soak in clear water for 2 hours; put in jars with some pods or slices of red pepper. Fill jars to overflowing with vinegar, scalded, with sugar and white mustard seed, about 1 teaspoon of seed to one quart jar, and sugar to suit taste, owing to acidity of vinegar. Danger From Buses

A local lady has advised us of her conversation with a bus driver recently. She commented that it seemed he had traveled at an excessive speed out Broad street. He admitted he had averaged better than 35 miles per hour because he was late on a schedule.

The man who is late for work and speeds to make up for lost time is oftentimes caught and fined in traffic court. Speeding buses should have the same consideration.

Mrs. Ruby Wins Buckeye Lake Shoot

Mrs. Eloise Ruby (Citizen Photo)

When the Columbus Archery tournament takes place the 21st of this month, at least one Hilltopper will be on hand with visions of coming in first uppermost in her mind.

Mrs. Eloise Ruby, pretty Hilltop housewife who has walked off with second place honors in the national shoot for two years in succession, copped first place in the Buckeye Lake Shoot last Sunday. Of the 35 contestants, she was awarded $29 for her skill. Helen Isabell of Hilliard was awarded third prize.

This year's national shoot was held at Amherst College, Mass., the first week in August. Last year Cincinnati was the chosen site.

Mrs. Ruby, a member of the Columbus Archery Club, of which Byrle Taylor, 522 S Wayne-av is president, first became interested in archery at the a great deal and it was he who tender age of 10. Her father shot initiated her into the sport.

The Rubys, 1831 Sullivant-av, are the proud parents of a 17-month-old daughter, Lois, and will soon be celebrating their first anniversary as Hilltopper.

According to her husband, Phillip, Mrs. Ruby maintains that once you develop the skill of shooting you never forget it, and that practice only serves to tone the muscles. The fact that she has had but half-dozen practice sessions since last year, proves her point.

WELL-SUITED LOOK

Feminine detail and crisp tailoring in a black and white wool suit.

FALL and Winter 1947 offer wearer's choice when it comes to suits. You can have the jackets long or very short indeed; the skirts pencil straight, pleated or flaring.

The suit pictured, of black and white birdseye wool, is a good example of the manner in which New York designers have adapted feminine styling to men's wear worsteds. Interest centers on the brief double breasted jacket with outsize shawl collar and black buttons. The black taffeta cummerbund sash lends a glamour note for dressier occasions.

Even tweeds and sharkskin weaves, so long synonymous with "mannish" tailoring, now have a softened look, with dressmaker touches and feminine detail. A favorite fabric of grandmother's day, "good black broadcloth," has returned this Fall with fresh elegance, in suits both trim and tailored, and dressy, with draped skirts and perhaps a touch of fur at the collar.

Community Chest Goal $1,247,200 Set By Board

This year's goal for the Community Chest campaign will be $1,247,200, according to an announcement by Roy B. Weed, campaign chairman.

This figure was set by the trustees after hearing a report from the budget committee, of which Robert Weiler is chairman. "We believe that the agencies have asked for only the amounts they absolutely require to meet unduplicated local needs in the health and welfare field," Mr. Weiler said.

Some 4500 volunteers will conduct the solicitation between Oct. 16 and Nov. 3. The money is for the 1948 operating expenses of the 66 Community Chest agencies.

Elections Board Now Accepting Registrations

Persons planning to vote in the Nov. 4 election should make a mental check as to whether or not they are duly qualified to receive a ballot, Frank Marsh, clerk of the Franklin County Board of Elections, pointed out this week. The final day for registering or transferring from one voting precinct to another is Monday, Oct. 6.

If you have not voted at a general, special or primary election at least once in two calendar years, or have not transferred your registration within that period, you must register.

Others affected are:

1. Discharged veterans who became 21 years of age after being inducted into the armed forces must register to be eligible to vote.

2. Discharged veterans who were not registered at the time of their induction must register to be eligible to vote.

3. Discharged veterans who were registered at the time of their induction should have their registration records checked at the office of the Board of Elections. 214½ S. High-st, to insure that their registration cards are in the proper Ward and Precinct.

4. If you are just 21 years of age or will reach your 21st birthday on or before November 4, 1947, you must register.

5. If you have moved into the city of Columbus, but have resided in Ohio for one year and in Franklin County for 30 days you must register.

6. If you have changed your name since the last election, you must register.

8. Persons wishing to transfer their registration from one address to another may do so by appearing at the office of the Board of Elections, or by mail.

The office of the Board of Elections will be open 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Mondays through Fridays, and 8 a. m. to 12 m. Saturdays, Mr. Marsh said.

Save Sugar for Everyone's Share for Home Canning!

Start Your Own Rationing System

You're on your own this year so far as home canning sugar is concerned! How much you have for canning depends upon how much you save. As this is being written, the revised rationing system increases the amount of sugar allowed each individual but makes no provision for additional allotments for home canning.

So it's entirely up to you to establish your own system of rationing, setting aside a certain amount from each individual's allotment for putting up home-canned foods.

If you can't possibly, even by self-imposed rationing, have enough sugar to put up all the food you want with as much sugar as you'd like, then you can fall back on the sugar stretching methods used with such good results during the war.

Housewives learned then that fruits for pies, puddings and gelatin desserts keep just as well without sugar, although it's advisable to use a little sugar, if possible, with light colored fruits in order to preserve color. They learned, too, that a combination of corn sirup and granulated sugar gives excellent results. Those who enjoy the taste of honey learned to use it as a sugar extender. Use of saccharin is barred of course because it has a tendency to produce an unpleasant taste.

Home canners have also learned that they can use brown sugar, maple sugar and sirup in butters, jams and spreads, although these are not satisfactory for other canning.

Putting up some amount of fruit without sugar is a good idea because you then have it on hand to make into jams and jellies as needed.

SO LITTLE TIME

So little time have we to hold
Exquisite joy — this love we borrow.
When hearts are warm (the story's old)
Too quickly dawns a cold tomorrow.

All that is left is to remember,
A tender scene, a thought to rhyme.
And like a lonely, dying ember,
We know we have so little time
Jo Birt,
in CONTEMPORARY VERSE.

INTIMACY

To you, who are so far away,
I whisper word by word
The things that, were you here each day,
You had not ever heard.

And I, too, listening, faintly hear

The lovely things that, when you're near
You never dare to say

CONGO GIRL

Her pride steps lightly through the glade,
Such panther grace no leaf will stir;
The slim black body melts in shade
As though the sun created her;

To learn what voice will never ask.
Then the curved eyelids drop to hide
The girl behind the tribal mask.

Gay plaid combines with black in a one-piece dress (left). Grey worsted flannel (right) in a youthful long-jacketed suit.

A FAIRLY safe rule for all college wardrobes—or any wardrobe, for that matter—would be that they should include a grey flannel suit. Probably no other one item will prove its worth so consistently through so many seasons, if it is designed on classic lines.

The New York suit pictured, for instance, incorporates all the new features of rounded hip and shoulder lines and well demarked waist, yet still keeps to a simplicity that is timeless. A Dutch collar lends a youthful air to the jacket. Brown buttons and narrow brown leather belt point up the fact that brown is smarter than black as an accessory color with grey this season.

Plaids were never more important, both for party-going and more prosaic purposes. Some of the most successful college party clothes by New York designers are in wool plaids gay as a piper's tune, many of them separate skirts, very full and of ankle length, teamed with black velveteen blouses or basque jackets.

The dress pictured is one piece, combining red, black and white plaid skirt with black wool bodice in two piece effect. The scarf muffler carries more importance than a casual glance would tell; the "muffiered" look on suits, coats and dresses is one seen over and over in the Fall and Winter collections of New York designers. Such a dress leads an active life on the campus, being pretty enough for an afternoon date and tailored enough for the classroom.

Westgate Methodist Church Plans Two-day Fall Festival Event

Rev. Lorens

Dr. Harvey Wright, 2969 Fremont-st, is general chairman in charge of arrangements for the two-day Westgate Methodist Church Festival to be held Friday, Oct. 3, from 2 until 11 p. m., and all day Saturday, Oct. 4, on the lawn of the church. Proceeds of the festival will benefit the church building fund.

Numerous activities will be staged during the two-day event, including an auction, bean dinner, rides, contests, games, and concession stands.

Arrangements for the auction are being completed by Chairman H. Neil Pence, 487 S. Huron-av, and his committees. The sale will be staged both Friday and Saturday evenings from 7 until 10, and will include such items as an automobile, electric washers, electric radios, homemade cakes, automobile accessories, clothing, food, hardware, furniture and other items donated to the church by members, friends and merchants of the community. It has been stressed that this is not a drawing, but a public sale.

In connection with the festival, a 20-page booklet is being compiled by advertising committee chairman, Clarence F. Klein, 814 Chestershire-rd, containing the entire history of the church, pictures and articles about the church's organizations and a picture of the future building. Klein and his committee will solicit advertising from local business firms and friends of the church so that they can extend their congratulations and best wishes to the church. Streamers will be placed above Broad-st as well. The Police Department is cooperating in arranging for ample parking space.

Orrie Lehman, 635 Binns-blvd, chairman of the amusements committee, has secured a number of entertaining rides for the event, including live pony rides, to be staged in the roped-off alley behind the church, a basket merry-go-round, and an electric train, especially for younger children.

Many concession stands will boast their wares, soft drinks, sandwiches, popcorn and buttered corn, and candied apples. Chairman of concessions is Harry Blankner, 123 Letchworth-av.

The bean dinner Saturday evening from 5 until 8 o'clock will highlight the festival. Co-chairmen Vera Cochran, 718 Binns-blvd, and Mrs. Thelma Meyer, 175 N. Huron-av, have announced that in addition to beans, a salad, coffee and home-made pie will be served.

Medium of exchange at the festival will be 10c tickets purchased from any member of the church or from Dr. Wright. Treasurer for the festival will be Carl Spohn, 436 S. Wayne-av.

Five ladies' groups of the Women's Society of Christian Service will display their products for sale, in addition to the other articles for auction.

The Hilltop Record can be mailed to a friend. $1.50 per year anywhere in Franklin County.

Cowboy Capers

By Jean Williams and Edith Wilkins

The first football game held under the new lights turned out to be a success despite the bad weather; the senior team beating the junior-sophomore sond, 8 to 0.

The "Football," a dance sponsored by the senior class, was held in the gym after the game. This dance was a success, thanks to the time and help of the seniors.

The lucky girl of the evening to receive the "football" autographed by the players was none other than PAT CLUM.

With the second week of school almost over, we find that a bright POD student by the name of FRED GRABILL has finally come to realize that Mr. WASHBURN'S POD class started last Tuesday.

Congratulations to the boys who won the awards at the state fair for their efforts in mechanical drawing. Good work!

The first assembly of the year was held Tuesday morning, Sept. 9, with Mr. Young presiding.

Well, this is all the news for the paper this week, so see you next at the Springfield game.

MAKING TOY SHELVES

An old set of bookshelves painted to harmonize with the surroundings makes a convenient place for children to store toys. The playthings are kept in better condition than if thrown helter-skelter in a box.

Beat the Boys and the Birds to the Cherries

"Cherries are ripe!" When that little schoolroom song is in season, get busy in your kitchen! The robins, or other two-legged depredators answering to such names as "Butch" and "Porky", may consume the luscious crop of the old cherry tree before you can say, "NEXT WINTER'S PIES!"

To can cherries by the cold pack method, wash and stem them. Pit or leave whole, but prick whole ones with a needle. Pack into hot jars. Cover sour cherries with boiling sirup made of one part sugar and one part water or cherry juice. Cover sweet cherries with sirup containing one-half to one part sugar and one part liquid. Process 20 minutes in hot water bath.

The hot pack method calls for one-half to one cup sugar to each quart of pitted cherries. Add the sugar to the cherries and let stand one to two hours. Simmer 10 minutes, then pack into hot jars and process 10 minutes in hot water bath.

These directions are taken from the famous Ball Blue Book of home canning methods and recipes. If cherry pies, tarts and cobblers made from home-grown cherries won't satisfy your family's craving for this piquant summertime fruit, put up cherry jelly, pickled cherries, cherry preserves, Maraschino cherries, and conserves combining cherries with pineapple, raspberries, etc. Canned Bing cherries are delicious to eat as dessert or in salads. You'll never lack for princely meals with cherries in your closet of canned foods.

Add Variety to Canned Pears

The pear crop seldom seems to fail and may be relied upon by home canners to provide summer fruits for winter tables. To break the monotony of plain canned pears the universally used Ball Blue Book on home canning suggests some tasty variations. Orange pears may be made by using the juice and rind of one-half orange to each quart of sirup. Remove the orange rind before packing the pears into jars. To make cinnamon pears use two or three tablespoons of "Red Hots" to each quart of sirup, or use stick cinnamon and a few drops of red coloring. Ginger pears are made by using ginger tea (water in which ginger root is boiled) instead of plain water for making sirup. Use pineapple juice instead of water for the sirup to make pineapple pears. For plum pears use tart, red plum juice instead of water for making the sirup. These variations are sure to "hit the spot" with your family.

$700,000,000 In Fire Damage Expected In 1947

Fire Chief Ogborn Says Most Of It Preventable

By Rhoma Van De Mark

As regularly as the clock ticks off 2 seconds, a fire breaks out somewhere in the United States and 90% of the fires are preventable, Fire Chief C. W. Ogburn states.

"The Chief", who has been in the fire business 37 years, concerns himself daily with the appalling loss of property and human life as a result of carelessness on the part of cigarette smokers, children playing with matches, and accidental ingredients to the biggest blaze unheard of before.

With Fire Prevention Week beginning Oct. 5, it comes to light that $700,000,000 of Americans' pay checks will go "up in smoke" during 1947, 25% more than last year, a loss that tops all past fire losses.

To Chief Ogburn these figures are not news for he's studied their steady rise during his own advance from a sub-fireman to Chief of Columbus fire protection.

Two years after his appointment as sub-fireman, a rank no longer existing, he passed the examination for fireman, and from there on his promotions were regular and towards the top of the ladder. In 1926, on St. Patick's Day, he was provisionally appointed chief and two months later he received a promotion to permanent assistant chief. At the death of former Chief Welsh he received the advancement as permanent fire chief, a position he had filled temporarily for two years while Welsh served with the armed forces.

Chief Ogburn

Endless Duties

Endless duties stem around his desk in the city hall, alerting the public to its part in fire prevention, attempting to secure more and better equipped engine houses for the city, and trying to procure a "living wage" for his "boys." Right now the financial compensation for city firemen is more than slightly out of proportion to today's high cost of living, he points out.

Of the large number of fire houses needed, one is planned for the Hilltop. Though there is still much work to be done on the initial step of its construction, that of deciding WHERE it shall be located, it is hoped that City Council will reach some agreement in the near future. Tentative locations are all south of Broad-st, two in Westgate Park, and three on Sullivant-av. It would be advantageous to have the house located in the park to curb any vandalism in that area. There has been much controversy in Council, however, upon this, and it has resulted in indecision.

Since the city engineer has deemed it necessary to have the lot of any new fire house at least 100 by 100 feet in size, it is very difficult to find a vacant lot that large.

It has been suggested that the new firehouse have an attractive bungalow architecture (one-floor plan), and that it be landscaped similarly to its surrounding neighbors. When it is completed it will be furnished with the latest types of fire equipment.

The actual make-up of fire personnel proves interesting. The promotion system is almost as well-defined as in military circles. Headed by the chief, two assistant chiefs supervise those working under the 'executive' branch, and aid the chief. Nine battalion chiefs, each with his own fire district, come next in line, and are accountable to the assistant chiefs. Captains come next, followed by lieutenants with the private, or regular fireman, occupying the lower rung.

Ogborn, a true "fire-eater," is in love with his work as is evidenced by watching his face when the public address system switches "on" in his office. He goes on all two-, three- and four alarm fires and personally supervises fire-fighting action at the scene of the blaze.

There is one other member of the FD in his family, son N. Ho. A second son, E. L., is an engineer in a Pittsburgh, Pa., steel mill. Ogborn resides with his wife, Essie, at 1040 W. Broad-st.

Parents Interested In Cub Scouting Here

Cub Scouting has been given considerable emphasis on the Hilltop in recent months with the formation of several new units. One of these is Cub Pack 214, sponsored by St. Mary Magdalene Church with T. W. Howells as cubmaster. Fine cooperation on the part of parents of the boys is one of the reasons for the success of the pack.

The above Record photo shows a group of parents who turned out at a recent meeting to see how things were going. They are:

Second row: Frank Boehm, John Kiefer, Ray Eyerman, Rev. Raymond Bauschard, George Kegelmeyer, Carl Van Horn and James Hughes.

Third row: Martin Bitler, Tom Howells, Henry Gunning, Elmer Howard, Lee Walter and Ray Maxwell.

Cub Pack Plans 2 Fall Meetings

Two important meetings are planned for parents of Cub Pack 214 in the near future, according to Tom Howells, cubmaster.

On Sept. 25 at 8 p. m. there will be a parents' party and program outline meeting at which time plans for the fall and winter will be discussed. This will be followed by entertainment and a social program.

On Oct. 12 a special investiture service will be held for the pack. The formal church ceremony will be followed by a reception in the basement. Council officers as well as parents and friends of the boys are invited to be present.

Red Bird Comes Back To Serenade Local Couple Who Gave It Shelter

They say an elephant never forgets and likewise it might be said that a Red Bird has a good memory especially when it comes to an act of mercy. At least that is what Mr. and Mrs. Dana McBride, 30 N. Ogden-av, have come to believe.

Last spring a baby Red Bird fell out of its nest in a grape arbor at the side of the McBride garage. Realizing its helpless plight, the couple took the bird into their kitchen and fed it with an eye dropper. The next morning mama and papa bird were at the kitchen door with worms in their mouths to feed the missing baby.

The McBrides put the bird in a trellis at the side of the house, where it was fed by its parents. That evening they again took it into the kitchen for warmth and protection. The next morning mama and papa Red Bird were back, this time pecking on the kitchen window to arouse the occupants. A third night the baby bird was given protection and again the parents were pecking on the window at daybreak, ready to resume care of their baby.

No more was seen of the baby Red Bird until Tuesday of last week when a fully grown Red Bird perched on the trellis outside the McBride kitchen window and sang lustily for more than an hour.

The McBrides are convinced that it was the same Red Bird—now fully grown—who had come to tell them of his appreciation for their care. They maintain that the peculiar tuft of feathers that make up the top knot were the same as those of the baby Red Bird of several months ago.

Corn Relish—Recipe for a Popular Hostess

Corn relish is one of those appetizing dishes we rarely enjoy unless we know someone who does home canning and invites us over for a meal. Popular hostesses find that it pays to include corn relish in their home canning plans. The Ball Blue Book recipe for this taste treat is as follows:

- 2 quarts corn
- 1 quart chopped cabbage
- 1 cup green sweet pepper
- 1 cup sweet red pepper
- 2 large onions
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons ground mustard
- 1 tablespoon mustard seed
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 tablespoon celery seed
- 1 quart vinegar
- 1 cup water

Boil corn five minutes. Cold dip. Cut from cob. Measure. Chop and measure cabbage and peppers. Chop onions. Combine ingredients and simmer 20 minutes. (More salt and sugar may be added if needed.) Pack into hot jars. Seal at once.

Need For Greater Pupil Respect Cited By Principal

The need for increased pupil cooperation and a greater respect for the advice of teachers was pointed out by Principal Irvin F. Young in the first West High School assembly held in the auditorium Tuesday morning. An impressive list of ribbons was awarded to West students who won recognition in mechanical drawing in the 1947 Ohio State Fair by C. S. Kennedy and Art Miller, instructors in that work at the school.

Mr. Young outlined the "three c's" as necessary to improved pupil-teacher relations. These include (1) conscientious effort; (2) courtesy; and (3) cooperation.

He pointed out that while acts of vandalism or other unfavorable publicity are gotten by only a small percentage of the students, it reflects with discredit on the entire student body and faculty. He said he was disturbed by the lack of respect for teachers and for school property.

Citing an editorial entitled "Back To School" appearing in last week's Hilltop Record, the principal stressed the need for more serious concern on the part of students. A portion of the editorial was read verbatim.

Mr. Young pointed out that more West High students are members of and attend churches than perhaps any other high school in the city. This should result in more serious concern over matters of personal conduct and behavior, he said. He referred to the biblical text: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom."

"A Christian student should respect the wishes of his teachers," the school administrator said. "West High School has a fine faculty. It deserves your respect and fullest cooperation."

"What is needed in our school today in addition to more God-fearing teachers is more God-fearing students," he pointed out.

"I am anxious to see West High School set an example that other schools will want to follow after," he said in closing his serious talk before the student body.

That his message "sank in" was evidenced by the attention shown the speaker throughout the assembly program that lasted for almost an hour.

The army announces that it has found a way to make moonlight. Presumably the preliminary experiments were conducted by the Kentuckians who discovered moonshine instead.

Local Man Accused Of Fathering Infant Abandoned by Mother

A Hilltop truck driver was taken into custody last week, charged with being the father of an infant found abandoned in a box near the Main Street Bridge by a West Side mother two weeks ago.

He is Henry F. Howell, 451 S Warren-av. Mrs. Thelma Strong, 25, mother of the infant, charged that Howell was the father of the baby as well as one of her other two children. He had been separated from his wife and three children for three months, it was said.

Proposed Improvements To Holton Park

This is a preliminary plan of recommended improvements at Holton Park with the addition of the as-yet-undeveloped Glenview Park, located just east of Eureka-av. The layout is that proposed by Dr. W. C. Batchelor, employed by the city to study and suggest improvements of parks and playgrounds. Similar plans will soon be drawn suggesting improvements at Glenwood, Westgate and a proposed park area between Woodbury and Columbian-avs just south of Sullivant-av.

Dr. Batchelor Recommends Park Changes

Paul Wichterman

The first of a series sketches suggesting improvements for Hilltop parks and playground areas was released by N. J. Barack, city recreation director, this week. The plan was designed by Dr W. C. Batchelor, Ohio State University faculty member employed by the city to make a survey of all city parks and playgrounds with suggestions for further development.

It shoud be understood by Hilltoppers that all of these improvements are not going to be made at once or in the immediate future but rather constitute a systematic recommendation for ultimate development. Similar proposals are now in the process of being compiled by Dr. Batchelor and his staff on every recreation area of the city. Plans for Westgate, Glenwood and the Columbian-av tract of city-owned waste land will be made public as soon as completed.

Funds for these park and playground improvements (as long as they last) will come from the $750,000 appropriation passed by the voters in 1945. It is a foregone conclusion that that sum will not begin to provide for the recognized needs of the city.

The plan as outlined by Dr. Batchelor is functional in design. It takes into consideration the various recreation needs of a given community and the available recreation areas. When he has completed his survey of the needs of the entire city he will set up a priority list of the things needing attention first.

For instance the Hilltop with already three improved parks will probably get fewer of the proposed improvements at this time than certain areas where playground facilities are practically nil. The census areas will constitute the basis for treatment of each locality. Each area will be treated as an individual unit for the purpose of determining priority of needs.

Barack pointed out that despite the fact all of these improvements cannot be accomplished with the limited appropriation, the master plan for future development can stand and can be used as a guide for several years to come.

The recreation director did promise that certain basic needs would be provided at every playground throughout the city before other major improvements are undertaken. This would includ sanitary toilet facilities, safe drinking water and in some places fences to protect small children from running out into the streets where traffic is heavy.

The proposed Holton Park improvements would include the development of a picnic area in what is known as Glenview Park, just east of Eureka-av along the ravine. This area lends itself admirably to use of picnickers and for such games as horse shoes and other games not requiring specialized equipment or close supervision.

The plan calls for some remodeling and repairs of the present shelter house. Storage space for equipment is needed at all of the playgrounds and is available on only a few of them. It would provide space for tennis courts, badminton and other games requiring a level surface.

The wading pool, not now in usuable condition, would be located near the shelter house where supervision would be available. A useable softball diamond is a part of the plan. It would also provide for clock golf, shuffleboard, roque, horseshoes, a double goal court for basketball.

Holton Park is the most poorly equipped of all the Hilltop and West Side parks at the present time. It occupies a low-lying tract of land between Eureka-av and Eldon-av along Dry Run.

Confined To Hospital Following Accident

Miss Marie Raether, 203 S. Huron-av, is in a Jackson, Mich., hospital recovering from a dislocated hip suffered in an auto accident on Aug. 30.

Returning from a four-week vacation in Hessel, Mich., Miss Raether, Dr. and Mrs. Otto Mees, president emeritus of Capital University, Mrs. Jack Landrum, and her two children, Joan, 9, and Gay, 8, were involved in an accident resulting from slippery roads. Other members of the party were able to proceed to Columbus the following day but Miss Raether is expected to remain in the hospital a couple of weeks before she can be moved to her home here.

Jack Landrum, football coach at East High School, returned other members of the party to Columbus.

Civic Group Has Meeting Monday

The Wilson Heights Civic Association met at the Wilson School Monday night to hear reports from various committees at work on community improvements.

William Williams reported that there was little change in the status of the gas contracts now on file with the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. F. E. Campbell, president of the association, said that he had been unable to get county commissioners to meet with city council to agree on a plan for extension of city water mains down through the Wilson School area but hoped to have a meeting of the two groups soon.

Another report on the flooding of the basement of Wilson School pointed out that the drain from the building had been cleared of roots early in the summer and that since that time there had been no further flooding of the basement.

The next meeting of the association will be held Oct. 13.

Good place to live, good place to work

We think this town is a fine place to live.

We like its friendly people, its homey residence sections, its up-to-date stores and offices—the character of the community and the spirit of its citizens.

We also think it's a good place to work—no long hours getting to and from one's job; cheerful office and plant surroundings.

And we realize that it is up to us to make working conditions in our own plant and offices the best possible example of the high standard prevailing here.

That is one reason why we are always doing what we can for the comfort, convenience, health and welfare of those who work with us.

These efforts include not only modern working conditions in the plant, but also recreation programs, health and safety services, provisions for low-rate insurance, and other arrangements of benefit or interest to both the employe and his family.

The truth is that such things reflect the spirit of this community, where it is not considered enough either to live just to work or to work just to live.

We can all be mighty glad that we live and work where we do.

Columbus can be proud . . .

That it is the capital of Ohio and the county seat of Franklin County;

Of its 30 playgrounds and 1,800 acres of parks;

Of its 557 miles of paved streets; of the five colleges and universities located in the city;

Of its 99,000 homes served by public utility outlets, and its more than 121,000 telephones;

Of its Civic Center, the Museum of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society, the Gallery of Fine Arts, the Battelle Memorial Institute, Port Columbus —municipally-owned airport, the Boychoir, the Philharmonic Orchestra, the Public Libraries housing a million and a half volumes;

Of the famous men and women whose careers have given added luster to Columbus' fame.

We are also proud . . .

Of the people we employ in our Fisher Body-Ternstedt plant, and of the automotive body hardware they turn out;

Of the working conditions in our plant, including all the latest developments to provide for the health, safety and welfare of our employes;

Of the recreational program, which includes bowling, golf and softball; also the garden plots on company property available to employes;

Of the many fine business organizations in this area with which we are privileged to share Columbus' industrial life.

You have no doubt noticed a lot of activity around the corner of Eldon and Broad, during the last week. Well . . . we're not digging a bomb-shelter or building an underground addition to our station.

It's all a part of our expansion program, which includes the installation of 3 new, larger storage tanks, which will increase our storage capacity to 8000 gallons.

Teen Agers Meet

Monday night a meeting of the Teen Agers Bowling Leagues was held at Seiller's Department Store to lay plans for their second annual bowling season.

This year each league will be represented by eight teams, the girls' league having four bowlers and the boys' league having five on each team.

The two leagues are being run by Paul Leighninger of Seiller's Department Store.

Plans are being made so that each team will have its own uniforms, consisting of dresses or blouses for the girls and sport shirts for the boys. Each team will represent a well known brand of girls' or boys' clothing with the name of the brand appearing on the backs of the uniforms.

Numerous prizes will be offered, such as bathing suits, dresses and blouses for the girls and tie clasps, shirts and money for the boys. A season prize for each league, such as a trip with all expenses paid or a bowling ball and accessories, will be offered to the outstanding boy and girl of their respective league.

It was decided at the meeting that the girls would bowl on Monday afternoon at 4 and the boys will bowl Saturday morning at 11.

Barbara Vina and Janet Patton were elected president and secretary of the girls' league while Dick Ardle and Eddie Harold were elected president and secretary of the boys' league.

We all think you are doing a fine job, Paul. Keep up the good work and may this season for the Teen Agers be bigger and better than last year.

* * * Bowler of the Week

Paul Leighninger is not known so much for his bowling as he is for his promotion of the Teen Agers' leagues and for the sponsoring of teams under the name of Seiller's Department Store. Paul sponsors three men's teams and one ladies' team. He himself started bowling around three years ago and is now bowling for his Wednesday night Seiller's team. He is carrying a 155 average.

We think Paul rates a round of applause for all his efforts and hope he will keep it up.

* * * Bowling Bits

Bowling gem of the week went to Carl Breckenridge, a Thursday night bowler for Shank and Saunders. Breckenridge, with only 76 in the fifth frame, rolled seven strikes in a row for a 226 game. Nice going, Carl.

Eddie Harold, up and coming 16-year-old pin boy, bowled 234 last Tuesday evening in his first game as a regular kegler.

The honor roll for men and women bowling over 600 and 500 respectively is: Men—Fred McCoy 633, Joe Boyner 616, and Erwin Rudolph 608; women—Mary Harrity 564, Billie Worden 518, Frances Patridge 506, Doris Davis 505, and Edna Staley 501.

Remember, keglers, if there are any interesting happenings you would like to see appear in this column, just send them to Dick Ardle, care Hilltop Record, or give them to Fred and Tom Wolfe at Hilltop Recreation.

Dirt Track Drivers To Appear Sunday

Jimmy Wilburn, leading dirt track money winner last year, will be in the field of big car drivers who will zoom around Powell Speedway's half-mile oval next Sunday. Wilburn, who calls Los Angeles his home, won more than $44,000 last year.

Sunday's program will start at 1:30 p. m. with time trials and the first race will be off at 2:30.

Westgate Evangelical Wins City Crown By Downing St. Patrick's Monday Night

Appreciation Dinner Is Set For Saturday

Westgate Evangelical United Brethren Church, winners of both rounds of the West Church Softball League, won the city church league championship Monday night by defeating St. Patrick's 4 to 2.

Don Cross received credit for the win, his 19th of the season against a single defeat.

Both teams played rather "loose" ball for a championship game, with the hits being skimpy on both sides. Each club got three safeties. Westgate trailed by a 2 to 1 score until the fourth, when the Hilltoppers took advantage of some errors and a couple of hits to go ahead by the two-run margin. Johnson, Hall and Miller each hit for Westgate.

Appreciation dinner for the members of the team will be held in the basement of the church Saturday night at 8. Dale Rose, football coach at Capital University, will be the speaker.

Last Thursday the team defeated Salvation Army by a score of 6 to 1 to advance into the finals. Cross gave up only three hits while collecting as many bingles for himself as he chalked up victory No. 18 behind the nine hits of his mates.

It was the first defeat for Salvation Army this season. Jimmie McElwee hit a two-bagger. Scoring came two in the first inning, two in the fourth and two in the fifth for the Hilltoppers.

Hilltop Amvets Drop Opener To Marion Angels Sunday

By Maud Jackson

The Hilltop Amvets lost the opening game of the heavyweight football season by bowing to Marion Safety Cab Angels at Mt. Gilead last Sunday by a score of 18 to 0.

The Angels made all three of their touchdowns in the first quarter. The Amvets were on their toes from then on and allowed the Angels to break through their line only a couple of times after that. The Marion team did not make a first down from scrimmage.

Two of the Marion scores came on the old "sleeper" play. The third touchdown came near the close of the first quarter when Neil Mowrey's pass was intercepted by Bill Tait who went over to score.

Val Boehm is coaching the Amvets. The starting lineups were as follows:

Amvets	Pos.	Marion
Hall	LE	Gilmore
Stinson	LT	White
Scoles	LG	Berry
Alban	C	Benson
Renney	RG	Lewis
Embleton	RT	Fate
Thumb	RE	Roseberry
Mowrey	QB	Simmons
Ewing	HB	Ivey
Harold	HB	Reams
Grady	FB	Scott

The Amvets will play Galion at Galion Sept. 21.

Squirrel Season Opens Saturday

Ohio squirrel hunters who will head for the woods early Saturday morning, September 13, are expected to find fairly good shooting according to field men of the Division of Conservation, however, squirrels will be scattered somewhat due to the scarcity of nuts.

The daily bag limit will remain the same as the 1946 season, four squirrels a day and four in possession for each licensed hunter.

To the hunter who depends on Saturday for his squirrel shooting, he will appreciate that the season will include three Saturdays, closing September 27.

Last year the Conservation Commission dropped the zone hunting system for Ohio created in 1941 because of the differences in nut harvest season in the northern and southern parts of the state. Hunters, however, found that the zone system made very little difference in hunting and asked that it be discontinued. The state of Indiana after trying the zone system for a few years will this year also return to the state-wide hunting program.

Squirrel hunters are cautioned to use extreme care again this year to prevent accidents due to carelessness. The tension that comes from sitting quietly on a stump in the woods listening for the rattle of a leaf tends to increase carelessness on the part of most squirrel hunters. Therefore hunters are asked to take it easy, wear bright red clothing and be easy with the trigger finger.

Deer Season Set Dec. 15-19 In 8 Counties

The Ohio Conservation and Natural Resources Commission last week officially approved the opening of a season on deer in eight Ohio counties, to reduce the deer population in northeastern Ohio, following tentative plans set at the July meeting.

Open season dates are Dec. 15 and 16 for bow and arrow hunting, and Dec. 17, 18 and 19 for gunners. Counties included in the open season area will be Lake, Geauga, Ashtabula, Trumbull, Portage, Columbiana, Jefferson and Carroll.

Deer hunters will be required to secure, in addition to the regular Ohio hunting license, a state permit costing $5.00 as set by recent legislative action. Hunters will also need written permission of the land owners and strict adherence will be urged regarding the woodsman's rule of wearing some item of bright red apparel. Bag limits for the season will be one deer of either sex.

Shotguns with rifled slug or "pumpkin ball" and archers using barbless arrows and 40-pound bows will be the only prescribed [illegible].

White-tailed or Virginia deer population in the eight counties included in the 1947 open season area is estimated at between four and five thousand. Reports indicate that 188 deer have been killed on the highways and railroads in the past year and as many as 40 deer browsing in one field have been counted by Division of Conservation field men.

Ohio's most recent open seasons on deer in 1943, 1944 and 1945 in Scioto, Adams and Pike Counties netted a kill of 168 bucks in 1943, 117 in 1944 and 62 in 1945.

Srs. Defeat Mates In Intra-squad Game

The West High seniors had plenty of trouble putting the underclassmen in their place Friday night in the intra-squad game under the new Magly Field lights before a crowd of 3500 loyal fans who sat through a steady rain. The seniors, wearing white jerseys, had to be content with a touchdown and an automatic safety for a score of 8 to 0.

The almost constant rain that started before the second quarter had gotten under way made ball handling treacherous and fumbles were much the order of the evening. The Whites fumbled seven times while the Buff and Brown (juniors and sophomores) booted five. The seniors held an edge on first downs, accumulating six to two for the Buff.

The lone touchdown came in the second period when a Jim Slager pass was completed to the Buff 22, good for 25 yards. On the next play Slager again tossed to the waiting arms of Jack Thrush, who went over standing up. The kick for extra point was blocked.

The Buff team got into trouble late in the third quarter when Danny Miles, attempting to kick out of danger from his own goal line, got a bad pass from center, causing him to run out of the end one for the automatic safety.

Three Passes

Despite the wet ball, both sides threw numerous passes. The seniors completed two out of nine tries for a total of 49 yards while the Buff threw eight, completing five for 37 yards.

The starting lineups were as follows:

Thrush	LE	Speakman
Wolfe	LT	Weeks
Thumberg	LG	Gelli
Andrews	C	Watts
Westerman	RG	Schmidt
Horch	RT	Hostetter
Buckingham	RE	Jaynes
Slager (C)	QB	Theisen
Chinn	LH	Culbertson
Hicks	RH	Miles (C)
Ehlers	FB	Schrader

If you are a safety-wise motorist, you proceed slowly and watch carefully when you see railroad crossing signs. But the Ohio State Safety Council reminds you that there is one extra sign you should watch for. It's a DOUBLE track—and it's a sign you should be sure that there is not a SECOND train passing before you drive across the train that has just passed. Many tragic accidents happen because some motorists have single-track minds at double track crossings.

Sidelights On Intra-squad Game Friday

More than 200 customers were already on hand when the ticket windows opened at four different location for the intra-squad football game Friday night when the public got its first look at the new Magly Field lights. In spite of rain earlier in the evening approximately 3500 persons were on hand—most of them remaining throughout the constant downpour of rain that started in the second quarter.

The lights were all that was expected by school officials and more too. A light meter revealed that there is more light in the center of the playing field than is available in the middle of the basketball court.

The new electric scoreboard, contributed by the West High Boosters Club was operated by George Williams and Al Elliott. Elliott had difficulty keeping up with the play while working from the sidelines during the first half and found that he could keep more accurate tally of the downs and yards to go by observing from up in the stadium where the press box will be erected some day by the Boosters. Williams ran the clock and kept the score on the other control line. A short developed in the control box near the end of the game putting the clock out of operation for almost two minutes. One extra play was run after it was determined that the game was officially over.

Band Takes Field

The junior high band took the field first, marching down to the south end of the stadium at about 7:30 p. m. They were closely followed by the snappy West High Band who took up their position in the new band stand near the south end of the stadium. The band stand was a gift of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club.

Jack Holman and Calvin Parks took turns describing the pre-game and play-by-play account of the game. Fred Wollerman and Bob Cromwell served as spotters while Bruce Langdon kept field statistics for the school and The Hilltop Record.

Pat Perry is serving as head cheerleader for this season. On hand also to help lead the cheering were Frank Ongaro, Gloria Hegenberger, Dick Ham, Donna Spring, Teddy Hill and Bud Knowlton.

Officials on the field were West teachers. They were Arthur Buchanan, referee; O. D. (Red) Lehman, umpire; Ted Mayer, field judge; and R. C. (Rufe) Glass, head linesman. On the sticks were Jack Buckingham, Bob Schlegel and Don Hutchinson.

The White team won the toss and elected to receive. They defended the south goal, as Chuck Weeks kicked off for the Buff and Brown.

The full battery of lights was not turned on until the referee's whistle signaled the start of the game.

Members of the Boosters Club added color to the occasion by parading through the stadium in their new 10-gallon hats, purchased recently to be worn at all football games to carry out the Cowboy motif. Boosters went through the stands at the half soliciting new members in a drive that is expected to total more than 1000 members. Most of the members parked their new sombreros in the dressing room when the rains started.

The bandsmen took to cover shortly after the rain started and at Charles Bennett's suggestion abandoned the formations they had planned for between halves. Bennett pointed out that a little rain on the drum heads would cause them to break and they are both expensive and difficult to get.

It was the first time bandsmen wore their new hat plumes and the rain was not exactly a fitting initiation for them.

Between 150 and 200 persons attended the Senior Dance that followed in the gymnasium. Tom Beckett and his orchestra furnished the music for dancing.

Charter Amendment Needed

A little clear thinking should show the need for some changes in the administrative setup of the City of Columbus. The proposed charter amendment, suggested by the Metropolitan Committee and Citizens Research, Inc., would do much toward modernizing the 38-year-old existing charter.

Administration of a concern that annually does $20,000,000 in business is definitely not a part-time job for city councilmen. The $1000 salary paid the city fathers is not in keeping with the amount of time needed to perform the duties as they should be done. If the amendment is passed it would provide a $3,000 annual salary for councilmen.

Increases in the salaries of the mayor and city attorney while possibly less critical are nevertheless needed to attract the caliber of men needed to fill the offices capably.

The most far-reaching provision of the amendment has to do with consolidation of the city's financial dealings under the heading of a director of finance and the elimination of the offices of city auditor, treasurer and board of purchase. Floyd F. Green, defeated Republican candidate for mayor in the primary election, saw the need for a similiar move after having served one term could afford to pay a salary in keeping with the position in the office. By eliminating the three offices, the city of a competent finance director. This would probably be a little less than the $10,500 proposed as the new salary for the mayor.

The city needs this reorganization.

Our Readers Say

Editor Hilltop Record:

I want to congratulate you on the fine edition of the Franklinton Sesquicentennial Supplement, contained in the Hilltop Record edition of Aug. 21st.

This supplement, edited so ably by Myron T. Seifert, truly gives a most complete historical record of the early days of the little village of Franklinton — just about everything is told. Both you and Mr. Seifert made a fine contribution to the success of the celebration.

I have received the copies of the Hilltop Record, containing the supplement, you recently sent me by mail, and thank you for them. This supplement makes a fine acount of the celebration, to send to members of the Sullivant family, living out of town.

And the beautiful "Card of Thanks" to me, on the front page of the supplement, is sincerely appreciated by me. I feel well rewarded for whatever assistance I gave to the publication.

Sincerely

Answer to Previous Puzzle

EPHRIAM STEENROD was one of the most colorful school teachers to hold forth over Liberty School, referred to in last week's column. No history of that institution could be complete without a few words about him.

Physically he was a man of considerable stature, standing something over six feet tall although advanced years had cut him down to mostly skin and bones. With no disrespect intended, I never think of him without thinking of Ichabod Crane, Washington Irving's character in his story about the headless horseman. Perhaps that stems from the fact that I first read the story when old Uncle Eph was our teacher.

Uncle Eph had taught school for forty some odd years (he had forgotten exactly how many) when he came to Liberty School. I never knew whether it was declining health due to advanced age or to the twenty some difficult characters who faced him there. He never taught again after one year at Liberty.

It was my lot to have Uncle Eph make his home with us. That was both good and bad. Good in the respect that I got to know him personally and in spite of his many odd manners and the fact that he was my teacher—I couldn't help but admire him. It was bad from the standpoint of my living in constant fear that he would report some of my misdoings around the dinner table.

Uncle Eph knew the text books by heart and could give you the answer to any problem in eighth grade arithmetic without a moment's hesitation. The fact that he knew it so well was sometimes hard on the pupils because he couldn't see why anyone needed to have a problem explained when he himself knew the answer so well.

As winter approached, Uncle Eph started adding to his wearing apparel. A drop of five or 10 degrees would mean the adding of another pair of trousers and a vest over the already heavily garbed body. By midwinter I've seen him wear four pairs of pants, one right over the other. His system of supporting all four pairs on two pairs of suspenders was an achievement in itself, requiring as it did the assistance of a few odd pieces of string, some wire and a nail or two. For trouser length, Uncle Eph never had to worry about being in style. He could wear short ones over long ones or vice versa and thus always keep up with the changing trends.

For lunch, Uncle Eph always wanted milk to drink. My aunt couldn't get the drift of his instruction to put all of his lunch in the pail together. We soon learned what he meant when we saw him pour the milk over his sandwiches, pie, cake or whatever and then eat it all with a spoon. In cold weather when the Burnside stove was going he would warm the mixture on the circular ledge that ran around the smokestack.

Uncle Eph was a page out of the early history of education in Ohio. He never knew anything more modern than a one-room school building. Modern heating systems and modern educational methods were foreign to him but he was long on the three "R's" and doubtless hundreds of persons owe what education they have today to his pedagogy.

MAGLY FIELD never looked in finer shape than it did Friday night when the lights were turned on for public inspection the first time. The gridiron looked like a beautiful green carpet laid off with the white yard markers.

C. F. Bateman explains that 100 pounds of grass seed and 2,000 pounds of fertilizer were used last spring to accomplish that velvety touch. The big gridiron has been Bateman's "baby" for several years and he admits that this is his best job.

SHORTEST BUSINESS HOURS of any firm on the Hilltop are kept by Buck's Sandwich Shop, corner of Eldon and Broad-st. Buck has a sign in his window that advises passers-by that he is open from 9 a. m. to 1 a. m. only.

Help shortages several years ago led to restricted hours of operation, resulting in the present abbreviated store hours. Hilltoppers are familiar with his method of operation and still create a good demand for his "carry out" merchandise.

West High's Band will add something new to its repertoire of entertainment stunts this year when the cap lights, now on order, arrive. Each bandsman will have a light on his hat and the drum major will use a lighted baton to create something new in after-dark entertainment at football games.

HILLTOP RECORD'S recent Franklinton Sesquicentennial Edition has been placed on file in many of the country's leading museums as part of the file of historical data on the subject. Miss Madge Sullivant has mailed copies of the paper to many of the descendants of the pioneer community as keepsakes.

Most of the material contained therein was from the personal files of Myron Seifert, West High School journalism teacher, and had been accumulated over a period of several years.

The Army Game

More than two years after the end of the war I have acquired a war hero. He is columnist Robert Ruark who a few weeks ago let loose a blast at General "Courthouse" Lee's command in Italy. His series of articles tickled me clear down to my toes. Every other ex GI, I talked to, who has seen examples of this type of luxurious living during the war and been properly nauseated by it felt the same way. I am glad that someone had the courage to tell the paying public some of the things their money is being spent for.

Kel Fuller

I inquired of many people whether they had been following these articles. In fact, I conducted an unofficial Fuller poll and found that, without exception, the ex-servicemen were gobbling it up. A lot of other people seemed to be a little worked up. There was a great deal of indifference. In case anyone still wishes to read what Mr. Ruark has to say, I have the articles clipped and pasted in chronological order. Not a precious word is missing.

None So Blind . . .

One reason the army inspector general's offise is set up is to see that enlisted men get a square deal and officers don't abuse their privilege of rank. That is the way it was explained to us. I saw plenty of indignities suffered by enlisted men but I never saw one rectified. When the inspector came he was always squired around the outfit by the CO. He rarely even spoke to an enlisted man and when he did that poor unfortunate trembled in his boots. If the EM disclosed any information, his fate was sealed. He would be put on the well known "list". When he finished digging his way to China, a thousand other unpleasant things would be ready for him to do. We always got wind of one of these inspections a few days in advance so that everything could be cleaned and shining. The inspector saw only what he should see. The dirty wash was carefully hidden until he departed. Most of us accepted this thing philosophically and made no attempt to contact the inspector. It wouldn't have done any good.

This is the way it worked in our small company. The procedure is part of the so called army game to which there are many tricks. It takes a while to "wise up" and when you do "wise up" it just makes you sick.

There is no reason to believe that the "official party" that is investigating the columnists charges will see the same things Ruark did. Some of them are so steeped in army tradition that they wouldn't know a personal indignity if they met one on the street. They don't see things through the same eyes as an enlisted man. Lee has had time to hide his dirty wash, and I will bet dollars to donuts that he accompanies the inspector general and the official party in the tour. What man in his right mind will talk up under these conditions knowing the repercussions he will suffer?

Situation Could Be Helped

It will be interesting to see whether Ruark's bold expose will have any far reaching effect. The army is going to a great deal of expense in a recruiting campaign in an effort to spur enlistments. Conditions such as Ruark says prevail in Italy aren't going to encourage many men to rush madly to the recruiting station and sign up.

If the army took drastic steps to remedy the situation and set down some of the high brass who have been living like emperors, they might indicate to people that they are in good faith. It would show the ordinary soldier that the entire army system isn't stacked against him. It might even help restore the faith of this skeptical ex GI.

The Mark of Good Taste—Furniture at WHITE'S
WHAT'S BEHIND COMPARATIVE PRICES?

White's management believes comparative pricing is unnecessary and harmful!

Comparative pricing, (two prices on a tag with the higher price crossed off), encourages customers to believe they save the difference.

Merchandise is often tagged this way even before it has been on the floor or offered for sale at the crossed-out price. Comparative pricing may also be used to move slow, shopworn, poor-quality merchandise. The buyer gets no choice of colors, sizes or styles. Merchandise marked down was probably not worth the higher price.

At White's we're proud we've never had to hold a sale or resort to comparative pricing. We make mistakes, sure, but we re-price without "comparison." The price tag on every piece of merchandise at White's represents its true value—priced right, right at the start!

Snakes Aren't So Bad If You Like Them (It Says Here)

Although snakes are not generally accepted as the most desirable sort of camper's companion or as pets other than by snake charmers and carnival exhibitors, snakes too often are unjustly criticized by most people as "no-goods."

Ohio division of conservation game protectors and other field men whose work keeps them in snake infested areas have learned to know the habits of various snakes and what precautions to take to remain on friendly terms with them. They claim that snakes are just misunderstood.

For instance most people, especially those who have had unpleasant experiences with striking snakes, are falsely impressed with the striking distance of snakes believing them to be able to "shoot" a distance of 15 or 20 feet at its prey. Actually at most a snake can strike a distance equal to one-half or three-quarters of its own length unless of course he strikes down hill which would benefit his distance considerably.

The forked tongue which the snake seems to delight in wiggling at its prospective dinner actually is not dangerous at all, although most people believe it to be the dreaded venom injector. Poison is secreted from the snake's fangs or teeth. The tongue is said to be somewhat of a feeler to the snake and also is a decoy in its attack on field mice and other prey. The idea is that the wiggling tongue will hold the eye in hypnotic attention thereby shielding the action of the rest of the snake's body which is going into striking position.

Here in Ohio there are but three commonly known poisonous snakes—the Timber Rattlers, the Massasauga, and the Copperheads, and they have distinct warning signals well worth recognizing. Rattlers have a clearly recognized whirr of their tail-rattles, the copperhead is recognized by odor and a swishing tail that sounds like a bull-whip against leaves and twigs.

Some snakes lay eggs and some don't. Pythons, pine snakes, blacksnakes, lay eggs. The atmospheric heat and moisture hatch them, though the rock pythons and others, possibly pine snakes, will coil around the eggs like a sitting hen or bird.

Snakes, like most members of wildlife families, are as afraid of people as people are afraid of them or more so. They will usually make a quick getaway when aroused but when cornered their instinct for survival will cause them to attack whatever has created the distubrance. A good rule to follow is, be watchful but don't pester them. This rule goes for snakes especially.

DRAPED ELEGANCE

Pannier draped skirt and rounded shoulders in a safe-as-last crepe afternoon dress.

MORE and better fabric has gone into Fall and Winter dresses by New York designers. More originality in styling and skill in draping have contributed to the shapely but still youthful look.

So many occasions all winter long call for a dressy afternoon dress like the one pictured, it's well to have it in a sober color, so as not to tire of it too quickly. In crepe the exact shade of coffee with cream, it's an interesting adaptation of the "Follies Girl" styles of the 'twenties, with its slightly pegtop skirt. Shoulders, much less padded than formerly, are softer, rounder, more feminine. Sleeves in the "ladylike" tradition—casually loose from shoulder to elbow, snug from elbow to wrist—and gold studded black leather belt add elegance.

Shades of brown provide the strongest color note for Fall and Winter, over-shadowing even black. Fawn, topaz, amber, titian, mahogany, taupe and copperplate are variations of brown, red-brown and golden-brown that add their richness to the richness of fabric.

Serve Soup For Variety

Soup is a handy solution to that light meal that breaks the monotony of everyday meal planning. Below are listed several of the old standbys.:

Cream of Tomato Soup

One cup of tomato juice; ¼ teaspoon soda; 1½ pints milk; 1 teaspoon flour; butter, salt and pepper. Boil tomatoes; press tomato juice and season to taste.

Vegetable Soup

Two pounds soup meat boiled until tender, with salt to taste. Remove meat, add ½ cup rice; 1 cup spaghetti, broken in small pieces; carrots, Irish potato; cabbage, cut fine; small can tomato pulp; 1 pealed apple; large onion. When apple and onion are tender, remove from soup. Bay leaves and parsley may be used.

Noodle Soup

Boil a shin of beef until tender, take out the bone and strain the liquor through a colander, then season to taste and add the noodles, which are made as follows: Break 2 eggs in basin, add flour enough to make a stiff dough, roll out very thin and sprinkle lightly with flour, then roll up as you would a jelly cake and slice up in thin slices, shake out and put in soup, boil 10 minutes and it is ready to serve.

Cream of Pea Soup

One cup cooked or canned peas; 1 cup water; 1 tablespoon chopped onion; 1 tablespoon butter; 1 sprig mint; ½ teaspoon sugar; 1 pint cream stock. Brown the onion in butter; add to the peas, mint bay leaf, sugar and water and let simmer slowly for one hour. Strain through a fine sieve; add cream sauce and serve.

Cream of Potato Soup

Three medium sized potatoes, or 2 cups mashed potatoes; 2 cups of milk; ½ cup of cream, or 3 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon of salt (⅛ teaspoon onion juice if you like), pepper, 1 egg or 2 egg yolks. Wash thoroughly and pare potatoes. Cook in boiling water until they almost fall to pieces. Drain and mash or put through a potato ricer. Add seasoning. Add liquid gradually, stirring constantly. Just before removing from the fire, add well beaten egg.

News of Rome

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

After being away from the Ohio State Fair church stand for a week and in answer to the many questions, "Did the labor and inconvenience pay?" I cheerfully say it did. I was among the half dozen ladies who went up for the breakfast shift. To leave home at 5:30 and drive in the early morning, facing a beautiful sunrise, makes one feel glad and thankful to be alive and able to do work that should be done. Our farmer friends of many years' standing were glad to welcome us back and the same welcome was returned by us. We pitched our tent for 10 days' service and with plenty of help to do plenty of work, we had lots of fun accommodating the public. It was worth it.

With the headlines pointing out crowded school conditions generally, Rome School can really come under that head. The music room has been done away with to make it a classroom for the fourth graders. That gives the school seven class-rooms. The teachers are Miss Iftner, Miss Weber, Miss Hazel Ansel, Miss Wilson, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Della Grooms. The new teachers are Mrs. Grooms and Miss Ansel. There is an enrollment of 225 pupils. James A. Groves is entering his 14th year as principal.

With the opening of the school term, many of the high school students climb into the Hilliards school bus, with the same friends they have been associating with the past eight years. This helps them to get adjusted to high school life more easily. Hilliards High School is one of first class standing and the staff of instructors is so qualified that the graduates from Hilliards High are able to enter a college of their choice.

Last Friday night the Hilliards High School had a party for teachers and students only. It might be called a "get-acquainted" evening. It was well attended and no doubt teachers will understand their pupils better after having this free evening with them.

The Galloway homecoming was a big success. The children's parade was the "big number," for children are always the main attraction. One little fellow, Robert Kaderly, of Fairacres, who won prize money in the pet parade, had his yellow duck wrapped in a small size bath towel. Everything went as planned until the rain started, about 9:30, when everyone had to skip for shelter wherever they could find it. The drawing was put on earlier than usual and Deb Howell, Pasadena-av, who did not think he would even go down, was the winner of the basket of groceries. Hugh Johnson, formerly of Rome, now of the West Side, won the electric iron.

John Eckert, son of Mrs. William Hall, Lennox-av, is in Mt. Carmel Hospital, where he underwent a very serious and painful eye operation. Infection had set in behind the eye ball, brought on by diving. They hope he will be able to come home next week.

The Monitors (Young Married Class) of Columbia Heights Church had an officers' meeting to make plans for the year. To create more life in the organization, it was decided to have weekly meetings of the wives and sew for a bazaar to be held around Christmas time with a supper. The monthly meetings will be held as usual with the attendance of husbands.

Although Jim Snyder of Maple-dr was in quite an accident on E. Broad-st last Sunday, he escaped with cuts and bruises. He was taken to the hospital but released after a thorough examination. He left Friday night with David Baker, Pasadena-av, and David Wilson of Zanesville for California, traveling by bus. They expect to be gone a short time returning home with a jeep.

Mrs. Robert Adair of Upper Arlington and Mr. and Mrs. Harry McEwan of New Bethlehem, Pa., and Pinellas Park, Fla., called at the Patterson residence, Maple-dr, for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warner and family spent Labor Day week-end in Dayton visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Gould. Enroute, they were held up by what they termed trouble ahead. They were eye witnesses to the arrest, in true western style, of four big, burly men who were held with their arms "reaching for the sky" while the law relieved them of guns, knives and blackjack. A machine gun was ready for the first crooked move. Four state cars arrived at the scene at about the same time, but Mrs. Warner said she was so excited she never noticed their arrival.

Rev. Patterson preached Sunday at the Presbyterian Church London.

Mrs. Mary Lockhart and daughter, Mary Ellen, of Crestline called Saturday afternoon to visit a short time with Mrs. Patterson.

Charles W. Reeves was honor guest at the champion Doadal's Knights of Pythias family night program Sept. 2. On Sept 23 Mr Reeves will reach his 88th birthday. He was a charter member of Champion Lodge K. of P. more than 50 years ago and served in many capacities. The principal speakers were W. B. Pickens, Glenn Sparkes, Edward Ellis and Leslie Hunt. An oil portrait of Mr. Reeves was made by Mr Hunt and presented to the lodge. Mr. Reeves resides with his son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs T. Earl Nichols, 5041 W. Broad-st.

Two 4-H Club members in this community have been chosen to attend the annual Ohio 4-H Club Congress to be held at the Ohio State University Sept. 8 to 12. They are Reva Jean Nichols of the Nimble Fingers 4-H Club, under the direction of Mrs. Fay Foresman, and Mary Frank Calland and Gene Fisher of the Alton Advancers 4-H Club, under the direction of Harold Hart. Reva and Gene will live in dormitories on the campus, attend special programs and parties throughout the week. More than 500 youths from the state of Ohio are expected to attend.

House-raising Day For Record Staff

Catching the true significance of Labor Day, men from the office and shop of The Hilltop Record joined forces to help James Skinner erect a pre-fab house on Fisher-rd. Victim of the current housing shortage, Skinner, an employe of the Record, had purchased a government surplus house and had it moved in sections to a tract of land he owns on Fisher-rd.

Bright and early on the morning of Labor Day the Record jokingly referred to as the "wrecking") crew arrived and started assembling the one-story structure on a previously constructed foundation. By noon the sides were up and the roof in place, all ready for the finishing carpenter to go to work.

By Mrs. Harry Downing

The WSCS of Brigsdale Church will hold a bake sale Saturday morning in the newly established Sharon Dry Cleaners next door to the post office. The sale will begin at 9 o'clock. Mrs. Martha Martindale is president of the WSCS.

Mrs. S. R. Martindale, formerly of 1595 Garling-av, is spending this week with her daughter, Mrs. William Fields, and family, of Ironton.

Charles Martin, Jr., 1865 Harrisburg-pk, accompanied Noel Rutledge and family, 1585 E Weber-rd, to Indian Lake over the week-end.

Harold Lemming, Harrisburg pk, was in Michigan last week-end on a business trip.

Rev. and Mrs. J. Arva Shirer of Briggsdale are in Michigan on a 10-day fishing trip. Enroute home they will visit friends in Toledo.

Mrs. John Quelette, 1032 Harrisburg-pk, attended the Grant Hospital alumni dinner-dance Saturday evening at the Virginia Hotel.

Herman Eben, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Eben, Gantz-rd, who has been in Redwood City, Calif for some time, recently spent two weeks with relatives here. He is now located in Adrian, Mich.

Wilson School held its first regular PTA meeting last Friday evening. Following the business meeting, some very interesting sound movies were shown by Homer Johnson of Bansburg-av. Piano selections given by Virginia Johnson. A reception for the new teachers was held. Mr. Radcliffe who has returned after a year's absence, was given a hearty welcome by both the parents and children. A piano has been donated by Mrs. H. R. McGhee teacher of the fourth and fifth grades. The instrument is for the use of the entire school. The school cafeteria opened Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Martindale, 2163 Gantz-rd, have as their guest this week Mrs. Hoyt Martindale of Derby.

The Red Cross unit of the Briggsdale district held its annual picnic at the church yesterday.

Mrs. George Goodrich, Jackson-av, the southwest district vice-president of the county PTA, and Mrs. Oscar Seeger, Richmond-rd, president of the Wilson PTA, were among those present at a tea given last Thursday afternoon at the YMCA. The party was given by the district vice-presidents in honor of the local presidents.

The regular meeting of the WSCS of Briggsdale Church will be held next Thursday, Sept. 18 in the afternoon, at the home of Mrs. John Briggs, Harrisburg-pk.

The True Blue Sunday School Class of Briggsdale met Monday evening at the home of Doreen Baumgartner, 748 Harrisburg-pk.

The Spectator
By C.C. Hartley

Ups and Downs: A Cleveland newspaper asked for letters from their readers giving the answer to the question "What would you do if you were editor?" The shortest reply was, "I'd resign" . . . Jean Worrel sends us a post card from Banff Springs, Alberta, where he was attending the Sun Life meeting last week . . . Bill Hayes returned to Miami University this week . . . Don Bailey, one-time Record printer, now of Akron, and his wife, were visitors with us Monday evening . . . Louis Maish is reopening insurance offices down in the Melvin Bldg., at Wayne-av and Broad-st. Comes a few days more now and the new barber shop next door to Helen's Sandwich Shop will be opened by Barbers Whitlow and Groves . . . Understand a couple of highly paid clowns will perform at that Horse Show to be sponsored by the Kiwanis Club at the Hilliards Fairgrounds Sept. 28 . . . Dr. J. T. Angus has a sideline, that of making fish lures, and some mighty fine ones too . . . Several sour cherry trees which blossomed and bore fruit this past season are again in full foliage and blossom on the farm of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Lose on the Orient-Darbyville-rd . . . And then there was the local Christian Endeavor Society that went on a corn roast only to have a cow come along and eat up the corn before the fires were started . . . Glad to see Leo Phillips back on the job with the police department . . . Capt. and Mrs. Clyde Good expecting to leave Japan in the next few days . . . Ruth Kuder is driving a new Dodge these days . . . Dick Francis wants it known that Ray "Red" Maxwell helped sell the ads on that Booster Page in next week's Record.

The Typesetter

We clipped the following regarding the typesetter, from an exchange, and pass it on:

He sets the type to print the words . . . That say the things we mean . . . And does his duty skilfully . . . By hand or by machine . . . Of course there are occasions when . . . The metal wears and breaks . . . Or when he dreams a little and . . . He makes a few mistakes . . . But usually he has the touch . . . Of wisdom and of age . . . That changes scribbled copy to . . . The perfect printed page . . . His job is not to edit or . . . Revise a single word . . . No matter what he knows himself . . . Or what he may have heard . . . But just to pick the proper type and . . . And pass it to the press . . . To tell the world a tale of woe . . . Or one of happiness.

Story of the Week

They tell us that Mike Shesky was noticeably nervous at his wedding a week ago last Monday and after the ceremony Father Bauschard extended his hand and said, "Congratulations, Mike, and may you have lots of children."

Nervous Mike replied, "Thanks, Father, and the same to you."

Horse Show To Be Held On Sept. 28

Plans are being made this week for the western horse show to be held at the Hilliards Fairgrounds in the afternoon of Sept. 28.

The 14-event program is being sponsored by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club and the Western Horse Exhibitors Association. It will be the last 10-point Ohio western show this year that will help exhibitors qualify for the fall "roundup."

Earl Lambert, president, and Bailey (Stretch) Bradley, executive secretary of the Western Horse Exhibitors Association, are working with local Kiwanians in making arrangements for the big event.

The various classes of competition and the purses for each are as follows:

Parade class, $20, $15, $10 and $5; spotted horse class, $20, $15, $10 and $5; ponies 48 inches and under, cash and ribbon to all entries; plain colored horses, $20, $15, $10 and $5; ponies 48 to 56 inches, cash and ribbon to all entries.

Palomino, $20, $15, $10 and $5; pleasure class, $20, $15, $10 and $5; pairs class, $20, $15, 10 and 5; neck reining, $20, $15, $10 and $5; western trail horse class, $20, $15, $10 and $5; stock horse class, $20, $15, $10 and $5; children, western horsemanship (under 14 years), 15, $10, $7.50, $5 and $2.50; pony express (two horses), $20 $15, $10 and $5; musical chair, $20, $15, $10 and $5.

Harold Cunningham, 4744 Fisher-rd, general chairman of the horse show, announced the following committee to assist him in staging the event:

Cramer; tickets, John Apel; band and parade, George Williams, Mack Pemberton and Franklin Sparks; policing grounds, Leo Phillips; entertainment, Curtis Wilcox and Phillip Stout; grandstand, Lou and Paul Rausch and Joe Goodwin; distribution of programs and parking, Charles Reichelderfer and members of the senior scouting units.

HCC Endorses Proposed "Y" For Hilltop

At its first fall meeting, Hilltop Community Council unanimously endorsed the proposed Hilltop YMCA plans, and further voted to urge each and every member organization to study the plan and take similar action.

Tentative plans for the third annual Hilltop Hallowe'en celebration were announced. Charles Reichelderfer is the general chairman, and will be assisted by a number of Parent-Teacher Association members, Blue Star Mothers, Kiwanis Club, Hilltop Business Association, American Legion, Booster Club and others to be announced shortly.

The formation of a Canteen Association group was discussed, with planned activities for the older "youngsters" of the Hilltop. Action will be taken at the October meeting.

Mrs. Ray Cave reported on progress being made on proposed improvements to the three parks on the Hilltop.

The Council also endorsed unanimously the extension of the Mound Street bus, and offered its assistance to the group of southwest Hilltop residents who are seeking this improvement.

The proposed improvement to W. Broad-st (a lane or curbing in the middle of the street) was discussed, with most of those attending believing that it would not be practical, as the street is too narrow. In a body, they made a study of just what such a change would make in front of the Canteen (opposite the Big Beer Market) with cars parked along the street, and a bus coming through.

Forget-Me-Nots On Sale Saturday

Blue forget-me-nots, flowers of remembrance, will be sold in Columbus Sept. 20 by Capitol City Chapter No. 3, Disabled American Veterans, in an annual drive for funds for the rehabilitation of disabled veterans of World War I and World War II.

Plans for the flower sale were announced today by Robert Anderson, commander of the DAV. Headquarters for the drive will be the Chamber of Commerce Building, 30 E. Broad-st, from which a force of volunteer sales girls will canvass the city.

"The entire proceeds from our annual forget-me-not sale," Commander Anderson said, "will be used for the chapter rehabilitation program. To further the rehabilitation of disabled veterans the service officer of the DAV offers free assistance in obtaining claims."

The DAV is incorporated by an act of Congress as the official voice of all men and women disabled in defense of the nation. With casualties of World War II already exceeding those of World War I, the work of the DAV with the returning soldier becomes increasingly important.

Mary Lou Dean is serving as chairman and Mary Weisheit as co-chairman of the drive this year.

Mrs. Esther Weakley Hurt In Auto Crash

Mrs. Esther Weakley, 3 Belvidere-av, poetry editor of The Hilltop Record for a number of years, received glass cuts on her right arm Thursday night when two cars crashed at Grandview-av and Dublin-rd. Also injured in the accident were Mrs. Betty Weakley, 23, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Weakley, Mrs. Dora McCandlish, 39, of 15 Hawkes-av, Charles Childs, and H. Kaplan, both of Toledo.

All were treated at Mt. Carmel Hospital and released. Mrs. Weakley's son, Robert, was driver of a car that was hit by Ben B. Barsky of Toledo.

Services Held Monday For Mrs. Wm. Wolfe

Funeral services were held in St. Aloysius Church Monday morning for Mrs. Mary Theresa Wolfe, 174 S. Eureka-av, wife of William Wolfe, owner of the Hilltop Recreation. She died last Thursday after suffering a broken hip several weeks ago. Burial followed at St. Joseph Cemetery by Wylie S. Shroyer.

Surviving in addition to her husband, are two daughters, Mrs Frank Harrity and Mrs. Robert Dawson, both of Columbus; nine sons, Herman, Harold, Lawrence, Richard, Joseph, Thomas, James, William, Jr., and Edwin Wolfe, all of Columbus.

She was a member of St. Aloysius Church, the Ladies' Auxiliary to Knights of St. John and the Christian Mothers.

Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion will hold its annual election of officers Friday evening, Sept. 19, at post headquarters, southeast corner of W. Broad-st and S. Burgess-av. The polls will open at 7 p. m. and close at 9 p. m.

Mrs. Harold C. Kay Points To Need Of

Gray Lady Volunteers For State Hospital Service Here

World War II is over but the work of the Gray Lady continues to expand. At present the Franklin County Red Cross Gray Lady Corps needs the services of 200 women to assist in this work.

Mrs. Harold C. Kay, 91 Schultz-av, appointed chairman of the work here on July 1 of this year points out that there is a great need for the work in the Columbus State Hospital here on the Hilltop.

Originated as a service of the American Red Cross to help soldiers who were hospital patients, the work has taken on new responsibilities in insane hospitals, tubercular sanitariums and other similar institutions.

Mrs. Kay, long identified with Red Cross work in the city, served three years on the advisory committee as vice chairman in charge of entertainment at Ft. Hayes Station Hospital and Lockbourne Army Air Base Hospital. She has 2,851 volunteer hours to her credit, having worked as a Grey Lady since June, 1944. She has been active in Red Cross work for 10 years, having served as colonel of the Valley section for the past seven years during the Red Cross fund campaigns.

Mrs. Kay has also been active in parent-teacher work. She served as president of the Chicago Avenue PTA for three years and was also head of the West Junior-Senior PTA. She has worked on Community Fund drives for 12 years. One year she was colonel for the entire West Side and Hilltop. At present she is secretary of the Glenwood Blue Star Mothers Club and president of the Partea Club, an organization consisting of past presidents of the PTA organizations.

Mrs. Harold C. Kay, 91 Schultz-av, now chairman of the Gray Lady Corps in Franklin County, writes a letter for a serviceman at the Fort Hayes Station Hospital during World War II.

The Red Cross Gray Lady Corps was founded at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C., in 1918. The official name is Hospital and Recreation Corps. The name Gray Ladies came into being because of the color of the uniforms.

The first Gray Lady Corps in Franklin County was organized in June, 1944, with 32 members in the class. A second unit of 47 was trained in April, 1946, to fill the need at Fort Hayes Hospital and Lockbourne Army Air Base Hospital. Three of these Gray Ladies serve at the Cancer Clinic.

A third unit of 18 Negro Gray Ladies was trained in March, 1946, to serve at Lockbourne Army Air Base Hospital. Fourteen of these Gray Ladies are doing a splendid job there now.

A fourth unit of 22 members took an orientation course at Columbus State Hospital in March, 1947. The program for volunteers in a mental hospital was pioneered at Cleveland State Hospital in 1944.

The Gray Ladies at Columbus State Hospital are doing an invaluable job among the patients. They work with, and take lobotomy patients for walks. They plan parties, entertainment, picnics and theatre parties. Games and cards are played with the patients. The Gray Ladies gave 1300 popcorn fritters to the patients at the annual July 4th Field Day.

Teach Recreation

The Gray Ladies teach recreational handcrafts—knitting, leather work, making belts of cord and pyro-lace, and making many things from felt scraps. Finger painting is taught.

Singing groups are encouraged, and led by Gray Ladies. They serve in many other ways, depending on the needs of the hospital.

Auto Theatre To Open Sat.

Miles' West Broad Theatre, Columbus' newest movie, is scheduled to open Saturday, Sept. 20. This outdoor theatre is located at 4050 W. Broad-st, directly opposite the Fisher Body-Ternstedt Plant. Entrances and exits are provided on both Georgesville-rd and W. Broad-st to facilitate quick and easy entry. By coming along the Georgesville rd and entering directly into the theatre grounds, all the heavy traffic of the National Highway may be avoided. However, coming from Columbus via W. Broad-st will offer a straight sweep with the traffic, making direct entrance from Broad.

This theatre is the initial step in a large business development planned at this site, which embraces 31 acres of land and is owned by the Champion Amusement Co., of which Walter Miles, 2189 Waltham-rd, is president. Mass plantings of climbing roses, flowering shrubs and evergreens are planned, promising to make this development a source of beauty and community pride. Much of the finishing, both in landscaping and construction work, must necessarily await the coming season.

Speakers posts, holding two individual speakers at a height where the occupant of a car need only reach out and transfer the speaker from the post to the car, are placed between each pair of cars, up and down the ramps. These speakers, made by the DeVry Corporation of Chicago, are as easy to operate as your home radio, and as fool-proof. The volume and clarity of sound can be regulated on each individual speaker, which may then be placed in the car wherever the occupant may find it preferable. Hard-of-hearing persons will find these speakers especially helpful, it is said.

Elza Miles, who, with his brother Walter Miles, president of both the business-development owning company and West Broad Amusement Company, which will operate the theatre, will be in active charge. Elza is a well-known Hilltop resident of 587 S. Ogden-av, and manager of the Grandview Theatre for many years from which post he is taking leave of absence, to come to the new Miles' West Broad.

Briggsdale School Fair Is Tomorrow

The annual school fair will be held tomorrow evening (Sept. 19) at Briggsdale School. Home-made cakes, pies, candy, needle work, canned fruits and vegetables and fresh garden produce will be auctioned off, beginning at 8 o'clock.

There will be games and a fish pond for the children. A bicycle and radio are two of the many prizes which are to be given away.

Amvets Seek Amendment

Dana Deshler, 532 Thurman-av, commander of American Veterans of World War II Amvets, Hilltop Post No. 55, announced early this week that his post would seek an amendment to the national constitution of Amvets at the national convention of that organization being held in Columbus Oct. 2 to 5.

Commander Deshler announced that the resolution calling for the amendment was presented to the Hilltop Post by Joseph R. Hague, 44 Binns-blvd. Mr. Hague is organizer and past commander of Hilltop Post No. 55.

Mr. Hague, when reached for comment, said, "Amvets is the only World War II organization to receive a congressional charter. We have thus had great honor and great responsibility thrust upon us. Knowing as we do how a 'fifth column' operates, we may expect men of apparently unimpeachable antecedents to seek high office in the national and various state organizations. We shall, therefore, ask all candidates for office to sign an affidavit denying any inclination for or connection, either directly or indirectly, with any organization or philosophy which is subversive to the best interests of the United States of America. This affidavit shall also authorize and request the FBI to carefully check the backgrounds of such office-holders or candidates. Provision will be made for an automatic resignation clause should such a report be unfavorable. The nation at large and every Amvet can then be sure that Amvets is preserving the high duty and purpose for which it was founded and under which it is now operating."

Commander Deshler said this resolution had the full support of Amvets Hilltop Post No. 55.

Who's Who Among Hilltop Babies To Be New Hilltop Record Feature

Within a few weeks The Hilltop Record will start a new feature to be known as "Who's Who Among Hilltop Babies." Each week a special page will be devoted to the babies of this community and a number of pictures of youngsters will be printed in each edition.

Every parent on the Hilltop is invited to take advantage of this offer. All that is neccesary is to call the Record, RA. 1125, or come to the office and ask that your baby's photo be taken. Within a few days after you call, the Record photographer will make an appointment with you and come to your home to take the baby's photo.

In view of the fact that it will be necessary to have a certain size photo and a glossy print thereof it will necessitate having the Record photographer take the pictures.

Any parents having particularly good pictures of their babies may submit them and the Record Baby Editor will advise if they can be used.

There is no charge for this feature and the only requirement is that parents of the babies must be paid up subscribers to The Hilltop Record.

Due to the newsprint shortage there will be few, if any, extra copies of the papers available. Only paid subscribers will receive the paper.

Parents are invited to call the Record, starting today. Pictures will be taken and printed in the order in which applications are received.

Dedication Of Magly Field Lights Set For Sept. 26

Big plans are being made for the dedication of the new lights, score board, band stand, public address system, ticket booths and other improvements to Magly Field at the opening home game on Sept. 26. The Cowboys will meet the Central Pirates on the home field to inaugurate the city league play for 1947 on that date.

Because of the number of special events planned for the West-Central game on Sept. 26, the pre-game program will get under way at 7:30 p. m. While all phases of the program are not complete in detail, it is understood that Gov. Thomas J. Herbert will be present to officially dedicate the lights and other improvements. All new facilities will be dedicated to the former students who lost their lives in World War II.

Lee Weigand, 3181 W. Broad-st, is general chairman of the committee in charge of planning the program. Members of the West High Boosters Club will march onto the field in a body wearing their new ten-gallon cowboy hats. Appearing on the program will be Irvin F. Young and Mr. Slager, principals of West and Central, respectively; Richard (Dick) Francis, Booster president; M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner, chairman of the Booster membership drive; George Hardy, president of the West High Alumni Association; Dr. R. J. Miller, president of the Hilltop Business Association; Edgar Planck, president of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club; Otto H. Magly, former principal of the school and in whose name the field was named; George Roudebush, superintendent of Columbus schools, and a representative of the West student body.

The West High Band will play an important part in the pre-game and between-half activities. Members will be wearing the hat lights for the first time with some "lights out" numbers being planned.

Mrs. Leo McComb Killed In Crash Here Tuesday

Mrs. Louise McComb, 41, of 351 N. Burgess-av, was killed and three other members of her family were injured when the car in which they were riding struck and killed a horse in Jackson-pk, about eight miles south of Columbus Tuesday evening.

Leo L. McComb, 47, husband of the dead woman, is in serious condition in Mt. Carmel Hospital suffering from severe head and face lacerations. He is owner of the Rosebud Floral Co. at the N. Burgess-av address. Also injured in the crash were a son, Pvt. Robert McComb, 18, U. S. Army, head and face lacerations; and Robert's wife, Patricia, 18, of 176 N. Powell-av severe face and head lacerations.

Carl Fladt, 25, of 304 N. Burgess-av, was said by police to be the driver of the car. The horse was believed to have escaped from a nearby field and wandered out into the highway. The force of the collision threw the horse into the air and it landed on the top of the car, mashing the top down to the seat level.

Mt. Carmel Hospital reported the condition of the three patients as "fair" Wednesday noon.

Funeral services for Mrs. McComb will be held at the Noble L. Allen Funeral Home Friday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Sunset Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday and until time of services Friday.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by six children, Mrs. Mary Morehart, Mrs. Virginia Woodland, Phyllis, Margaret, Janet and Pvt. Robert McComb; and her mother, Mrs. Lena Wacknagel. She was a member of Robert Morris Chapter of Eastern Star.

As the Record went to press Wednesday noon it was learned that Mr. McComb was still unconscious and that an emergency operation was performed on Robert's eyes in an effort to save his sight.

Janet, 8, youngest member of the McComb family, was to have had a cast removed from her back on Wednesday, it was understood. She had been in the cast since she was a year old. She was injured in a fall at that time.

Play Arlington Friday

Tomorrow night Coach Mack Pemberton will take his team to Arlington where the Bears will be after their tenth consecutive win. Last week Arlington downed South 40 to 12 while West was taking a 20-12 victory from the Springfield Wildcats.

Coach Pemberton indicated there would be no change in his starting lineup from that at Springfield. Minor injuries sustained in the fracas with the Wildcats are not expected to seriously handicap any of the Cowboys.

The 70-piece West High Band will accompany the team to Arlington to help entertain the capacity crowd assured for the game. The band will do the "Hi" with the cross bar shifting to spell out the welcome to both stands. At the half the West bandsmen will make an "A" inside a large "U". This will be followed by a large block "A", then moving into the large block "W".

Peters Is Named To Debate Team At Columbia U.

Edwin W. Peters, Jr., of 805 S. Hague-av, a pre-law student at Columbia University, will represent his school when its debating team meets an Oxford University group in an international debate this fall.

Peters left Columbus Monday to return to his second year at Columbia. The debate will be held in New York City on Oct. 8. The Columbia team will take the affirmative side of the proposal, "That the danger of war can best be averted by an all-purpose Anglo-American alliance."

A veteran of three years in the Army Air Forces where he served as an instructor, Peters was instrumental in organizing the Columbus chapter of the American Veterans Committee.

West High Boosters Will Meet Tonight

There will be a meeting of the West High Boosters Club in Room 101 at the school tonight starting at 7:30 o'clock, according to Richard (Dick) Francis, president of the club.

Bus Service Likely For New Area Here

Columbus-Celina Line Interested

There seemed a good possibility this week that residents of the W. Mound-st sector will get transportation.

Last week a petition bearing almost 500 signatures of persons in that area was presented to city council by Hilltop Councilman Henry Koontz. Petitioners stated that they would be willing to pay a 10-cent fare in order to have transportation without walking all the way to Sullivant-av to meet the present bus line.

Although no action was taken by council, it is expected that a meeting will be called at which time the matter will be discussed with Frank Cluff, owner of the Columbus-Celina Company, and officials of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company.

Mr. Cluff admitted to The Hilltop Record that he was interested in entering the Hilltop field "if the people want me to."

"If that section needs transportation and they want me to run a bus line out that way, I will make an attempt to do that," he said.

He indicated that he already has the busses on hand to start serving the area at any time.

Morgan Evans, in charge of transportation for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Company, declined comment on the subject.

Asked if his company would be interested in continuing the present W. Mound-st line further west to service that area he said:

"That is a matter that will have to be discussed with city council."

He indicated that he was ready to talk the matter over any time council opened the issue. Two or three requests for extension of the W. Mound-st line have been rejected by the company in recent years.

While Mr. Cluff was hesitant about discussing the matter before council has officially opened the case, he did admit that he had talked the matter over with Mr. Koontz and that he was prepared to serve the area if approved by city officials.

Koontz said there was a possibility that the line might be extended beyond the Binns-blvd end of W. Mound-st. The line might be extended north and west to service the Westgate Park area, he said.

He also pointed out that in order to avoid crossing the unguarded railroad crossing on W. Mound-st just west of Central-av, the bus might be brought out W. Town-st to Central-av, south to Sullivant-av, west to Ryan-av or some other street running south to W. Mound-st.

Esther Scales Is New President Of Auxiliary

The Camp Chase American Legion Auxiliary held their annual election of officers at the regular meeting, Friday, Sept. 13. The following ladies were elected:

Esther Scales, president; Mary Fiscus, 1st vice president; Dorothy Thompson, 2nd vice president; Cleo Balo, corresponding secretary; Virginia Minnameyer, recording secretary; Magdalene Martindale, treasurer; Lillian McVay, executive committee; Martha Finneran, alternate to county council.

Delegates Named To Convention

Delegates to the state convention from the Hilltop Kiwanis Club were named last week as well as three alternates.

Delegates selected were E. O. Melvin and Dr. R. J. Miller. Alternates are H. G. Deems, O. H. Craft and D. E. Jacques.

Nominations were also announced for the club election to be held on Oct. 2. Dr. Miller heads the list as a candidate for president with M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner, George Tarbution, Phillip Stout and Leo Phillips listed for the two vice presidencies.

Those listed for directors are Russell Henry, Charles Reichelderfer, Willis Slyh, Charles Kent Lowell Shroyer, Larry Scales, J. P. (Jack) Merriman, Joe Goodwin, Dr. C. O. Cramer, Harold Fox, John Apel, Haydn Jones, Harold Cunningham and Ed Witherspoon.

Nominees for the office of treasurer are Curtis G. Wilcox and Sam Alford.

Speaker for today's luncheon meeting will be George Tarbutton, 2917 Crescent-dr, chairman of the Kiwanis education committee. The program will be of an educational nature.

Last week Dr. R. J. Miller gave a report on the national convention.

Standard Oil Buys Site For Bulk Plant

The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio has purchased a 70-acre tract of land on Wilson-rd, just north of W. Broad-st, for the purpose of later construction of a large new bulk storage plant. The company now has a bulk plant just south of W. Broad-st, near the Wilson-rd intersection.

Sale of the land was disclosed by the Stewart and Neff, Inc., realtors last week. The site contains approximately 70¾ acres and lies west and south of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.'s booster station on Wilson-rd. It is now being used for farming purposes and will not be disturbed this year.

Alan W. Lawyer, Sohio division manager at 168 E. Long-st, said the company plans to build a bulk plant but actual plans are still in the formative stage. He indicated that it might be several years before work is started on the project.

Camp-O-Rama Is Postponed To October 3-4

The prospect of continued inclement weather caused the postponement Saturday of the two-day Camp-O-Rama planned for Boy Scouts of the Southwest District. Gil Bolin, field executive, said the heavy downpour of rain made the grounds wet and unsuitable for camping.

The Camp-O-Rama, as originally planned, will be held on Oct. 4 and 5, Bolin said.

Scouters of the district will meet at Kirk's Appliance Shop 2345 W. Broad-st, for the first fall district meeting on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A training school for patrol leaders will open at Glenwood Methodist Church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The course will extend over a period of six Sundays. Scouts must be accompanied by a scouter from their unit.

Money Appropriated

Money was appropriated by city council Monday night to hire an architect to draw plans for remodeling of Glenwood and Sunshine shelter houses in addition to some other city-owned properties.

The money will come from a bond issue voted for recreational purposes in 1945.

Drivers' Licenses May Be Bought During Evening

Sale of drivers' licenses at Robinson's Electric Store, Wayne and Broad-st, continues to run ahead of that of last year, Russell Henry, chairman of the committee in charge, reports. The licenses are being handled by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club.

Starting on SaturDay the store will remain open evenings until 9 p. m. for the convenience of persons who can not buy their driver's permits during the day. The store will also stay open on Wednesday afternoon.

Henry pointed out that volunteer helpers are still needed to handle the permits and warned against waiting until the last few days to buy them because of the rush expected at that time. Sept. 30 is the last day the old licenses are valid.

OUR APOLOGY

The Hilltop Record wishes to correct a statement made in last week's issue regarding the Koontz Drug Store, corner of Sullivant and Eureka-aves. The story referred to the store as having been "formerly" located there.

Koontz Drug Store is at present located on that corner. It is owned and operated by Henry Koontz, 485 Hilltonia-av, a member of city council.

Mr., Mrs. Hoffman Honored By Picnic On 45th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman W. Hoffman, 247 S. Ogden-av, were surprised Sept. 9, the evening of their 45th wedding anniversary with a picnic supper at Shelter House No. 3.

Four of their children and 10 grandchildren were present. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Godsall, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hoffman and family. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Link and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reed and family, Mrs. Fred C. Pixley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams and daughter, Rev. and Mrs. I. L. Wilkins, and Homer W. Carter. Mrs. Gladys Mason and family were unable to be present.

The Hoffmans have lived at their present residence ever since moving to the Hilltop 42 years ago.

Hilltoppers Return From Western Trip

Mrs. Nina Palmer and son, Dick, of 2766½ W. Broad-st, Mrs. S. W. Snashall, 162 N. Harris-av, and Mrs. Sarah Sinner of Girard, Ohio, (Mrs. Palmer's sister) were recently on a 6380-mile trip, which took them to Tucson, Ariz., the Grand Canyon and Los Angeles, Calif.

While in California the party visited many interesting places and radio shows, one of which was the Campbell Soup program where Mrs. Sinner was fortunate enough to hit the jack-pot.

Dick Palmer, who is a graduate of West High School and who was a regular visitor at the Hilltop Canteen, remained in Tucson to attend college.

Also of interest to many Hilltoppers is the news that Mrs. Charles Newbre and daughter, Sandra, of Sequndo, Calif., returned to Columbus with Mrs. Palmer for a visit with friends and relatives. Hilltoppers Visit On Broadway

Fred Kelly, brother of cinema star Gene Kelly, willingly posed with Claire Jane and Mary Ann Gillivan along with their dance instructor, Keith Lovewell (left), on their recent trip to New York City.

On their recent trip to New York, where they danced at the national convention of the American Society of Teachers of Dancing, at the Astor Hotel, Mary Ann and Claire Jane Gillivan had the privilege of a personal interview with Fred Kelly, of movie fame, at which time they presented several of their novelty dance routines. Mr. Kelly, who is the originator of a number of dance routines of his famous brother, Gene, praised the Gillivan girls for their talents and precision work.

Another highlight of their visit was the reception at the Greenwich Village home of the famous ballet dancer and choreographer, George Chaffee, when they assisted the host in entertaining members of the American Society of Teachers of Dancing.

As the National Association of Radio Artists was holding its convention at the Astor Hotel, such radio artists as Margo Lane of "The Shadow," Ethelbert of "The Crime Photographer," "The Crime Doctor," witnessed their program at the A. S. T. D. banquet and the girls received the autographs of the above, together with the entire cast and director, Nila Mack, of "Let's Pretend," and Arthur Godfrey, with whom they spent some time, and who gave them some valuable tips for their future.

Mary Ann and Claire Jane are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Herold Gillivan, 77 S. Brinker-av. They were accompanied on their recent trip by their mother and dance teacher, Miss Keith Lovewell of the Keith School of Dancing.

Enrollment Week Set For Blue Cross Plan

Enrollment of new members in the Blue Cross plan of hospital care on a community and county-wide scale will be conducted all next week in Columbus and Franklin County. According to Ralph W. Jordan, executive vice-president of the Blue Cross plan, individuals working where there are less than five persons will be accepted during this community enrollment week. Also self employed individuals, including farmers, will be eligible to membership. Persons employed where there are five or more employees can enroll only by forming a group at their place of employment.

Jordan states that only during Community Enrollment Week will individuals be accepted who are not in employed groups of five or more. Thereafter, until another community enrollment is held, membership in Blue Cross can be obtained only in employed groups.

More than 28,000,000 persons in the United States and Canada now are covered by the 88 non-profit Blue Cross plans for hospital service, says Jordan. He points out that the third quarter enrollment gain of 1,500,000 persons was surpassed in only two previous quarters in Blue Cross history. Blue Cross takes no profits and provides its members with the best hospital service that can be furnished. The officers and board of trustees receive no pay directly or indirectly. They comprise Columbus public spirited citizens wholeheartedly interested in providing adequate hospital service for residents of the community at a nominal cost any wage earner can afford, states Jordan.

Enrollment booths will be located in the foyers of all Columbus hospitals, on the mezzanine of the Neil House and at the Blue Cross offices, Hartman Theatre Building.

Weekly Newspaper Writer From England Visitor Here

By Rhoma Van De Mark

A personable young lady with a decided English clip, blue eyes, and brown hair, stepped from the pages of this week's Time Magazine into a Hilltop home.

The glamorous lass is Miss Marjorie Beech of Eastbourne, England, and Lisbon Falls Me., a guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Thatcher, 2966 Crescentdr.

Miss Beech was mentioned in Time's story this week written about a startling weekly paper and its publisher, John Gould, author of several recent best-sellers, all of which are "side-splitters."

Gould's weekly, the Lisbon Enterprise, has Miss Beech as staff member after a number of strange happenings, a few of which are related here.

Miss Beech, before the war, was possessed with an adolescent's ambition to come to America. Nothing pleased her more than to meet Americans, talk, read and dream about America.

She felt finally that she must write to someone in this country, and not knowing anyone on the opposite side of the Atlantic, took a long chance by placing a pin on a map of the United States with eyes closed.

The pin was fixed on Brunswick, Me., where she promptly addressed a letter in care of the mayor. Her letter, asking for a "pen sister," was reprinted in a Brunswick newspaper, and she received more than 20 replies.

One was from John Gould, then a reporter.

During the war, when it was requested that Americans temporarily adopt evacuees of bombed English towns, many of Miss Beech's newly-acquired friends wrote and asked if they might be of service by providing a home for her and her two sisters. At that time, Eastbourne, which is situated on the English Channel was bombed almost incesstantly. Many American troops were quartered in the resort town, and the Germans evidently knew it. The Beech family was one of two families who remained in King's Avenue during the entire war. The rest left when regular raids began.

After a troop ship was sunk off the English coast carrying English children being evacuated to this country, Mr. and Mrs. Beech thought it better to keep their own daughters with them. Their son was an RAF air gunner.

Needless to say, Eastbourne was exuberant on D-Day, and the subsequent V-E Day. Months later Miss Beech wrote Gould, still-loyal correspondent, and asked for a job here. He secured the one on his paper for her, and after months of properly arranging visas and passports, she realized her life-long ambition. Sailing on a "Bride" ship, the S. S. Saturnia, she arrived here June 1, 1946.

"My first week here is still a blank," she laughs. "I couldn't believe I had finally arrived in this country."

She went on to state, "Perhaps I'm prejudiced, but I haven't found a single person who has been rude. Americans are wonderful."

Her acquaintance with Mrs. Thatcher dates back to 1939 when the latter visited her home country. Marjorie's English girl friend was a cousin of Mrs. Thatcher and invited her to meet Mrs. Thatcher at her home. Now, eight years later, Marjorie has come to visit Mrs. Thatcher.

According to Marjorie, Americans can't make tea, and the English can't make coffee. She drinks coffee, and "loves it."

If you've had trouble keeping that four-in-hand tie in place, a Massachusetts man has the answer. He recently received a patent on a tie with a gadget that holds both end portions together and firmly against the shirt.

A patent has been issued on a resilient metal wheel. A tread-surfaced rim is separated from the main plate of the wheel by coil springs, each coil having a length at least as great as the width of the rim.

Cowboy Capers

By Wilkins and Williams

Well, here we are back again with news and notes of all the guys and gals that roam the corridors of good old West High.

Seen at the Springfield game . . . It seems from all appearances that a member of the football squad is still minus a piece of very important equipment. Any one having an old belt they don't need please notify Johnny Young. He's desperate!!!

Congratulations to the band for the fine show they put on at the Springfield game Friday night. They're tops!

Something new has been added . . . A dancing class is open to all members of the senior class on Fridays the fifth period. No excuse now if you can't dance.

By the looks of things, some of the June class of '47 must have liked the "good old school days." Quite a few of them are back with us.

Hungry? Thirsty? If either of these fit you we now have concessions stands under the stadium. Waiting to serve you are the girls of the Y-Teens and the G. A. A.

As school ends on Monday we see Ann Guido rushing out of the building like mad. Reason? She's going home.

Attending the Hi-Y convention at Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa, we find Bob L. Smith as a delegate for the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

Anyone wanting a lift home from school, no matter where you live, contact Mary Willer. She'll be glad to drop you anywhere you like—if she has the car.

Well, here's hoping it doesn't rain Friday.

See you all at the Arlington game.

New Issuing Plan In Use At Library

Fines for books kept longer than 30 days are at the rate of two cents per day per book, Sundays and holidays excluded.

The library is now open on the winter schedule of hours. It is open daily from 1 until 9 p. m. and Saturday all day from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Cowboys Come From Behind To Down Springfield 20 To 12 In Season Opener

Slager Passes Hit Mark For 2 Scores

Held scoreless for more than three periods, West High's Cowboys caught fire to unleash a 20-point attack in the final 10 minutes of play to down the Springfield Wildcats 20 to 12 on the Springfield gridiron Friday night.

The fourth period was well under way and it began to look like a bad night for Coach Mack Pemberton's boys when Jim Slager, who had been having trouble with a slippery ball all evening, suddenly began finding his mark, tossing two passes good for 65 and 32 yards and a total of 13 points. With the score standing at Springfield, 12; West, 0, Quarterback Slager threw from his own 35 to Bill Buckingham, who was in the open on the Springfield 45. He scored without a hand being laid on him. Slager passed to the same Buckingham in the end zone for the extra point making the score 12 to 7.

Two plays later West recovered a Springfield fumble on the Wildcat 37. Two line plunges and an incomplete pass was good for only five yards when Slager dropped back and heaved a long one to Jack Thrush who outsmarted his defensive man to snag the throw and race over for the second West touchdown. Slager elected to run with the ball, but failed to make the extra point.

Chuck Weeks looted a low rolling ball that the Wildcats expected to roll into the end zone. Somewhere along the line the ball touched a Springfield receiver and Carl Naumoff fell on the ball for another touchdown for the Cowboys. Thrush's kick was good and the score stood West 20, Springfield, 12.

Strike Suddenly

The sudden Cowboy attack that netted the 20 points in less than five minutes completely disorganized the Wildcat team, which had been having its own way most of the evening. Most of the 9,000 fans who braved the earlier downpour of rain were stunned by the quick turn of events. Up until that time Thrush and Slager together had thrown eight passes, all incomplete although some of them were well placed but the slippery ball was hard to hold onto.

Springfield scored its first touchdown near the close of the second quarter when Snyder went through the center of the line to race 60 yards for a touchdown. The kick for extra point was wide. The Tigers hit pay dirt again late in the third period when Snyder plunged from the two-foot line following a strong ground attack that carried the ball from the West 40-yard line on a series of eight plays. The officials ruled interference on the part of Jerry Chinn on a pass play that gave Springfield the ball on their own nine-yard marker.

The game was marked by a total of seven fumbles as the slippery ball gave both teams trouble.

Thrush did a beautiful job of punting for West, kicking out on the Springfield one on one occasion and later hitting the Wildcat eight-yard stripe. He averaged 37 yards per kick on six punts. Springfield was close behind with 36 yards on five boots.

Across The HILLTOP ALLEYS

By Dick Ardle

The best league to roll at the Hilltop alleys is known as the Hilltop Recreation League. The league, which is composed of such well-known stars as Hube Seitz, Bill Hayes, Joe Swisher, Dude Grabs, Chet Krebs and Dick Knepper, who led the league with an 183 average last year, and many others, is the oldest at the Hilltop alleys.

Dick Ardle

A team, in order to get into this league, must not have an average of over 900 while most of the teams average around 850. Atlas Ebonite won the league last year with an 879 average, while David Davies, the last place team, averaged 820.

The league bowls on Monday nights and is composed of eight teams: Spears, Ben Brew, Seiler's, Grotto, David Davies, Allen Milk, White's Furniture and Esquire Men's Shop.

Congratulations on being the oldest league, and we all hope you will be around for many more seasons.

Bowler of the Week

Our bowler this week is Garry Swisher, son of Joe and Vera Swisher, well known bowlers around Columbus.

Garry is only 7 years old and this is his second year as a bowler. He uses a four-pound ball, which is only five inches in diameter. His high game is 93 and he averages around 70. Garry uses a regular five-step delivery with a medium hook and good speed and he is bowling as sixth man on the Curlee team in the Seiler's Teen Age League.

We think Mr. and Mrs. Swisher rate a hand for starting Garry at this young age and are sure he will be as well known around the alleys in a few years as his father and mother.

Bowling Bits

Our bowling gem this week goes to "Lefty" Seiple, who, while bowling with Seiler's Department Store on Wednesday night, missed the "8" pin in the tenth frame when a spare would have meant the game. Tough luck "Lefty."

Our honor roll this week is—Men 500 or better: Chet Krebs 612 and Carl Breckenridge, 502. Women 500 or better: Ruth Perry 543, Sarah Winnestraffer 532, Francis Patridge, 523, Francis Baird 517, and Erma Badge 502.

High game of the week went to Frank Heath who rolled 258 including seven strikes in a row. Nice bowling Frank!

Sidelights On Springfield Grid Contest

There is a good possibility that the Springfield-West series will not be continued next year. Harry L. Zulauf, West business manager, served notice that they will have to lay more money on the line if the series is to be continued. West fans have been paying most of the small guarantee more than paying the small guarantee that West has been getting out of the series of games attended last year by an estimated 10,000 persons and this year by 9,000 despite rain up until near game time.

Westerman, Chinn, Hatch and Schmidt missed the West bus by being late at Magly Field. Westerman caught up with one of the busses as it waited for a light at Roys-av and Broad-st. The other three joined the team at Evans Stadium. Fred Thumberg was involved in an auto accident just a short time before leaving for Springfield but was only shaken up a bit and suffered no injuries.

The Cowboys were forced to dress at the junior high school and then take the bus to the playing field. Those who saw action and muddied up their uniforms had to stand in the aisles on the way back to the dressing rooms to avoid damage to the upholstery. The visitors' dressing rooms were being remodeled at Evans Stadium.

Some members of the West High Band arrived late so the band did not take the field before the start of the game. They more than made up for their late appearance, however, when they put on their show between halves. The fast marching tempo showed up the Wildcat band, which operated on the slower marching time.

Starling Hutt, Curt Westerman, Jerry Chinn and Al Andrews were among the Cowboys who received injuries necessitating their removal from the game. Chinn is the only one showing ill effects from the contest. He had a gash opened up below his right eye, which required medical attention.

The Cowboy Reserves defeated Reynoldsburg by a score identical to the West victory over Springfield—20 to 12—in a game played at Magly Field Thursday afternoon.

Members of the West High Boosters Club were the object of much interest in the stadium as they strutted in their new 10-gallon hats.

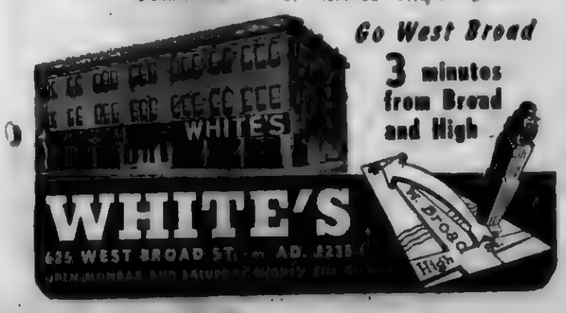
WHERE'S THE CATCH?

How can a merchant afford to sell his merchandise at less than half off? He's not in business for his health!

THE ANSWER



The article was never intended to sell for $300. It was given this price even before it was offered for sale. The $300 figure is used to fool people into believing that they are saving the difference.

DON'T BE FOOLED!

....by wild claims and "drastic reductions."! Stop and think . . . Is the merchandise actually worth what the price tag says, either the higher or lower price? Be cautious of a comparative price tag.

Blue Cross Opens Memberships For 1 Week to Self Employed and Small Groups

The officers and trustees of Central Hospital Service have again favored accepting enrollments on a community and county-wide scale in Columbus and Franklin County. This week, Blue Cross enrollment centers will be available downtown and in the foyers of all Columbus hospitals. Authorized Blue Cross representatives will be on duty to accept applications and provide information about the liberal benefits.

WHAT IS BLUE CROSS? It is a hospital sponsored plan to furnish prepaid hospital care in case of illness or injury. Benefits are returned in hospital services. Blue Cross is owned and supervised by the hospitals. There are 88 Blue Cross plans in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico with 28 million members.

WHY SHOULD I JOIN? Your chance of going to a hospital is 1 out of 10. The cost of hospital services has increased approximately 60 per cent. Records show that 9 out of 10 persons are unprepared to meet the unexpected emergency of paying a hospital bill. Blue Cross furnishes the best hospital care for yourself or any family dependent.

"Blue Cross started as an idea with a humanitarian ideal. During its sixteen years of phenomenal growth, it has become a potential for national health security.

"On their own initiative, the hospitals of this country with the endorsement of the American Hospital Association, are attaining under private supervision, the goal of putting adequate hospital care within the means of every individual.

"By their own resourcefulness and sincere interest in the health welfare of the Nation's populace, the Blue Cross plan now furnishes hospital services to 1 out of every 5 persons.

"Authorizing this week for a Community and County-wide enrollment makes Blue Cross available to many eligible persons not now members."

Insults vs. Obituaries

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following editorial was written by Dan W. Johnson, editor of the Ivanhoe, (Minn.) Times. It won the national grand award for being the best editorial submitted in the National Safety Council's 1947 Fourth of July Editorial project. We believe the content of it is just as applicable today.

A week from today is Friday, July 4.

It means observance of a great national holiday. . . and a spacious week-end in which hell-for-leather Americans can "relax." It also means that hundreds o thousands of Americans will be cruising the highways. Too many of them will instead meet death.

That isn't news. Many of you probably won't bother to read this far . . . you've heard it so often before.

But we have been thinking of our issue of July 11. If statistics are worth a whoop, WE'LL BE WRITING AN OBITUARY OR TWO SIMPLY BECAUSE SOME PUNK DIDN'T THINK IT COULD HAPPEN TO HIM.

Now an obituary is no place for insults. For that reason it might be well to do our insulting here and now . . . while YOU, the potential victim, still has an opportunity to read them.

Perhaps you're one of those drivers who thinks he can still do a good job behind the wheel of an auto after imbibing. WE THINK YOU'RE A FOOL IF YOU DO . . . but we can't say that in yuor obituary.

Perhaps you're one of those drivers who believes traffic laws and regulations are for the other fellow. If you are, YOU'RE ONE OF THOSE NINCOMPOOP DRIVERS WHO SHOULD BE FORBIDDEN THE USE OF AN AUTOMOBILE . . . but we can't say that in your obituary.

Perhaps you're a driver who thinks himself so clever and alert he can pass on the brink of a hill, duck and dodge in traffic, squeeze by on narrow margins and generally endanger every other auto he meets. If so, WE HOPE THEY BURY YOU QUICK, BROTHER . . . but we can't say that in your obituary.

Maybe you're a driver with a hunk of junk that will run and little else . . . a driver whose brakes work only on whim, whose windshield wipers have long since disappeared, whose rear vision mirror is only a memory. If you are, YOU'LL PROBABLY LIVE TO TRY IT AGAIN, BUT THEY'LL BURY SOME INNOCENT GUY WHO HAPPENED TO MEET YOU AT THE WRONG TIME! But in the obituary we won't be able to say it was your carelessness that killed the fellow and left a widow to worry about the children.

* * * * *

And those are but a few . . . there is also the driver who never dims his lights at night, the fellow who crowds the center line, the wise guy who wants to push the accelerator to the floor and prove he's the biggest-damfool on the road. They'll all be out en masses over the July 4 holiday.

If you're one of them—and have been properly insulted by these remarks—don't take offense. We'll make yours the nicest obituary possible!

The fellows who wish for the return of "the good old days" should be happy with the lengthening of women's dresses and coats, and the ridiculous appearance they have in comparison to present-day styles.

The Army Game

I didn't like the army. The happiest day of my life was when I received that white discharge paper. I won't go into detail why I didn't like it. I think everyone knows the reasons. They probably have heard the same gripes from . . . anyone else who was in the service. To set down a detailed account of the distaste f u l side of army life would take up a volume or two. To rake up all that old muck isn't the purpose of these articles. I would only bring back a lot of unpleasant things I am trying to forget. I don't think anyone would enjoy reading it anyway.

Kel Fuller

Time Changes Picture

I have found one very evident truth. Time dims the bitter memories and strengthens the pleasant ones. Now, when I look back over things that happened, I recall the pleasant associations, the interesting places, the memorable moments. I can laugh at events that one time weren't funny. I am even proud of having spent two years overseas in five different countries. At the time I hated every moment of it and lived only to get back to the USA. I have even come to place some value upon my three years in service. Although regimentation never did anyone any good, I have formed concepts and ideas based upon my experiences that otherwise never would have occurred to me. There are many who feel the same way.

Some parents are worried about their sons having to go into the peacetime army. They are worried about the effect it will have upon his character. I firmly believe that these fears are unfounded. It has been my observation that the army doesn't make bums out of men. If a man is a bum when he goes in, he presumably might come out the same way. Usually the reverse is true. I have seen many instances where the army straightened out potential criminals and made men out of them. If a guy has the stuff, the army isn't going to hurt him any.

The peacetime army isn't so terrible when you analyze it. I am not trying to induce anybody to enlist. The fact is that a man knows the length of time he will be in service and overseas. He gets more pay and there is very little danger that he will lose his life. The lot of the peacetime soldier is much better than that of the wartime draftee who got less pay, didn't know, when he would get back to civilian life, or whether he would get back at all.

Need Military Training

If universal military training is approved, and I sincerely hope that it will be, it will mean that nearly every youngster will have to serve a short period of time, probably one year or less. This certainly will not be harmful to the boy involved. The country will have a potential reserve of manpower so that it will not have to ferret benumbed veterans of this war out of their caves in case of emergency.

With the world in a diplomatic chaos, the factors which cause wars are definitely present. We can't lose anything by being prepared. We might even prevent a conflict by a demonstration of force.

I am not one of those people who think war with Russia is unavoidable, but neither do I close my eyes to the possibility. I think it would be a tragedy if we were caught napping.

This is the final article of the series. It has been fun writing the column each week and I have gained valuable experience. Many people have been kind enough to tell me that they are regular readers. For this I am deeply grateful. I know you all join me in the hope that we have fought our last war and that the years to come will yield peace and prosperity.

The indignant man was shown into the solicitor's office.

"Look here," he burst out, "you've charged me for two consultations on the fifth of last month and I was here only once."

"The fifth of last month," said the solicitor smoothly. "That was on a Friday, and if I remember correctly it was a very wet day, wasn't it?"

"Yes, it was," answered the client, shortly

AUTUMN FEVER

The taste of the wind is hot on my lips,
And my feet would stride over the hill's wide brow.
My body pulls taut to my finger tips
And I would be off to the wind's call now.

But I must sit silent, with shrouded face,
My laughter stilled, cold, and stonily dead.
While beside me, entombed in this withered place,
The corpse of my spirit stares blankly ahead.

Let us flee, the ghost of my spirit cries
From where it lies dead to the wind's moan tuned.
But my spirit flees not, but starkingly lies . . .
Where Autumn has dealt the immortal wound.

Hilltonia Minister Studied Law Before Becoming Pastor

Rev. Parr

Rev. R. S. Parr, 584 Clark-av, the new pastor at the Hilltonia Evangelical United Brethren Church, started out in life to be a lawyer. He graduated from the Indiana University College of Law and entered the ministry some time later when he was "called" into religious work.

He comes to the Hilltop church after a six-year pastorate at the Portsmouth First Church. He and the Rev. Glendoh Herbert, former pastor at Hilltonia, just traded pastorates this year. Prior to the Portsmouth charge he was pastor of the CE Memorial Church at Newark for six years; at Wellston three years and Bellpoint two years.

Before that he held pastorates in Indiana and served as executive secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of Ohio for one year.

He has been secretary of the council of administration in the Southeast Ohio Conference for eight years and has served on the conference relations committee. He served as district leader of the Portsmouth District during the six years that he was located there. He has also been president of ministerial groups in Newark and Portsmouth.

Rev. and Mrs. Rose Parr have one daughter, Mrs. Myron Clark, now a resident of Dayton.

New Novena Series Started At St. Mary Magdalene Church

Rev. John Byrne, CPPS, pastor of St. James the Less Church, opened a new Novena series at St. Mary Magdalene Church Monday. The services will continue for eight more weeks.

The new series continues the perpetual novena of Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal inaugurated in 1933 by the Vencentian Fathers, and attended, in the last 14 years, by scores of Catholics and non-Catholics. Ten novena services are now held every Monday to accommodate the crowds.

Services begin with mass at 8:30 a. m. Other exercises are at 10 a. m., 3, 4 and 6:15 p. m., and at 45-minute intervals thereafter until 9 p. m.

Holy Name Society Plans Stag Party

The Holy Name Society of St. Mary Magdalene Church is having a special stag party for its regular meeting in the school hall on Thursday, Sept. 18, at 8:30 p. m. All men of the parish are invited. Valuable door prizes will be given.

Plans will be made for the family basket picnic at Westgate Park Sunday, Sept. 21, with free treats for the children. All parishioners are urged to attend. Also the society is planning the annual fall festival to be held Oct. 4 in the school hall for the benefit of the Altar and Communion Rail Fund. Committee chairmen are Richard DeShetler, George Kunesh and Phillip McDaniels.

Mrs. Guido works with her husband in their evangelistic work, which features music and visual illustration. Her illustrated teachings, which consist of using magic demonstrations and dramatic chemical object lessons, make the underlying spiritual principles understandable to the children.

Guidance From Proverbs

Lesson for September 21, 1947

OUR study of Sunday's lesson centers about the idea of good [illegible] which is a rather trite-sounding theme, but very vital, I assure you, and quite interesting. The Scripture passages are all found in Proverbs, save one, and that from the very practical preacher of the New Testament, James; chapter 4, verse 17.

Dr. Newton

Perhaps you will find the passages from Proverbs as helpful and interesting as I did. It will require but two minutes to read them—Proverbs 3:5-7; 4:23; 6:16-19; 9:10; 14:34; 15:1; 16:18; 21:3; 22:1; 27:1, 2; 28:1; 29:18. And after you have devoted two minutes to the reading of these passages, you will have something to think about for the rest of the day, the week, all your life.

One Man's Experience

A VERY successful business man in Atlanta, a shoe manufacturer, was telling me his life story one day as we fished together at Bonasassa, Fla. Finally, he said:

"Do you know the passage in the Bible that has meant most to me as a rule and guide for my faith and practice?"

I wondered what he would say. And then he quoted from Proverbs 3:5-7.

"Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths. Be not wise in thine own eyes; fear the Lord, and depart from evil."

The Essence of Goodness

WHAT is goodness? We talk about good men and bad men, good times and bad times, good luck and bad luck. Just what is goodness?

Jesus himself once said to a young [illegible]:

"There is none good but One, that is, God." Mark 10:18.

Goodness then, permit me to suggest, is what happens when God lives in us. We can never know goodness apart from God, try as we may. The essence of goodness, therefore, is found in that heart, in that life, that sincerely prays, "Thy will be done."

The Essence of Badness

GUIDANCE from these great Proverbs identifies the things that we are to shun as well as the things we are to do—the essence of badness as well as the essence of goodness. Here are the seven things that God hates—the seven qualities of heart that constitute the essence of badness:

"Haughty eyes, a lying tongue, hands that shed innocent blood, a heart that deliberately plans wickedness, feet which are swift in running to mischief, a false witness who utters lies, and one who sows discord among brethren."

Analyze these seven qualities of heart, and you have the explanation of the woes of the world. Many clever modern books toy with these deadly sins, trying to make them seem good, but no amount of decoration can atone for the heart that consistently entertains these cancers of hell.

The Individual and Society

I LIKE the impact of these Proverbs. They begin with the individual. They fruit in society. Individuals who "trust in the Lord with all thine heart," will "exalt a nation." It is not enough to put better food in peoples' stomachs, better clothes on their bodies, better roofs over their heads. These are essential as expressing the better life; but you have got to give people something to live for as well as something to live on.

Good business depends upon good business men. Good international relations depend upon good nations. Good race relations depend upon good races.

We have been greatly enheartened by the establishment of United Nations as a world idea and ideal. Will it succeed? The answer is found not in dollars and bullets, but in hearts that always "trust in the Lord."

"Except the Lord build the house,
They labor in vain that build it;
Except the Lord keep the city,
The watchman waketh but in vain."
—Psalm 127:1

Dr. Guyer Opens Glenwood Series

Dr. Guyer

Dr. Tennyson Guyer, humorist, author and lecturer, will be the speaker for the Sept. 30 meeting of the Glenwood Men's Council. It will be the first in a series of six meetings to be held during the fall and winter months.

Season tickets for the series of meetings are now on sale at $5.50. Dr. C. O. Cramer is ticket chairman. He has divided his committee into two teams.

C. H. (Doc) Campbell, president of the men's group, said that several outstanding speakers, including Louis Bromfield, are being scheduled. Dr. Guyer has appeared previously on the Hilltop having been the speaker at last year's West High football banquet. Dr. Roy Burkhart will be one of the speakers at a later meeting.

Revival Begins Here On Sunday

A revival meeting will begin Sunday at the Hilltop Church of God with services held each night at 7:30 through Oct. 3. Rev. Charles Ludwig of Olympia, Wash., is the evangelist. Rev. Ludwig spent his childhood and youth in Africa. He has written six books, some of which relate the experiences of a missionary's son in Africa. His book, "Witch Doctor's Holiday," was accepted for the Book of the Month Club. Rev. Ludwig has been a great admirer of Moody and Sankey and his most recent book to be released is "Sankey Still Sings."

E. E. Sheldon Kline will be the music director and special music will be provided by the choir and special singers.

During the first week of the meeting special emphasis will be given to the honoring of different Sunday School classes. The adult Bible class will be honored on Monday night. Tuesday the children's departments of the church will make their contribution. Wednesday the senior youth and youths up to 25 years of age, including the young married people, will participate. Thursday the junior high youth will sing. Friday night will be young adult night. Rev. Ludwig will be interviewed by some youth in the Saturday night youth fellowship service on Sept. 27. All are welcome to attend any of these services. The pastor, Rev. Denver H. Smoot, will be in charge of the meeting.

GM To Give 5,000 Awards In Letter-writing Contest

General Motors invited more than three hundred thousand of its employees throughout the United States to tell the company in their own words what they like about their jobs. At the same time they are being urged to make constructive suggestions regarding their jobs.

The project, based on a letter writing contest, "My Job and Why I Like It," will be conducted by General Motors Employee Relations Department.

More than five tousands awards, all General Motors products and including forty automobiles, sixty-five refrigerators, sixty-five electric ranges, fifty automatic washers, fifty electric ironers, twenty-five home freezers, and hundreds of others, will go to the winners.

All GM hourly rate and "non exempt" salaried employees in the United States may participate except certain employees in plant personnel departments and members of the GM Employee Relations, Personnel and Public Relations staffs which will supervise the program. The definition of the Federal Wage and Hour Law will be used to determine which salaried employees are "non exempt."

The contest closes at midnight, October 31, and winners will be determined by a board of judges made up of nationally known persons not connected with General Motors. Winners will be selected solely upon the merit of letters.

Fisher Body-Ternstedt Division in Columbus has approximately 17[illegible] employes who are eligible to participate in the My Job and Why I Like It" contest.

In addition to the grand prize list for the contest proper, the local plant will provide a number of valuable prizes, which will be given away through weekly drawings, the first drawing for local prizes will be made at the end of the third week of the contest.

Prospects Good For Cross Country Team At West

Prospects look good for the West High School cross-country team this fall.

Coach Rufe Glass has four returning lettermen, two reserve lettermen and at least five track men who have never previously gone out for the cross-country team.

Varsity lettermen are Dick Ham, Jim Dennis, Kenneth Mahan and Sheldon Conway. Don Eitle and Kenneth Evans were reserve letter winners last year.

Fred Harner, a letterman in track last year, is out for his first cross-country try. Other track men include Don Eisle, Dave Stethem, Bill Shelton and Dick DeRobertis. Several trackmen are doing conditioning work in preparation for the spring season.

Other likely looking prospects are to be found in Jim Vickers, Bill Steece, Bennie Salmons, Herbert Wright and Dean Thomas.

West Cowboys To Meet Pirates Friday Under New Lights

Probable West Starting Lineup In Dedication Feature

Scheduled as likely starters in tomorrow night's clash with Central High School at Magly Field are the above 11 West High Cowboys.

Up front are Jack Thrush, end; Chuck Weeks, tackle; Curt Westerman, guard; Al Andrews, center; Fred Thumberg, guard; Joe Hostetter, tackle; and Bill Buckingham, end.

Something new will be added to the grid dedication show for the first time on the home field. It is a group of rope twirlers trained by E. T. Stone, a West High teacher. Some of the group are shown at left in the form of a "W" demonstrating their rope tricks for Cameraman Ray Gaugler.

Dedication Program Slated As Added Feature To 1st Home Game

The normal peace and quiet of the Hilltop will be disturbed this week end as football officially takes over. Locally, the dedication of new Magly Field equipment and the opening of the City League as West meets Central Friday night will be the main attraction. The Missouri-Ohio State game Saturday afternoon will rate only slightly below the city league opener.

A record attendance at a West High game is virtually assured tomorrow night as the undefeated Central Pirates clash with the likewise undefeated West High Cowboys in a game scheduled for 8:15 o'clock.

An impressive list if dignitaries, including Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, has been invited to take part in the dedication of the new Magly Field lights, electric scoreboard, band stand, improved public address system and new ticket booths. The dedication ceremonies will start at 7:30 p. m. Four ticket gates will open at 6:30 o'clock.

The dedication program has been worked out with Lee Weigand, member of the West High Boosters Club, serving as chairman of the affair. Sharing the program with the Boosters will be the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, donors of the band stand; the Hilltop Business Association, improvements to the public address system; the West High Alumni Association, the movable ticket booths. The Boosters purchased the new electric scoreboard and will present each of the members of the football team with an insurance policy, insuring them against injury in football for the first time in the history of the school.

"The Fifth Quarter Hop," sponsored by the West High Band Parents Club, will be a special feature of the festivities following the West - Central game. The "Hop" will be held in the West High Gym, and the School Band will furnish the music. Admission is 40c.

To Honor Alumni Dead

The new playing lights are to be dedicated to the graduates of West High School who lost their lives in the service of their country.

Local football fans will find it requires less time to get into the stadium as four separate ticket windows open to handle the crowd. Harry L. Zulauf, school business manager, asks that persons use the entrances nearest their homes so that the main entrance at the northeast corner of the field can be left open for visitors.

Tickets will be on sale at the southeast corner (the baseball gate), the southwest corner of the field, the north entrance (by the school building) and the main entrance on Powell-av. By way of correction of a statement made earlier in The Hilltop Record, there will be no advance sale of adult tickets. Only student tickets may be purchased in advance.

Two thousand bleachers are to be installed on the east side of the playing field Thursday to help accommodate the crowd. This will provide a total of at least 5500 seats for the rest of the season.

The pre-game program will get under way at 7:30 o'clock when the West High 70-piece band marches onto the field, accompanied by a full complement of baton twirlers and a group of rope twirlers. The Junior High School Band will also have a part in the musical program.

At 7:40 the West High Boosters, wearing 10-gallon hats, will march onto the field headed by Bill Coon on his horse. They will go directly to the microphone where the dedication of the lights and scoreboard will take place.

At 7:50 Irvin F. Young, principal of West High School, will welcome the visiting dignitaries and the visiting team. Richard (Dick) Francis, president of the Boosters, will then take charge of presenting the scoreboard, insurance policies and the band lights. M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner, Booster membership drive chairman, will

Sept. 30 Last Day To Get Licenses

Next Tuesday is the last day for purchasing drivers' licenses on the Hilltop. The permits can be had at the Hilltop Kiwanis headquarters in Robinson's Electric Store, Wayneav and W. Broad-st, any day between now and Tuesday.

For the convenience of those who work during the day, the sale continues until 9 o'clock each evening. Thus far the sale has run well ahead of last year, Russell Henry is chairman of the committee handling the licenses.

Here For Game

Expected to be on hand for the Magly Field lights dedication Friday night is the Honorable Thomas J. Herbert, governor of the State of Ohio.

Hilltop, The Fast Growing Western Suburb

Dr. Howard Whitehead has given us a copy of a little booklet published many years ago, entitled "Hilltop, The Fast Growing Western Suburb of Columbus, Ohio."

Photos include one of the W. H. Orebaugh residence, the J. W. Dinsmore residence, Hilltop Branch of the Citizens Trust and Savings Bank (now occupied by Isaly's Store), the Hilltop Building & Loan Assn. at 12 S. Wayne-av,

Says the booklet, "The Hilltop is on the National Road. Often automobiles from the Pacific Coast are seen in the street coming from New York State and other eastern points."

Cornerstone To Be Laid Here At Sunday Services

A special corner-stone laying service will be held at the new addition to the Hilltop Evangelical Lutheran Church, corner of W. Broad-st and Terrace-av Sunday afternoon. Rev. Russel J. Olwon, pastor of the church, will be in charge of the service. Music will be furnished by the choir, under the direction of Harold Beckett.

Into the corner-stone will be sealed the service flag honoring men and women of the church who served in World War II. Membership lists of the church and its various organizations will also be sealed into the corner-stone.

At the same time the finance committee will launch a $15,000 campaign to finish paying for the part of the building now under construction. The theme of the campaign will be "buy a brick."

Ground breaking ceremonies for the addition to the church were held May 4. M. L. Emrich is general chairman of the building project. Harley Conrad and Earl Pfoltzgraf are the contractors.

Horses! Horses! Western Horses To Parade Sunday At Hilliards

The final 10-point Western Horse Show before the fall "roundup" will be held at the Hilliards Fair Grounds Sunday afternoon, Sept. 28, starting at 1 o'clock. The event is being sponsored by the Hilltop Kiwanis Club and the Western Horse Exhibitors' Association.

Fourteen classes of competition are being held with trophies for each event and cash prizes totaling $600. A parade will form at the Hilliards High School at 12:30 o'clock moving into the fairgrounds just before the show gets under way.

The 70-piece West High School Band will take part in the parade that precedes the start of the horse show. Fifty or 60 horses will be in the parade.

Fair gates will be open at 9 a. m. for exhibitors to get their horses onto the grounds. Entries in any class may be made up until the start of the show.

General chairman of the event is Kiwanian Harold Cunningham, 4744 Fisher Road. He is being assisted by Earl Lambert, president and Bailey (Stretch) Bradley, executive secretary of the Western Horse Exhibitors' Association, and members of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club.

One event of special interest to western horse exhibitors will be the western trail horse class. This event has been included in only a few shows throughout the state this year.

Judging will be done in the following competitive classes: parade class, spotted horse class, ponies 48 inches and under, plain colored horses, ponies 48 to 56 inches, Palomino, pleasure class, pairs, neck reining, western trail horse, stock horse class, western horsemanship (children under 14 years), pony express (two horses) and musical chair.

In the event of rain, the show will be held at the same place on Oct. 5.

Admission will be adults, 75c, children, 35c. There will be no extra charge for grandstand seats and none will be reserved. Proceeds from the show will be used in the Kiwanis welfare program.

Publicity on the show is being handled by C. Carlton Hartley.

Trophies for the various events were donated by the following firms and individuals:

The Hilltop Business Association, Columbus Dispatch, Grove City Farmers Exchange, Dr. Earl Simonson, Gall Milk Co., the Neil House, Frank E. Kirkpatrick Insurance Co., Briggsdale Coal and Feed Company, Arch A. Alder Chevrolet Distributor, David Davies Packing Co., Fairmont Foods Co., Beulah Park Jockey Club, Leo-Meyers Co., Outdoor Military Store, Frownfelter's Market, the Deshler-Wallick Hotel, Charles Hennick, Saddles and Horse Supplies, Merrick-Miller Co.

Wilson School Fair To Be Held Friday

The annual Fall Fair will be held at the Wilson School Friday night. Doors will open at 7 o'clock and the auction will begin at 8 o'clock. There will be a fish pond and refreshments will be served.

Proceeds from the fair will be used to buy needed school and playground equipment. Ed Geyer, Grove City, will be the auctioneer. Elzie Radcliffe is principal of the school. The fair is a project of the PTA.

Action Lacking On Bus Service

Residents of the W. Mound-st section of the Hilltop still were without assurance this week that bus service would be forthcoming. In the absence of Council President Joseph Jones Monday night, there was no further official consideration of the matter. Hilltop Councilman Henry Koontz said that the city fathers would likely study the matter at next Monday's meeting.

Meanwhile a city engineer stated that the use of passenger buses on the western end of the Mound-st extension would break up the pavement.

Recently a petition bearing almost 500 signatures was submitted to council by persons living in the area. It stated that those who signed would be willing to pay a 10c fare in order to get bus service.

Frank Cluff, operator of the Columbus-Celina Company, said he was ready to provide service should he be called upon to do so. The Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company had turned down proposals to extend its present W. Mound-st bus line beyond its present Central-av terminus on two or three occasions in recent years.

Frownfelter Buys Sherburn Grocery

Frank Frownfelter, formerly of 33 N. Eureka-av, this week announced purchase from Carl Sherburn of the grocery business and building located at 122 S. Terrace-av.

The deal was closed Sept. 17, with Attorney Phil Stout representing both parties.

James Posey, 2077 W. Broad-st, will remain as clerk, according to Frownfelter. He said that Sherburn would be on hand at the store for the next two weeks.

Frownfelter formerly operated a confectionery at 2432 Sullivant-av, which was later purchased by Harley Sapp.

Included in the deal was the transfer of the N. Eureka property to Sherburn, Frownfelter moving into the rooms above the store. The grocery business was started by Sherburn at this address in 1926.

Clyde Eckard, 527 Hilltonia-av, spent the week-end of Sept. 13-14 with his brother, Roland, in Painesville. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Eckard.

"Who's Who Among Hilltop Babies" Brings Good Response

Parents of Hilltop babies have shown much enthusiasm in having the pictures of their offsprings run in The Hilltop Record, judging from the initial response following last week's story. Close to 40 calls were received at the Record office last week.

The first of a series of "Who's Who Among Hilltop Babies" will appear next week in the Record. It will carry pictures and other information on the families of about one dozen local youngsters.

Every parent on the Hilltop is invited to take advantage of this offer. All that is necessary is to call the Record, RA. 1125, or come to the office and ask that your baby's photo be taken. Within a few days after you call, the Record photographer will make an appointment with you and come to your home to take the baby's photo. There is no charge for having the picture appear in the Record. The only requirement is that parents must be paid up subscribers to the paper.

Booster Members Hit 600 Mark

Membership in the West High Boosters Club stood near the 600 mark this week as work continued on signing up 1000 members for the new year. M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner is in charge of the membership drive.

A meeting of the Boosters will be held in Room 101 at West High School tonight at 7:30 to discuss last-minute plans for the dedication program Friday night.

All members of the West High School coaching staff and their wives will have their expenses paid to the Cleveland Browns-Chicago Rockets football game in Cleveland, Oct. 19. In addition to Coach Mack Pemberton, George Williams, R. C. (Rufe) Glass, Fred Heischman, Dave Randall and O. D. (Red) Lehman, three other faculty members, closely identified with the athletic program at the school, will be included with their wives. They are Charles Bennett; band director; Harry L. Zulauf, business manager; and C. F. Bateman, in charge of Magly Field property.

4 Polio Victims Listed This Week

Three Hilltoppers and one West Side girl were being treated for infantile paralysis as The Hilltop Record went to press this week.

Richard and William Eagan, small sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eagan, 265 S. Southampton-av, who were stricken last week, are patients in Children's Hospital, as are the other victims.

Jeri Sherwood, 61 N. Wayne-av, was admitted to the hospital Monday morning after a two week illness, and is being held under observation.

Beverly Mercer, 3, 142, N. Central-av, has been under observation at the hospital since Sept. 13.

Information as to the condition of the polio victims could not be obtained from the hospital attaches.

Legion Names Commander

John E. Martindale, 3809 W. Broad-st, is the new commander of Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion, following an election of officers Friday night.

Other officers elected for the new year are Vincent D. Welker, first vice commander; E. B. (Jim) Ward, second vice commander; Joe D. Thompson, chaplain; Donald A. Novak, sergeant-at-arms; Robert Jones, finance officer; Harry Burns and George M. Ward, executive committee; Vernon C. Fiscus, county council executive committee; Dewey A. Stout, member permanent home committee.

Mr. Fiscus is the present commander of the post.

Westgate Dropped From Champ Race

Westgate Evangelical United Brethren, 1947 City Church League champions, lost out in their second game of the champ of champ series at State Hospital field Tuesday night by being knocked off by Ace's Service, 11 to 0.

Dick Southard, Columbus Nationals pitching star, held the Evans to a single hit while his mates were accumulating 13 safeties. Ace's is the City Class A Independent champion.

Westgate had previously defeated Ranco Bellows by a score of 2 to 1.

Detention Home To Get Free Movies

The underprivileged children's committee of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club will provide a series of three free movies for children in the Franklin County Detention Home. Donald F. Smith, chairman of the committee, said that arrangements have been made with Earl Hughes, probation officer, to have the shows on Oct. 15, Nov. 12 and Dec. 10.

E. O. Melvin will have charge of the first show. The second will be in the hands of Dr. R. J. Miller and Dr. C. O. Cramer, while Smith will supervise the December show.

Whitlow and Groves Open Barber Shop

E. B. Whitlow, 54 N. Burgess-av, and Erm Groves, 85 S. Ogden-av, this week announced the opening of a new barber shop at 2417 W. Broad-st (at Eureka).

Both formerly operated shops on the Hilltop, Whitlow at 2820 W. Broad-st and Groves at 2498 W. Broad-st. The present shop, which was leased through the Fox Realty Co., was formerly occupied by Dr. Jas. T. Angus, optometrist.

Associated with Whitlow and Groves is Walter Fleming, 55 S. Brinker-av.

Residents To Fight Plan Of Annexation

Backers of the move to incorporate a Village of Camp Chase immediately west of the Hilltop will fight the proposed annexation of that area by the City of Columbus, it was understood this week.

Robert M. Draper, local attorney with offices at 50 W. Broad-st, said that an "injunction and declaratory judgment" was to be filed Wednesday or Thursday of this week. Residents of the area are slated to vote on the city annexation proposal at the Nov. 4 election, Frank Marsh, clerk of the Franklin County Board of Elections, announced earlier this week.

The matter of annexation was approved by Columbus City Council a month ago as part of a general plan to include seven industrial areas, bordering the city. The proposed area would include the Fisher Body-Ternstedt plant at Georgesville-rd.

Draper represents a group of residents of the area who have been trying for more than a year and a half to incorporate a separate village that would include much of the same territory. A suit is now pending in Franklin County Common Pleas Court to force the Franklin Township trustees to call an election to vote on the village incorporation proposal. A previous suit was carried all the way to the Ohio Supreme Court. The decision favored the township officials.

A Human Relationship

AMERICAN PRACTICE OF MEDICINE is not strictly tied up with statistics and dollars. It involves the skill of hands, the experience and knowledge in the brain of the physician. It also includes human intangibles—such as personal interest and understanding.

Almost all doctors have understanding and exceptional character, because the physician's training brings him close to fundamental things—the sufferings, emotions and joys of human beings.

Your Doctor comes into contact with elemental life and death, and is called upon constantly to help work out emotional, as well as physical problems. Such understanding is based on close interest in the patient, and is valuable in the cure of illness.

Don't allow any sort of legislation to become law that would make you and your Doctor cogs in a political wheel.

Elementary School Happenings

West Broad Street School

The enrollment of the PTA membership of the West Broad Street School begins Monday, Sept. 22, and will continue through Oct. 3.

Parties will be given for the rooms having the highest percentage of parents as members.

The PTA has provided playground equipment, basketball equipment, decorated and furnished the lunchroom, provided a moving picture machine and screen, loud speaker, and radios and record players, to mention only a few.

Room mothers at the school for this semester are, Mrs. Martin Burnett, Mrs. William McLaughlin, Mrs. John Snavely, Mrs. E. Langdon, Mrs. Newberger, Mrs. O. W. Menz, Mrs. James V. Skaates, Mrs. Robert Howison, Mrs. Charles Stevens, Mrs. F. M. Myers, Mrs. Karl Kruckeberg, Mrs. J. Higgins, Mrs. Harold Recob, Mrs. Carey Minor, Mrs. Clyde Huston, Mrs. George Pruden, Mrs. Curtis Wade, Mrs. Virgil Cline, Mrs. Peter Edwards, Mrs. T. R. Brownlee and Mrs. Virgil Green.

Highland Avenue School

This week is National Dog Week, and Third Grade children are bringing pictures of their dogs to school to be mounted on a chart of "Our Dogs." After discussing the care and training of dogs, they have written creative stories about their own pets. They are making them into a story and picture book.

Delores Parks has a collie dog named "Brownie." Nancy Gaskill has an airdale that is six years old. Helen Van Curen's dog is a shepherd named "Stubby." He sleeps under Helen's bed and makes a good watch dog.

Roberta Armentrout has a fox terrier. Donna Hairston has a great dane. Donna Brewer's dog is somewhat famous, having had her picture in the paper. She is a six-year-old poodle named "Raga." She was lost for three years and finally was found—of all places—at the Ohio penitentiary.

Mrs. Snouffer's fourth grade class is trying to keep healthy and fight cold germs with health inspection and check-up each day. Each child keeps a record of his weight and general health rules. The pupil-doctor is Ronald Cook. The pupil-nurses are Nancy Grabill, Patty Diedrich, Anita Lesch, Kay Leach, Judy Rife and Delores Righter.

Room 13 reports an interesting "Curiosity Corner." The children have brought in leaves, seeds, caterpillars, a praying mantis, grasshopper, shells, "sick" apples and peaches (diseased ones), healthy apples and peaches, a seed chart on "How Seeds Are Scattered" and many interesting books.

And now to rope you into the news from the old corral.

Here and There Through the Week:

MONDAY—At 7:30 p. m. the 12A class had a session at the City Council meeting. They visited the council chamber and had a talk with the mayor, also toured the city hall.

TUESDAY — This was the first P. T. A. meeting of the year. The speaker was Dr. Fricke. The meeting started at 8:00. Come on, kids, and have your parents join!

WEDNESDAY — Volleyball has now started for all the girls. It marked their first game of the season.

THURSDAY—"Pep" rally assembly was held for the game with Central Friday night.

FRIDAY—This is game night—the dedication of the lights. Gov. Herbert will be the speaker. Following the game there will be a dance in the gym. It will be sponsored by the Band Parents with the swing band furnishing the music.

Need any typing done? See Paul Theisen. He's a wizard at the key-board.

We find two very bored young ladies, by name, JULIE AMMON and KATIE KLEIN. It seems that they have to come from Grandview every day.

Congratulations to our new editors of the Occident, VIRGINIA CASEY and JEANETTE CHAKERES.

Our deepest sympathy goes to MRS. WELDE. Why? Have you heard the fifth period music class on Tuesday's sing? Well, listen some time.

Overheard in Mr. Kaylor's P. O. D. class—HALCIE WILSON asked, "Is Newsweek a monthly magazine?"

BE THERE! WHERE? THE CENTRAL GAME. YOU SQUARE!

Cowboys Run Over Inexperienced Golden Bears

The West High Cowboys invaded the Upper Arlington gridiron Friday night and avenged the 6 to 0 defeat, suffered last season, with interest, as they piled up a 40 to 0 score over an inexperienced Golden Bear eleven.

The 1947 West team will make its first official appearance on home soil tomorrow night when it goes against the Central Pirates at Magly Field in a dedication night attraction that promises to be a sellout. The Cowboys, with two victories under their belts, will be facing a likewise undefeated Central team in the opening of the City League. Game time is set at 8 p. m. with the gates opening at 6:30 p. m.

The Cowboys unleashed a running attack late in the second period that the Bears were unable to cope with, resulting in six touchdowns and four conversions. West displayed speed and an aggressive style of play not seen in the Springfield game. Tackling and blocking were much improved and even when second and third string boys were in the lineup the Cowboys continued to run roughshod over the Upper Arlington eleven.

The Bears started out with a running attack that had West baffled for a few plays, chalking up gains of 18, 11 and 12 yards for two first downs. The second quarter was half over before the Cowboys began to hit their stride. The Arlington kicker was rushed and trapped on his own 13-yard line on fourth down, giving West its first break of the game.

Slager scored the first touchdown on a quarterback sneak. Thrush making good on the conversion. Eight plays later Hicks carried the pigskin over from the 6-yard marker and again Thrush kicked the extra point, making the score 14 to 0 as the half ended.

Hutt Runs 48 Yards

On the very first play after the third period opened, Starling Hutt went through tackle from the Arlington 48 to cross the goal line but the officials ruled clipping and the touchdown was nullified. But the Cowboys were not to be denied. On the very next play, Thrush took the ball on an end around play and raced over for the third West tally. His try for extra point was no good and the score was 20 to 0.

Buckingham was given the honor of scoring the fourth touchdown when he took a pass thrown by Jim Slager from the Arlington 31. The ball was caught at about the 10 and "Buck" ran over for the tally. Thrush's try for point was wide but the Bears were offside and on the second attempt the kick was good.

By this time second string boys were taking the field. Taking the ball on his own 35-yard marker, Walter Hicks put on a good demonstration of speed to race 65 yards for another West touchdown. Again Thrush made good his point, making the score 34 to 0.

The final tally came (still in the third quarter) after Bob Smith carried the ball from the Arlington 19 to the 2-yard stripe. Paul Theisen scored on a quarterback sneak. Thrush's kick was no good and the score was West 40, Upper Arlington, 0.

From that point on Coach Pemberton had a chance to see what his second and third string boys could do and what he saw should not have been too discouraging. Stout, Miles, Culbertson, Browr and a host of others played nice ball against a tired and disorganized team.

The Bears, in addition to being inexperienced, also were riddled with injuries. Green, Collins, Blower, Hadley, Triffon, Buell, Hager and others played good ball but were not a match for the inspired Cowboy eleven.

The starting lineups were as follows:

West	Pos.	U. Arlington
Thrush (C)	LE	Maloney
Weeks	LT	Sutton
Westerman	LG	Ticke
Andrews	C	Roberts
Thumberg	RG	Bernsdorf
Hostetter	RT	Fenner
Buckingham	RE	Greathouse
Slager	QB	Green
Hicks	LH	Collins
Chinn	RH	Hadley
Hutt	FB	Blower (C)

Touchdowns: Slager, Hicks (2), Thrush, Buckingham, Theisen. Points after touchdown, Thrush 4; substitutions: (West) Ehlers, Young, Schmidt, Greene, Boothe, Horch, Wolfe, Speakman, Theisen, Naumoff, Hershberger, Stout, Frasher, Moury, Voss, Celli, Eppert, Culbertson, Schroeder, Burton, Smith, Ankrom, Brown, Easterly (Upper Arlington).

Scenes From The Sidelines At Arlington-West Game

By Elisabeth Downing

Please Note—Anything or anyone who has been omitted in this column has not been done an injustice. You see, there was a mud fight. Several boys got into it on the track just below the bleachers and with two eyes full of mud you can imagine you see most anything. So here goes!

The "Standing Room Only" sign would have been in order early in the evening at the West-Arlington game last Friday night. It was a wonderfully clear, cool evening and the gridiron was dry but the weather didn't account for the top-heavy score in West's favor, 40-0, nor for the crowd of about 5,000 which stood three deep encircling the field.

One small boy had a ringside seat—he very gracefully sat on the neck of a larger boy lying just in front of the bleachers "trying" to watch the football squads!

The Bears won the toss and chose to receive and from that moment on it was the Cowboys' game most of the way.

The West Hi band appeared first at the half. It formed the word "Hi" facing the Arlington bleachers and then went into an "A". Turning, they formed a revolving "W", played the Alma Mater, and later were accompanied by three lasso twirlers. Jimmy Cockfield practically lassoed his twirler companion, not once not twice, but three times. Someone in the audience suggested that he move to the right about three inches and the whole problem was solved. Flash! John Glass wore both boots throughout the entire performance.

The Band and the majorettes led by the drum major put on their usual fine performance. Two extra twirlers were an added attraction at Friday's game. The West High musicians seem to instill new vigor in the crowd when they march beneath the goal post. Whether winning or losing, the band gives both the audience and the team new hope.

The Arlington band followed, first playing the Caisson Song. They formed a "W" for their guests, then went into a spiral and then an "A". The band was preceded by a drum major and three classy majorettes.

In the opening part of the third quarter a touchdown by West, which sent the crowd wild, was called back. Seconds later the Cowboys again took the ball and went over for a legit t. d. One poor suffering Arlingtonian screamed, "They're slippin', it took two plays!"

We'll keep this under cover but the thought did strike us that the Arlington football pants (black with a white stripe at the knee) resembled black skirts with a row of white lace. Well, they're in style anyhow!

Several Hilltoppers accidentally seen by your reporter who sat for a time on the rail almost under the bleachers and then actually got a seat but was squashed on each play by an Arlington fan, were: Joanne Heischman "Bucky" Hawe, just in that evening from the navy in California; the inseparables, Jo Sherrit, Barbara Tallman and Jean Kievdo; Pat Beery, Barbara Harper, George Demorest, and Don Borror.

Carl Hosler, an outstanding tackle on last year's team, watched the game from the side lines. Bob Schlegel, also of the '46 Cowboy eleven, served as spotter for the public address announcer . . . Chuck Weeks received a hip injury in the first half of the game that kept him out of action for the rest of the evening . . . One West High fan spoke of the resemblance of Assistant West Coach Dave Randall to Jack Cakle of movie and radio fame . . . Jay Wagner and George Lymar, Arms of Radio Station WCOL were interested spectators . . . Incidentally, WCOL is at present trying to line up favorable school reaction toward broadcasting city league football games yet this year.

Amvets Down Worthington Lose To Galion Sunday

By Maude Jackson

After defeating Worthington last Wednesday night by a 10 to 0 score, the Hilltop Amvets were outplayed Sunday afternoon and lost a 13 to 0 contest to a tough Galion gridiron squad.

The Amvets are scheduled to meet Bucyrus Sunday afternoon at the northern Ohio city in the fourth game of the season for the Hilltoppers.

Fumbles and pass interceptions marred the Amvets' play in Sunday's contest. Early in the first quarter, Galion's Eichenbracker raced around left end for the Bulldogs' first score. Bob Ernst made good the conversion.

The second and third quarters were scoreless but in the fourth canto Hinke plunged over from the six-yard line for the second score. The Amvets tried desperately to hit pay dirt in the final period but time ran out as "Dutch" Thum received a bullet pass from Paul Schlosser on the 15-yard line.

First Half Scoreless

The first half of the Worthington game was scoreless and it was a nip and tuck battle until shortly before the half ended, when Virgil Crawford, handicapped by a plastic brace on his leg, made a 25-yard jaunt into enemy territory.

In the third quarter Tony Agristi, hard charging fullback, pushed over from the eight-yard line for the Hilltop's initial score. "Dutch" Thum's try for the extra point was wide.

Next came a series of incomplete passes, but the Amvets perked up again and in the fourth period a fumble recovered by Jim Harold accounted for two more points.

About eight minutes before the close of the game Charlie Hall, speedy right end, recovered a punt, giving the Hilltoppers another two points on their second touchback of the evening.

2 Former West Stars Oppose Each Other Tonite

Two former West High School football stars will be matching wits tomorrow night when their county league teams clash.

Woodrow (Woody) Wills, coach at Lincoln High School at Gahanna, will pit his grid machine against the Paul Schlosser-coached team from Mifflin Township at Gahanna. The game promises to be a good one since the two schools have been rivals over a period of years.

Schlosser, who lives at 2239 Woodward-av, played at West in '35, '36 and '37, then had three years of football at Findlay College. He is in his second year at Mifflin and has mostly sophomores and juniors. He has 50 of the 70 boys enrolled in the school on his football squad.

Paul lived on the Hilltop until the housing shortage forced him to relocate a month ago.

Wills lives at 856 S. Eureka-av, where he purchased a home a short while ago. He is in his first year at Lincoln High. He claims to have a very inexperienced club with only one lineman and two backfield men with varsity letter experience.

Woody played at West in '29, '30 and '31 and then went to Ohio University where he added other grid laurels. Both coaches got their high school training under Coach Harold Wise, now head mentor at OU.

Lincoln has defeated Johnstown and Reynoldsburg while Mifflin defeated Ashley and then played Hilliards to a 0-0 tie.

Bus Motts Rolls 299

While bowling at the Hilltop Recreation alleys on Thursday night the greatest thrill ever to be experienced by a bowler seemed well on its way for he prepared to roll his 11th and 12th balls after scoring 10 strikes in a row. The roll was good, striking on the New York 1-3 pocket but the tricky "4" pin held fast, causing Bus to lose his 11th strike. This didn't unnerve the veteran as he turned it in for a 289 game.

Bus bowls as leadoff man for Tim's Cafe in the Business Men's League that rolls on Thursday night and is carrying a 154 average. Bus also had games of 154 and 192 for a 635 total.

Motts' game was the best that has been rolled at the Hilltop alleys since Bud Kline rolled his 300 game on Jan. 8, 1939. Before that, on Dec. 16, 1935, Art Bishop rolled 300 and this happened just five days after Bud Titer had rolled 299.

While all eyes were on Motts another nice set of games was being rolled as Carl Breckenridge, Dan Wolf, Joe Kennedy, Fred Wolf and Jack Franken, all rolling for Shank and Saunders, put together games of 227, 201, 159, 223, 241 respectively for a 1201 series.

These keglers are really showing the rest of the city that the Hilltop can produce a fine crop of bowlers and we all hope they will keep up the good work.

Bowler of the Week

Our bowler this week is one of the old timers. He is Fred Wolf, manager of the Hilltop alleys. Fred has been bowling for more than 20 years and has rolled in five ABC tournaments in Cleveland, Detroit and Columbus. Fred bowls on Thursday nights with Shank and Saunders and also in the Hilltop Recreation League on Mondays nights. His high single game is 285, consisting of 10 strikes and then a big split. His high series is 692 and he also rolled 685 last year.

The bowling gem this week was told to me me by Fred Wolf, who, while bowling in the ABC tournament at Detroit, saw a fellow kegler roll nine strikes in a row, then hit his leg and poodled the ten ball. The fellow then went on to make a spare and then a strike for what should have been a perfect game.

The honor roll this week is: women 500 or better — Ruth Perry, 516; Frances Patridge, 511; Kate Howell, 508; Edna Staley, 502. Men, 600 or better—Dan Wolf, 638; Bus Motts, 635; Glen Harbage, 628; George Phillips, 614; Charles Gardner, 608. Nice going, keglers.

Supplanting the laborious hand mixing method is a new electric paint mixer equipped with an automatic time control.

News of Rome

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

The members of the Rhoda Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran Church entertained their husbands and friends with a wiener roast Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kaderly, Galloway-rd. The WSCS of Columbia Heights Church held its first meeting of the fall, Sept. 17. Although it was "pot-luck" the hostesses for the day were Mrs. Floyd Armstrong, Mrs. W. H. Ball and Mrs. Floyd Bowman. After the regular business meeting an original skit, written by Mrs. Henry Warner, "Our Days at the Fair," was put on by Mrs. Russel Brooks, Mrs. George Terry, president, Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Sheets.

While the construction work on the Prairie Township Fire Station is progressing, so is the enthusiasm of a class of about 26 fire fighters. When two good football teams come together for a game, there is only one result to look forward to, a tie. That was what took place Friday night when the Hilliards team visited at the Mifflin High School. During the game Paul Armstrong fell and bit his tongue quite severely. He was taken to the doctor who said the injury will heal without cramps.

Mrs. Raymond Swaney and daughter, Barbara, of Pontiac, Mich., stopped for a short visit with her sister, Mrs. George Terry, Maple-dr, Wednesday. She was on her way to London to visit her mother.

The first meeting of the Rome PTA was well attended Thursday evening. Mr. Houck presented his travelogue and Roberta Harrison played her electric guitar. Refreshments were served as a surprise in the school cafeteria.

Barton Kaderly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kaderly, celebrated his fifth birthday Saturday afternoon when his five little cousins came to play. Birthday cake, candles and all the childish "gadgets" necessary to make the party a success were on hand. The little guests were Cardine, Robert, Rebecca, Kay and Judy Kaderly.

At the softball game Friday afternoon between Brown-twp and Rome School, Rome won 15 to 3. Jessie Porter made three runs. In the girls' game they played four innings and had to stop on account of the school bus schedule. They will begin next week where they left off.

John Eckert, son of Mrs. William Hall, Lennox-av, who has been in the hospital for several weeks, due to an infection brought on by diving, is home and getting in condition to go to Florida for the winter.

The Monitor Class held its regular meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lamb, Buena Vista-av, Saturday evening. There were 22 present and the wiener roast at the convenient outdoor oven was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cline and little daughters and Mr. Cline's mother of Middletown called Sunday afternoon on Mrs. T. M. Patterson, Maple-dr.

Night Football

West High School will make its first venture into night football when the Central Pirates come to Magly Field tomorrow night. From all indications a new high in attendance figures should result from the six night attractions scheduled on the Hilltop this year. In all probability there will not be enough seats available for the paying customers who will parade through the turnstiles to see the Cowboys perform, especially if West develops a team that is up in the running for a city title.

The local high school is several years behind the times in the matter of a lighted field. All other city schools and most of the county high schools have had lights for a number of years.

With the improvements added to Magly Field this year it should rival the best high school athletic plant in the state. The new lights, new electric scoreboard, improved public address system, band stand and three new ticket booths give the Hilltop an excellent place to see football.

One thing will more than likely be needed soon. That is more seats. Although 2,000 temporary bleachers are to be ready for tomorrow's game, it is expected that these will not take care of the crowd. This will provide approximately 5,500 seats in all. Considerable thought has already been given to this need but a solution will not likely be forthcoming for a while.

We are satisfied that Hilltoppers will support night football. More than 9,000 persons saw the opening game at Springfield two weeks ago on a night when the rain stopped only an hour before game time. We beleieve the Hilltop would do almost as well.

A man's good qualities are seldom talked about — but his bad qualities quickly become public property.

We Are An Island

By Mason R. Smith

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of copyrighted articles on conditions in Europe written by Mason R. Smith, a weekly newspaper publisher and editor.

Lisbon, July 14

For the first time since departing the United States I have left the table not feeling at least a little bit hungry. Food in Portugal—which still retains some vestiges of wartime rationing (sugar, flour, olive oil)—is plentiful and good. The people who dine in London hotels fare far better than the general population, for domestic food rationing is very strict in Great Britain. Hotel food is monotonous—meals are limited to three courses and priced not to exceed five shillings ($1.00 in American money).

But in Lisbon, meals are served with all the savoir faire of the French. You are served almost more than you can eat—and the price is reasonable.

This state of affairs is comparatively new, for three months ago prices were much higher. At that time Prime Minister Antonio de Oliveira Salazar appointed one Barbosa as Minister of Economy. By shrewd buying, Minister Barbosa brought food costs down, and he insisted that retailers reduce their prices accordingly.

Dr. Salazar, one-time professor of economics at Portugal's new Coimbra University, later finance minister and finally prime minister and virtual dictator of Portugal, is regarded generally as an extremely able and just ruler. But his principal difficulty lies in obtaining the services of capable, honest men in his government.

Portugal has a figurehead president, a national assembly of 120 elected deputies and an upper house of a "corporative" type, elected or appointed from the universities, the municipalities and all industries. This upper "corporative" house passes judgment on legislation written by the national assembly.

For an objective view I went to a Scandinavian who has lived in Portugal for upwards of 20 years. He is an importer.

A great admirer of Salazar, he declared that "without him we would be lost."

"The Portuguese," he went on, "are a strange people. They are a mixture of the white and North African Negro races, and they are slow to move. If we had a Scandanavian or American type of democracy here, we'd be in trouble immediately. It proved out that way in the old days. These people, as politicians, are interested only in lining their own pockets. Before Salazar, we had a new government every fortnight—and every one of the cabinet retired rich. When Salazar came to power, he immediately balanced the budget, and the country has been on an even keel ever since."

"The fault of our system is," a former procurator (member of the corporative house of the parliament) told me, "that Salazar is unique. A man like that appears only once in a generation. If we should lose him, we'd have trouble right away." He has no assistant or understudy to take his place.

During the war, he continued, Portugal, as a neutral nation, was the crossroads of the world. Sympathetic with the British, with whom she has had economic and cultural ties for centuries, Portugal was also under strong pressure from the Nazis. Today I talked with a man who was No. 1 on the list of men to be shot if the Germans should have been able to take over Portugal.

It was his job to keep the British news in Portugal's newspapers. The Germans, seeking to spread their propaganda in Portugal, used every means to force Portgual publishers to print pro-Nazi releases. When newsprint became short, the Nazis offered to provide it—delivered overland from Finland—free or at a very low price—if the papers would print only Nazi news releases. Through the Portuguese official the British were able to counter this move by supplying newsprint delivered by ship from Newfoundland mills.

Portugal—a honeycomb of spies of all nations during the war, and worried about Nazi subversive activity then—is now still concerned about active Nazis still operating in this country.

Lisbon is a picture book city—like something taken from a stage setting. The climate is hot, and the buildings are tropical—principally painted stucco—pink, blue, orange in pastel colors—or tile faced, traceable to the Moorish influence centuries ago. In its newest sections, the city's streets

SIGNS OF THE SEASON

The first frost arrived in Columbus Monday night at about the precise time that Autumn officially appeared on the scene. Tuesday morning saw smoke pouring from many chimneys as fires were laid in many furnaces for the first time this fall. One boy was seen wearing ear muffs to school. Down at the H and H Hardware Store the management is already keeping the public posted on the number of days remaining until Christmas.

NEW FLIVVER. I know one Hilltop family who was embarrassed more than a litfle the other day when they drove their brand new auto over to a neighbor's for the usual inspection. After looking it over from bumper to bumper, the proud owner said: "Now hop in and we'll show you how she rides."

All were comfortably seated. The driver turned on the ignition—touched the starter. Silence.

"That's all right," the understanding neighbor replied. "I'll give you a shove."

"Don't knock yourself out with pride if some one calls you a "seven jewel."

I heard the term used the other evening and it sounded quite complimentary until I heard an explanation of its derivation. I'm told that a 21-jewel watch is about the best they make and that a 7-jewel job (before the war) came at about $2.50.

That puts the "seven jewel" handle in about the same class with "lame brain," "dim bulb" and other uncomplimentary titles.

"CHEESE IT, THE COPS" may not strike fear into the hearts of most law abiding citizens but to one character I knew back at Clarington, on the "beautiful" Ohio River, it was a signal to "git goin'."

For the sake of keeping his true name anonymous, I shall call him Jim, although that was not his real name.

Jim had been in several brushes with the law over a period of years, none of a very serious nature. He was well known around the county bastile, having been a "guest" of the local constabulary on more than one occasion.

One mid-winter afternpon, Jim was loafing around the ferry boat landing as was his custom when a county car pulled up at the side of the street on top of the river bank.

"Why there's the sheriff" a bystander remarked.

That was all Jim needed to go into action. Seeing the ferry boat was on the West Virginia side of the river, he pulled off his shoes, peeled off his coat and dived into the icy water. Being an expert swimmer, he had no trouble swimming the Ohio even in mid-winter.

It so happened that on this occasion the sheriff had no official business in town but was just passing through. Jim never stopped to ask or be asked questions. He just headed for the West Virginia shore.

COLUMBUS presents an interesting picture from the observation tower of the Leveque-Lincoln Building. I had my first view from that vantage point Sunday, Sept. 14. Visibility was almost perfect and even without a pair of glasses one could look out beyond the boundaries of the city in any direction.

The Army Air Forces show down on the State House lawn offered a colorful sight from 555 feet up. A fire alarm turned in somewhere on Long-st sent fire equipment from all directions converging on the spot. The Hilltop is too well shaded by trees to see anything but the Columbus State Hospital and the Columbus State School. The lakes down along the Scioto River looked blue in comparison to the muddy river.

SCRIPTURE: Ecclesiastes.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Ecclesiastes 5:1-7.

Worthy Objectives

Lesson for September 28, 1947

THE Book of Ecclesiastes, written by Solomon, B. C. 977, is profitable in the fact that it discloses the findings of a very remarkable man on life. Solomon tells us that he had tried every tempting offer of the world, but found it vanity. "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity," he declares.

Dr. Newton

Solomon is often referred to as the wisest of men. He does not make this claim, nor would I suggest it. As a matter of fact, Solomon was a very unwise man in many of the manifestations of his life. He had every advantage, but yielded to selfish pursuits of pleasure when he might have been serving his day and generation by the will of God.

Why do I point to Solomon as an unwise man? From his own testimony—"I gave my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness and folly; I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit. For in much wisdom is much grief; and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow."

Excellent Advice

EVEN so, Solomon was ready, by the time he wrote Ecclesiastes, to give some excellent advice. He had discovered that pomp and ceremony are meaningless—that they turn at last to ashes.

For example, "He (God) hath made everything beautiful in its time," chapter 3, verse 11. Solomon had dealt in the artificial. He had worn the most costly robes, lived in the finest palaces, had gardens set up to please any passing whim.

But now that he has come to see the vanity of men, he can at last open his eyes to the beauty which God creates. And now he has become a wise man, indeed. There is beauty everywhere if only we have eyes to see.

Words of Wisdom

THE next section of Sunday's lesson brings us to one of Solomon's greatest confessions. He says, chapter 3, verse 14: "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be forever; nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it; and God doeth it, that men should fear before him."

We do well to remember that God is, and that he is good, and that he is sovereign. "This is our Father's world," wrote Maltbie Babcock. Here is a truth for today. In our dismay over the atomic bomb, we are about to forget that God intended for man to discover atomic energy, and to expected man to have enough moral stamina to use this discovery for his good and God's glory.

Which brings us to the heart of the Preacher's message, chapter 12, verse 13: "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter; fear God, and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man."

Seeking the Best in Life

SOLOMON, by his own testimony, missed much of the fines things of life; but he admonishes the reader to profit by his mistake and seek the best in life. For example, in chapter 2, verse 24, Solomon says: "There is nothing better for a man, than that he should eat and drink, and that he should make his soul enjoy good in his labour."

Every boy and girl in the world knows the joy of honest work, at least I hope so. Have you grown a beautiful flower? A vegetable garden? Cut a card of fire wood? Then you know that work is one of the essential ways of seeking the best in life.

Then Solomon comes to the first eight verses of the last chapter—a golden section for memory. It is one of the first passages of Scripture I ever learned. I trust every young person reading this column will commit that passage to memory, if you have not already done so.

Testing Life's Philosophies

SOLOMON concludes his confessions with this probing declaration: "For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil."

What is he saying? He is reminding us that whatever may be our philosophy of life, such philosophy, together with our commitments thereto, will be tested out under the white light of God's ultimate truth. My conclusion is that I desire but one thing—to find and follow the will of God, which is always right and always best.

are lined and tree-lined, often with cafe tables set out under the branches. The walks are a coarse mosaic of grey stone, with designs worked out in darker material.

Indicative of the dictatorial power is the sudden change in traffic regulations, forcing all vehicles to drive to the right. In earlier days Portugal followed the British custom of left-hand traffic. To reduce automobile accidents, there is now a stiff fine for jaywalking (you must cross the street at clearly indicated points), or for failure to observe the "drive to the right" technique in strolling along the sidewalks. You always keep to the right.

The force of rule by executive fiat is also noticeable at the beaches near Estoril along the seacoast. It seems that during the war, the city was flooded with Polish refugees, the female of the species causing near riots on the beaches as a result of scanty bathing costumes. But this was stopped very quickly, when a regulation was published placing a fine on any woman who appeared in less than a full bathing suit covering the entire torso—no midriff suits allowed. In fact, men are not permitted to wear trunks. Their bathing suits must cover the chest.

"These Portuguese," the exporter told me, "are a peculiar people. They don't know how to work. They get to the job around 9:30, are off two hours at noon, and come back until 6 o'clock. They stay up all night. No night club really gets going until after midnight, and it keeps open until 5 or 6 a. m.

"That may have been all right in the war days, but it won't do now. Today we have to work for our money.

"They can never successfully have a democracy here, because they don't understand honesty in government and they are too slow—there is no drive—no joi de vivre in them. Even their songs are sorrowful."

From the traveler's superficial observation, it would appear that Portugal has her rich, her middle class and her very poor. The latter are attired in worn, patched clothing, shoes often repaired with pieces of canvas. The others are dressed very smartly indeed.

American merchandise is in every window—from electric appliances to oil burners—and American magazines (including the Police Gazette) are on the news stands. The majority of the cars are of British make, but there are many American Fords, Buicks and Chryslers. American films are shown everywhere, with little competition from England, France and Argentina.

Lisbon is a city of flowers. You see them everywhere. The country soil appears to be extremely fertile, a lumpy, rust-brown loam which looks like iron from the air.

The present period—5 months officially set aside — celebrates Portugal's 900th anniversary, and the 300th of Lisbon's freedom from the Moors. Their citadel is an ancient, honored monument, in a city replete with history.

Looking back down the years a former government official told me: "We are an island. We have been an island for many centuries. We are not Europeans.

"Spain has been a kind of wall, blocking us off from Europe for many, many years—and so we sought our fortune elsewhere. You remember da Gama and our other navigators who sailed the seven seas. Our possessions in Asia and Africa bear further testimony.

"We have survived this European war rather well, but we see the beginnings of more trouble to come. First it was the Nazi.

Nutrition Classes To Start At Red Cross

With food costs skyrocketing, more skill and care than ever is necessary to be sure that families are getting all the food nutrients necessary to health while making the food dollar stretch farther.

To aid housewives in their household and food budgeting the Nutrition Service of the Franklin County Red Cross is offering a "Meal Planning Workshop." The workshop will consist of six meetings to be held once each week starting Thursday, Sept. 25 1:30 to 3:30 p. m., in the classroom at Red Cross headquarters, 74 E. Gay-st.

Household and food budgeting will be discussed and individual help will be given in planning meals, working out food budgets, grocery lists, and buying efficiently so each member of the group can get as much value as possible for her food money.

There will also be cooking demonstrations of low cost dishes.

Mrs. Derwin W. Ashcraft, director of nutrition service, will teach the class, for which registration may be made by calling the American Red Cross, MA. 6891.

Write A Letter In Support of "Y"

The response of various Hilltop groups to the proposal to establish a branch YMCA here is most gratifying. But more enthusiasm expressed by means of letters to the committee will no doubt be of value in petitioning the central board

Members of the committee have spent a lot of time on this project, something they feel will benefit thousands of youngsters and adults alike in the community in years to come

It is a little thing for you as an individual to sit down and express your support for the movement by means of a letter. Do it right now. The letters are needed this week-end. Address them to The Hilltop Record Office, 2465 W. Broadst, and they will be turned over to the committee

Dedication Was Perfect Performance

All who witnessed the dedication of the West High lights on Friday evening are loud in their praise for those at the local school who were responsible for the perfect performance, perfectly timed

This record crowd saw one of the finest examples of what cooperation among community organizations can do. Everything clicked, even down to the appearance of the governor of Ohio

It's needless to say that all appreciated the fine performance of Charley Bennett's high school marching band And don't think that this show was one time rehearsal Many long hours are put into the making of such performance

And to top it off with the Cowboys were really in their fighting and Hilltoppers were justly proud to have their boys turn in that victory over Central in the opening game

A great big vote of thanks is due the West High Boosters for their leadership in helping to stir up a lot of this enthusiasm Back a couple years ago when Dick Francis and some of the former West players got together and decided the local team needed more public support and organized the Boosters they surely had just such a response as this in mind. They are certainly entitled to a lot of appreciation from the Hilltop public

It's such fine spirit that has made the Hilltop Let's keep it that way!

Good Food, Low Prices

In sharp contrast to some of the prices being charged in Columbus restaurants for food that often isn't so good, is news from Mildred and Mose Williams, now traveling through the West

They tell of a visit to Adams Cafe of Columbus, Nebraska Their dinner menu consisted of French onion soup, an order of liver and onions, an order of grilled pork chops. Side dishes were mashed potatoes, gravy, fried egg plant, tomato salad, hot rolls, butter, chocolate pie and coffee. The cost was $1 and $1.25

Since that time we have had word from them of a visit to a choice eating place in Butte, Montana All the while our mouths water. And all the while we have visions of them adding avoirdupois'

Anyone Need Help?

We have been unable to supply such information, and if there are those in the community that can be of help along this line we will appreciate knowing of such need All names will be held in confidence.

8,500 Attend West-Central Grid Contest

The 8,500 persons who attended the West-Central football game at Mugly Field last Friday night were almost twice the number to attend any previous home game

Harry L. Zulauf, business manager, stated that seats would be more plentiful for tomorrow night's game against Cincinnati Hughes since there would be only a small delegation of rooters follow the team as compared to the large crowd that came from Central last week. The 6,000 available seats are expected to be adequate for all who attend tomorrow's game.

Gates will again open at 6:30 p. m. The game will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Irvin F. Young, principal of the school, announced that a Yale door key was found at the field following last week's game. It may be claimed by calling at the school office

May Eliminate 2 Local Crossings

Two unguarded railroad crossings on the Hilltop are scheduled for consideration in the building of viaducts proposed last week as part of Mayor James A Rhodes' move to eliminate 17 grade crossings throughout the city and adjacent county.

Those included in the mayor's proposal were the Mound Street crossing of the B. & O. Railroad just west of Central-av, and CCC & St. L. and Pennsylvania tracks on N. Hague-av.

An estimated $3,800,000 would be spent on the grade crossing elimination program that would include the construction of three bridges. The city, Franklin County, the state and railroad companies affected would share in the cost of the work, according to Mayor Rhodes' plan.

Business Group To Meet Oct. 14

The October meeting of the Hilltop Business Association will be held at the Westgate Methodist Church on the evening of Oct. 14, it was announced this week.

The Association will be asked to support a plan for more frequent collection of rubbish throughout the city. A move to bring "pressure to bear" on city officials originated with the North Side Commercial Club. It later received the endorsement of the United Business Association, an organization composed of representatives of the various community groups

Walter Davis, former advertising manager of The Hilltop Record, now manager of the North Side Herald, is heading the drive to get a minimum of four complete collections of rubbish over the city. The plan also calls for enforcement of a city statute that states that all refuse or rubbish must be placed in containers

At present much of the rubbish is dumped along the alley way in unsightly condition. This also requires added time for collectors to make their rounds.

Plans will also be announced for the annual Hallowe'en party to be held for members friends of the HBA.

Fox Food Shop Celebrates 10th Anniversary

A big tenth anniversary celebration gets under way today at Fox Food Shop, Eureka-av and Broad-st, complete details of which are given in the firm's ad on Page 5A of this week's Record.

Harold Fox, proprietor of the store, states he has assembled the very best available bargains for this merchandising event, ones that should be of particular interest in view of rising food costs. A grab bag feature adds some surprises for the sale.

Fox purchased the store from Frank Millikin in 1937. It was founded by the Millikin Brothers in 1905. The store had always featured quality merchandise, a policy that has been continued by the present owner. Only Grade A meats are sold at the meat counter.

Traffic Engineer Recommends Broad-st Safety Improvements

Harry Turner, city traffic engineer, outlined four suggestions for reducing the accident rate on W. Broad-st, the most dangerous thoroughfare in Columbus. In a talk before the Hilltop Kiwanis Club last Thursday he made the following recommendations

(1) Modern illumination by use of street lights of sufficient wattage to light up poorly lighted areas

(2) Raised markers in the center of W Broad-st from Wheatland to Central-avs, and from Sandusky to Starling-st. These would be experimental areas to be tested out before general adoption of the raised center marker for the entire length of W. Broad-st as considered by the City Traffic Commission

(3) The addition of at least eight more traffic signals and revision of the timing of present lights.

(4) Adoption of a uniform speed limit of 25 miles per hour from the city limits to the downtown area. This would call for adequate markings to acquaint drivers with the legal speed limit. Present state statutes call for different limits in different sections of the thoroughfare

C. Carlton Hartley, publisher of Hilltop Record, will have charge of today's meeting of Kiwanis. The program will be in observance of National Newspaper Week

The election of officers for the new year will be held at the Oct 9 meeting of the local club.

Many Local Groups Endorse Plans

Steps will be taken this week-end by the Hilltop Recreation Center Committee to petition the Central YMCA for the establishment of a Hilltop Branch "Y".

This decision was made following a meeting of the committee last Thursday evening at the University Club at which time Harry Spyker, secretary of the Central "Y", instructed the committee in the necessary steps for such action

Practically all Hilltop organizations have expressed their keen interest in the local branch "Y" as is witnessed by the letters received from secretaries of the local groups. A few groups have not yet been heard from but those responding have all been in hearty accord except one organization and it is felt this group did not understand the proposal.

Numerous local people have written letters to Dr. C. O. Cramer, chairman of the committee, stating they are in accord with the proposal and asking that the committee take necessary steps to establish the branch here.

An appeal for more such letters was issued this week. Persons who are anxious to see the program started here should take time immediately to write to this committee. Letters may be mailed to Dr. Cramer at 3191 W. Broad-st, or to any of the other members of the committee, Jerry Spears, H. G. Deems, Rev. A. J. Wold or C. C. Hartley at The Hilltop Record office, 2465 W. Broad-st.

Further details of the progress of the movement will be reported in later issues of the Record.

Boosters Need More Members To Reach Goal

Paid-up membership in the West High Boosters Club stood at 805 this week, M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner, chairman of the membership drive, reported. The goal for 1947 is 1,000 members.

A deadline of Oct. 15 has been set when this quota is to be met so that 195 more members are needed.

"There are many people on the Hilltop who ought to be members," Sensenbrenner said. "We want to give them this final opportunity to sign up and help the West High School athletic program."

Anyone who has not been contacted as yet can arrange to become a member by calling any of the following: Sensenbrenner, RA. 2080; Lee Weigand, RA. 3160, John Kuhn, RA. 2038; Richard (Dick) Francis, RA. 4725; or Phillip Stout, RA. 4890

An August Bride

Mrs. Charles L. Hacker

Before an altar decorated with fern, palm, gladioli and pompoms, Miss Charlotte Tannehill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Tannehill, 201 Eldon-av, became the bride of Mr. Charles L. Hacker, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hacker of Portsmouth, on Aug. 8, at 7:30 p. m., in St. Paul's Evangelical Congregational Church.

Dr. Harold A. Harris officiated at the candlelit double-ring service, assisted by Dr. George Bernhard.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of pearl white satin with marquisette overskirt and deep sheer yoke of marquisette in an off-the-shoulder effect. Ruffles bordered the skirt and circular train which fell from the waist in a scalloped effect inset with large satin bows. Her two tier fingertip veil was held in place by a sweetheart tiara of tiny ruffles. The bridal bauquet was a cascade of white roses and shattered white carnations, centered with a talisman rose corsage.

Mrs. Juanita Blackmore was matron of honor for her sister in a gown of pink nylon. She carried a colonial bouquet of mums, carnations and roses.

Miss Anita Bretlinger and Miss Betty Doughty were bridesmaids in aqua and yellow gowns respectively. They carried colonial bouquets. Little Miss Julie Ann Robinson in an Alice-Blue gown was flower girl. She carried a basket of rose petals and wore a halo of flowers in her hair.

Mr. Patrick Hacker, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were Mr. James Torrie and Mr. Stanley Whitlock.

A musical program was provided by Miss Frances Tannehill, sister of the bride, at the piano, with Mrs. Ann McClure and Mr. George Blackmore as vocalists.

The couple spent their honeymoon touring in Ohio and Indiana.

The new Mrs. Hacker is a graduate of West High School and is employed at the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. Mr. Hacker, a graduate of Ottway High School, near Portsmouth, is an employee of the Lennox Furnace Co.

The couple is now residing at 903 Bellows-av.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Schmidt, 86 N. Ogden-av, will hold open house Sunday, Oct. 5, from 3 to 5 in the afternoon and 7 to 9 in the evening in observance of their golden wedding.

Fifty years ago on Oct. 6, 1897, at 4:30 in the afternoon in the presence of 50 guests in the home of the bride's parents, the late Prof. Carl Hemminghaus of St. Paul, Minn., read the nuptial vows after which a wedding dinner was served. An old fashioned "belling" followed later in the evening with Adam Koerner acting as "captain."

Persons still living who attended the wedding are Mrs. Bertha Renner, Los Angeles, Cal., sister of the bride; Herman C. Haueisen, Columbus, brother of the bride; Mrs. Mary Haueisen, Middletown, O., sister-in-law; William Schmidt, Galloway, brother of the groom; Mrs. Mary Fisher, New Rome; the Misses Flora and Lillian Reeb and Theodore Reeb, Columbus; Misses Flora and Alma Hemminghaus, St. Paul, Minn., and Mr. Carl Hemminghaus, Baltimore, Md.

In November, 1940, they moved to their present address on Ogden-av. Helping Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt to celebrate this memorable day are three children, Mrs. Emma Bradley, Galloway; Mrs. Elsa Weymueller of Columbus, and John F. Schmidt of the home address; also one granddaughter, Miss Martha Lou Mason of Columbus.

Herberts Celebrate 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Herbert, 111 S. Harris-av, who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday, Sept. 28, were the recipients of many gifts, one of which was a package containing 25 silver dollars all dated 1922, the year of their marriage.

Riedmiller, Mrs. Mary Elber of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Righter and daughter, Janice, Miss Phyllis Byerly, William and Robert Herbert and the host and hostess.

Veteran Hilltop Police Officer

Heads Juvenile Bureau At Police Station

By Rhoma Van De Mark

Capt. Berry

Tearful juvenile delinquents are usually the products of some adult delinquent's failure in his contribution to society, is the belief of Capt. Charles M. Berry, 401 Midland-av, in charge of the Social and Juvenile Bureau at the Columbus Police Department.

Capt. Berry, a resident of the Hilltop for nearly 20 years, has been head of this unique department since its organization in 1944. During that time he has handled almost 5000 juvenile cases in which he found it necessary to "lock someone up" and thousands more "out of jail" whose problems have been settled in his office.

Capt. Berry really has four departments within his jurisdiction. First he handles all cases which come to the attention of the Columbus Police Department in which girls or boys under 18 are involved. Secondly, he works with the city's various social agencies, particularly child welfare groups, meets with them and talks over their crime prevention problems, attempting to do something about them.

His third and fourth responsibilities include missing persons and mental cases.

Any one of these departments might be considered a full-time job. Berry has seven patrolmen, three policewomen and a secretary to assist him, and times are always busy.

A recent example of the type of cases Capt. Berry encounters in the juvenile department is cited. Four boys were playing a pin ball machine in a filling station. The attendant went outside to answer a horn and the lads stole a substantial sum of money from the cash register. Upon being picked up, the lads were brought to Berry's office where they were questioned extensively as to the exact amount they had stolen. They stated they had taken a small amount while the attendant insisted they had stolen a larger sum. In the course of conversation one lad mentioned "being paid off" by the attendant, and it was learned that the pin ball machine had been run as a gambling device. In this case, too, the adult was the initial delinquent. The boys were punished for their theft, as was the adult who, in a roundabout fashion, was responsible for their behavior.

All Types of Cases

As Berry states, concerning the cases he sees every day, "We have boys and girls in trouble in every type of case imaginable."

Columbus newspapers last week told the sad and romantic tale of the St. Louis Girl who came to this city to marry. Suddenly she disappeared. Berry's office was alerted, descriptions of the befated-miss were sent to newspapers and radio stations, and her friends were questioned in a futile effort to find what might have happened to her.

The unsought publicity brought a hurried telephone call to Capt. Berry. The young lady had "changed her mind," no longer wished to marry her Columbus boy friend, and wanted to get away from it all. Berry notified her former fiance of the damsel's feelings in the matter, and talked with him. Several days later one of Berry's missing persons cases turned into a near-suicide, as the jilted boy friend purposely swallowed poison and was brought to the police station by an inhalator squad.

Life in Berry's chair is indeed full of variety.

Actual figures show, however, that juvenile delinquency is on the decline. In 1944, when the Juvenile Bureau began operation, 2152 cases were "lock ups." In 1945 the number decreased to 1,647. Last year only 1070 were confined. "If things go as well this year as they have so far, we should have less than 1000 cases in the detention ward in 1947," Berry stated.

Delinquency On Decline

The marked down-slide on juvenile delinquency is attributed to the fact that more fathers and mothers are back in their homes instead of working in war industry. The mental strain of war hysteria and "fast living" is over and parents are beginning to realize once again their responsibility to the home and their children.

Stealing is an offense often dealt with in police circles. Lately, a boy with no previous police record went into a store and asked to use the washroom. From a lady's handbag in the room he stole $40. After his apprehension the lad and his father were brought into Berry's office where it became evident that the lad did not need the money. His father was fairly well-to-do and the boy had a job of his own.

In Berry's own words, "Many juveniles steal for the thrill of it. They think they're getting away with something. It isn't always the poor who takes what is not his. Many times, girls and boys have been brought to me who have taken things from stores where they could have charged anything they might have seen on their mother's account."

Statistically the ratio of juvenile delinquency is four and one-half boys' cases to one girl's case.

Although Capt. Berry has served in nearly every capacity during his 25 years in the police department, he prefers juvenile work to any of his other duties.

"There is better chance to do good in this department, to straighten out youth's difficulties, and make better citizens of them."

One of Berry's proudest accomplishments is the organization in 1944 of the Columbus Junior Police, a group of 1000 boys who learn that policemen are not "flatfoots" but friends. Boys from 11 to 15, inclusive, enjoy parties, picnics, free movies and healthful recreation with the "cops." Boxing, soccer, basketball, football and baseball are part of the club's activities, and equipment valued at $2000 is available for the boys' use. Junior Policemen wear a special cap, badge and belt, furnished by the police department.

The Hilltop unit meets at the Glenwood Shelter House weekly.

Has School Patrol

In addition to this group, a second organization, the School Boy Patrol, is sponsored by Berry's office. Regular policemen supervise and instruct some 1400 hand-picked students in proper traffic control. These girls and boys work as guardians of their fellow students' safety at recess, lunch and after school time. Equipment is furnished by the Auto Club. The students are checked by patrolmen each day.

Many local persons have asked, "What are you doing for the girls?" and Berry has an answer. Several girls' choruses for young ladies 13 to 18 inclusive have been instituted throughout the city. Music students from Capital University are asked to direct activities of the chorus as a complement to their student teaching practice. Many fine voices get a chance to be heard when these girls are invited to broadcast or sing at a downtown hotel convention.

The organization of one of these girls' choruses on the Hilltop is an ambition of Capt. Berry's. The group would meet once a week, and Berry asks that anyone interested in working with such an outfit contact him.

Berry is eligible for retirement from his position in May.

Protect Water Pipes

Now is the time to begin thinking about covering water pipes to protect against freezing. Wool felt can be placed over the pipes in exposed places. The felt can be fastened with metal bands which may be obtained at plumbing stores.

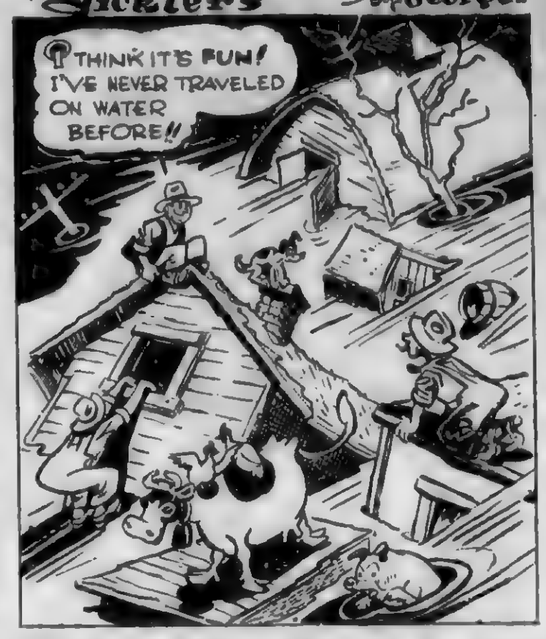
"Under Ohio Skies" Is New Outdoors Film On Wild Life

The public relations section of the Ohio Division of Conservation this week announced the completion of a sound and color motion picture entitled "Under Ohio Skies" to be made available for public showing about Oct. 1.

The 32-minute picture, featuring some 30 species of Ohio wildlife in natural habitat, will be released simultaneously to the seven district conservation offices where operators and projectors furnished by the Division of Conservation will present the picture to all types of meetings, particularly conservation clubs, agricultural groups and civic organizations.

"Under Ohio Skies" was produced by Karl Maslowski of Cincinnati, nationally known field naturalist with musical score arranged by Emil Velasco of New York City.



One of the most interesting sequences in the film shows beaver at work building a dam. It depicts the work of the animals from the time a dam is started until it is finished — how the beaver carries the stones, sticks and mud —how it cuts down trees and the engineering skill of the animal.

Maslowski has caught all of the beauty of nature in the butterfly sequence of the picture, showing the transition from the larvae to the cocoon to a beautiful monarch butterfly pausing momentarily on a goldenrod before taking off on its maiden voyage under Ohio skies.

Other members of the wildlife family of Ohio in the picture include game birds, song birds, field mice, fox, moles, grasshoppers, rabbits, squirrels and many others that will delight the heart of every outdoorsman.

Members of the Division of Conservation staff who have seen a preview of "Under Ohio Skies" are loud in their praise of the outstanding color and natural portrayal of Ohio's wildlife. Oliver Hartley, director of public relations, who has just returned from the National Association of Conservation Education and Publicity meeting near Chicago, said that the attendance there seeing the new Ohio picture praised it as the best of its kind ever produced. Mr. Hartley stated that he expected a heavy demand for the picture since it will appeal to everyone, old or young.

"Under Ohio Skies," along with the recently completed "More Ducks for Ohio" and "Let's Go Fishing," swells the conservation film library to some 30 pictures and is a part of the division's post-war visual education program of bringing its film library up to date with sound and color motion pictures as rapidly as possible.

Former newsboy Kay Kyser, now famed as the Ol' Professor, helps pressmen check an edition of the New York Herald Tribune during a visit in honor of National Newspaper Week, October 1 to 8. That week also marks the switch of Kay's "College of Musical Knowledge" program to Saturdays at 10:00 p.m. EST over NBC, starting October 4.

Telephone Calls Can Now Be Made From Speeding Trains

Taking a long train trip is no longer a way to "get away from it all." People wishing to reach you by telephone may soon be able to call you on the train as easily as if you were at home.

A recent test showed the system working perfectly. A group of Washington newsmen had a preview of the new service on a trip between New York and Washington. The Baltimore and Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroads were the first to try the new system.

Cost Is About the Same

The calls cost about the same as those from a drug store pay station, and the booths are far more luxurious. Cushions replace the usual hard seats, and air conditioning does away with stuffi-

The system works by means of short-wave radio between the speeding train and the nearest telephone office. From the office the call goes by wire, as usual. Service is also provided for persons calling passengers on the train. In other words, even though you are riding in a train, you may call any point in the world, and any person outside the train may call you.

The service was designed especially for business tycoons and persons bent on government business—thus its first installation on trains between the business and political capitals of the nation.

Loew's Broad

Loew's Broad is showing this week the cinecolor funfilm, "Hal Roach's Comedy Carnival," two comedies in one. Part I deals with a group of kids, like Roach's famous "Our Gang," who try to get rid of their teacher. Part II concerns Walter Abel and his unpredictable pooch which gets him into no end of trouble. Marie Wilson, Margot Grahame, Frances Rafferty and Donald Meek are in the cast. March of Time, "Storm Over Britain," is added.

News And Notes On Doings In The Schools Of The Hilltop

Learning How To Get Along With Others One Purpose of Kindergarten

By Elizabeth Downing

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." This true old saying is the basis around which the West Broad Street School's Kindergarten functions.

The 50 children who attend the kindergarten classes not only are developed intellectually, physically and emotionaly, but their social stability is strengthened also during the daily two hours of work and play. The primary aim of the classes is to teach the children to get along peacefully together, then when they enter the first grade the major adjustment has been accomplished.

Mrs. Richard Pieratt, the pretty, young teacher who graduated from Miami in 1945, and who has taught the first grade for one year, said that she enjoys working with the younger children.

"My job is made so very pleasant," she said, "by the wonderful cooperation of the parents."

The mothers have formed a strong club, a piano was donated to the kindergarten, and Mr. Eagen, the Hilltop manager of the Kroger Company, supplied the clases with boxes, in which to keep their personal items. All of these things further the cause of the school.

There are two daily kindergarten classes, one of which is held from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., while the second runs from 1 p. m. to 3:15 p. m. In a few days the children will be initiated into the painting and clay work. This will be supplemented with stories, pasting, coloring, music, news time, and very psychologically of course, a few hints on manners. The group is privileged to hear recordings in the afternoons after rest periods. "Little Black Sambo" was scheduled for last Friday afternoon. While the children rest, Mrs. Pieratt turns the radio on very softly and allows them to hear music.

Psychology Important

Psychology of course plays a large part in being a successful kindergarten teacher. When it was time for music period, the five tables of children raced to see whose table would be the first to have everyone in his seat and his head on his arms. The first one finished had the honor of being the first row alongside the piano. A near riot developed during rest hour when a grasshopper popped in the window near one of the little girls. Miss Matilda Stuart, principal of the school, recalled one small boy who was such a good "rester," and his mother worried because he might be that way all his life!

The parents furnish the rugs for rest period, the water glasses, aprons, and pay a tuition of $6 per month.

The children now attending kindergarten in the mornings are Karen Armstrong, Roger Baldwin, Rickey Bander, Patty Jo Burnett, Pat Burr, Carol Chester, Karen Colegrove, Jack Glandon, Ronnie Hansen, Lynn Hegele, Bonnie Henry, Tommy Herbster, Chris Hoover, Patty Jones, Carl Lyday, Judy Mako, Jimmy Marsh, Rosie Matthews, Danny Mead, Bob Pemberton, Linda Phillips, Linda Potts, Rosa Smith, Milton West, Ronnie Winterrowd and Eddie Workman.

The afternoon class consists of Sharon Ashbaugh, Myrna Jo Ball, Patty Dick, Carol Evans, Carolyn Freeman, Jeanette Griffiths, Margaret Helgen, David Johnson, David Koons, Sonia Kovitz, Nancy Lowmiller, Mary McCleaf, Billy McLaughlin, Jimmy Minton, David Purkey, Frank Raver, Sharron Reichart, Tommy Rosette, Mary Sandusky, Jerry Sanford, Tommy Snashell, Jackie Snyder, Jerry Spears,, Marlene Tillman, David Ware and Dean Whittatch.

News and notes from here and there:

SEEN AT THE GAME:

BEVERLY CRAMER thrilled and excited over the fact that WILBER ELHERS made a touchdown.

We found NANCY GILL at the game with her knees knocking together. Was she cold or just excited???

BOB JANES bragging about selling all his football programs. What's your secret, Bob???

MIKE MOWREY writing like made about the football game. Why? Because he writes the sport section for the Occident.

People who leave their seats lose them. This was found out by MARY ALICE EDWARDS and LOUISE WEAVER when they returned to the bleachers only to find Central had taken over.

WE FIND AT THE DANCE:

Two former West High students home from the navy on leave, BUCKY HAWE and JACK EDSELL.

We find someone new at the keyboard in the Swing Band. BRUCE HALL has taken TOM BECKETT'S place.

Did every one notice as we did the pretty flowers that BAILEEN GARY sported at the dance?

It seems CHARLIE FRASHER was kept busy runing in and out at the dance. What goes, Charlie?

Has every one seen the "Bunny-foots"? Seen selling them this week were: DITTY BECK, ALICE MERCER, BEMERLY CRAMER, MARILYN GAUGGLE, MARY ANN MILLER.

Why was it that JOAN HARTUNG had such a hard time getting into the game. Was it because her father was on duty?

Have you seen the pretty yellow sweaters that PAT WOLFENDALE and KENNY MAHAN have been wearing? They're sharp!

We on the Hilltop want to thank the BOOSTERS CLUB" for presenting PAUL THEISEN with an insurance policy for our football team.

Why was CHARLIE FOUST so happy at the football game??

We all miss GUY CELLI from around the old halls. We hope to see you back soon.

The pupils in room 16 have made a set of rules which they are trying to follow. They are: whisper — if you have to talk; work quietly; be quiet at all times; sharpen pencils only between classes; stay in your seat during reading; handle books in the proper way; and be polite at all times. Mrs. Fait says they are doing very well with their rules.

West High Defeats Central Pirates 26 to 7 Before Record Crowd At Dedication

Cowboys To Play Cincinnati Friday

Playing before 8500 paying customers, the largest crowd ever to attend a football game at Magly Field, the West High Cowboys defeated Central High School 26 to 7 Friday night in a dedication attraction.

The victory was the third in a ___ for Coach Mack Pemberton's boys this season and the first against a City League opponent. Public and school officials, including Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, Mayor James A. Rhodes, George Roudebush, superintendent of schools, were in attendance and took part in the dedication of the new playing lights and other improvements to the field made possible by civic and alumni groups of the community.

Although first downs were evenly divided for the game, the Cowboys had the upper hand all the way. All but one of the West first downs were made in the first half with the Pirates making all of theirs in the second half—most of them against the West second team.

The Cowboys draw a bye from league competition this Friday as they engage Cincinnati Hughes on the Hilltop gridiron under the lights.

The same style of aggressive play, good timing and elusive backfield running that was demonstrated in the Upper Arlington game the week before was much in evidence Friday night. The Cowboys started to roll on the first play after Central won the toss and elected to kick off. Starling Hutt started things off by lugging the pigskin from his own 38 for a gain of 28 yards.

Slager Scores

The first West score came early in the first canto when Morgan of Central had his punt blocked by Curt Westerman on the Pirate 24. Chinn, Hutt and Hicks took turns at carrying the ball to make it first and one to go. Jim Slager hit pay dirt on the old quarterback sneak. After two offside penalties, Jack Thrush made good the extra point after kicking it through the upright for the second time.

In the second period a couple of short passes, Slager to Buckingham across the center of the line for short gains, helped to set up the second Cowboy touchdown. The break came when Central was off sides, placing the ball on their own 1-yard stripe. Wilbur Ehlers crossed the goal line and Thrush's kick was wide, making the score 13 to 0. This was the score when the half ended.

The Cowboys started rolling again in the third period when they picked up their final two touchdowns. A pass interception by Hutt on his own 40 resulted in the third West tally. Running to the Central 45, he lateraled to Walter Hicks just as he was hit. Hicks squirmed through the line and showed his heels to a Central tackler as he scored standing up. Again Thrush made good his try for point but West was penalized 15 yards for holding and his second attempt was blocked.

On the third play following the kickoff, Slager intercepted a Pirate toss on his own 42. On the next play he passed to Hicks on the Central 45 and again he demonstrated his speed as he scored the fourth and final touchdown for West. Thrush made good on the conversion and the score was West. 26; Central. 6.

Second Team In

Shortly after the half opened Coach Pemberton had his second string on the field and they kept things rolling from then on. Central scored in the final period as Morgan and Logan of Central began rolling up first downs. Glover had made it first down on the West 10. Two plays later West was penalized to her own 1-yard marker for unnecessary roughness. On the next play Logan went over for the touchdown. Reese drop-kicked the extra point and the score stood 26 to 7.

A fast-charging West line kept the Pirate running attack stymied throughout most of the game, but the eagerness did result in a total of 95 yards lost by penalties. The Cowboys were alert, blocking one Central punt and intercepting two Central passes, all of which were used to good advantage. The score could have been considerably bigger had Coach Pemberton elected to keep his starting lineup on the field.

The starting lineups were as follows:

West	Pos.	Central
Buckingham	LE	Morlan
Weeks	LG	Mossbarger
Westerman	LG	Thomas
Andrews	C	Hall
Thumberg	RG	Reeb
Hostetter	RT	Herbert

Women Keglers Take Over

For the last three weeks the men keglers have completely dominated the spotlight of bowling. Now we are going to let them take a sideline seat while we tell you about some of the lady keglers who roll at the Hilltop alleys.

Dick Ardle

The best league of ladies to roll at the Hilltop alleys is the Hilltop Ladies' League, which rolls on Thursday night. The league is composed of eight teams who roll from scratch and average from 762 down to 659. At this time S. C. Stewart Black Top Drivers are leading the league with a 10 and 2 record, followed closely by Seiller's Department Store with 9 wins and 3 losses.

Sarah Winnestaffer is leading the league with a 165 average. She is followed by Mary Harrity and Frances Patridge, with 163 averages. Ruth Perry is only one pin below these with a 162 average.

So far this year Louise Carpenter has the high school single and three game series with scores of 210 and 586 respectively. Seiller's Department Store has the high team single and three game series with 852 and 2332.

The league last year was won by Fox Food Shop after winning a roll-off series with Seiller's Department Store.

The teams entered this year, their won and lost record and their team averages, as of Sept. 25, are:

Team	W.	L.	Avg.
Stewart Black Top	10	2	746.1
Seiller's Store	9	3	762.9
Atlas Ebonite Balls	7	5	681.5
Broadway Market	6	6	707.8
Warden Drugs	6	6	693.6
Helen's S'wich Shop	5	7	663.1
Fox Food Shop	4	8	658.0
Chubby's Market	1	11	659.1

Bowler of the Week:

Our bowler of this week is Louise Carpenter, who bowls in two of the four women's league that bowl at the Hilltop alleys.

In the Wednesday night Friendship League she bowls in the anchor position on Dury for Judge team, which is now in fifth place. Louise carries a 147 average here.

In the Hilltop Ladies' League, which bowls Thursday nights, she is in the anchor position on Chubby's Market end is carrying a 148 average. In this league she holds the high single game, 210, and the high series, 589.

Nice going, Louise. Keep up the good work.

Bowling Bits:

Our bowling gem goes to Joe Bogner, who, while bowling with the Tuesday Nighters, rolled a 134 game consisting of five strikes and six splits. All of Joe's strikes were rolled on number seven alley, while all but one of his splits were rolled on number eight.

It's too bad you couldn't have bowled only on number seven alley, Joe.

The honor roll this week is: Women, 500 or better — Louise Carpenter, 586; Francis Patridge, 520; Marie Ballmasek, 520; Rose Meyer, 515; Mary Harrity, 512. Men, 600 or better—Loren Heselton, 658; Hube Seitz, 610, and Bill Barok, who subbed Friday Night, 600.

That's all for now, keglers, but remember if you have any interesting items you would like to see appear in this column, please get in touch with me at The Hilltop Record.

Scenes From The Sidelines At The Central-West Game

By Elizabeth Downing

Friday night's West-Central game was a double feature. Before the game itself began, the West High Booster Club held dedication services in which both the lights and electric scoreboard were dedicated to West High boys and girls who lost their lives in the war. At the ceremony Dick Francis, president of the Boosters, presented Paul Theisen, president of the Student Council and a member of the squad, with an insurance policy covering all West football players. A check for $150 was also given to the band for lighting effects.

The West High eleven made the evening a complete success by skillfully drawing a 28-7 victory from the Central pirates. Guy Celli, member of the West team, watched his teammates from a wheelchair along the sidelines. He suffered an injured knee in practice recently, and is indefinitely out of action.

At about 7:15 every seat on the west side of the stadium was filled. 15 minutes later even the Central side was crowded. By 8 o'clock more than half the baseball bleachers were filled and still people stood encircling the field, and packed sardine-like in the stands.

The initiation of the lights began at 7:30 when the Boosters in their 10-gallon hats, preceded by Cowboy Bill Coon, marched around the field followed by a short band display.

Following the dedication and presentation of the insurance policy to Paul Theisen, Jack Sensenbrenner spoke to the crowd. He was followed by George Hardy, president of the Alumni Association; Dr. R. J. Miller, president of the Hilltop Business Association; Ed Planck, president of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club; Otto Magly, former West principal, for whom the gridiron was named; George E. Roudebush, superintendent of the Columbus schools; Fred C. Slager, principal of Central High School; Harold W. Emswiler, Ohio high school athletic commissioner; Paul Theisen; and James A. Rhodes, mayor, who said his only regret was not being at Arlington (score, West 40, Arlington 0) the previous week.

A display of fireworks with the lights out gave the game an added attraction. Rockets were set off and one flare floated down with a miniature American flag attached.

Governor Thomas J. Herbert was a little late arriving at the game. He addressed the spectators and was then presented a membership to the Booster Club and a 10-gallon hat.

Central won the toss and elected to kick off and the game began. West almost immediately made a touchdown. The kick was cancelled when West was offside. They kicked it again, and again it was called for West being offside. The third kick was good. The Cowboys forged ahead and the Pirates just couldn't hold them. The Bucks' lone touchdown came in the final quarter.

The West High Band came onto the field at the half and put on quite a novel show. The formation "Hi" was given first to the Central rooters and then the West stands. The members then formed a school house, "West High" was spelled out in the center and they played "School Days." "KBA" and "HBA," for Kiwanis Booster Alumni, and Hilltop Business Association, were formed, followed by a "C" for Central. The highlight of the formations was a quarter-moon, outlined by a light on the hat of each band member and accompanied by "Harvest Moon." The lights had been turned out and a full moon shone overhead. The performance was completed by forming a "W" for West High.

Dr. C. O. Cramer was on the bench as team physician.

Frank Colley, sports writer for the Citizen, made a play by play report as the game progressed.

Understood Nancy Tilton lost a billfold with plenty inside, but it turned up.

Cincinnati Hughes will be the opposition scheduled for this week, Oct. 3.

Amvets Lose To Bucyrus

The Hilltop Amvets suffered a 5-0 loss Sunday afternoon, when they traveled to Bucyrus to meet the Bucyrus Green Hornets on the high school field.

The Amvets will play their first home game when they meet Lockbourne Army Air Base under lights on the Central High School Field Saturday, Oct. 4, at 8 p. m. A large crowd is anticipated by the Hilltoppers, as this is the first time that the Amvets have played on a Columbus field this season.

The first three quarters of the ball game were scoreless and both teams were out for blood. Hilltop's Johnny Herbert suffered a fractured collar-bone and was taken to the Bucyrus Hospital for X-rays and treatment.

The fourth quarter of the game meant defeat for the Amvets. The Green Hornets seemed determined to win. At one time they had 12 players on the field. This was unnoticed for three plays, but when the fans made it known to the officials the extra player was sent from the field, but without penalty against the Bucyrus team.

Early in the fourth period a ball centered by Hank Crawford was high over punter "Dutch" Thumb's head and as he faded back to recover the poorly centered ball he was hit behind the Bucyrus goal line, giving the Green Hornets 2 points on a safety.

The Amvets tried desperately to get into scoring territory, but failed, and Green Hornet "Wib" Schneider, a former OSU gridiron star, recovered a fumble by the Amvets and went deep into the Hilltoppers' end zone. They received a penalty of five yards for remaining in the huddle too long and it was fourth down and 15 yards to go. The Green Hornets kicked and it was a field goal by Quarterback Luse, giving 3 more points. The game ended seconds later with the score 5-0. This was the third loss of the season for the Amvets.

Basketball Loops To Start At West

By Dick Wray

Basketball leagues in West Junior High School will begin functioning about Oct. 1, according Coach O. D. (Red) Lehman.

In the ninth grade race 107, defending champions are expected to have a hard race from 237. The teams finished in this order last year: first—107, second—237, third—245, fourth—137, fifth—218.

The eighth grade title race is expected to be a hard fight to the finish between 158 and 305. The eighth grade teams finished in this order last year: first—158, second—305, third—138A, fourth—138B.

The seventh grade race is wide open. We cannot pick a favorite yet, because we know nothing about them.

Room 107's team is expected to build its team around Bob Cunningham and Paul Ellingsworth. Room 237's mainstays are expected to be Dave Caton, Earl Potts and George Cressinger.

Ronnie McElwee probably will lead 218. Room 245 will probably be led by Bill South. Dick Briggs, Russ Friend and Dick Wray will more than likely lead 137. Room 158 is expected to build their team around Jerry Johnson and Irwin Denune.

Of course you don't want to start a fire, or see your property burned to the ground or your families suffering the agony of serious — even fatal urns! But that second's oversight, even though unintentional is all it takes—then it's too late even for repentence!

Kindergarten "Socializes" Small Children

Ralph, eight, has returned to school, and Sue, six, has just entered first grade. That leaves little five-year-old Bobby Sanders at home alone with his mother. Bobby is going to be lonesome without his brother and sister. Mrs. Sanders is wondering if kindergarten would be good for him.

Indeed it would. For at a nursery school or kindergarten the young child becomes "socialized." He meets old and new faces, makes adjustments to children his own age, and learns to give and take. Healthy mental attitudes, important to him later, are first instilled here.

At kindergarten a child is in surroundings designed for him and others his age. There is no tension or anxiety in the atmosphere. There is simply an attitude that expects good behavior. There are games to play and work to be done. There are regular rest periods and periods of outdoor play.

Appetities are not dulled by excessive piecing between meals. A glass of milk and a cracker are provided at proper time. The child learns good table manners by watching his teacher and his companions. The meal is free from tension. The child either eats or doesn't eat. No one is greatly concerned. As a result he generally eats.

If you are thinking about sending your child to kindergarten, by all means do so. But before you do, make certain it is a good one and operates under proper license.

Kiddies Pick Up Taboo Words But Seldom Retain Them Long

"Jeepers, Ronny, betcha you could konk a policeman dead if you wanted to. You've got muscle."

Yes, Mrs. Mother-of-Two, that was your little Susan speaking. But cheer up. Words like "konk" and "betcha" that crop out in a child's vocabulary stay only a little while. The child gradually forsakes them.

Don't be alarmed, either, if a word of profanity occasionally slips off your child's lips. Children pick up taboo words in spite of careful training. They repeat them without evil intention toward anyone.

Tell the child he should not use the word in question. But the less fuss you make about such words, the more quickly they will disappear from his vocabulary.

Set your children a good example of speech, but don't be a prig about grammar. Perfect grammar has its place, but don't let it set your child apart from his associates and make him unhappy.

News of Rome

By Mrs. E. C. Sheets

The Fire Fighters of Rome Community are planning to have a dance in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Calland, Pasadena-av, have just returned from a trip. They drove down through the Smokey Mountains, then over to Ft. Smith, Ark., where they visited her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sauerbray. They were gone about 10 days.

The Past Patrons of West Jefferson, Order of Eastern Star, displayed their culinary art in a very successful manner when they entertained the Past Matrons of the organization last Sunday evening at Brown Township School. There were about 20 present.

The baseball game between Galloway and Rome last week was won by Rome, 7 to 3.

It was really a good game put on between Worthington and Hilliards Friday night. Aside from bruised faces and pushed over noses received by various members of the teams, Jim Frazini received a broken leg. Excellent team work was displayed to the extent that Hilliards won 14 to 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Schroeder of Bellgarden, Cal., who have been visiting with his brother Ernest Schroeder, Lawrence-av, have left for their return home. Sunday the two families went to Decatur, Ind., to spend the day with Mrs. Ernest Schroeder's parents, the Jacksons.

Because of a fire in their apartment, before they had moved into it, Paul Caris and his bride, Maple-dr, had to live temporarily with his parents. They are now located in Columbus.

Richard R. Nichols, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. E. Nichols, W. Broad-st, was delayed a week in arriving home, due to the fact that at the last minute he was ordered to sea duty again. This was caused by the recent hurricane off Key West, Fla. He was on the U. S. S. Howard W. Gillmore and came home Saturday night. He is now registered at Ohio State University.

The Ladies' Class of Columbia Heights Church held the regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Ella McKendree, Buena Vista-av. It was the election of officers meeting, which resulted in Mrs. Russel Brooks being elected president; Mrs. Mel Howell, vice-president; Mrs. Ed Garritson, treasurer; and Mrs. J. L. Coulter, secretary. A matrimonial bureau skit was put on by Mrs. Henry Warner, judge; Mrs. Brooks, the bride, Corona, and Mrs. James Walen, Mr. Silbrnagle, the groom. The meeting was opened with the Lord's Prayer, sung by Mrs. Marshall Hall and Mrs. James Whalen. Delicious refreshments were served. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Marion Randall.

Caroline Kaderly, Fairacres, Galloway, will be out of school for several days, due to tonsil and adenoid operation.

Mrs. Ed Garretson, Maple-dr, entertained her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert Garretson of Toledo, last week. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Garretson and daughter, Betty, visited at the home of Mrs. Robert Hines, Piqua.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Rose of Piqua visited with their son, Rev. and Mrs. Elwood Rose, Lawrence-av, Sunday.

The Ladies of Columbia Heights Church entertained with a picnic supper about 214 men who were Delta Tau Delta members of the fraternity. Quite a number were rushees. It was rather a reunion for some, as there were many elderly Deltas there. The picnic supper was held on the beautiful grounds of the Galbreath Farms on Big Darby.

The Howard Breckenridges of Maple-dr had an unexpected family party Sunday when Marshall and his family came for the week-end from Cincinnati. Mr. and Mrs. Rumfield (Marvene) and family came up from Waverly and Kenneth and his family from Canal Winchester. It was the first time in several months they had all been home at the same time.

Bright Child Needs Playmates Her Own Age

You sometimes smile to yourself at the Custers and Millicent. But when you realize how unhappy Millicent is, you are sorry. The Custers believe they are of superior intelligence and are bent on proving Millicent a genius.

It is true that Millicent is bright. She reads books far beyond her years, dissects current movies like a critic, and makes snobbish remarks about art exhibits her parents take her to see in town.

At school Millicent always heads her class. One of the boys gives her competition, but Millicent has discovered ways of getting him out of the way. So often has she violated her classmates' "honor code," however, she is generally ostracized.

At home she is happier. But even there she has developed an attitude of sly watchfulness calculated to pick up and repeat what will please her parents.

The Custers should help Millicent become more like other girls her age. The desire for social acceptance is basic. By depriving her of this, they are making her unhappy. If they continue, they may drive her into future error and even danger.

HIT BY STRAY BULLET

Mrs. Daisy Shaw, 53, of 1944 McKinley-av, was treated in Mt. Carmel Hospital last Wednesday when she was struck in the knee by a stray shot fired by squirrel hunters along the Scioto River. She was fishing along the stream when the shot was fired from the opposite shore. The hunters fled when she screamed.

Keep Well-stocked Pantry For Baby

Next to being a good wife and mother, a woman prides herself on being a good grandma. So today's mother-once-removed makes it a point to keep a pantry shelf well stocked for the family's newest member. She's learned the way to a baby's heart is the same as to his grandfather's—through his stomach.

A healthy child will settle for a crisp graham cracker, a piece of crusty zwieback, or a dish of his favorite chopped apples. Before long he will be asking for his own version of Sunday dinner—a course in strained vegetables and succulent rice with bacon.

Stock your pantry shelf with a great variety of baby foods. Put there, too, an infant's unbreakable mug, special bowls for a little visitor, and plenty of washable bibs. And don't let anyone tell you it is silly to line the shelf with paper bordered in animals or gay circus people. The baby will sit up and take notice even before you expect it.

You get the best results from luminous paint when it is applied over a white or light colored surface.

Scout Camp-O-Rama To Be Held Here Oct. 4-5; Scouters to Meet Oct. 8

Plans were being completed this week for the annual Camp-O-Rama for scouts of the Southwest District to be held Saturday and Sunday at a camping site on Sullivant-av, three blocks west of Demorest-rd. The week-end outing was originally scheduled for Sept. 13 and 14, but was postponed because of wet weather. It will be held this week "rain or shine," Gil Bolin, scout field executive, said.

Scouts will start making camp at 2 p. m. Saturday. There will be games and a campfire Saturday night. Religious services will be held for both Protestant and Catholic boys Sunday morning followed by a picnic lunch Sunday noon. An invitation has been extended to all of the parents of boys in local troops to be present and take part in the picnic lunch. There will be displays of scout craft at the various camps set up by the troops.

San Alford, chairman of camping activities in the Southwest District, is in charge of arrangements for the outing.

There will be a one-night course of instruction for troop committeemen and scoutmasters of the Southwest District at the West Park Methodist Church on Wednesday, Oct. 8, at 7:30 p. m. Cy Rawlings, leadership training chairman for the Southwest District, will be in charge of the program. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Panel discussions will be led by Vernon Sanford, Harry Drake and Herman Eisle.

New market for a farm crop will be provided with the recent invention of decorticating machines for ramie, oldest fabric base known to man. It is said to be eight times stronger than silk or cotton and four times as strong as linen. The cost of processing has been so great, however, that the use of ramie has been confined to expensive tablecloths. Ramie can be grown extensively in the South.

Toward the end of the Second World War, army dogs were limited to one breed—the German shepherd. The police dog proved to be the best all-around animal for handling and training purposes.

Community Spirit

Coach Mack Pemberton put in an excellent "plug" for the Hilltop last Thursday night when he appeared as guest on Bill McKinnon's sports digest over station WBNS.

"They give us everything out on the Hilltop," was the enthusiastic way he described the improvements made to Magly Field in the interview.

Friday night's dedication of the lights and other improvements at West High School was a good example of how the cooperation of community groups can help make the teacher's task more pleasant. While Coach Pemberton's remark is not to be taken literally it does reflect the feeling of many of the teachers in local schools. The Friday night program was the result of contributions made by the West High Boosters Club, the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, the Hilltop Business Association and the West High Alumni Association and the public at large.

The support of local schools by organized groups and individuals has been an outstanding example of community spirit. It has been a factor in several teachers keeping their teaching positions here instead of going to other fields where the remuneration is greater.

Modern Poetry

SEPTEMBER

September holds a mirror to the land,
A glass where August and October gaze;
Their shadows come together hand in hand
Mingling the treasure of their richest days.
A scarlet leaf shows on the greenest tree
When grapes are turning purple, kissed by noon.
Oh rare September! Magic harmony!
Your diatonic swells the seasons' tune
With deeper chords than April ever knew.
Could I make hours double in the day,
Each burnished night a twin, they're still too few,
So I am sad when I should be most gay,
Hoarding the lovely essence to remember
Until next year shall bring a new September.

Charlotte Louise Groom,

SUN UP, SUN DOWN.

SEPTEMBER DAYS

September days are jewels rare,
Strung on a golden chain;
Each one a precious, perfect gem,
Without a flaw or stain.

More precious, though, than all the rest,
One is of priceless worth—
The day you told me of your love,
And made a heaven of earth.

Ola S. Runyan, in her book,

Curtails his freedom, bit by bit,
I often wonder which is worse—
Money or the lack of it.

Sentry—Who goes there?
Officer—Lieutenant Smith.
Sentry—Password?
Officer—Doggone it, man, I've forgotten it. You know me well enough.
Sentry—I must have the password.
Voice from the Guardhouse—Don't stand there arguing all night. Shoot him.

"Did you do these problems at home?" asked the grey-haired teacher.

"Yes," replied the boy in the sixth grade.

"Then," advised the veteran of the blackboard, "you'll have to ask your father not to help you any more; you're beyond where he left off, Harold."

"Why do you come back day after day and knock on my back door?" asked the lady of the tramp.

"My doctor told me that when I found a diet that agreed with me to stick to it."

Harold—She can't add two and two.

Charles—I know, but who cares for that kind of figures?

No Smell! No Lights!

If this column smells (worse) than usual) this week, I have a perfectly good alibi. We had a terrible odor arising in our office two days in a row last week before the cause was determined. It probably contaminated everything I wrote during that time, including this piece.

After searching through desk drawers, filing cabinets, behind furniture and every other place we could think of without finding the cause of the disturbing aroma, Joe (Sherlock) Agee finaly came up with the solution. It was a short in the mechanism of one of the fluorescent lights that was heating wiring and fixture to the point of giving off the offensive smell. Now they've taken down the light so there is no longer the odor. Also no light.

Pickle, Onion or Lettcus?

This story is told as an actual happening but of course the place where it happened will have to remain anonymous.

A customer walked into a drug store lunch counter and inquired of the waiter as to kinds of sandwiches available.

"Well, we have some kind of a meat salad fixed up here. I'm not sure just what it is."

The customer ordered one and ate it with relish.

"Make me up another one of those. They're pretty good, whatever they are."

Half way through the second sandwich the owner of the store came in.

"What became of that dog food I left in the refrigerator?" The customer never finished his second sandwich.

Close Squeeze

Those new bleachers on the east side of the playing field at Magly Field are rented from Al Haft, the grunt and groan promoter. They were in use for the regular Wednesday night mat feature.

It was a touch-and-go proposition to get them torn down, hauled to Magly Field and erected in time for the Friday night grid contest. Workmen tore them down after the wrestling matches Wednesday. On Thursday morning Herb Kunzi of the Hilltop Van and Storage donated a truck to haul them to the Hilltop where C. F. Bateman had workmen ready to start erecting them.

As luck would have it some of the essential parts were among the last things to arrive on the field so that by nightfall only one section of the bleachers was in its place. It was "full speed ahead" on Friday as workmen and students joined forces to assemble the 2,050 additional seats by 6:30 when the gates opened to start admitting the largest crowd ever attending a home game at West.

Something New

Something new has been added to the office equipment at The Hilltop Record. It's one of those cash registers with a bell that rings every time the drawer is opened. It's a good loud bell, too. Something like the one that signals the end of the round at a prize fight.

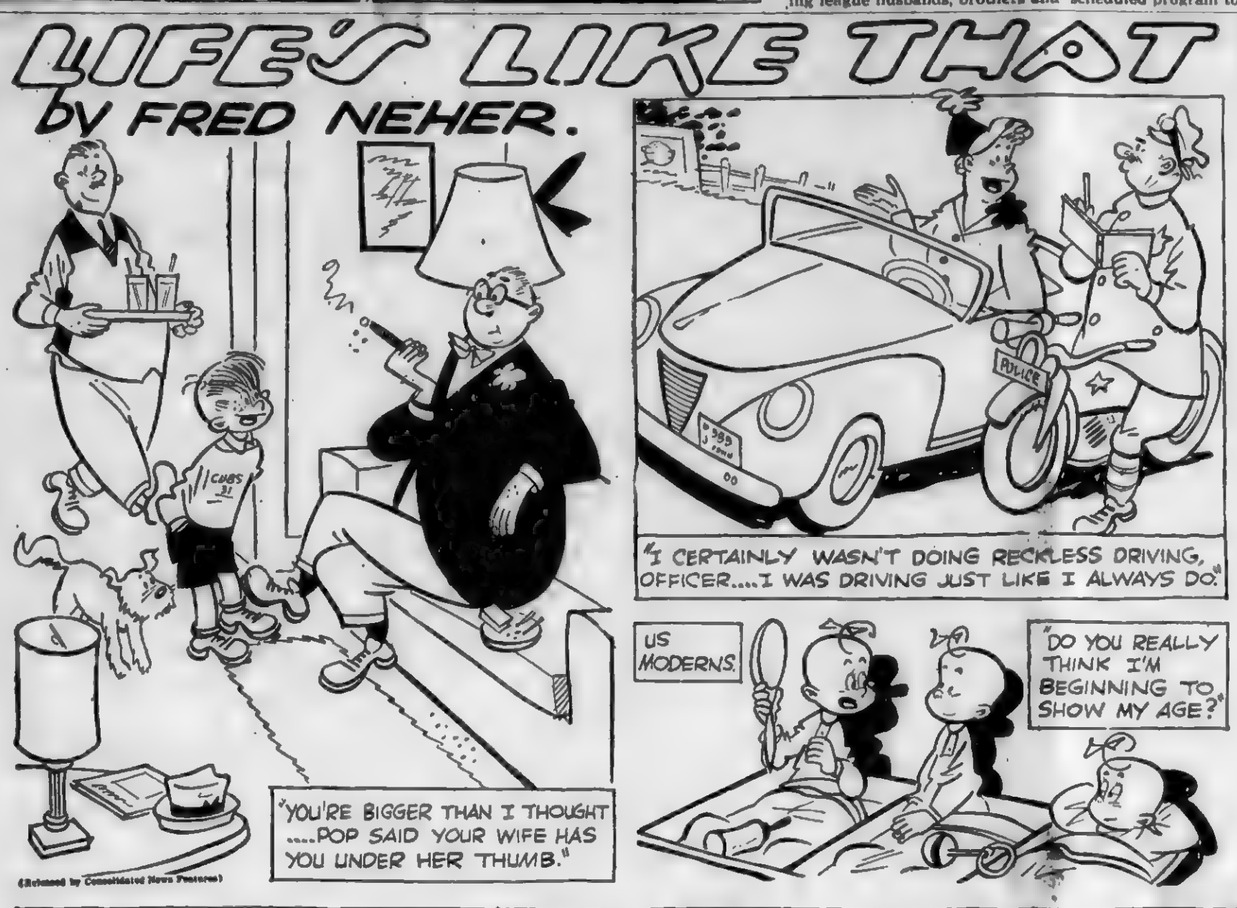
Prepare Your Child For Pain Of "Shot"



As need arises to have one of the children inoculated against a communicable disease, prepare him for what is to happen. Tell him truthfully the injection will hurt. But if you tell him it will hurt less than having a tooth filled at the dentist's, you may succeed in relieving his anxiety.

Prepare the child for the strange sights, smells and sounds he will experience at the clinic. Explain that if other children cry, it is because their mothers have not told them in advance what is going to happen. Little children may be allowed to take a toy or picture book along to distract their attention.

Plaster walls in a bathroom are continually causing trouble to householders. The frequent wetting of the wall surfaces, either by condensation or splashing from the shower, causes the plaster to disintegrate. Usually the best correction is the installation of wall tile.

Better Revelation

Lesson for October 5, 1947

WITH Sunday's lesson we turn into another field of Bible study for the concluding quarter of the year—messages from the Epistles, other than those of Paul.

This lesson, and the next two, are from the Epistle to the Hebrews—one of my favorite books in the Bible. The passages of study for this lesson are Hebrews 1-2; 3:3-13; with kindred passages in Matthew 3:16, 17 and John 14:8-11. Suggested devotional reading for the lesson is Psalms 40: 1-8.

Dr. Newton

The title of the lesson has reference, of course, to Christ—the better revelation of the Son of God in his appearance to bring the father's plan of redemption nigh unto all men.

The Father's Son

"GOD, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds," chapter 1, verses 1 and 2.

"And Jesus, when he was baptised, went up straightway out of the water; and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him; and lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased," Matthew 3:16, 17.

Could there be a more beautiful and impressive manifestation of God's acknowledgment of Jesus Christ as his son?

Love Is the Key

IN THIS better revelation of Jesus Christ, we find that love is the key that opens the door into the brightly lighted room. "The father loved the son, and hath given all things into his hand," John 3:35.

Love is the key. It is ever so with all the revelations which God makes of himself to his trusting children.

And the revelation of God in Jesus Christ carries the further truth that "all things" have been placed in the hands of our blessed Saviour. We read elsewhere that "all things consist in him," which means that all things hold together in him—the world itself. Jesus said, "All power hath been given unto me, in heaven and on earth."

It is not a picture of passive love, but a picture of perfect love in action, with all things committed to his administration. Again we can sing, "This is our father's world."

Christ Reveals God

NOT only does Christ reveal himself, but also the father, for they are one. Reading now into the second chapter of Hebrews, we find these words: "God also bearing them (angels) witness, both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghost, according to his own will."

It is God's own will that he be revealed, and he must do the revealing. Turn to John 14:5-11, where we read again that revealing incident when Jesus patiently reassured Thomas and Philip, declaring "He that hath seen me hath seen the father."

The better revelation of God in Jesus Christ brings us far beyond the revelations of God in the Old Testament, dramatic and impressive as they were.

A New Covenant

THE better revelation means "a more excellent ministry," because Jesus Christ has now become "the mediator of a better covenant, which was established upon better promises," Hebrews 8:6.

The first covenant was imperfect, because it was manifest through humanity. Only the perfect son of the perfect God could manifest the better covenant. Jeremiah foresaw the better covenant. See Jeremiah 31: 31-34.

Now that the better revelation is our portion, what shall be our response? One cannot be excused today by claiming ignorance of God's proffered salvation unto all men. He has revealed his love in the death of his only begotten son on the cross. He has revealed his love in abounding and forbearing mercies.

"How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?"

Hilltop Churches To Assist In City Religious Survey

Several churches of the Hilltop will join in a city-wide religious census to be taken Nov. 9 as a part of a general "enlargement" program. A special meeting of the Hilltop Ministerial Association was called Friday morning to consider the part that could be taken in the movement.

Pastors attending the Friday meeting voted to take the responsibility of carrying out the census on the Hilltop. Rev. Carl Driscoll, state youth director of the United Lutheran Church, and Rev. Denver Smoot, pastor of the Hilltop Church of God, were appointed co-chairmen to direct the program locally. Rev. A. J. Wold, pastor of Hoge Memorial Church, and Rev. Smoot will arrange the geographical areas to be canvassed by each participating church.

To date the following churches have indicated they would take part in the religious census:

Hillcrest Baptist, Westgate Evangelical United Brethren, Hilltonia Evangelical United Brethren, St. John Lutheran, Hilltop Evangelical Lutheran, Wheatland Avenue Methodist, Hoge Memorial, Hilltop Church of God, Sullivant Avenue Church of God, Oakley Avenue Baptist, Burgess Avenue Evangelical United Brethren, Highland Avenue Friends, Sullivant Avenue Friends, Hilltop Church of Christ.

Several other churches are yet to be contacted and it is expected that other will be added to the list.

Communion Day Will Be Observed At Westgate Church

World Day Communion Sunday will be observed Sunday at 10:30 a. m. at the Westgate Evangelical United Brethren Church. The Adult Choir will sing the anthem, "The House of the Lord," by Holton. World Communion Sunday will be observed in the church service.

K of C Class To Be Accepted In Week-end Service

Plans are being made for the impressive reception of the Bishop Ready and Founders' Day Class of Candidates to be accepted into the Knights of Columbus, Council 2898, Saturday and Sunday.

The program will start with a special meeting at the Council club rooms at 8:30 o'clock Saturday. Exemplification of the first degree will take place. This will be followed by a smoker with refreshments.

At 8:15 a. m. Sunday, candidates and members will assemble at St. George's Hall (basement of Holy Family Church). At 9 a. m. members and candidates will attend Mass and receive Holy Communion. Breakfast will be held in the Holy Family auditorium at 10 a. m. Second and third degrees will then be given at the Council chambers.

A banquet for the Knights and their ladies, honoring Bishop Ready and his class of new candidates, will be held at the Virginia Hotel at 6:30 p. m.

Hoge Memorial To Observe Communion

Fall Festival Will Be Held Friday, Sat.

The first fall festival of the Westgate Methodist Church will be held Friday and Saturday of this week, afternoon and evening, on the church lawn. It is the biggest social event the church has ever sponsored.

There will be entertainment for all ages—from the youngest to the oldest. The children will be entertained with five pony rides, train rides and the swing merry-go-round. There will be a big popcorn wagon on the grounds where you can buy carmel corn and candied apples as well as popcorn. There will be a big food stand where you can buy hamburgers, hot dogs, French fried potatoes, hot chili, chocolate milk, soft drinks and coffee.

Both evenings a big auction will be held from 7 until 11. At the auction you can buy all kinds of food. Big fancy home-made cakes will be sold. There will be an automobile on the auction block, two electric washing machines, electric radios, all kinds of household goods, furniture, canned goods of every description. If the weather is bad it will be held in the church recreation room.

The women's society will have a bazaar in the church basement both days. Saturday evening a big bean dinner will be served in the church dining room.

Children's Work To Be Resumed At Local Church

The first fall meeting of the Children of the Church of Hilltop Lutheran Church will be held this Saturday afternoon, from 2 to 4 o'clock.

The Children of the Church is a program set up by the United Lutheran Church for all boys and girls from birth through 11 years of age. It is the purpose to supplement the Christian education they received in Sunday School.

They are taught the work of the whole church and given an opportunity to help and take part in this work. The period is devoted to a study and work time, using the material from national headquarters in part, a worship service, and hand work at the close of the session. Meetings are held every other Saturday until the end of May.

The Sunday School of Hilltop Lutheran sponsors this program, but there is a free will offering taken at each meeting.

The faculty this year for the Hilltop Children will be as follows: Beginners department, Mrs. Mary Price and Miss Joan Bergman; Primary Boys, Mr. Herbert Pfaltzgraf, Mrs. Thomas Figley; Primary Girls, Mrs. Thomas Plummer, Miss Patty Curl; Junior Boys, Mr. B. L. Emrich, Revi Russell Olson; Junior Girls, Mrs. Karl Kruckeberg, Mrs. Carl Lucas; Secretary, Mrs. John Ricker; Leader, Mrs. Leonard Echols; Pianist, Miss Carol Echols.

The first meeting will be more of a get-acquainted meeting, with the showing of movies, and refreshments.

Sermon Series Are Announced By Pastor

The Hilltop Church of Christ will observe its annual Rally Day Sunday and will conduct evening services as well as the regular morning services.

The pastor, Rev. Enoch C. Smith, announces the October sermons as follows:

St. James Will Celebrate Centennial Sun.

Sunday will be a memorable day for the members of St. James Lutheran Church, located two miles north of New Rome on Rome-Hilliards-rd. On that day the 100th anniversary of the organization of the congregation will be celebrated. Two services will be held, at 10:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.

In the morning service Pastor J. F. Meyer of Lakewood, O., president of the central district, will deliver the sermon and Pastor Paul F. Pennekamp will be liturgist. A short prayer service will be held on the site where the old church was located, preceding the morning service. In the evening service, Pastor O. F. Stolzenburg, of Zion Lutheran Church, will be guest speaker, and Pastor W. Werling of Concordia Lutheran Church will be liturgist.

After the evening service a reception will be held in the parish hall. All former members have received a special invitation to the services. The public is invited.

St. James congregation was organized on Trinity Sunday, 1847, by Rev. Ernst, pastor of St. John's Church near Marysville. It consisted of nine families. For one year services were held at the home of one of the members. The next year a log cabin church was built which served the congregation for 25 years. Having outgrown the log cabin church, the present brick building was dedicated in 1872. Twelve pastors have served the congregation during the 100 years. The present pastor is Rev. Earl C. Grugel. The other two surviving pastors are Rev. Theodore Wendel of DuBois, Ind., and Pastor Paul F. Pennekamp of Columbus, who is institutional missionary of the Ohio Federation.

Publisher Tells Of Don Quixote and Windmills

Madrid, July 16

An American can whistle and shout until his voice is completely gone, in an effort to flag down a taxi, but in this busy city the cabs—ancient Mercedes-Benz, Hispano-Suiza and a few antique British and American cars—rush violently past. Yet a native Spaniard merely steps to the curb and hisses a sharp "Ssst!" It stops the cab instantly, with a wild screech of tires.

This mysterious, secretive "Ssast!" is used to call attention for any purpose. It is the Spanish equivalent of our "Hey, you!" The airport cop gives you a "Sssst!" to warn you that you can't use this entrance to the terminal. The diner in the hotel restaurant "Sssst" to call the waiter. And by some miraculous transmission of sound, the same hiss will stop a speeding taxi—though all of them race through the streets at breakneck speed. Heaven help the pedestrian.

My introduction to Spain, via the Spanish consulate in New York, who finally supplied a visa after long delay, was not one to inspire confidence. After two lengthy interviews in the office there, my visa was held up for several weeks pending a decision at the Spanish embassy in Washington. The principal cause for procrastination was the word "journalist" in my application. In the interviews I was queried as to whether I was a "political" or "economic" writer—which suggested the thought that there must be something very sour in Spain which would not stand publicity.

I was told later, when my application was approved—I had been required to submit the last three consecutive copies of the Tribune-Press for examination—that one American journalist admitted for entrance to Spain had recently written very disparagingly of the country "without regard for the truth."

This explanation, however, seemed rather insufficient, for in the American view, whenever restriction is placed on the press there is something definitely wrong.

I can't say, after several days in Madrid, that there is any reason why the Spaniards should be reluctant to admit an American newspaperman — although government by dictatorship in Spain is far from perfect.

The essentials of a dictatorship consist of a sizeable and loyal armed force—army, navy and air corps; a sizeable systematic police force; and a large number of bureaucratic jobs. Public support is enhanced by government jobs—through the job holders themselves, their families, relations and friends. Through the police force, disloyalty is not permitted to get out of hand. If it should, the armed forces stand ready to do business.

The dictator—to be a dictator—must, like any other successful politician, maintain widespread public support. He may accomplish this through fear, favor or force—or all of them together. Salazar of Portugal uses a little of the first two, with emphasis on the second, and with practically no attempt at force. Franco of Spain uses them all.

While Salazar — who rarely makes a public appearance in person or in newspaper photographs—is generally popular in Portugal, you occasionally hear people in Franco's Spain remark, quietly, that "we don't like this government." But in general they feel that some sort of authoritarian government is better suited to the Spanish temperament than the democratic forms. They prefer dictatorship or monarchy. I think that is worth remembering, in our international relations with Spain.

Madrid is full of uniforms: the police, the civil guards, the army and the navy. Army officers, in smart khaki uniforms, many with rows of ribbons, black boots and spurs, are to be seen everywhere. The naval officers are nearly as numerous, all attired in whites.

The red tape of bureaucracy is almost unbelievable. At the airport, on arrival from Lisbon, it took hours to go through customs—in my case there was the question of whether I could take my camera and film into the country although there are no photographic restrictions. I was permitted to take all my still camera films, some 30 rolls, with me, but I had to leave 24 of my 36 movie reels at the airport. Only after long conferences between sub-sub-officials, sub-officials and top drawer officials was I able to get a receipt stating that the movie film would be returned to me upon leaving Spain. (They were.) As a matter of fact, I wasn't short of film for Madrid, for my overcoat pockets were stuffed with it before I got off the plane from Lisbon.

To seal off activities of the black market in foreign currencies, the Franco government requires the traveller to declare the full amount of all cash and travellers' checks in his possession. He can cash these into Spanish pesetas at authorized places only, for example a bank or a travel agency. The cashing agency is required to make a written statement of the date and amount, on a special form included with the passport. Filling out these forms required nearly 45 minutes at the Banco Espanol Credito, to change $20 in travellers' checks.

In addition to forms filled out at the airport, reciting the tourist's life history, others must be filled out at your hotel. Your passport is demanded by the desk clerk, who turns it over to the police for further examination. You get it back the next day.

In the stores you can buy anything that is not "controlled." But the only way you can get it out of the country is to take it with you—unless you're prepared to buy an export license and make out more forms. A doll which I bought for $2 would have cost me at least as much more to send home by mail—not to mention the time involved in writing in more forms.

From the standpoint of government, travel or business, the Spanish scene is one of many unnecessary complications. In the effort to maintain complete control, the Franco government has tried to plug every loophole with regulations. The result is that with so many, there is confusion among the government people themselves.

The Spanish people are a friendly type, and surprisingly enough, despite America's stand on the Franco regime—the people show a genuine warmth and friendship for the few Americans who visit the country. Our land is to them still the most wonderful country in all the world. American movies are everywhere, by far the most popular films in Spain, which may account for the interest. It is possible, too, that Franco's controlled press has provided little discussion on the American and United Nations' attitude toward Spain.

Class distinctions are very sharp, particularly between the middle and lower classes. The latter are very poor, and there are many beggars on the streets. The workingman—he earns between 20 and 30 pesetas per day ($1.20 to $1.80 in our money, at the tourist rate) — simply can't afford good food or much in the way of decent clothing. A pair of workmen's shoes, for example, at the controlled price, sells for 65 pesetas ($3.90). This doesn't sound expensive, until you realize that he has to work three days to earn that much.

It is rather difficult to arrive at a fair comparison of living costs in any way other than by computing the number of days a man must work to earn enough money to buy some necessity such as shoes. For the currency exchange does not give the true picture.

There are actually three rates of exchange. The commercial rate, for business firms buying or selling in Spain, values the pesetas at a little more than 9c. The tourist, however, is given a more favorable rate—about 16.28 pesetas to the dollar, or roughly 6c per peseta. On the Tangier exchange, an open market, the rate is about 33 pesetas to the dollar. But it is illegal to import pesetas into Spain, or to take them out with you.

The working people are dressed in patched and tattered clothing, their shoes repaired with strips of canvas or cloth. Many, in fact, wear canvas and rubber "sneakers," the least expensive shoe of all. Yet the stores are well stocked with merchandise, much of it American. The hotels, restaurants, theatres and night clubs do a thriving business. The upper classes are smartly dressed and drive good cars. I saw Buicks, Chryslers, Fords and Plymouths, as well as many new English cars on the streets.

Meanwhile the Generalissimo parades in splendor. The press carry photographs every day showing Franco ("El Caudillo", "El Jefe," etc.) in some ceremony somewhere, in naval uniform at Malaga, in army attire at Toledo pinning a medal on a public officer in Madrid. His picture—in heroic size—hangs in almost every sizable establishment, the hotels and public buildings.

The shops in the principal business section are beautifully kept, each with a clean, scented odor, as if the place was religiously scrubbed and perfumed. A few speak English, but almost all can carry a conversation in French.

On the evening of the day I arrived, Manuelote, Spain's greatest bullfighter, was to perform for a charity fight. All afternoon people were engaging taxis in advance, and huge queues formed outside the offices where tickets are sold—if you could get them for as much as $20 and $30 a seat. Manuelote, by the way is one of Spain's wealthiest men — his wages are 250,000 pesetas for one afternoon fight, in which he must kill two bulls. He fights in Spain during the summer, in Mexico in the winter.

Descriptive of the Spanish temperament was a report of the fight given by a beautiful Spanish girl—in good American English. She is an airline stewardess at the TWA terminal in Madrid and has spent four months in the States. "What a man," she said "Superman."

She explained that Manuelote was gored in the leg by the bull and the first aid team rushed into the arena. Bleeding badly, Manuelote brushed them aside and proceeded to kill the bull. THEN he got first aid, as the bull's ears—trophies of the fight—were brought to him while the first aiders bandaged him up.

Only sugar, olive oil and potatoes are still under ration control in Spain, but the people complain that the ration is not enough—and the price too high. Sugar, for example, sells for 25c a pound. But there is plenty to eat in the restaurants and hotels.

There is surprising freedom of speech, considering the control Franco maintains. A Spaniard who does not like the government or who prefers a monarchy will not hesitate to tell you so, plainly and frankly, and within earshot of others.

"I do not understand the American attitude toward Spain," a Scandinavian exporter had told me in Lisbon. "You MUST accept Franco—there is nothing else but Communism. If you have a democracy in Spain—you will have another Civil War in two weeks."

Marks of the Civil War of 1936-38 are visible everywhere in charred and gutted buildings in Madrid, and empty trenches near the outskirts. But the scars are being rapidly removed, in a huge building boom, all over the city. There is new construction everywhere.

Spain is a beautiful country and Madrid, with all its history, handsome buildings, narrow streets and broad boulevards, its art, its songs and laughter—in spite of its poverty and squalor and suffering—is a magnificent city.

But one cannot escape the thought that Cervantes' famed Don Quixote is still abroad in the land, the Knight in Armor still battling windmills. His loyal companion, Sancho Panza, rides along, discouraged but unbeaten, hoping that some day, somehow, the castles of control and red tape will come tumbling down, with a happier, more comfortable way of life as the vista for the future.

Hilltop Housewives Approve of Meatless Days--Pledge Cooperation In Plan

"Are you in accord with the plan proposed by the president, whereby meat is voluntarily rationed on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week?" This was the question asked Hilltop housewives this week by The Hilltop Record. The Record also tried to get their reaction as to the probable success of the plan if carried out.

Said Mrs. W. O. Hans, 310 Guernsey-av, "Yes, I'm in accord with his plan. However, we don't have meat every day here, so it won't mean cutting down much. I am doubtful as to whether it will help anyone in Europe though. It seems that it would take a great deal of meat saved to do any good."

"I really don't understand the situation in Europe," said Mrs. Nelson Jhenson, 664 S. Wayne-av. "I'm not up on world affairs the way I should be," she said, "but we have meat every day, and I feel that working men need it. If it becomes a question of patriotic duty, however, we could always cut down. We budget our meals and I try to cook enough, but try not to have much food left over."

Mrs. Russell C. Street, Sr., 350 Midland-av, replied, "I think it's a very good idea, and don't see why it won't work. As for wasted meat, I don't believe it's the working class of people who waste meat. It seems to be the people with plenty of money who are able to do that."

"You bet, I agree with the president's plan, and we will do without meat two days a week willingly," answered Mrs. Roy McGhee, 104 S. Ogden-av. "I have my doubts as to whether it will amount to a great deal saved, but in my opinion the grocery stores should not be allowed to sell meat on Tuesdays and Thursdays."

Mrs. D. W. Zeigler, 421 S. Hague-av, "Anything that will help the country, I'll do my share in, and I think it's a fine idea. I did without meat Tuesday and plan to do the same Thursday, besides cutting down on the amount of bread we use. We have never thrown away a spoonful of anything, nor have we hoarded. We buy our groceries once a week, and that carries us through until the next week. If all the people will help out I think it should turn out wonderfully."

Mrs. Louis J. O'Rourke, 436 S. Roys-av, "I certainly do think it's a good plan, and am very much in favor of it. We will do without meat two days a week and have been using one slice of bread instead of making sandwiches, in order to comply with the president's wishes. We hope it will be a success and are doing all we can to make it one."

Mrs. Fred Pagura, 89 S. Warren-av, "Well, the children and I will be glad to do without meat twice a week, but I feel that my husband should have it once a day, after working all day long. I try to follow the news but, being foreign-born, it's hard for me to read the newspapers. However, they don't have to teach me to save because I always have. When bread becomes stale I use it by making meat balls or putting it into dressings."

Mrs. William C. Mohn, 33 S. Hague-av, "If other people do without meat, we can too. When you fix lunches it's rather difficult to make sandwiches without meat, but if everyone will cooperate, his plan should be a success."

Mrs. James Kuhn, 280 S. Eureka-av, "I live alone and don't need or eat meat every day, but if I can help in any way I will. We did without fuel for a day at a time during the first World War, and I had a family then, so cutting down on food a little shouldn't hurt anyone."

Independent Merchants Help Hold Prices Down

Renewed evidence of the fact that local business firms can sell a great amount of merchandise from advertising in The Hilltop Record has presented itself in recent weeks with the very interesting prices offered by local Hilltop independent grocery and meat markets.

Special sales events with special low prices have been featured by many local firms with the result that Hilltoppers have flocked to these stores with their patronage and are glad to take advantage of the bargains offered.

In these days of high prices every housewife is looking for the best bargains in order to stretch the food dollar as far as possible.

Hilltop merchants are to be congratulated on their competitive spirit in cutting prices under those to be found elsewhere.

An Illinois former has his house astride the Madison-St. Clair county line, which poses quite a problem for him.

He sleeps in a bedroom on the south side of the house, in St. Clair county. His youngsters attend school in that county, but he would like them to change to the Madison county schools.

Illinois has a state law that says that the place where the head of a household sleeps is the predominant factor in locating his domicile.

So if the kiddies are to go to the Madison county schools, the farmer will have to move his bed from the south to the north side of his house.

Give Us Scissors

The coat and dress industry's cry of "We can't get the material" has been changed to "Tack on 10 more yards!" . . . and some of the coats and dresses we've seen look just like that too.

Next season, if the stylists decide everything should be short again, the nation's husbands should rise up and assert themselves, thusly:

"Give us the scissors! We'll take care of the 'new' styles!"

Doing Figures

If the butcher hesitates to quote the price when he tosses a beef roast on his weighing-machine it's not because he's fearful you might faint.

He's probably doing "figures" in his head.

You see, the high price of meat has pushed the price figures off the end of most computing scales now in use. Many of the existing scales start at one and one-half cents a pound and stop at 75 cents.

Water Mains Being Laid South Of City

Work is expected to be under way soon on the installation of water mains on Humphrey and Garling-aves, just south of the city in the Brown-rd sector. Pipe was on the ground last week and it is expected that the work will move as rapidly as weather and materials permit.

The lines will be an extension of the city water main connecting at Mound-st and Central-av. Two separate contracts were awarded—one was to the Southeast Excavating Company for $9,621 and the other was to the Thompson-Conic Company for $5,916.

The entire cost of installing the water lines will be charged against the property owners in the form of assessments.

This is the first step in a program to extend water mains down through the Brown-rd area. Petitions were circulated through the neighborhood almost two years ago asking that the mains be installed. It is expected that county planners will soon study a plan for continuing the water mains further south, to Briggsdale, the proposed new school to be built on Frank-rd and the new children's home also on Frank-rd.

The Wilson Heights Civic Association has been instrumental in bringing the matter before city and county officials.

U. S. Route 40 To Be Opened By End Of Nov.

The State Highway Department is making every effort to have U. S. Route 40, just west of the city, completed and open to traffic by the Nov. 30 completion date.

After looking over the progress of the work this week, Robert F. Werner, 187 N. Harris-av, engineer in charge of Division 8, said he believed it would be ready on schedule.

Work of pouring the asphaltic concrete surface has already started on part of the mile stretch. It is expected that the portion between Wilson-rd and Georgesville-rd will be open to traffic before Nov. 30. The improvement extends out to the Judge Edward Turner residence.

Werner pointed out that excessive wet weather during the year has retarded progress on the highway project.

Festival Nets $1250 For Church

A net profit of $1250 was realized from the fall festival put on by Westgate Methodist Church last Friday and Saturday nights, it was learned this week from Dr. Harvey Wright, general chairman of the event.

It is hoped that the festival will become an annual event at the church, Dr. Wright said. It accomplished two things—it provided a lot of fun for the kiddies and it raised money for the building fund.

An estimated 1200 persons attended the affair on the two nights.

Revenue from the various departments of the festival was as follows: auction, $700; bean dinner, $75; rides for the kiddies, $69; popcorn wagon, $14; hamburger stand, $40; pop stand and ice cream and candy, $10; fish pond, $40; sale of booklets, $125; bazaar, $250.

Rev. James Lorens, pastor of the church, expressed the appreciation of his people to all who made the festival a success.

They Stir Up School Spirit At West

"Yea! West, Yea! West—FIGHT, FIGHT, FIGHT!"

That's what these West High School cheerleaders are admonishing the Cowboy followers. And with those engaging smiles, who wouldn't join in the cheering?

Camp-O-Rama Is Enjoyed By 110 Boy Scouts

Approximately 110 Boy Scouts and Scouters took part in the annual Camp-O-Rama for the Southwest District held on the Derrer Farms on Sullivant-av Saturday and Sunday. Nine troops were represented. The affair was climaxed on Sunday noon when parents of the boys brought out a picnic lunch that was enjoyed by all.

First to arrive on the grounds Saturday afternoon were boys from Troop 33, the headquarters troop. Next came Troop 86 from Grove City. The boys prepared the evening meals over their camp fires. This was followed by games and a camp fire for the entire group.

Scoutmaster Harry Crawford of Troop 212 presented an Indian ceremony as the opening for the camp fire. This was followed by stunts and closed by vesper services.

Sam Alford, district camping activities chairman, was in general charge of the Camp-O-Rama. He was assisted by William Ewald, a neighborhood troop commissioner, and Bob Miller of Troop 29.

Sunday morning Catholic boys came back to town for religious services and Rev. W. Howard Schoof, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church, conducted Protestant services for those in camp. Gil Bolin, district scout executive, presented awards to all. Each troop received a ribbon while each boy was given a "good turn" token.

Ted Webb took movies of the event. Others helping to set up the camp included Harry Drake, Mac McCready and Fred Rudolph.

Troops and leaders attending included the following:

Troop 86 (Grove City Lutheran)—W. Moore, scoutmaster; Orville Kochler and Virgil Barbee, troop committeemen.

Troop 18 (Glenwood Methodist)—J. E. Galloway, scoutmaster; James McCready, troop committeeman.

Community Fund Workers Plan Campaign Opening

Last minute details were being taken care of this week in preparation for launching the 1947 Community Chest one week from today. Volunteer workers will carry the message of the cause to residents of Franklin County in an effort to raise $1,247,200 to finance the chest-supported agencies for another year.

Women of the Hilltop and West Side will attend instruction meetings before starting the residential solicitation. On Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the Valley group will assemble at Gladden Community House, 623 W. Town-st, to get their instructions. Mrs. Charles Hull, 247 S. Gift-st, is colonel over that group.

Hilltop volunteers will receive their instructions at a meeting to be held on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at the Hilltop Teen Canteen, Burgess and W. Broad-st. Mrs. E. Walter Dillow, 710 S. Richardson-av, is the colonel of this group.

The entire West Residential Division is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ray Cave, 2936 Olive-st. It comprises both the Valley and Hilltop groups.

This year there is expected to develope keen competition between the sectional residential divisions. Competition will be on a percentage of quotas assigned to each section.

Adult Tickets For North Game On Sale Mon.

Hilltop grid fans will be glad to know that adult tickets (as well as student ducats) will be on sale in advance for the North-West game to be played at North High School on Oct. 17. The tickets will be on sale at the West High School senior office on Monday!

H. L. Zulauf, faculty business manager at West, said that advance sale of adult tickets for this game was being done to expedite admittance on the night of the game. It enables West followers to get into the stadium without a long wait "in line." It can be done only where both high schools agree on it in advance. Tickets may also be purchased in advance at the North High School office.

There will be no advance sale of adult tickets for the West-Aquinas game to be played at Magly Field tomorrow night. Game time is 8 o'clock.

FUND WORKERS NEEDED

An urgent plea for additional volunteer solicitors for the Community Chest drive was issued Wednesday by Mrs. Walter Dillow, colonel of the Hilltop section.

Anyone willing to help in this worthy cause is invited to call Mrs. Dillow, RA. 4237, or Mrs. Ray Cave, RA. 5158.

Hallowe'en Party Plans To Be Studied

Details of the third annual community-wide Hallowe'en party will be outlined at a meeting of the Hilltop Community Council at the Teen Club tonight.

Charles Reichelderfer, general chairman of the committee in charge, has been working for several weeks to enlist the cooperation of various groups on the Hilltop.

The date for the party has been set for Oct. 31. It will be held in the West High School building. It is expected that hundreds of persons attending the West-East football game at Magly Field will stay for the party in the school building.

Both past Hallowe'en parties have been pronounced successes. Thousands of persons, young and old, jammed the school building last year and in 1945 to take part in the fun and festivities. This year's party promises to surpass them all, according to advance information.

L. E. Shingledecker Will Be Speaker At Hilltop Kiwanis Club Meeting

L. E. Shingledecker, associated with Mills Mutual Insurance Company, 22 E. Gay-st, will be the speaker at today's luncheon meeting of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club. The meeting will be in observance of National Fire Prevention Week.

Mr. Shingledecker has had wide experience in the organization of fire prevention groups in industrial plants in Columbus. He will discuss some phase of fire prevention.

Today is also election day in Kiwanis. A new slate of officers and directors will be elected at this meeting which will be held at Schmelzer's Restaurant, 3178 W. Broad-st.

Last Thursday C. Carlton Hartley, publisher of The Hilltop Record and The Greenfield Daily Times, spoke on the American Press as an institution. The meeting honored National Newspaper Week observed Oct. 1 to 8.

"The American press is the finest in the world and today it is the finest in the history of the press," he told his listeners.

Thankful For Free Press

"Freedom of the press is one of the cornerstones of our American liberty," Hartley pointed out. "We of the newspaper profession are thankful to the public for support of a free press."

By way of emphasizing the importance of newspapers as a part of our national economy, Publisher Hartley told the Kiwanians that American people annually spend $900,000,000 for newspapers. They buy 51,000,000 papers per week. Here in Ohio each family reads an average of two and one-half papers (weekly and daily).

At present there are 2,000 daily newspapers and 11,000 weeklies, he said. Of this number only a small minority of publishers own more than one paper. This is in contrast to some foreign countries where all papers are either owned or controlled by a central governing body.

The number of small publications throughout the country has tended to eliminate an aristocracy of the press, such as is found in some countries, Hartley told the group.

Stout To Head Booster Paper Drive Oct. 26

Phillip Stout

Phillip Stout, attorney with offices at 2532 W. Broad-st, will head up a waste paper drive for the West High Boosters Club, it was announced by Richard (Dick) Francis, president of the group, this week. The drive will be conducted on Sunday, Oct. 26.

An important meeting of the Boosters Club has been called for tonight, Francis said. It will be held in Room 101 at West High School.

At this meeting plans will be completed for a big "beat North" football rally to be held at the school on the evening of Oct. 16, the eve of the North-West gridiron clash, which will take place at North High School Oct. 17.

Francis this week urged all Booster members to purchase and wear the Cowboy hats at the Aquinas game tomorrow night and particularly at the North game next week. They are available to Booster members at greatly reduced prices at Seiller's, 2404 W. Broad-st. There are styles for both men and women. The cowboy hat was introduced this year to carry out the West Cowboy motif. They have been the center of attraction at each game this year.

Seeks 1000 Members

M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner, chairman of the Booster membership drive for 1947, announced this week that 916 members have paid their dues for the coming year. A goal of 1000 members was set and the chairman has no thought of stopping short of that goal.

A deadline of Oct. 15 has been set for attaining this membership goal.

Said Sensenbrenner this week: "This is the last chance to join the 'hottest' organization in the country."

The HBA has carried on since its beginning with only a part-time secretary. C. H. (Doc) Campbell, 2766 W. Broad-st, has served in that capacity for a number of years. It is felt by some of the members that a much broader program of community activity could be carried out if a full-time secretary were employed.

Many New Firms

Hillcrest Baptist Church was the setting on Sept. 14 at 3:30 o'clock for the wedding of Miss Catherine Irene Raugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Raugh, 3860 Valleyview-dr, and Mr. Ralph Morris Autery, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Autery, 568 S. Ogden-av.

Palms, fern, gladioli and lighted candelabra formed the background for the double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. J. Herbert Goewey.

The bride wore a gown of slipper satin with a round neckline and sheer yoke outlined with satin braid. The gown featured a basque bodice and full skirt which terminated in a circular train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was crowned by a beaded tiara of orange blossoms resting in net rosettes. Her bridal bouquet was colonial style with pink roses, white mums and baby breath.

Miss Irene Mackey, attended the bride as maid of honor in a gown of fuschia faille, while the bridesmaids, Miss Nola Jane Faris and Miss Velma Love Hart wore matching gowns of peacock blue with gauntlets and carried contrasting colonial bouquets and wore matching hair corsages.

The best man was Mr. Robert George Raugh, and the ushers were Mr. Robert Autery and Mr. James E. Nuckols.

The bride's mother was attired in an afternoon dress of winter grey with black accessories and the groom's mother wore a teal-blue dress with black accessories. Both wore mauve corsages of gladioli, pom-pons, roses and baby breath.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the attendants and relatives.

Out-of-town guests were Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Smith and children, Donald and Virginia, of Sycamore, O.

The couple will reside at 182 W. Fourth-av.

Cowboy Capers

By Wilkins and Williams

The most ambitious girls in the journalism class — BARBARA WEIMER and VIOLET WARD. No wonder they write the Senior Column for the Occident.

Any one who saw LOIS BOWER with four P. O. D. books last Friday after school wasn't seeing things. Too bad Mr. Washburn wasn't around.

The time is getting near once again for the voting of Homecoming Queen. We have 10 beautiful girls on the ballots: PAT CLUM, TEDDI HILL, and PAT PERRY for the 12A's and DONNA BECK, PAT WOLFENDALE, JEANETTE CHAKERES, CHERRY MOSS, JEANENE GEORGE, JEAN MOORE, and ANN HERBERT. Good luck to all of them.

What has made LOIS FARRAND so happy lately? How about it, Lois?

The January Senior Class is having a Hard Times Party November 20. Square and barn dancing will be featured.

Seen at the game: BARBAR HARPER trying like mad to see through rose colored glasses.

SHIRLEY CLINE and CAROL LUCKSHAW dragging the coke instead of carrying it.

Popcorn, popcorn, get your hot popcorn, yelled WANDA GETREU as she sold it at the game Friday night.

Thanks to our cheer leaders, TEDDI HILL, GLORIA HEGENBERGER, PAT PERRY, FRANK ONGARO, VERNON KNOWLTON, DICK DAVIS for originating the cheering section. Here's hoping more kids turn out next week.

Did anyone hear the cow bell ringing at the game? It belongs to PAT LA VALLE.

One of the West High students has a big job in front of her for the 18th and 25th of this month. We find that it is Helen Barnet who will be managing the Hi Jinx show.

We sure miss DICK HAM from the cheering section. Hope to see him back in there cheering by next Friday.

WSBT Studies Police Needs

A committee was appointed by the West Side Board of Trade at its meeting Tuesday night to work out closer cooperation between West Side Merchants and the merchant police organization. Named to study this idea were Harry Gallagher, Charles Ater and Harry Mock.

Bill Moler, president of the board, said that the shortage of city police manpower was the reason for this move. He pointed out that if a plan is adopted it would provide added police protection for residents as well as business places.

Bill Mawhirter gave a report on recommended improvements to Sunshine Shelter House.

The need for a traffic light at the west end of the Main Street Bridge was discussed. Moler said that his group would ask traffic engineers to make a study of the need for a light at that intersection.

A free dinner meeting will be held in November although no place has been selected as yet.
